Foreword

A UNIVERSITY—is many different things. To some it is a place to spend a few years—to others, one to spend many. To some it is a beginning for intellectual stimulation and to others, an end.

A STUDENT—is surrounded by interesting and ordinary fellow students, faculty members, books and ideas. From each he will gain many ideas—some of which will be retained while others will be discarded. Yet from this environment experiences are culled and the development of traits leading to maturity and usefulness to society is effected.

A YEARBOOK—for every individual would be needed to illustrate each student's version of this way of life. Those experiences pictured in the KENTUCKIAN will mean something different to each of us—and yet, to all, they portray those events of which we were part—those experiences which in some small manner made this academic year different from those in the past.

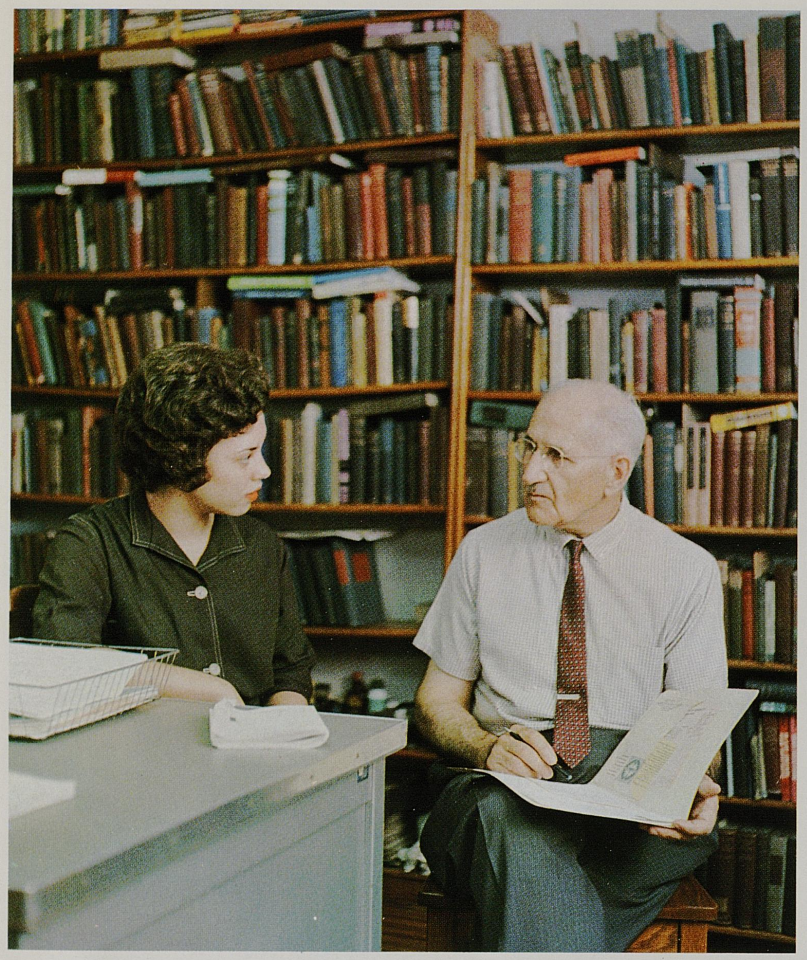
Test papers ellicit an eager search from hopeful students.

Ambition . . .

. . . a desire to win

Intent on getting ahead, riders tighten grips on the handle-bars before the Little Kentucky Derby race begins.

Strained muscles usually accompany the trophy to the winning team in the Lambda Chi Pushcart Derby.



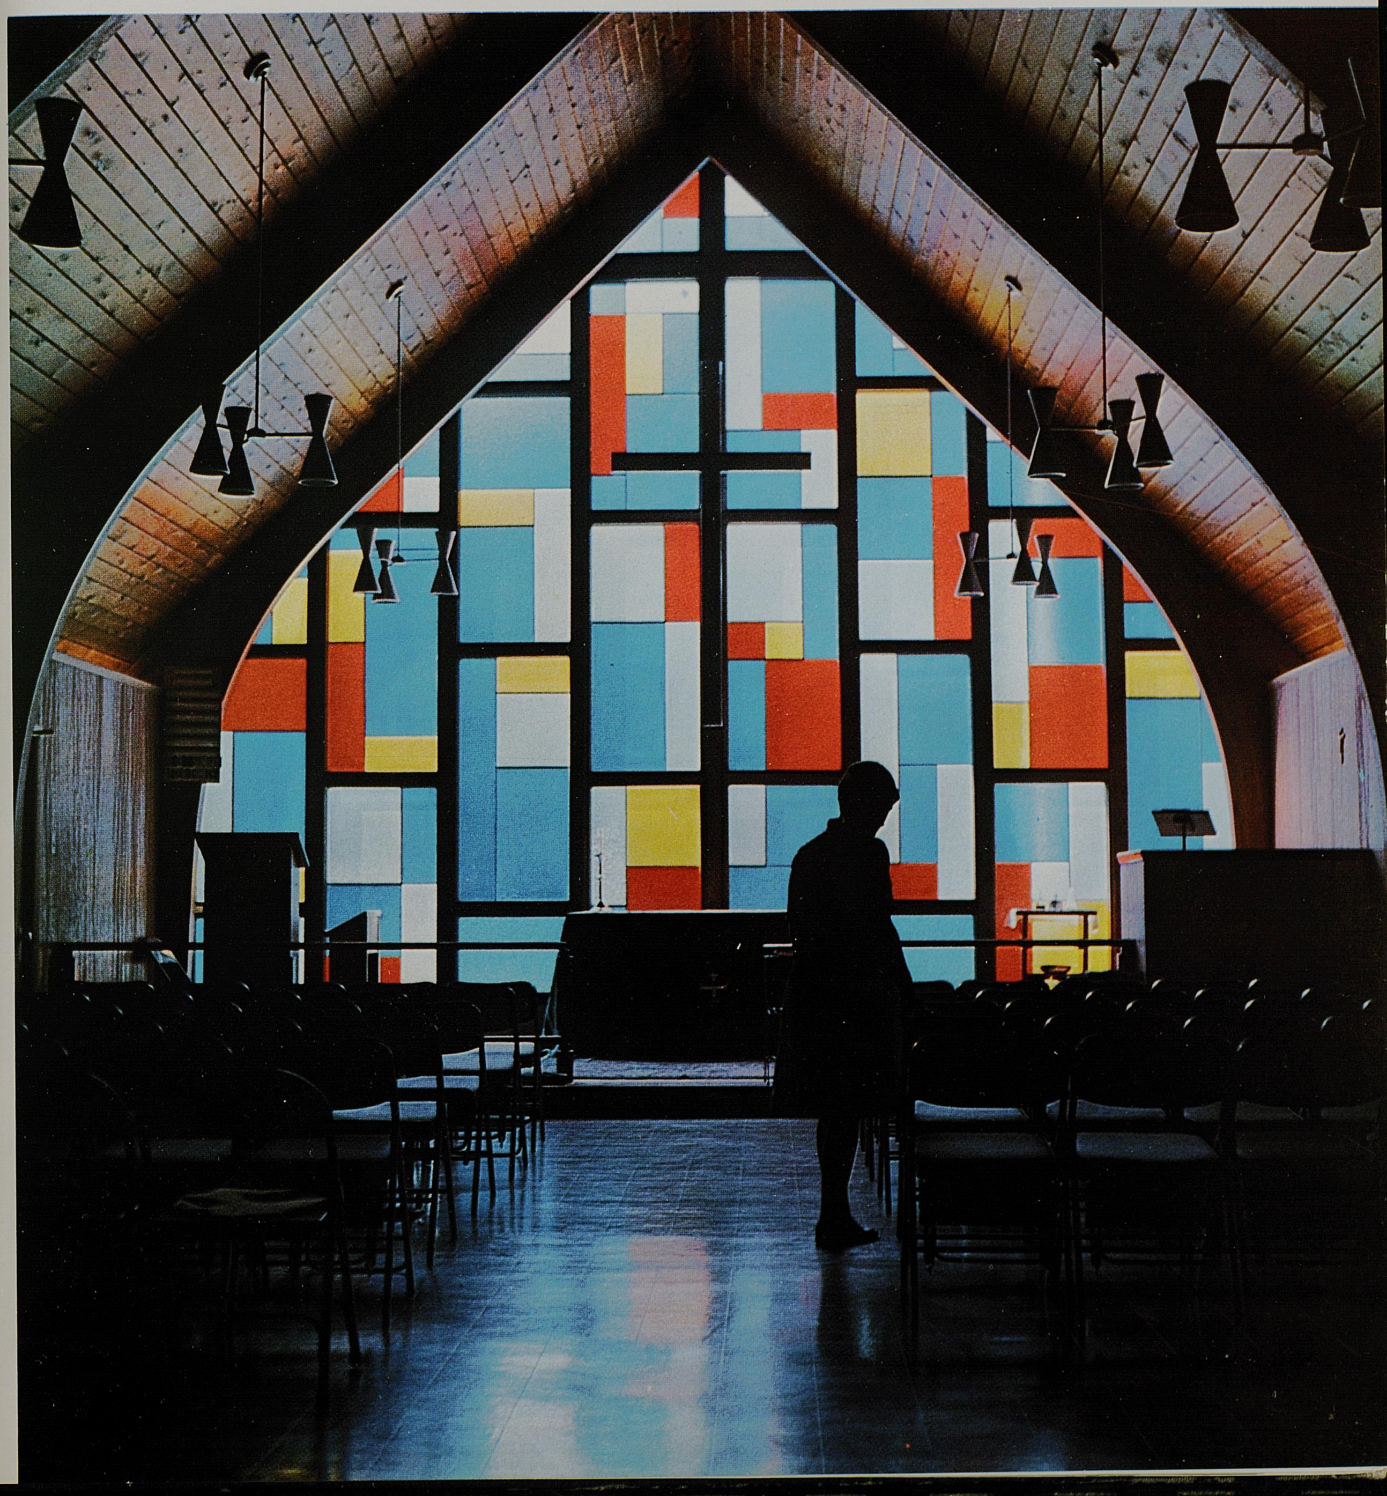
Years of experience enable professors to advise students in making decisions.

Many forms confront students on their trek through the coliseum during registration.

Reflection . . .

. . . serious thought and planning

Through quiet meditation, some students find a stabilizing force.



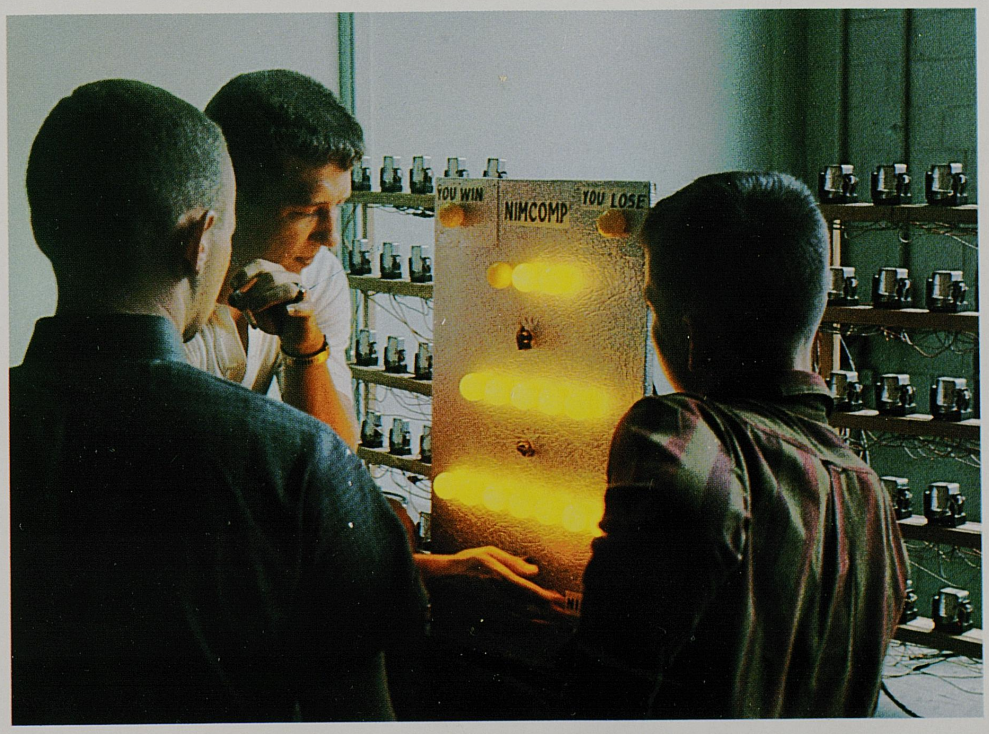
Investigation . . .

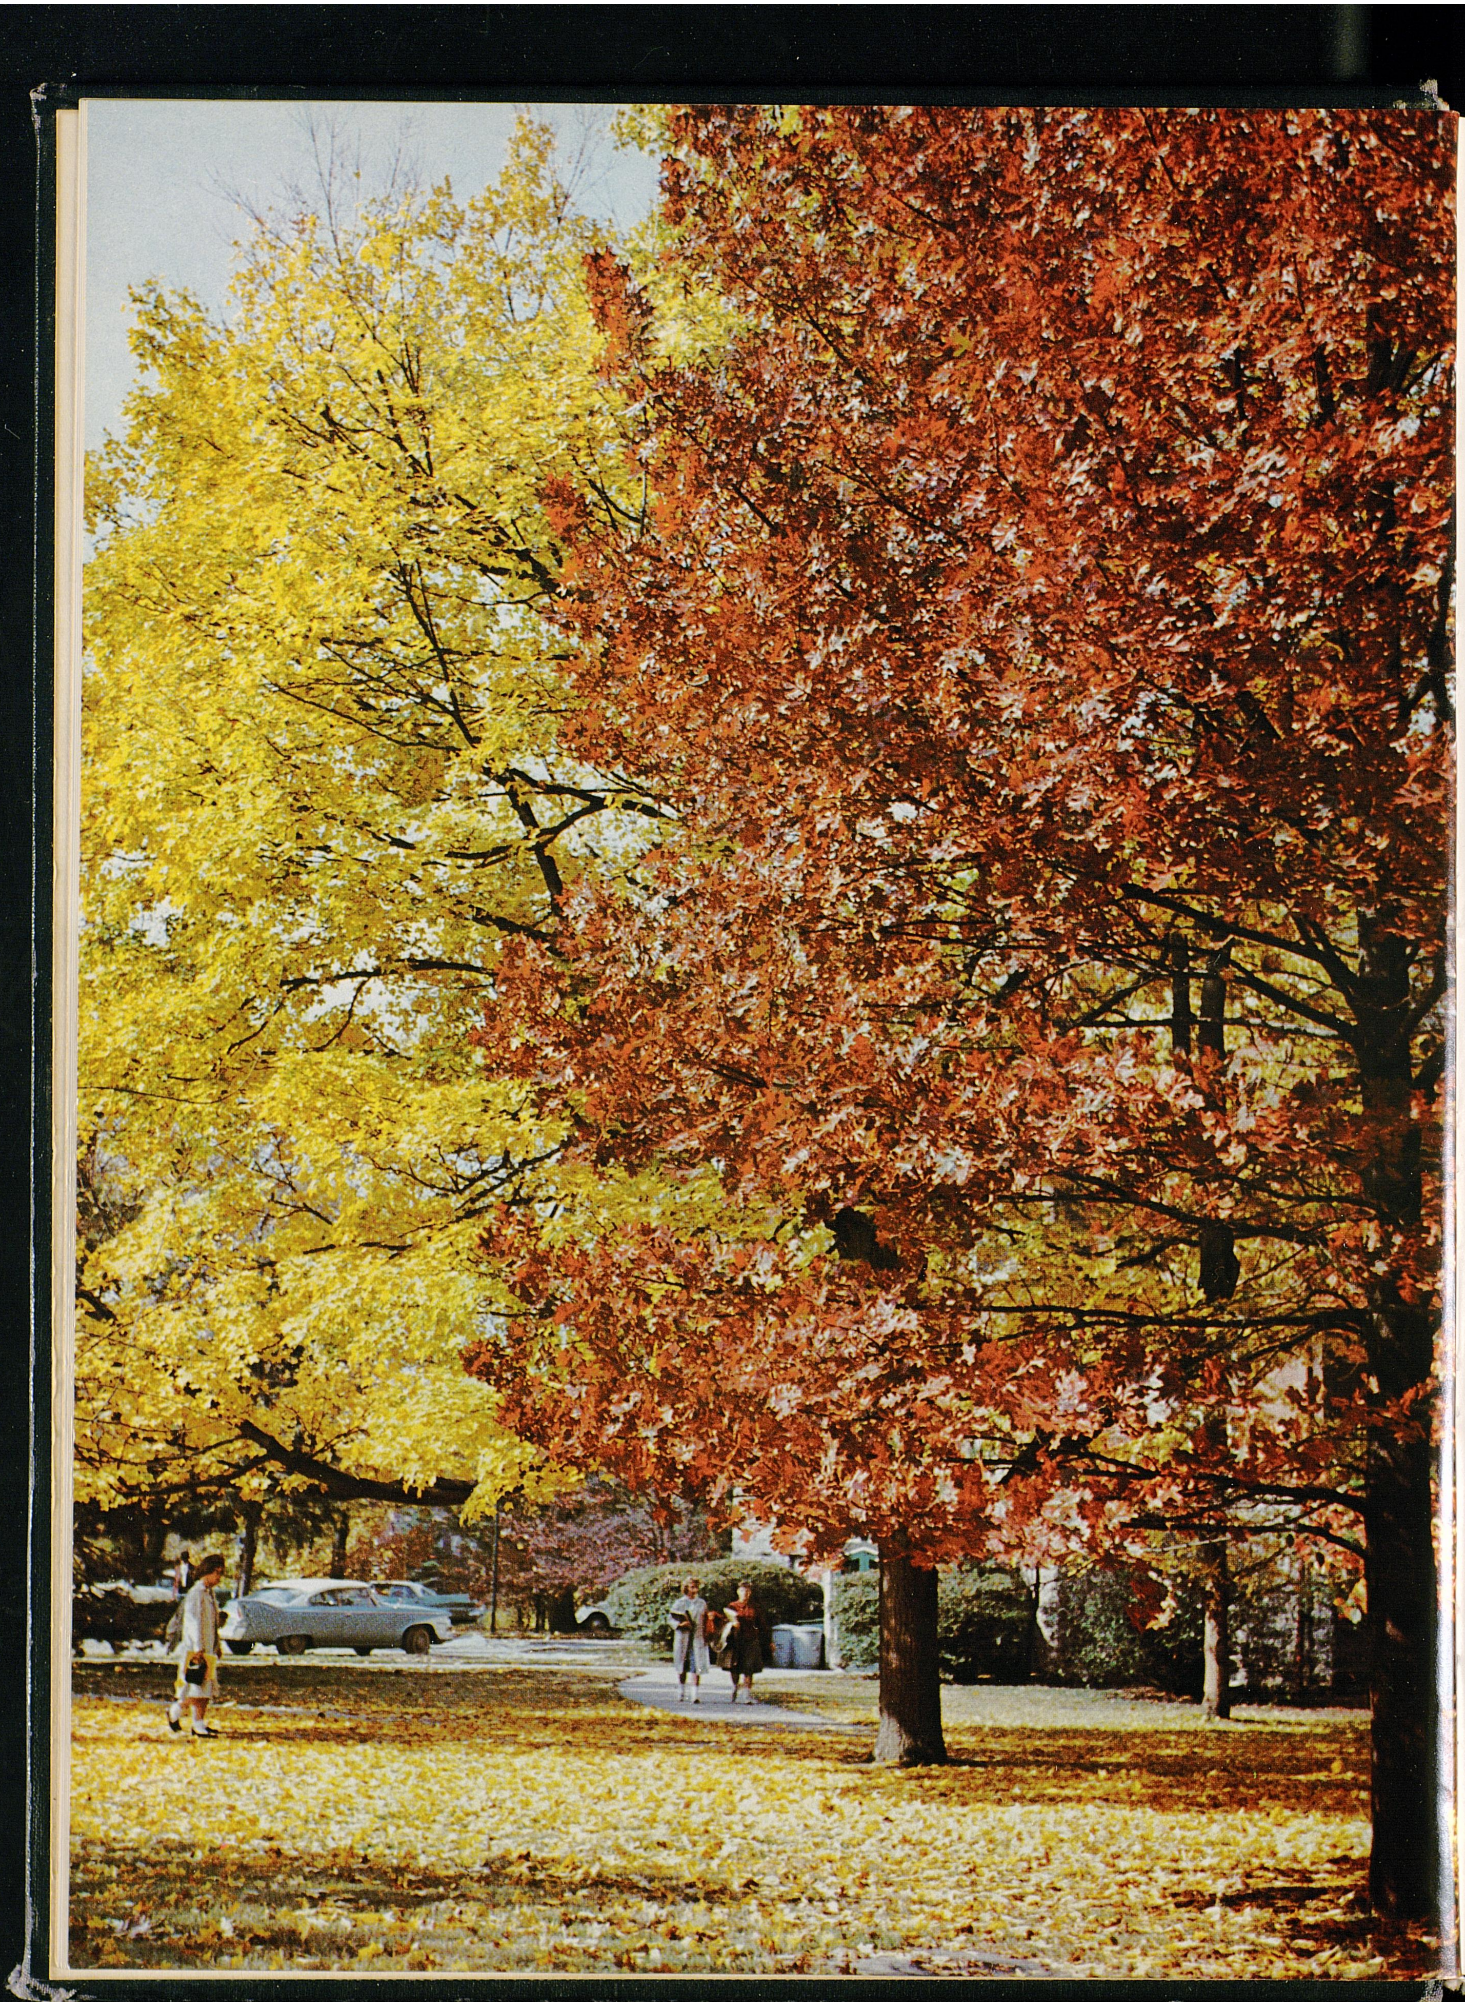
. . . curiosity and observation

Inquisitive minds analyze the work of another.

Mixed with amusement during fraternity rush is the question of fitting into a group.

Through research, young minds are shaped into those of tomorrow's leaders.





Colorful raincoats and umbrellas brighten the drabness of a rainy day.

Windy days keep wrap-arounds ruffled and girls anxious.

Adaptation . . .

. . . becoming accustomed to campus life

Members of College Boards report latest styles to the fashion-conscious coeds.

Solitude, shade, and Spring give students relief from classroom.

Variation . . .

. . . a need for change

Study, recreation, and girls move to the sun decks the first warm days.

Dancing—the core of UK's social system.

Summer study and travel in foreign countries extend educational opportunities of UK students and break the routine of a regular school year.

Skill in synchronized swimming may earn a girl membership in Blue Marlins and a place in the annual show.

Participation . . .

. . . a lesson in cooperation

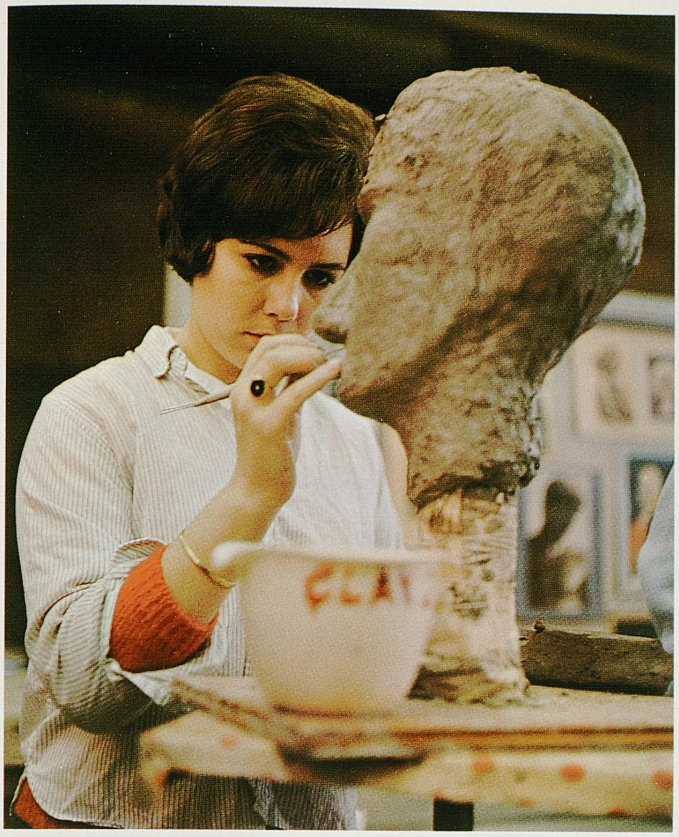
Informal discussions held by the new President, Dr. Oswald, enabled him to become better acquainted with UK students and their needs.

Floats are the products of time, work, ingenuity, and spirit of competition found in students.

Expression . . .

. . . manifestation of individual abilities

Guignol productions are augmented by the detail of make-up and costume.



The physical representation of artistic ingenuity.

Outside Memorial Hall, one may hear music from the organ as a talented student practices.

Competent foundrymen make historical markers that dot Kentucky's highways.

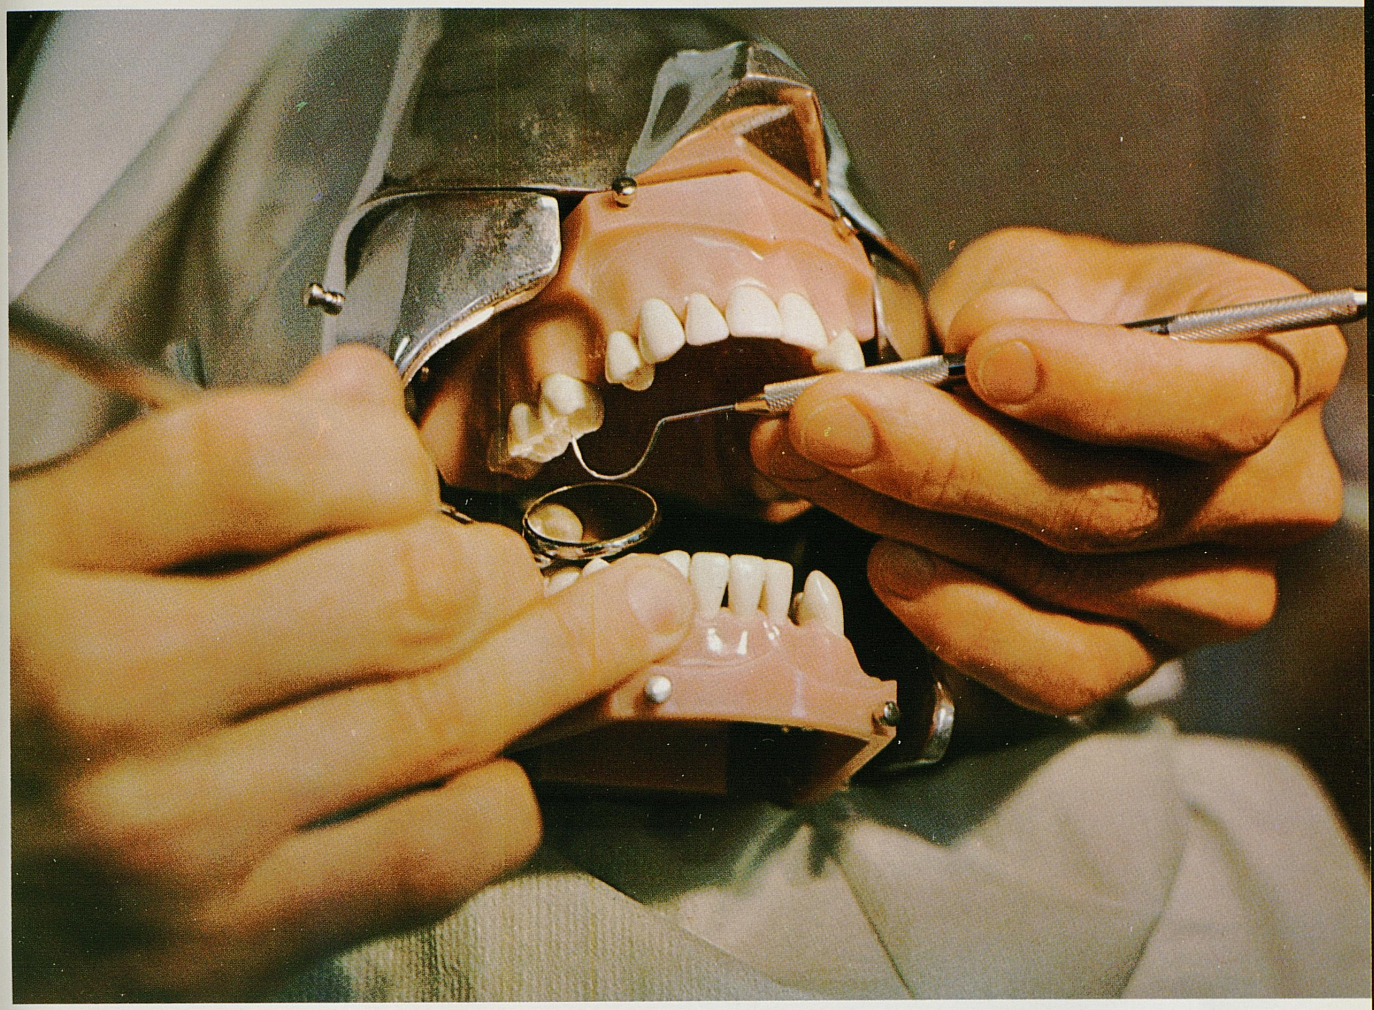
Expansion . . .

. . . a result of knowledge

Unable to provide room for a growing student population, older buildings are being supplemented with new ones.

Breathtaking skill in the Spanish Web comes through much practice.

Not learned in a day is the careful use of equipment in a successful lab experiment.



Dentistry students' first patients are models of the human mouth.

Concentration . . .

. . . the perfection of skills

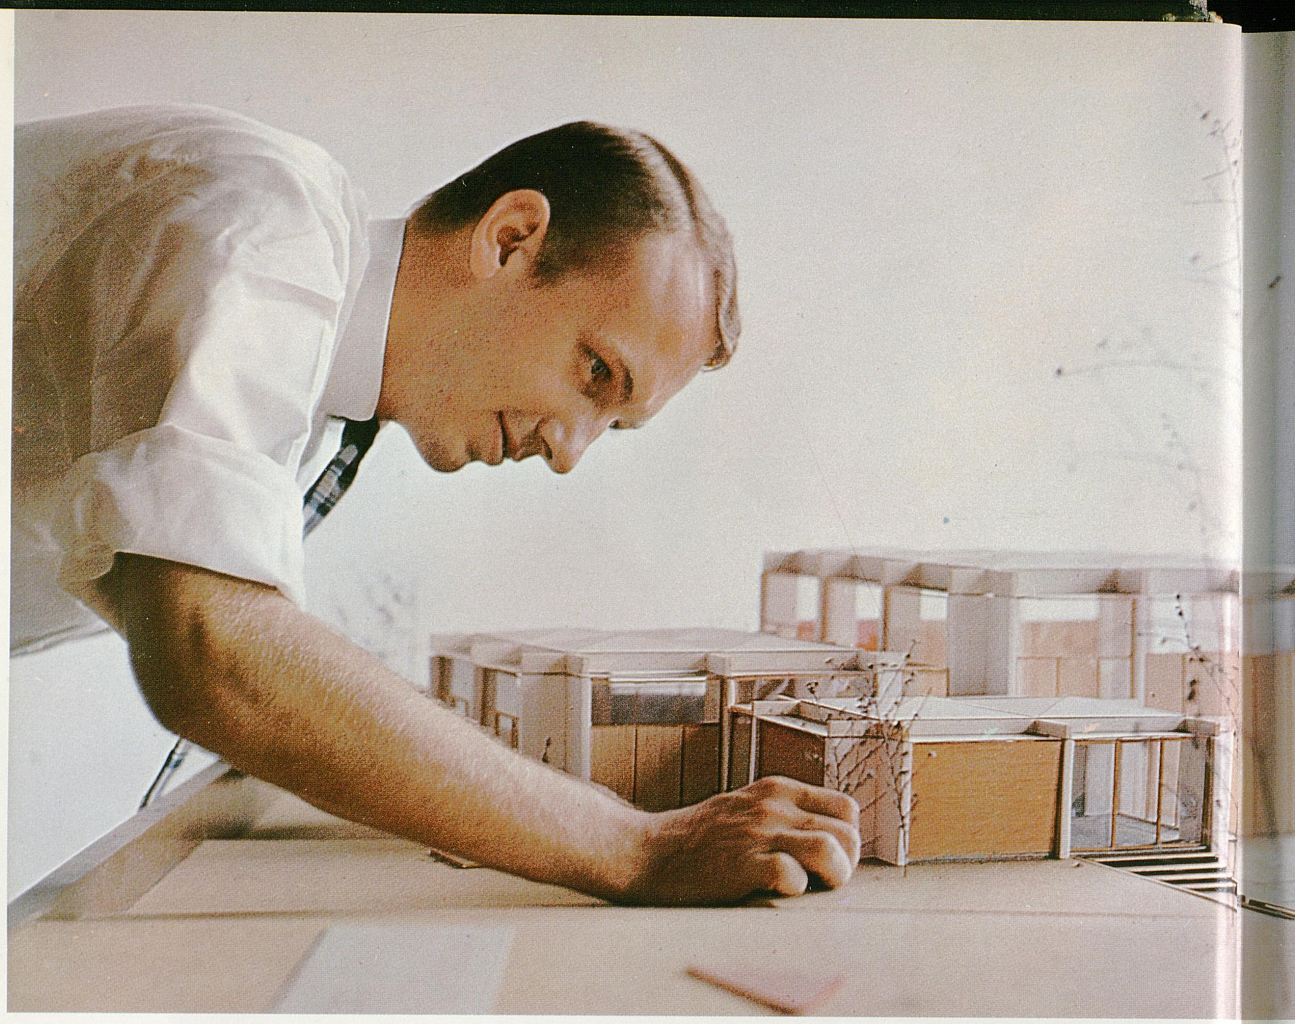
Graduation . . .

. . . recognition of achievement

Final adjustments of robes and hoods are completed while participants nervously await the last line of college careers.

Hopes, dreams and ambitions become realities for seniors and graduate students when commencement arrives.

Last minute instructions assure an orderly procession to the coliseum.



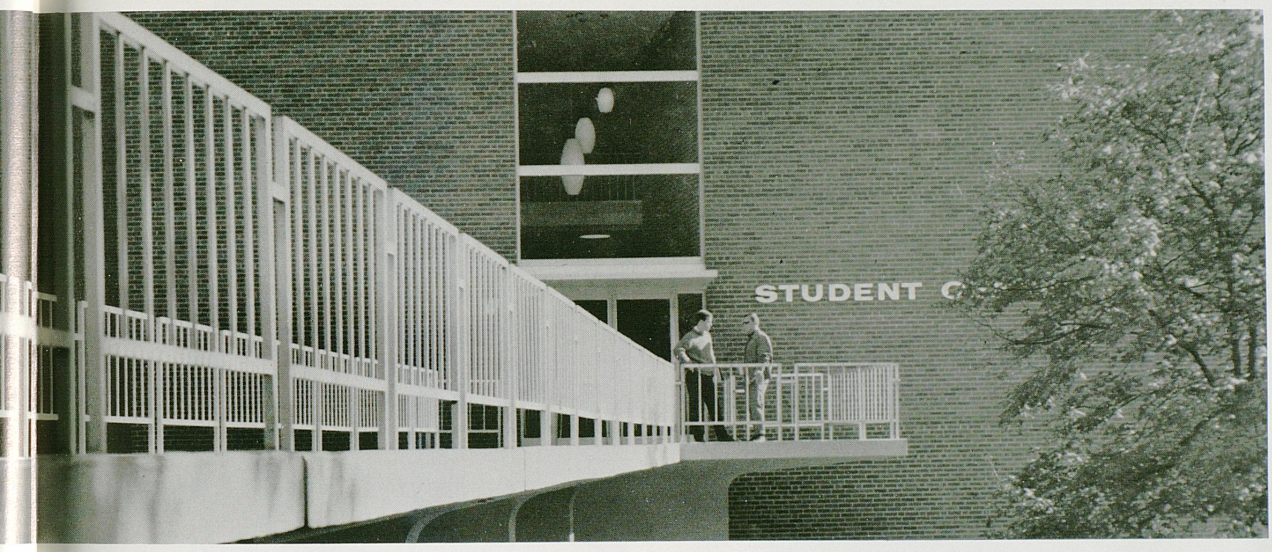
Care to details by architecture students brings the realization of construction on a much larger scale.

Addition . . .

. . . a continuation of education

Lexington architects find cooperation and exchange of ideas helpful in developing the work begun at the U K.

Student Life



STUDENT

Orientation is walking—at least so it seems to the freshmen as they rest under the trees in front of the Student Center.

Tuberculin tests and terrified freshmen. Not all of orientation is pleasant.

Orientation Introduces New Students to Campus

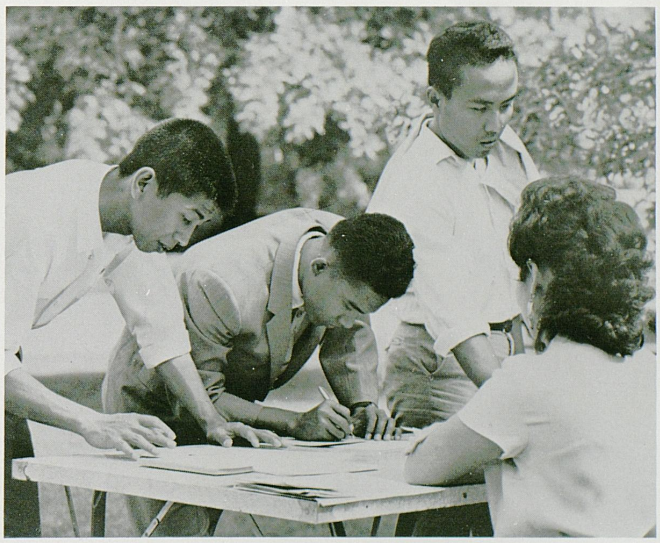
Last summer 90 percent of the freshman class and 3500 parents were oriented to UK's campus. Everyone walked while the new students filled out innumerable forms, took placement and physical fitness tests, and became acquainted with University buildings and professors.

Several methods of helping freshmen integrate with the campus were employed. Just before school opened, the annual YWCA-YMCA Freshman Camp was held. Freshman Guides were again on hand to help students become familiar with their colleges. Organizations' Night provided another method besides these by introducing Freshmen to extra-curricular activities available.

In addition to the orientation program for freshmen, Mr. and Mrs. William Kelley invited foreign students to their home as they do each year for a welcome address by the President and the opportunity to meet others before having to make the academic adjustment necessary in attending a school in a different country.

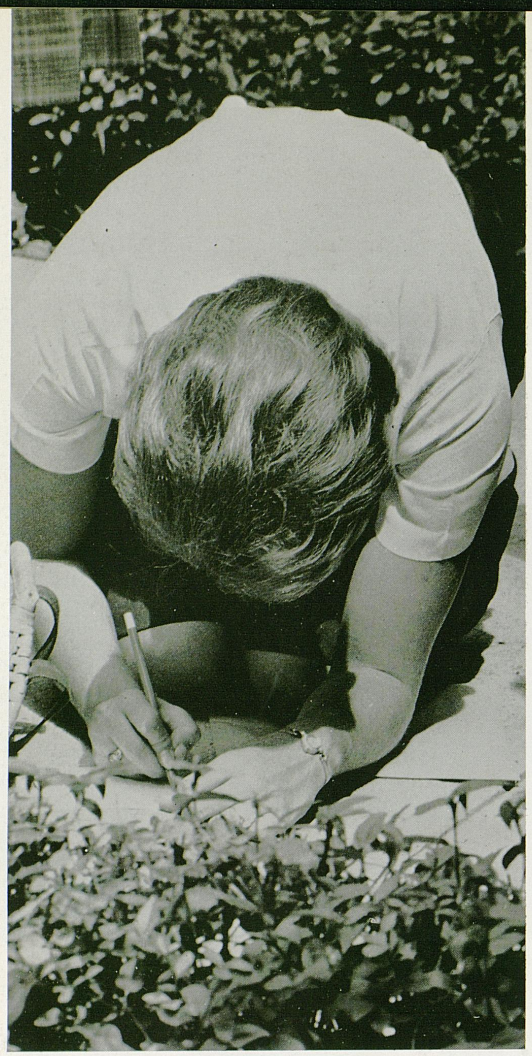
Martha Eades, Freshman Guide, answers questions pertaining to university life.

Dances for freshmen are enjoyed by upperclassmen as well as they meet the new students.



Foreign students have a special orientation at the home of the Kelley's each year.

Attention focuses on Trouper clown as he provides amusement for Organizations' Night.



Registration Improved With Summer Program

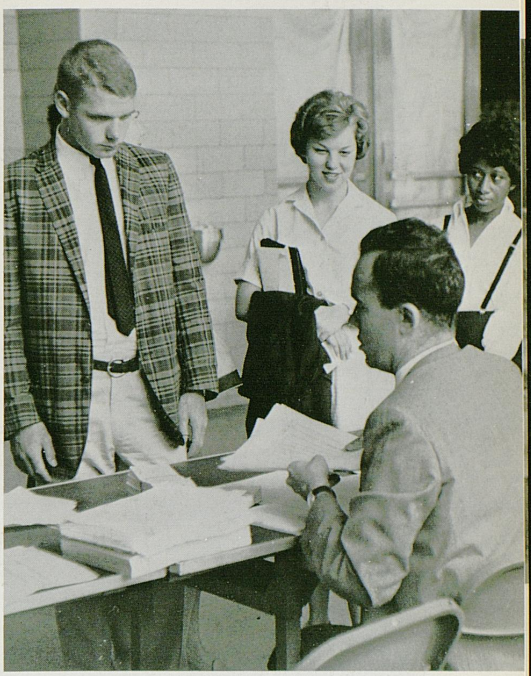
Some 2200 seniors and freshmen, part of a record enrollment, took advantage of a new summer registration program which necessitated only picking up admission cards for classes. This saved them the trip to the Coliseum and anxiety of wondering whether or not there would be an IBM card for them by the time they got to the class tables.

For the students who did not register in the summer, there were the long lines, closed classes, and search for advisors to be chanced. In spite of these inevitable problems, most people agreed that last Fall's registration processes continued the marked improvement of recent years.

During registration students are likely to be found most any place filling out numerous forms that are a necessity for entering the University.

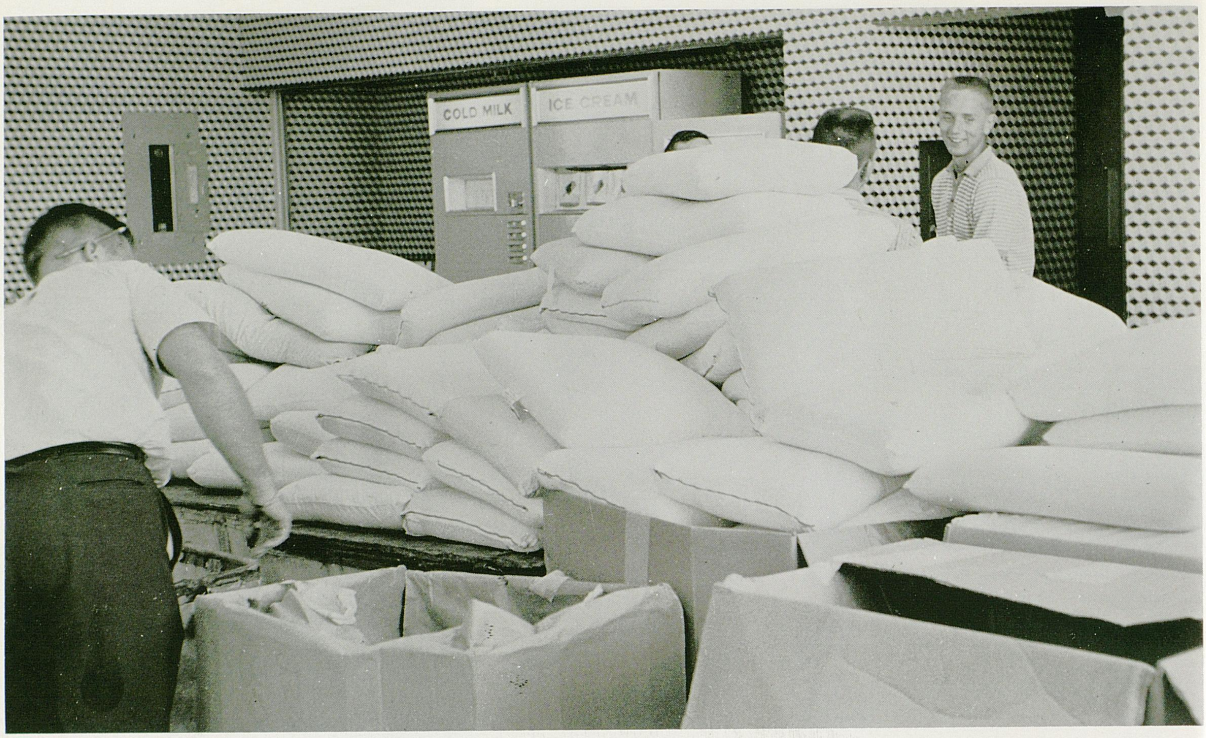
Accompanying the payment of fees are a variety of emotions.

There are always some who have to make schedule changes. The help of professors is then most welcome.



Summer registration provided just as many forms as Falls'.

Many are the people, long are the lines, tired are the feet—another registration is under way.



For the stable-minded, no problem. For the man of indecision, a source of frustration.

Another year, another time to move all those necessities into the dormitories.

First Week Indicates New Semester System

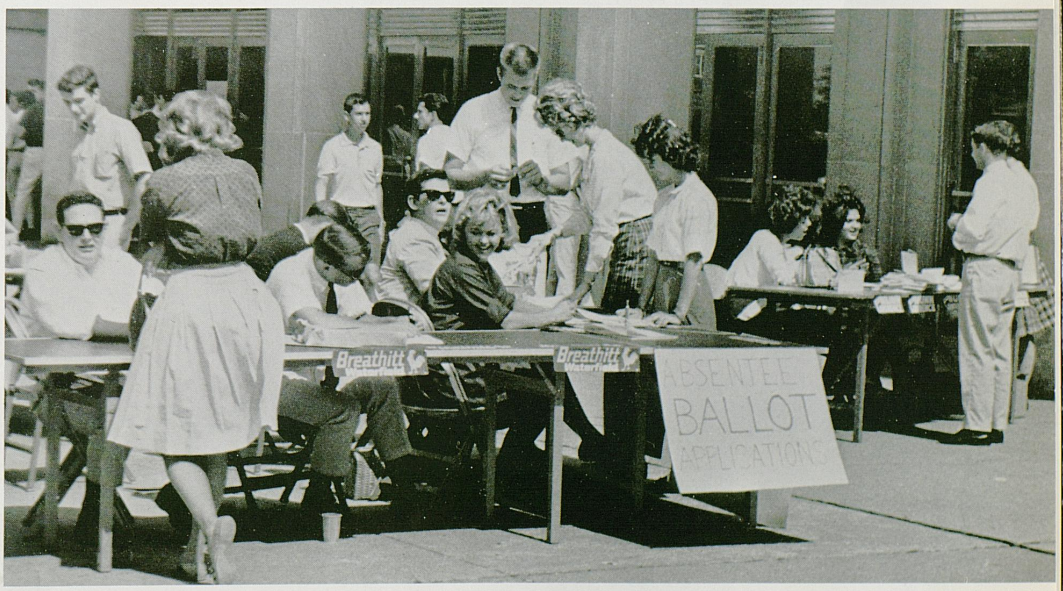
With the Fall opening of UK came the usual problems of perplexed fathers, confused freshmen, upperclassmen men in front of the freshmen women's dormitories, and adjustment to another year. There was also renewed pleasure in seeing friends again, meeting new roommates, and feeling a part of the University.

Evidence of a stepped-up schedule and new semester system came with the return of students the first week in September. Sorority and fraternity rush and classes followed on the heels of moving into residence halls. Freshmen were kept busy with events provided as part of their orientation. Greeks were already beginning to fall behind in their work as rush planning took most of the first days. Professors immediately began making assignments, indicating this was to be no easy semester.

Students' next stop after registration—the bookstore.

A sure sign of the opening of school is a father laden with clothes!

Absentee ballot applications are made available at the beginning of school for conscientious students.



Rushees found refreshments at the first invitational parties welcome after the walk to sorority row.

Coke parties brought the first meeting of rushees and sorority members.

Sorority Rush Takes Hectic Two Weeks

Returning to school August 29, sorority women began to make the most of the short time provided for rush schools. Many hours had already been spent by rush chairmen in organizing committees and in sorting through rushees' cards. In a few days it would be necessary to familiarize members with names of rushees, and practice songs and rushing to perfection.

There was the usual atmosphere of curiosity and excitement as parties began. Over the din of voices refreshments were served, introductions made, and opinions formed. Each day rushees returned to their dormitories, sorority women went to the chapter rooms, and decisions were made.

Then came the final parties and signing of preference cards. An air of nervous anticipation was found in sorority houses and residence halls alike. All women involved in rush awaited Bid Day. When it was over, many were happy—a few were disappointed.

Kappa Kappa Gamma worked many long hours to prepare for its skit night.

Serious thoughts replace the gay atmosphere of rush on Preference Night as the last decision is made.

Assistants Dean of Women, Betty Jo Palmer and Skip Harris, match rushees' with preferences.

The best expression of a good rush is written on the face of a new pledge who is pleased with her choice.

Pledge Presentation was in the Student Center Ballroom where a stack of purses collected as everyone enjoyed the jam session.

250 Men Pledge in Fall Rush

A new school calendar was initiated this year, but fraternity rush remained the same old firm hand shake, smile, a light for your cigarette and a feeling that you were the greatest rushee on campus. But after a week of formal rush those firm hand shakes turn to a look of utter exhaustion of being on your feet greeting 1,400 fraternity men.

Rush was just like everything else the first week back to school—confusing. Being allotted only twenty minutes for each fraternity party and having to ride a bus to the house made formal rush an endless ordeal.

After a hard week of rush, Bid Day, the day that everyone had been looking forward to, finally arrived. That day a rushee pledges the fraternity of his choice and that day the fraternity gets a new man to mold into the Greek way of life.

Sigma Chis greet another bus load of rushees during formal rush.

An IFC representative holds a group outside a house until the first bus load moves out.

A strong arm and brotherly advice are needed to start the Pikes fire engine soon to be crowded with new pledges.

Getting to know the many prospective rushees is the most difficult task facing the fraternities during rush.

A rousing cheer welcomes the next member of the new pledge class of Delta Tau Delta.

Student Center Addition Opens

When students returned to school this Fall, they found the cement mixers, planks, sawhorses, and workmen gone from behind the Student Union. In their places was a new addition; the SUB was now the Student Center. The Campus Book Store, now known as the University Book Store, had moved from McVey into the space once occupied by the cafeteria. The Grille and cafeteria were combined on the second floor of the remodeled building, and the third floor had two ballrooms.

With its purpose to provide a place of interest and entertainment for every student, the Student Center offers a variety of programs coordinated by the Student Center Board.

For those who favor bridge, checkers, or chess, there is a card room. For the more athletic, cue sticks and tables are available in the game room next door. Across the hall, there is a color television set in the TV lounge. Interested students can find a music room and a browsing room nearby, and offices and conference rooms are housed in the Center.

A movie theatre on the second floor offers first-rate shows at student prices in an air-conditioned auditorium. The art gallery was used in the fine arts festival and for displays of work by students, faculty, and others.

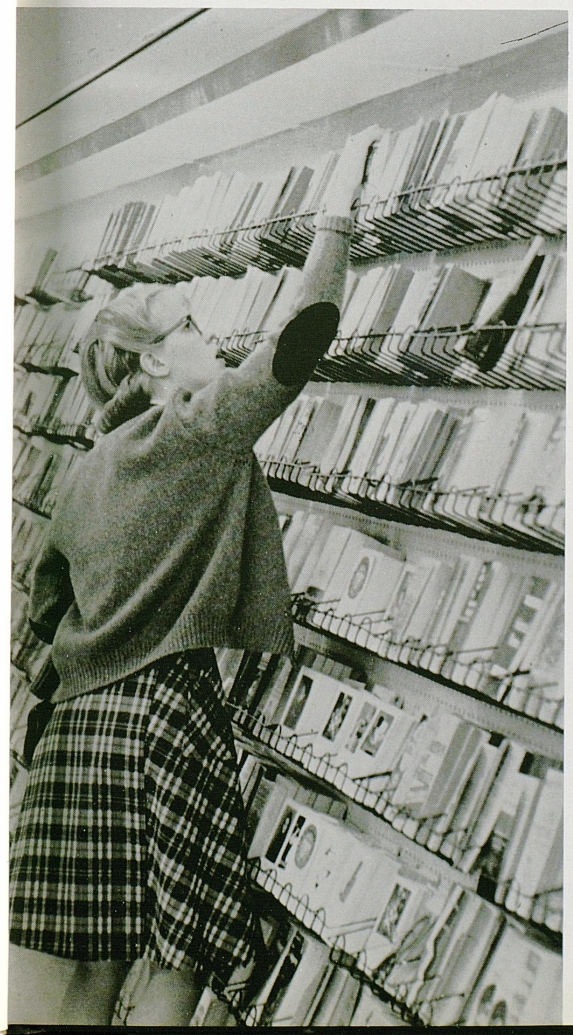
Color television isn't always the most attractive part of the TV lounge.

Concentrating on a game of chess, these students make the most of the card room.

Finding the Student Center very attractive, students even came to accept the new Grille.

Gathering in the card room, students have time for a hand of bridge.

University Book Store now has additional space needed for a wide selection of material.

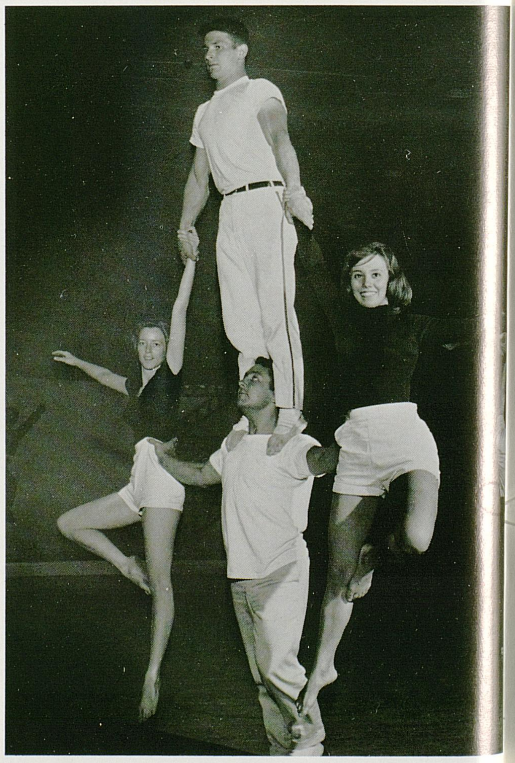


Clicks from the cue stick are heard frequently in the game room.

During Engineer's Day, doors to the engineering annex were opened to interested students and faculty. Here one of the displays, a remote control tractor, follows a startled coed.

Block and Bridle gives contestants in Little International experience in training livestock to show.

Troupers show offers a variety of talent.



Costumes for Indonesian Night were adjusted for the pageantry of native dances.

Students Add to Education, Culture

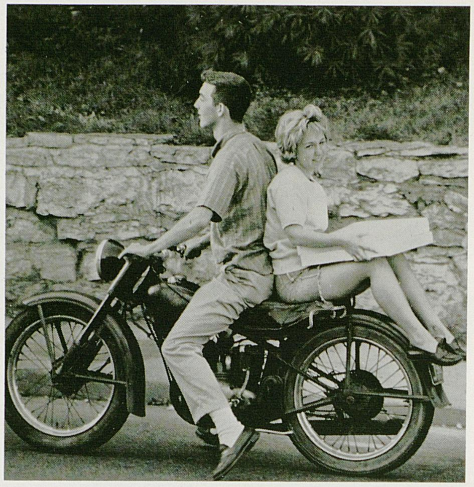
Adding to educational and cultural opportunities offered by the University are the events sponsored and produced by students. As the first semester got under way, Block and Bridle made preparations for its annual Little International.

Guignol productions began with the Lab Theatre increasing the selection of plays offered. Music groups were not idle as the University Orchestra, Symphonic Band, Choristers, and several others gave performances. Tau Sigma gave its first program of the year just before Christmas. Indonesian Night provided an unusual evening of entertainment and gave the audience an insight into the culture of another people. Individuals held both music programs and art exhibits.

Second semester saw the continuing of student efforts and was highlighted by Blue Marlin's annual water ballet and Troupers' talent shows.

Tau Sigma, modern dance society, began its season with a Christmas program.

Everyone seems to be enjoying the Kappa Sig's Toga party.



Where there's a will there's a way—and sometimes it looks like more fun than the usual way.

Defying the inclimate fall weather, the ATO's held their swimming party at the covered pool of the Campbell House.

The tempo of the autumn social is paced by the football games—an inexpensive way of having fun.

Dating Changes Little

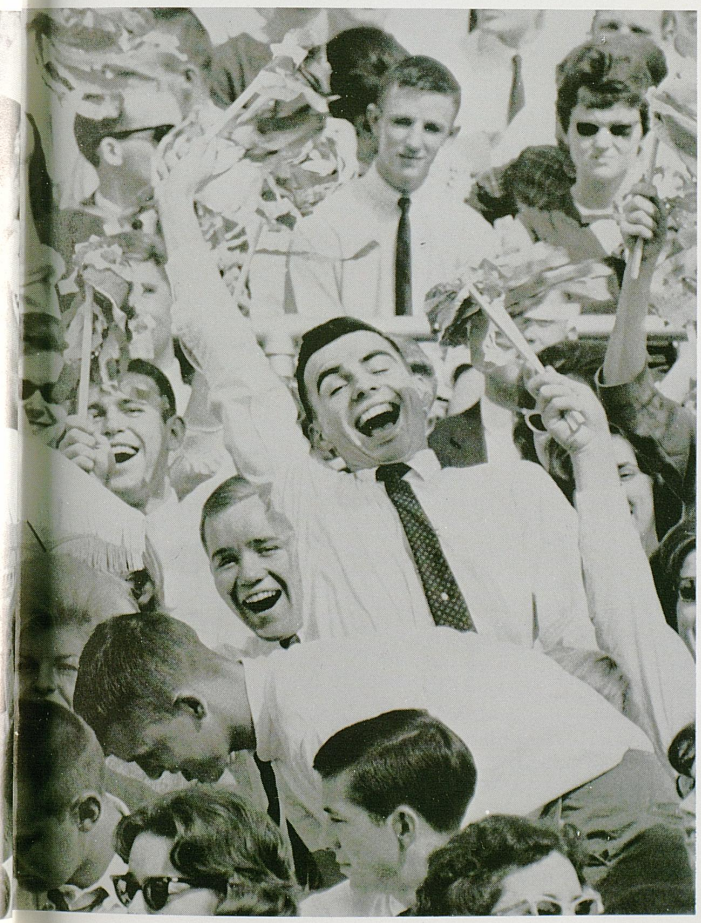
This year saw changes in many things at the University and its surrounding environs. Dates, dating, and places to go remained basically the same, however. The semester change extended the time to plan dates for beach parties and convertible rides.

Early Fall found outdoor dates popular choices. Keeneland, the trots, and Lake Herrington retained their top spots on the student's list. As the temperature dropped, dates moved indoors to parties, dances and concerts. Adams, the Paddock, the Stadium Inn, and the Nook remained as the places to pass the time. The Kingston Trio played to a full house first semester with the Brothers Four following suit in January.

The new Student Center made good movie dates cheaper, as the Center Theatre's playbill listed only grade A movies. In the Lexington theatres, students saw war, intrigue, high drama, comedy, and musicals, and relieved many of their study-bred tensions. The saga of the late President Kennedy's adventures in the Pacific and of Lawrence's adventures in Arabia were two of the more popular shows. Also attracting a large University audience were "The Thrill of It All," "Irma la Douce," "The Prize," and "Charade."

Out of this whirl of social life came some lasting relationships, some which were not. This is the way it always has been and always will be.

Everyone enjoys an afternoon at Keeneland—many make it a studied effort to win.



New Dances Initiated

A new era of dancing appeared at UK this year—the era of innovation. The twist was out and the Big B, the Dog, the Wätusi, and students' own versions of dances were in. Dancing adjusted to new rhythms such as those produced by the Beatles, a group which soared to popularity first in England, then here. Demands of UK students to dance were met with jam sessions, desserts, parties, or formals. In the midst of them all the ever-popular circle dance gave students an opportunity to demonstrate their ability in front of an attentive and participating audience.

Dancing is just pure delight to Don Vizi and his partner.

Frank Dickey and his date do the Big B at the Delts' Neon Party.

Expressive of the thrill of music and dance, a coed's face reveals the pleasure of a good time.

Circle dances are a never-ending pleasure to UK students.

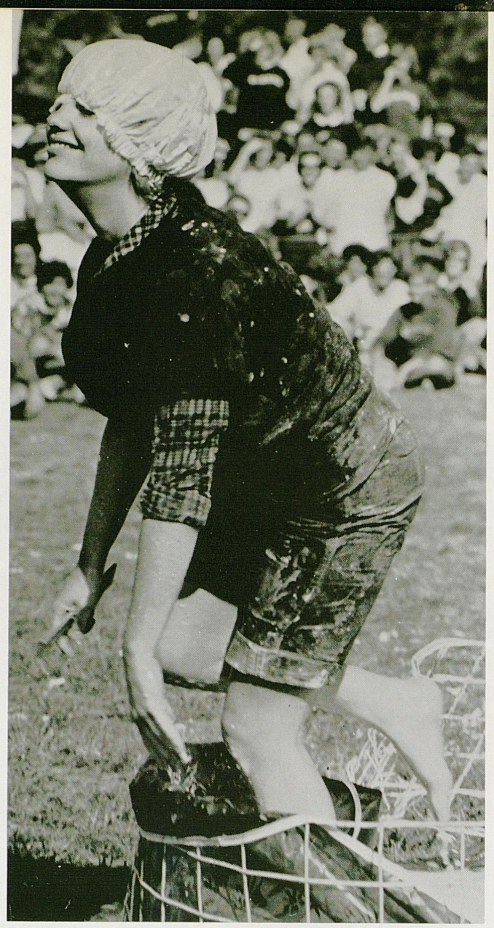
In spite of the trend towards dancing to a fast beat, an occasional slow dance is enjoyed by all.

Christmas came, and with it came the Delt-Tri-Delt (and occasional Phi Delt) Formal.

Many girls took a spill as they tried to pick up innertubes without using hands.

Tri-Deltas Win Derby

A pile of tennis shoes, a pool of mud, whipped cream, the familiar black derby hats, and squealing sorority pledges marked the annual Sigma Chi Derby. Coeds led their hair down and fought their way through the rigorous events. In the final count, the Tri-Delts gained enough points to place first. The day ended as Pam Robinson of Kappa Alpha Theta was chosen Sigma Chi Derby Queen.



"Now let me see! I have the stick with our sorority on it. Where's the finish line?"

A few casualties were suffered in the course of events.

The life of the Sigma Chi pledge in the Fall isn't always the most dignified as an occasional egg breaks over his head.

Reflecting all the determination women are capable of, these pledges begin the search for tennis shoes bearing their sorority's name.

Compassionate sorority sisters were on hand to cheer and help in any way they could.

Crepe paper, chicken wire, and late hours are the students' mania on the day before Homecoming.

Kentucky fans cheered as Coach Charlie Bradshaw spoke at the Pep Rally.

Hard work and originality paid off as the Chi Omega's won first place for their theme of "Checkmate."

The first honors went to Julie Richey as President Oswald crowned her queen only to find the list of attendants had been misread.

Two Queens Crowned in Homecoming Mix-Up

Crowning of the wrong queen and a loss to Georgia added an air of comedy and dismay to Homecoming activities. Julie Richey, previously named first attendant, was mistakenly crowned Homecoming Queen during half-time ceremonies. Those who knew the correct results looked on helplessly as Vivian Shipley, the queen-elect, was presented with the runner-up first attendant trophy. The mistake was rectified by the third quarter as Vivian and Julie switched roles on the sidelines.

By the end of the game, football fans were not only confused, but also disappointed, as Georgia beat the Wildcats by a slim 17-14 margin.

Celebrating was in order, however, in the Chi Omega house as that sorority won first place for its "Check Mate" house decoration. Second place went to Pi Kappa Alpha, with Kappa Delta and Kappa Alpha Theta tied for third.

The Alumni Association was also pleased as former UK president, Frank G. Dickey, dedicated the new Helen G. King Alumni House. The building will be the center of future activities for alumni programs.

When a mistake is made—

—there's only one thing to do.

Correct it!

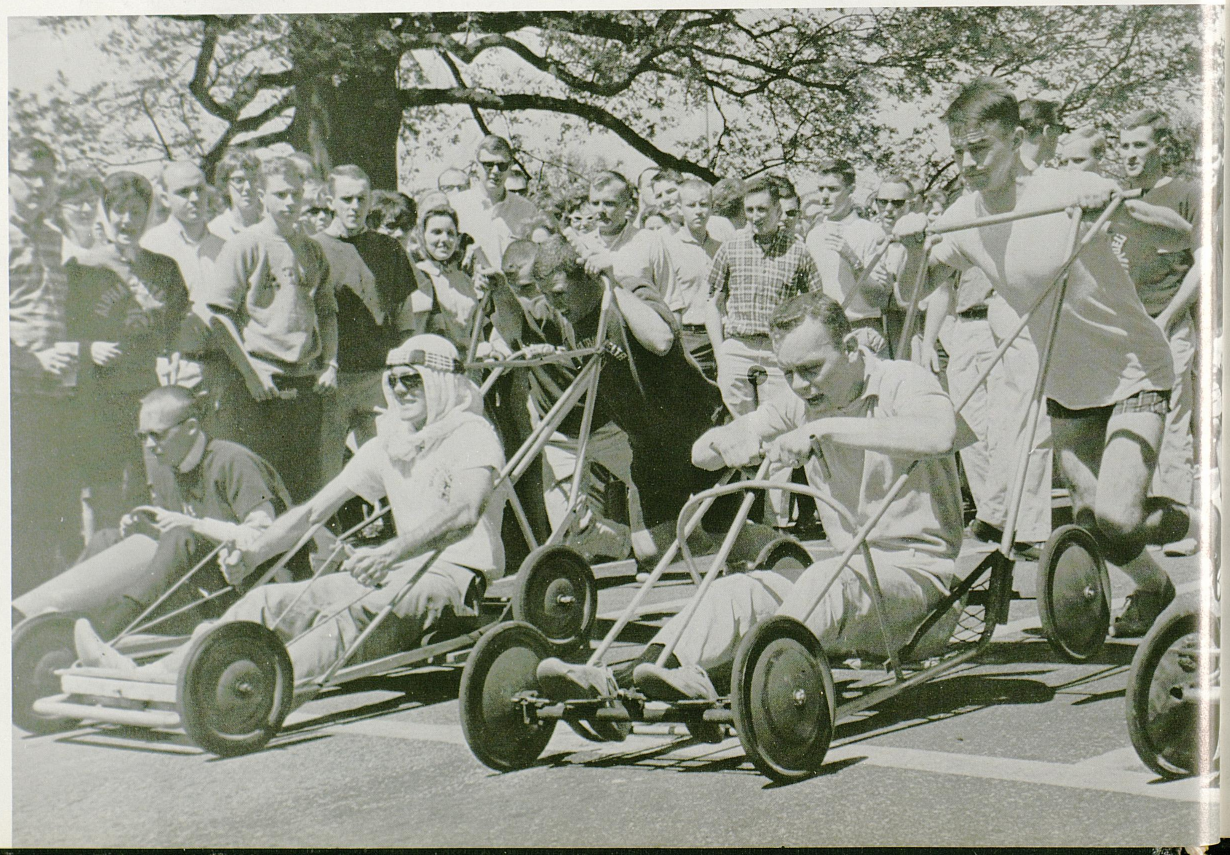
Lambda Chi's Hold Annual Derby

A parade honoring Derby Queen, Candy Johnson, and presentation of the Ugly Man Contest trophy to Joe Bond, kicked off a full afternoon of activities in the Lambda Chi Alpha's Pushcart Derby. Spectators lined the course around the Administration circle and Limestone Street as participants pushed and guided carts through four heats of the race.

Triangle fraternity ended the day with the first place trophy in the men's division and Zeta Tau Alpha dominated the women's competition to take its third consecutive trophy in the annual event.

Excitement mounts as the first of the four heats in the Derby men's division begins.



Some enjoyed the ride, others worked in the women's division of the Derby.

LKD Forecasts Spring

An increasing number of bicycles on campus heralds Spring and the approaching Little Kentucky Derby. Men pedal furiously down streets, and girls use basements and sidewalks as practice arenas for the coming Debutante Stakes. Training and determination paid off for Delta Zeta sorority which won the opening night tricycle races. Saturday, the Sports Center took on a circus air as sponsoring groups built shelters and stalls for participating teams. Pi Kappa Alpha won its second consecutive crown in the afternoon bicycle heats.

Reigning over the weekend festivities was Susan Rhodes, Little Kentucky Derby Queen. "America's Most Spectacular College Weekend" closed on Saturday night with a concert featuring Nancy Wilson, George Shearing and Danny Cox.

Increasing Enrollment Causes Campus' Growth

In order to be an effective learning institution, a University must grow so that it can offer the student the best facilities to stimulate his search for knowledge. And UK grows—everywhere on campus are evidences of the struggle to keep the physical plant up to the increasing enrollment. Community Colleges are in the planning stages in Elizabethtown, Prestonsburg, Hopkinsville, Somerset, and the Hazard-Blackey area. These, and the existing five, are no longer a part of the Extended Programs, but are under the guidance of the Board of Trustees and the University president. In the future they will be known as Community Colleges rather than University Extensions.

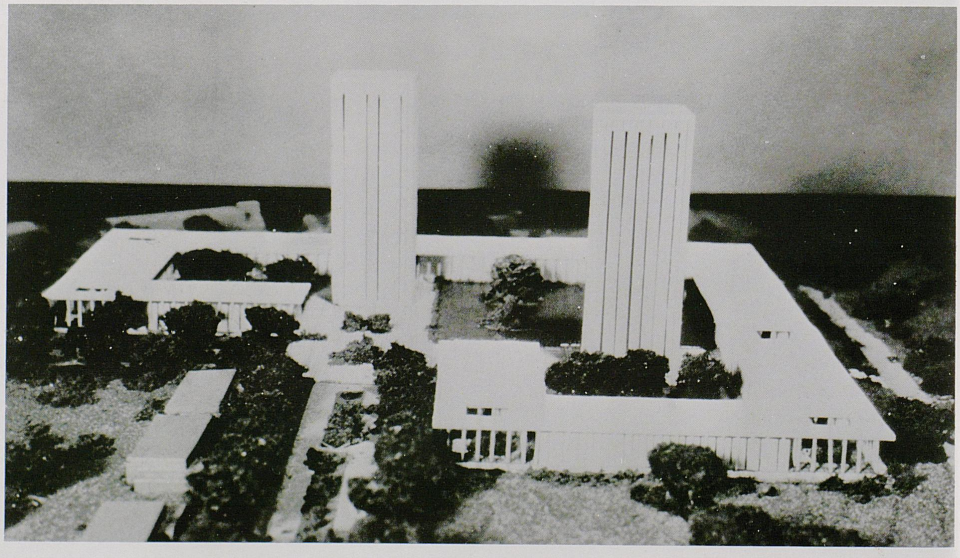
The alumni opened their new house and dedicated it to Helen G. King. The Student Union was remodeled and became the Student Center with a new Grille, enlarged cafeteria, and a theater. The Campus Book Store moved into the remodeled cafeteria area and changed its name to the University Book Store; the Post Office moved into the space in McVey Hall vacated by the store.

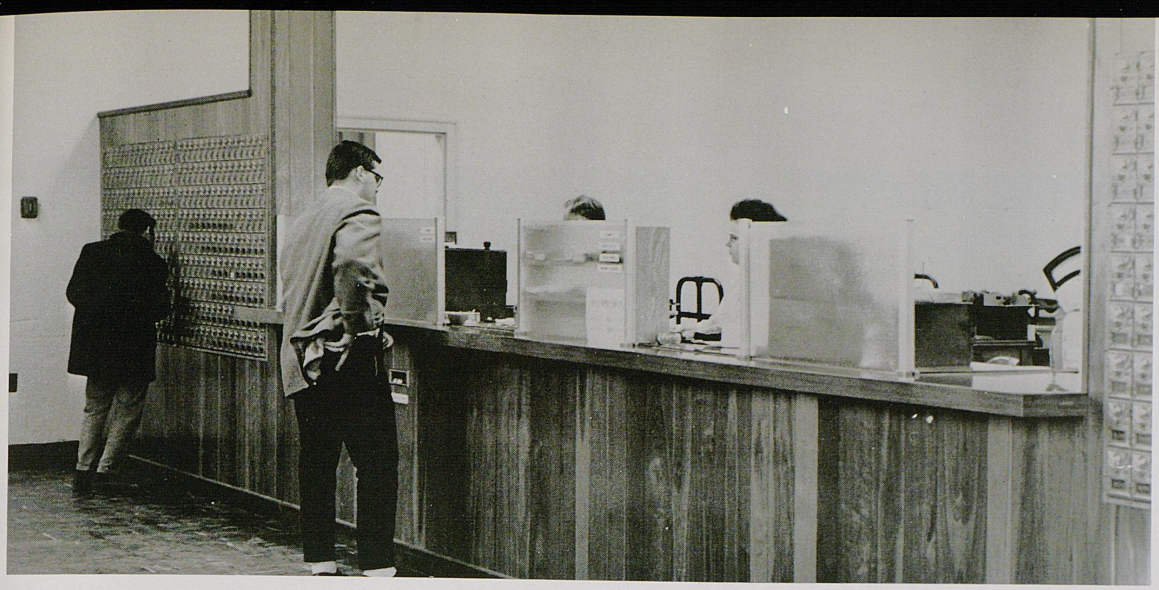
The College of Law and the Colleges of Commerce and Agriculture are in the process of building new quarters and adding to the campus architecture. The Office of Admissions moved into the renovated Administration Annex and the Administration Building had a face lifting.

The introduction of new courses and teaching methods, and registration by grade point standing made the student's life more bearable and the learning process more enjoyable—and so the University grows.

Construction of the new education building is only a part of the University's expansion program.

Plans are underway for the new undergraduate student housing complex which will accommodate approximately 2,500 men and women.

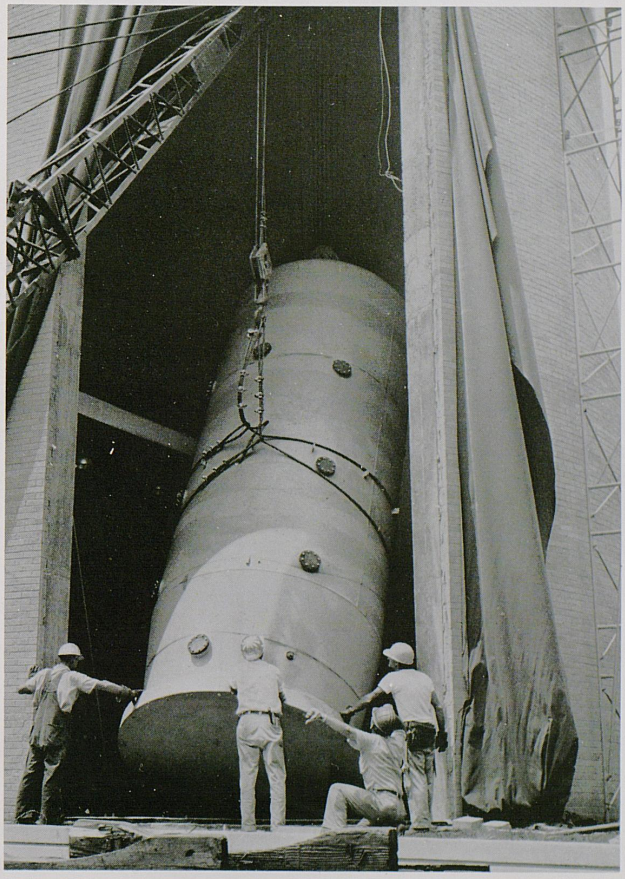




The University Post Office moved into the space previously occupied by the book store. Remodeled facilities give more space, but fewer mail boxes which are provided in the newer residence halls.

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, former UK president, dedicated the new alumni-center the day of Homecoming.

Installation of the nuclear accelerator for the Physics Department was completed early in the Fall.



Student Research Part of Education

One aspect of education is the stimulus which it provides to the student to investigate class material in independent research. Members of the University faculty and administration recognize this and provide the impetus, guidance, and facilities for the inquisitive student.

This research is conducted in the lab, the library, the dorm, or in another town or state. Seminars offer the student the opportunity to meet with people acquainted with his topic, whether it is a member of the UK faculty, a visiting speaker or professor, or someone outside the campus. Regardless of the location, the student relies on his own initiative and determines the method of his investigation by the nature of the topic he investigates.

Fine Arts Offered to Creative Students

Through the Fine Arts program, students find a means of expression and a background for creativity, whether it is in music, art or literature. The University sponsors galleries in both the Fine Arts Building and the Student Center in which student artists and faculty members display their work. Exhibits by American and European artists offer an opportunity to learn through comparison and to exercise judgement.

The Opera Workshop and various University choirs, vocal groups, bands and orchestras present outstanding student musical talent to the community and give the students valuable experience. Lectures and readings open the world of literature to the student and provide an opportunity for discussion between the speaker and his audience.

Choristers provide valuable experience for the student interested in music.

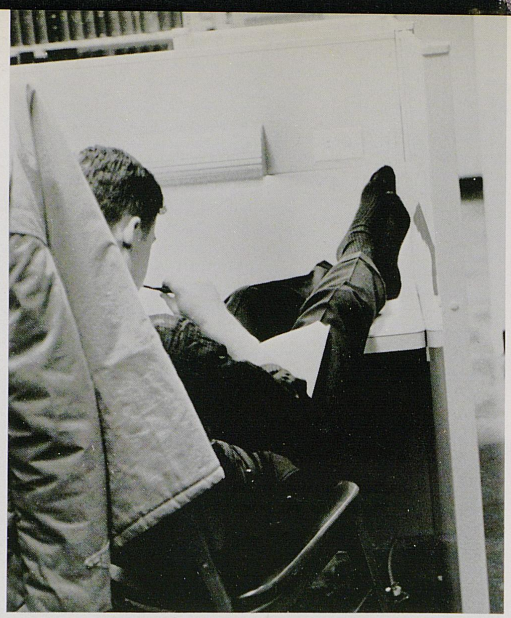
Student's Life Geared to Study

Study, as every student knows, is the bane of his life. On the UK campus, it is coped with in a chair at the new Student Center Grille, soothed by music. It is found in a cubicle at the library, enmeshed in quiet, or in a dorm room, surrounded by friends. Regardless of the method used, study is an integral part of the student's life. Without it, he will not remain a part of the University.

Many facilities are provided by the University for studying. Study halls are held, quiet hours are enforced, tutors are available, and classrooms are open in many of the buildings for those who prefer solitude. All these enable the student to pursue his education, through study.



Students settle down in the library cubicles, make themselves comfortable, and spend an evening of uninterrupted study.

With a cup of coffee and a maximum of concentration, two students prepare their lessons in the Grille.

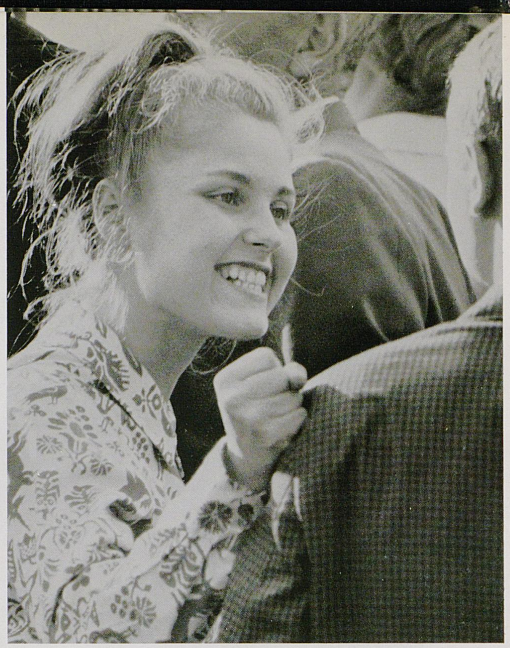
Many Expressions Make the University

The University has many faces, each reflecting a different aspect of University life and the individuals who compose it. From all parts of the campus and in a variety of activities students express their youth, happiness, anticipation, anxiety, friendships, and their eagerness to meet and become a part of the University.



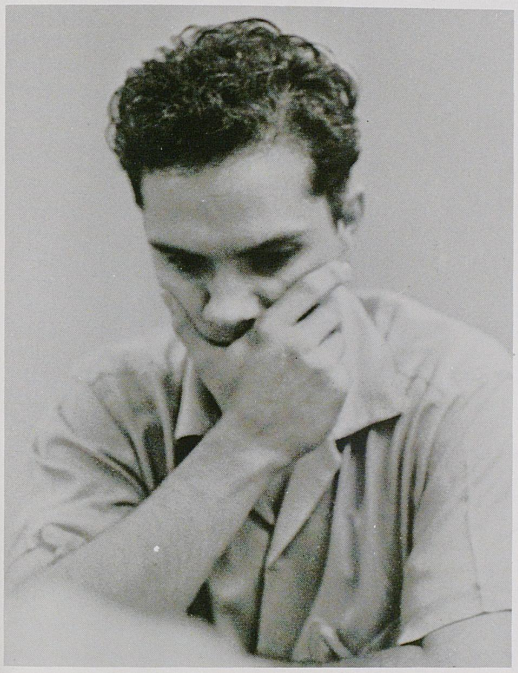
Exuberance—they picked a winner at Keeneland!

Shy, vivacious, excited—the coed is a mixture of many emotions.

Elated—we won!

Anxious to like and be liked—a sign of youth.

Exhaustion—the plague of the college student.



Concentration—an essential trait for accomplishment.

Frustration—sometimes things are just too much to cope with.

Concerned anticipation—contestant awaits the results.

Sharing of the big or little events in life—a bond between friends.

Many students took an interest in Student Congress elections. Votes cast were tallied by computers.

Leadership Shown in Student Activities

Through participation in campus activities, students assume positions of leadership and learn to cope with the demands which accompany responsibility. The ability to work with others, yet retain one's ideals is a part of the education process which is not included in the academic course. This comes through the work done in student elections and state and national government. Honoraries and campus organizations give further opportunities for students to exercise their capabilities.

Leadership is one of the most valuable assets which goes with a college diploma. Under the guidance of the faculty, the student learns to think and reason by observing the application of leadership abilities in the University administration.

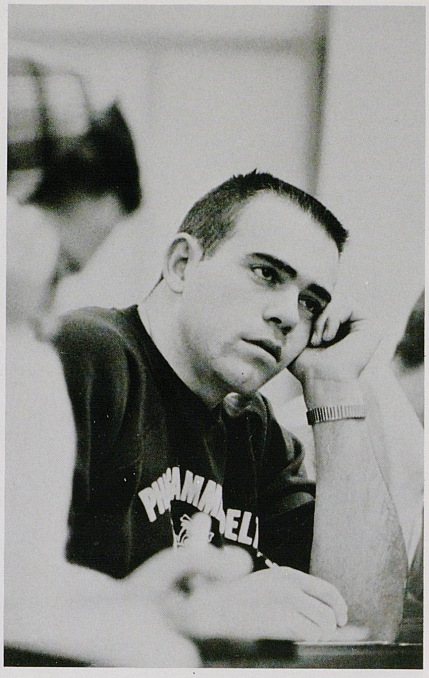
Finals Week Comes Early

The week of December 16-21 brought to a climax the first semester under the new system. As finals approached, more students were staying up later at night. Bleary eyes, dazed expressions, and shorter tempers were not uncommon. The semester seemed hardly begun when surprised students realized exams were upon them. As the success or failure of their efforts was measured, the week ended with many people feeling the relief of having finals behind them. This would be one Christmas vacation during which they could really relax.



Sometimes all that stored-up information from the past semester seems to leave a student on the day of the final.

Christmas Celebrated in Spite of Finals

An impending exam week didn't dampen the Christmas spirit as everyone managed to celebrate—perhaps a little less than usual. Formals were held, and parties for underprivileged children gave many people a warm feeling of sharing. Trees and doors were decorated, and carols were sung. Campus organizations lent themselves to the season as Tau Sigma presented a program of short skits. Hanging of the Greens, the annual Christmas pageant, included performances by the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, BSU Choir, and the Nativity story. Snow came just in time to lend to the season's spirit as friends exchanged gifts and greetings.

"Pygmalion" Starts Guignol's Season

UK's Guignol Theatre, which stars students and Lexington talent, has offered many good plays in the past, and this year was no exception.

The music and color of "Brigadoon," the summer production, was enjoyed by many and was followed by first semester's presentation of "Pygmalion." Next on the list was "Clerambard" which departed from the usual play by having the audience sit on stage.

Guignol celebrated the 400th century of Shakespeare's birth in April with a festival. Included were "As You Like It," done in Elizabethan costume, and an interpretation of "Julius Caesar" as a modern dictatorship.

Concert Series Lists Varied Program

This year the Central Kentucky Concert and Lecture Series listed a wide variety of cultural programs. The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, Vienna Symphony Orchestra, and Black Watch Band were included. Pianists Byron Janis and Lorin Hollander, Isaac Stern, Jerome Hines of the Metropolitan Opera, and the San Francisco Ballet also visited the stage here.

Incorporated in the series was a number of outstanding speakers. Pauline Frederick, U.N. Correspondent for TV, Boris Goldovsky, Merriman Smith, Chief White House Correspondent, and Eddy Gilmore rounded out the program. Aldous Huxley was to have spoken as a part of the Harper Lecture Series. The illness which led to his death prevented his being here in October.

Eddy Gilmore who won the Pulitzer Prize for his written interview with Joseph Stalin spoke at Memorial Coliseum.

The Vienna Symphony Orchestra, directed by Wolfgang Sawallisch, was scheduled to visit UK as a part of the Concert and Lecture series.

Isaac Stern, violinist, kept a captive audience when he visited Lexington during the first semester.

Music from the ranks of the famous Black Watch Band and Pipers provided UK with an evening of unusual entertainment.

Ballet Folklorico of Mexico included in its program this ancient dance, Los Quetzales De Puebla (Dance of the Quetzal Birds of Puebla).

Campus Shocked by President's Death

Probably no day will stand out more in the minds of UK students than November 22, 1963. A dazed student body found it hard to believe that President John Fitzgerald Kennedy had been assassinated in Dallas, Texas. All radios were telling the same story. People cut afternoon classes to watch television. There was but one topic of conversation as everyone tried to explain to himself why this had happened. Social events were cancelled and Lexington came to a stand-still with little activity on the city streets.

Two days later the campus was again shocked. Many watched the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin, on television as he was moved from Dallas' City Hall. Now the answer to the world's question of "Why?" could only be surmised.

On the day of the President's burial, many students and staff members attended a Memorial Service, then returned home to watch the televised funeral Mass. When it was over, the campus gradually resumed its normal function, but that tragic weekend had left an unforgettable impression.

All social activities with the exception of the UK-Tennessee football game was canceled the weekend of November 22.

Memorial Hall was opened Friday night to those students who sought a place to meditate.

Over 5,000 solemn students and staff members attended the Memorial Service held Monday morning for President John Fitzgerald Kennedy in the Coliseum.

Panhellenic Council to Present Scholarships

Beginning the year for Panhellenic was an innovated pledge presentation featuring the Travelers Three and a jam session.

This year saw the initiation of four in-state tuition scholarships which were financed through Council funds. In addition, Panhellenic started a new program of individual officers' workshops for women in sororities to meet and talk with others in the same office.

Two major projects rounded out the year for the Council. The first was the invitation extended to foreign students to visit and have lunch and dinner with each sorority. The second was the sponsoring of programs to be presented by each sorority for children at Shriners' Hospital.

Junior Panhellenic Gives Style Show

Comprised of two members of each sorority pledge class, Junior Panhellenic presented a style show for all pledges which incorporated campus etiquette. Later in the year, the Council planned receptions to be held before each concert and lecture series program.

IFC Emphasizes Building Program

With three representatives from each of the nineteen fraternities, the Interfraternity Council is the administrative and legislative body of the University's fraternity system.

One of IFC's major concerns has been the expansion program designed to have thirty fraternities on campus by 1970. An Expansion Committee has recently been appointed and begun contacting national fraternities interested in colonizing chapters at UK. Another project of the fraternity system is a building program with a goal of finishing two houses per year. The SAE's and Sigma Nu's houses will be completed this year. The Phi Tau's have approved plans for a new house, and the ZBT's and TKE's are initiating their plans.

Although UK's IFC already ranks near the top of the National Interfraternity Council in scholastic standards, they were not content to rest on their laurels. This year IFC moved up pledging requirements to a 2.1 overall average, as further evidence of their pursuit for scholastic excellence.

Grade slips were checked for necessary average before rushee signed preference card.

ADPi's Pledges Visit Bowling Green Chapter

Beginning the year with twenty-eight pledges, the ADPi's established a cultural program and entertained professors and foreign students at dinner.

ADPi's show strength of the weaker sex in their football game with Lambda Chi's.

During the Christmas season, they entertained twenty-five underprivileged children with dinner, Santa, and gifts around the tree. They were assisted in this by the members of the varsity football team

The ADPi's counted many honors among their members this year, everything from homecoming display to the SUKY Yell Like Hell Contest.

The spring included the annual formal, founder's day banquet, work at the Veterans Hospital and with crippled children. In addition, they worked with the Manchester Street Center.

In the fall, the pledges made their annual trip to a sister chapter. This year they went to Bowling Green University in Ohio. This program was adopted in order to give the pledges a broader understanding of the Greek system and what sisterhood means.

The Alpha Gams receive aid from "backseat" bridge players.

Weekend Treat for Alpha Gam Dads

Most fathers think of a sorority as nothing more than something he makes the checks out to, but the Alpha Gam's made sure that each and every father had a warm place in his heart for his daughter's sorority, through the annual Father-Daughter weekend.

Moving into the house on a football weekend for an over-night stay while daughters stayed elsewhere, the fathers were treated to a buffet Saturday night and an after-the-game jam session. A Sunday breakfast and church brought the weekend to a close.

To combat cries of parental favoritism, Alpha Gams held a Mother-Daughter banquet at the house before the Stars in the Night Program which they attended as a group.

In addition to regular round of campus functions, Alpha Gamma Delta had an active service project, a benefit bridge and style show.

Alpha Xi's Hold "Rush Party" for Men of SAE

After the flurry of rush had subsided, the activities and new pledges of Alpha Xi Delta spent a weekend at their annual retreat. Entering fully into the social swing, desserts, all-campus jam sessions, open houses, and teas were held at the Alpha Xi house.

Giving the men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon a true peek at sorority life, the Alpha Xi's "rushed" their guests in an unusual dessert fashioned after a sorority coke party.

Mrs. Christine Peters, new housemother this year, was honored at a tea in the early fall. In December, the house was full of children's voices as the annual Christmas party of underpriveleged children got underway.

Alpha Xi Delta points with pride to the third attendant in the Miss Lexington contest, several ATO "Little Sisters" and the Sweetheart of Sigma Phi Epsilon. For the Sixth consecutive year, Alpha Xi had the winning candidate for Gold-digger's King.

Chi O's Capture Display Trophy for Homecoming

The Chi O's present annual economic award to outstanding sophomore girl, Hieu Nguyen, from Viet Nam.

Creativity, imagination, and lots of chicken wire endowed the Chi Omega's with the winning homecoming display for the second year.

Chi O's, who will celebrate their fiftieth year on campus this spring, placed high in scholarship and had their share of queens too, boasting Bobbie Vincent as the Kentuckian Queen and Donna Forcum as Pershing Rifles Queen.

A Christmas party for the children of Cardinal Hill Hospital featuring skits and songs climaxed a series of weekly visits to the hospital made by Chi O's twenty-seven pledges throughout the fall.

The togetherness of Chi Omegas' is evidenced by such events as the Chi Omega Children's Style Show where actives, pledges and alums work in unison. Spring Eleusinia is an occasion for members of Chi O chapters throughout the state to meet and compare notes on their activities.

Tri Delts Take First In Sigma Chi Derby

What could be more fun than to be awakened in the wee hours of the morning and taken off to a "Come As You Are" party given by the Tri-Delts? With this thought in mind, the Tri-Delts treated the Theta's to a surprise sunrise breakfast and song fest. Much fun and many yawns were had by all.

Exhibiting the same spunk and enthusiasm that pervades throughout the year, the pledges of Delta Delta Delta delighted their active sisters by winning first place in the ever popular Sigma Chi Derby.

Always conscientious of scholarship, the Tri-Delts had the second highest sorority chapter standing. They fulfilled their service project by assisting the Society of Crippled Children with a style show given at the Imperial House. The program which is the second of its kind in the United States, endeavored to show parents the ways that clothing could be adapted to the needs of crippled children.

Christmas cheer was spread with the annual Delt-Tri-Delt formal in December.

Delta Gams Come to Aid of Blind Students

Now in the process of establishing a braille type library, the DG's hope to have a reading and recording center in their new house on Columbia which they moved into this spring.

One of the first social occasions of the new house was an International Party in the spring for foreign students.

Taking time from their own studies and unselfishly devoting themselves to the benefit of a blind student has kept Delta Gamma involved in a valuable service project.

The DG's have recorded text books for a blind student, guided her to class and taken her to meals throughout the year.

Delta Zeta Awarded Panhellenic Trophy

Delta Zeta spirit and enthusiasm was higher than ever after the Panhellenic Spirit Trophy was presented to the sorority at the Stars in the Night program last spring.

Determination and endurance pushed the DZ's over the finish line for first place in the Little Kentucky Derby Debutante Stakes. DZ originality reaped the reward of first place in the LKD Float Contest.

DZ's were successful in other events too, finishing second in the Lambda Chi Push Cart Derby and winning the Ugly Man Contest for the second Consecutive year.

Winning the softball championship, DZ's were named runners-up by the Women's Athletic Association in bowling, archery and golf. As might be expected, WAA deservedly awarded the Participation Trophy to Delta Zeta.

Thetas Give Serenade, Take 3rd in ΣX Derby

Creeping about in ghoulish fashion, Theta's gave a Halloween serenade one dark and dreary night. But many a night has been brightened by the flickering candles and nostalgic songs of Kappa Alpha Theta serenades.

An active group, Theta pledges took third place in the Sigma Chi Derby, while actives taped together a third place winner in the homecoming display contest.

Many Theta's devoted their spare time to the Girl Scout Volunteer Service acting as assistant leaders.

In other achievements Theta boasts a number of queens: the Push Cart Derby Queen, Sigma Chi Derby Queen, Miss Lexington, and fourth and fifth place winners in the Miss Kentucky and the Kentuckian Contest.

Amid sprays of mistletoe, Theta's and their dates enjoyed the annual Christmas Date Dinner, while a February formal at the Imperial House climaxed second semester's social events.

KD's Active in Community Service

Beginning the semester, pledges and actives held a retreat at Herrington Lake to fully acquaint pledges with the chapter affairs. Later in the fall the Annual Founders Day banquet was held at Tates Creek Country Club.

In the spring the KD's honored their dates with the White Rose Formal followed by an all day party at Herrington Lake. There also were several jam sessions and desserts with other Greeks.

The president represented the Epsilon Omega chapter of Kappa Delta at the national convention in New Orleans.

A tea was held in the fall in honor of the new housemother, Mrs. Hazel Howes. Homecoming the KD's gave a buffet for parents and a tea after the game.

Community service found the KD's working at Cardinal Hill and helping care for an orphan child.

The Kappa's nightly snack is a little late in arriving.

Kappa's Initiate Cultural Program

In an effort to promote greater awareness of world problems, Kappa Kappa Gamma initiated a cultural program this year. Each week a Professor was invited for dinner which was followed by an informal talk on topics ranging from Russia to race relations.

Active in social events and holding offices in clubs and honoraries, the Kappas presented a pledge style show, and a party for underprivileged children. University president Dr. John Oswald was the guest speaker at the Founder's Day. Banquet in October.

Kappas feel that the combination of Social and intellectual pursuits, throughout the year, prove successful and rewarding to the entire sorority.

Good times and comradeship pervaded throughout the year for the members of Pi Beta Phi. Pledges and Actives enjoyed themselves at the fall retreat, as well as at a slumber party the night before the Sigma Chi Derby.

A dinner in honor of the pledges was another highlight, but even more fun was a "John Madras" party given by the pledges to honor the actives.

Pi Phi's wished every sorority a "Happy Halloween", leaving a pumpkin at each doorstep. The all-night Homecoming Decorating Party was lively and successful since the display, "Georgia Meets the Press," received Honorable Mention.

Honoring its favorite mothers, Pi Phi gave a Mother-Daughter Banquet early in the year.

Second semester events included the "Beaux and Arrow" Formal on Valentine's Day, the annual Skating Party, and the Founder's Day Luncheon.

ZTA's Merit Scholarship Improvement Trophy

The third time is usually charm, but the Zeta Tau Alpha's went on to win the Lambda Chi Pushcart Derby for the fourth consecutive year.

As always, pledges and actives retreated to Cumberland Lake following fall rush for a welcome rest from it all.

Service projects included a program by ZTA pledges for children with cerebral palsy, and a cooperative project with Delta Delta Delta for handicapped children.

Following the cultural aspects of college, ZTA's employed the help of faculty speakers and attended the concert and lecture series.

Intramural sports and redecoration of the recreation room kept everyone occupied, but scholarship was not forgotten, as evidenced by the fact that the Scholarship Improvement Trophy was awadred to ZTA at the 1963 Stars in the Night.

AGR's Head Drive for 4-H Camp Fund

Service projects spearheaded a list of activities for the men of Alpha Gamma Rho. In addition to heading a drive for funds to build a 4-H Camp for Fayette County 4-H'ers, AGR's were active participants in the blood bank with the Medical Center.

Omicron was host to Alpha Gamma Rho's Province officer's training school and was runner-up in intramural sports.

Christmas season was again highlighted with the Pink Rose Formal and a Christmas Party for underprivileged children.

AGR's note with pride that forty-seven per cent of the graduating seniors in agriculture were members of Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity.

Alpha Tau Omega Awarded Help Week Trophy

All fraternities have a pledge class, but to Alpha Tau Omega goes the privilege of two pledge classes. One is the usual group of active young men; the other, the third pledge class of "ATO Little Sisters," a national auxiliary of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity.

Active in athletics and in campus participation, the ATO homecoming display was judged one of the best on campus.

Besides holding the offices of chairman of the IFC Judiciary Board and the Vice-President of the Young Republicans, ATO's were well represented in many other organizations and honoraries.

The year ended with the initiation of the spring pledge class and the awarding of the "ATO Help Week Trophy" by the Interfraternity Council to the pledge class with the project most beneficial to the community at large.

ATO's Jack Griff, Dave Bryant, and Ron Moss team together in a folk-singing group to entertain the YM-YWCA picnic.

Ring out the old; Ring in the new; was the theme of the ATO's Christmas Party.

Delts Revamp House, Win Flag Football

With $30,000 worth of improvements made to the "Shelter" during the summer the Delts were ready to start fall activities by pledging 15 men.

The social season began with the annual Neon Party, followed by jam sessions, a blanket party, pajama party, a hood party and a honeymoon party. The first semester social whirl ended with the annual Delt-Tri Delt Christmas Dance.

Founder's Day banquet was held in the spring, with the 40th anniversary of Delta Epsilon Chapter being celebrated. The national President of DTD gave the keynote address.

Men of Farmhouse Prove Scholastic Prowess

Having proved themselves to be giants of the scholastic world by winning the IFC Scholarship Trophy both semesters last year, the men of Kentucky Farmhouse Fraternity were able to retire the rotating trophy after capturing it for the third consecutive semester.

The grade point average compiled by Farmhouse during the fall semester 1962, was the highest average ever achieved by a University fraternity.

By no means is it all work and no play for the men of Farmhouse. Neighboring houses were entertained this fall with a tea after the brothers raked the leaves from their lawns. In addition to two parties for crippled children at the Shriners Hospital, members of Farmhouse enjoyed the annual Founders Banquet and a homecoming dance.

Continuing tradition, the Sunburst Rose Formal was held in honor of Miss Diane Knocke, sweetheart. As might be expected, clubs and honoraries composed many of the activities of the brothers, many were members of such groups as the Agronomy Club, Dairy Club, Block and Bridle, and the Agriculture and Home Economics Council.

Farmhouse, after receiving it's quota of pledges, prepares to celebrate the occasion.

College Life Southern Style Is KA Tradition

The Civil War has long been over, but the characteristics of Southern gentlemen and Robert E. Lee have not been relegated to the past for the men of Kappa Alpha. Scholarship, a usefulness to the community, and a well-rounded social calendar are the objectives of Kappa Alpha.

In showing how a fraternity can be of assistance in helping with charitable projects, the KA's collected $458.00 for a Muscular Dystrophy drive, and for their efforts received a citation signed by movie and television star Jerry Lewis, who is president of the national organization.

Kappa Alpha pledges also made frequent door-to-door "Help the Neighbors" surveys in which cars were washed and lawns were mowed, free of charge to Lexingtonians residing in the area of the chapter house.

As a social group, numerous house parties and outings were held. Each year the season is climaxed by the "Old South Weekend" which consists of a "Sharecropper's Ball" on Friday night, a "Secession Parade" Saturday afternoon, the traditional "Old South Ball" that evening, and closed with a concert and jam session Sunday afternoon.

The Delcardo's provide entertainment for the KA's.

Cannon fire officially opens "Old South Weekend".

Looks like a Kappa Sig Gross Party!

Kappa Sigs Receive National Recognition

Recognition from the national office is something that all Greeks strive for, and the men of Kappa Sigma consider themselves highly successful in this endeavor. After an all-time high in scholastic achievement last spring, Beta Nu brought home one of the top awards from their national office.

Give the men of Kappa Sigma an idea and they'll have a party about it. In addition to participation in rush activities and campus functions, Kappa Sigs pride themselves in their unusual theme parties.

Fast becoming a standing tradition, the Florida party complete with sand and palm trees has remained a favorite of rush parties, second only to the Gross party, featuring the casual approach to partying.

And when things began to slow down there was always the shoot 'em up Wild West party followed by the Go To Hell party proceeding a grueling week of tests.

The year was brought to a fitting end by the Annual Black and White formal held at Cumberland Falls State Park.

Lambda Chi's Sponsor Pushcart Derby

The arrival of spring would not be complete for the University without the Lambda Chi Alpha Push Cart Derby. Prior to the event, neighborhood streets and alleys are crowded with aspiring push cart participants practicing for the big day. The Lambda Chi's end their now traditional event with a dance.

Lambda Chi's remained busy throughout the year with a series of "Snarf" parties, camp parties, and a house party weekend at the Imperial House.

Contests occupied much of their time as evidenced by the football game with Alpha Delta Pi and a rope-pull with the Phi Tau's, which the Lambda Chi's won.

Phi Delts Assist Opening of YMCA Camp

With a kiss and a rose to each sorority pledge, the members af Phi Delta Theta began a colorful year combining jam sessions, serenades and scholarship.

Not only were Phi Delt's remembered for their proverbial Pajama Party, but they also contributed to the community by helping to prepare for the opening of the YMCA Summer Camp on the Kentucky River.

An outstanding intramural program rounded out the year with the Phi Delt's advancing to the semi-finals of the flag-football tournament in the fall. In track, softball and wrestling teams, the Phi Delt's made themselves known as one of the top contenders or the Intramural Championship Trophy.

Scholastically, Phi Delta Theta was well represented in numerous honoraries, as well as occupying several student leadership posts on campus.

Fiji's Are Second in Academic Average

An old saying goes that "a miss is as good as a mile," but this is an exception in the Fiji's case, for they maintained the second highest academic average on campus, missing first place by nine thousandths of a percentage point. Phi Gamma Delta was one of the two fraternities above the students' average.

The youngest fraternity of the University, the Fiji's are proud of the twenty-five fall pledges who wear the white star. In addition to holding offices in campus organizations, the Phi Gams placed fifth in intramurals and held the annual party for Lexington orphans.

The social calendar provided Fiji's with the White Owl formal in December, the Fiji Island Party by the shores of Sidcalk Lake, and a variety of theme parties.

The Brothers Four, Phi Gams from the University of Washington, visited the chapter and gave a private performance after their concert in January.

Outstanding Professor Given Phi Tau Award

For the 44th year, Kappa Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau maintained their high scholastic standards—Kappa has never been on probation. Phi Tau continued to promote a better relationship between faculty and students by giving an "Outstanding Professor of the month" award to professors who have shown an interest in helping students as well as rendering outstanding service to the University.

Two formals topped the Phi Tau social season. Spaced between numerous theme parties at the house were the Fall Formal at Tates Creek Country Club and the Dream Girl Formal, held in the spring at Natural Bridge State Park.

Other traditional activities include the Phi Tau Greek weekend, the Parent's Day Banquet, Lambda Chi-Phi Tau Rope Pull and an intercollegiate football game with the Transylvania Phi Tau chapter.

A Phi Tau, Larry Westerfield, won the Outstanding Greek Man award and the Shidler award, given annually to the outstanding Phi Kappa Tau graduate in the nation. This is the second consecutive year that a Kappa chapter man has won the award.

Foremost in the future are plans for a new $200,000 Phi Tau house now under construction and due to be completed in the fall of 1964.

Phi Sigs Kidnap Sorority Housemothers

Highlighting the social activity at the Phi Sigma Kappa house this year was the annual Moonlight Girl Formal in the spring. Miss Jan Tanner was chosen as Moonlight Girl. Other activities included the annual Monte Carlo Party, the Fall Hayride, work on the Homecoming Display, and the Christmas Party.

This fall the Phi Sigs kidnapped the sorority housemothers and treated them to a dessert. They were then ransomed to their respective sororities.

The main contribution in the field of community service was a program of blood donation in cooperation with the University Hospital.

The Phi Sigs took an active part in intramural competition, this year saw them cop the softball championship.

Speed—in either extreme—provided the members of Pi Kappa Alpha with a winning weekend for the Little Kentucky Derby. Not only did the Pike's pedaled their way to first place in the bicycle race, but they managed to walk off with the Turtle Derby Trophy too. And, if this wasn't enough, Pike's second team won third place in LKD activities.

Pi Kappa Alpha received second place in the fraternity division of intramural football. Combining imagination and ingenuity, Pikes took second place in the homecoming house decorations.

In addition to supplying a number of honoraries and service groups with members and officers, Pike's enjoyed a variety of social activities including a weekend party for mothers and a Winter Wonderland Party. The Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl, crowned at their formal, is Kim Hale of Alpha Gamma Delta.

SAE's Present Rotating Football Trophy

Two-hundred thirty South Limestone will no longer be the home for Sigma Alpha Epsilon as the new chapter house on Rose Lane will be ready for the fall of 1964.

Fall was marked by the annual house party, Riviera Party, jam sessions, desserts, and a Christmas formal with the Kappa's. The SAE's journeyed to Rough River State Park at Hardingsburg for the Spring Formal.

Carrying out part of their community service project, the men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon helped out at the Lexington Boy's Ranch. The brothers worked each Saturday painting, playing ball, and taking the boys to the movies.

SAE's turned in another good year at the intramural office by taking the handball, golf mixed doubles, and golf doubles trophy. High scores in wrestling, Turkey run, and events of individual participation helped too.

This year Sigma Alpha Epsilon gave a trophy at the homecoming game to the outstanding player, with a rotating trophy to stay in Wildcat Manor.

Sigma Chi's Derby Provides Fun for Pledges

Whipped cream, whipped pledges—all these are as much a part of the Sigma Chi Derby as the Sigma Chi's themselves. Amid spills and thrills, the pledges of Delta Delta Delta captured first place in the Derby, and Kappa Alpha Theta pledge Pam Robinson was crowned Derby Queen.

Bunnies and golden keys galore contributed to the merriment of the annual Playboy Party. A spring round of jam sessions, cabin parties, and desserts was climaxed with the Sweetheart Formal and the presentation of the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, Janet Spence, a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Sigma Nu's to Move to New House Next Fall

"Freshmen Women Register Here," beckons the sign each and every fall in front of the old and familiar looking fraternity house at the corner of Euclid and Harrison.

But come next fall both the sign and the Sigma Nu house will be a thing of the past, for the new Sigma Nu house will be located on Rose Lane and will be ready for occupancy in September.

Although the Sigma Nu's will sorely miss their women's registration booth, they will have plenty to entertain them socially as they have had this year with rush functions, jam sessions, Christmas parties, and the traditional White Rose Formal.

The Sigma Nu's, with a goat for a mascot, find themselves being pushed around quite a bit, as the goat usually gets his way.

Sigma Nu's take paint and brush in hand to prepare for homecoming and a flashy display.

Sig Eps Hold Socials Behind Big Red Door

Behind the Red Door, Sig Eps scored with an impressive social calendar. The Playboy Party was again a success; bunnies were in style. Other theme parties included an unusual "Regression Party" and an "Off-Beat" Party.

Sig Ep rushees were entertained at a swimming party at the Campbell House and a hayride. Desserts and serenades rounded out the social calendar which was capped by the annual Queen of Hearts Ball, this year held at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Outside the Red Door, members participated in civic organizations and boasted memberships in several honoraries. Enthusiasm again ran high in intramurals with noteworthy accomplishments in basketball and in the Push Cart Derby.

Triangle Captures Push Cart Trophy

Capturing first place in the Push Cart Derby was only the beginning of a winning streak for the men of Triangle Fraternity as they went on to take second place in the All Campus Sing.

The Triangles literally walked their way into first, third, fourth, and fifth place in the ATO Fifty Mile Hike last spring.

Fall brought the welcoming of the new housemother, Mrs. DuBois, along with the usual array of rush functions including a hootenanny and such themes as "Lil Abner," "Halloween," and a "Ski Lodge" party.

Teke's Look Forward to Rose Lane House

Reactivated in the spring of 1962, Gamma Sigma chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon is now looking forward to a new house to be ready by next fall.

The new Teke House which will be located on Rose Lane, will provide the expanded facilities the rapidly growing fraternity requires, and will sleep forty-eight men.

Besides such bright spots as the Bundle, Bum Toga and Pirate parties, the Tekes held jam sessions, open houses, and smokers throughout the year. In addition, they highlighted their cultural activities by inaugurating a series of dinner lectures to which University professors were invited.

While Tau Kappa Epsilon has grown nationally to become America's largest fraternity with 305 active chapters, Gamma Sigma has laid long range plans for its steady and rapid growth at UK.

New pledges are welcomed into the brotherhood.

1963 Wildcats Face Formidable Opposition

1963 was previewed to be the "year of the quarterback" and Kentucky's opposition certainly proved this to be true. Larry Rakestraw of Georgia, Miami's George Mira, and Baylor's Don Trull all received mention as All-American on one or more teams.

UK also made its bid for a top quarterback as Rick Norton made fans think back to the days of Babe Parilli. Though this was definitely a year for quarterbacks, Wildcat tackle, Herschel Turner was selected as an All-American by a group of professional football scouts.

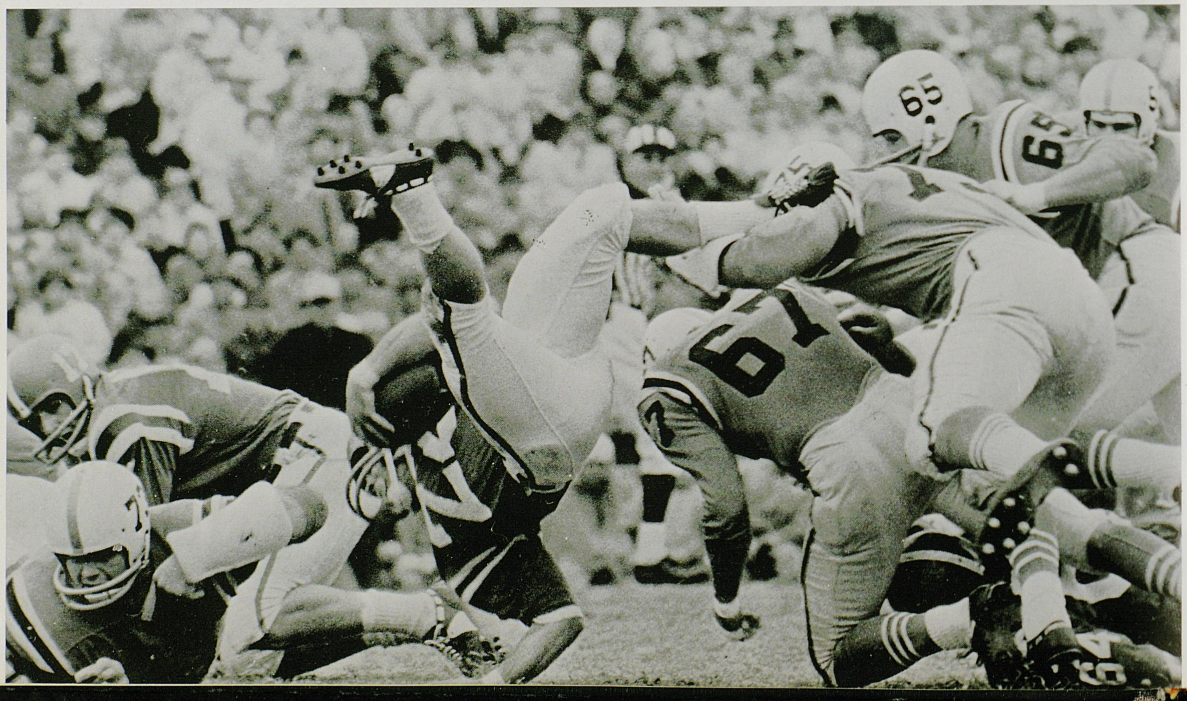
Kentucky's opening game started off with a bang, as sophomore halfback Rodger Bird raced 92 yards to score on the kickoff. This gave a valid indication as to the game's result, as the Cats dominated play in the second half to take a 33-14 win. The victory over Virginia Tech was the Wildcat's first opening game win since 1958.

Bird put on an offensive show that was too much for the Gobblers, as he totaled 157 yards in 19 carries.

After the resounding opening-game victory over VPI, Lexington was invaded by the Rebels of the University of Mississippi. The 24-0 lead at halftime by the Rebels was too much for the Wildcats to overcome, but the UK defense limited the offensive-minded Mississippi to only seven points in the second half.

The only Wildcat score of the game came late in the final quarter when fullback Ken Bocard intercepted an Ole Miss pass and sprinted 22 yards for a touchdown.

Darrell Cox is spilled by a group of volunteers in the game that took the beer barrel from Kentucky.



The Cats took to the road for the first time of the season and encountered what was to be the first of several near-misses. Kentucky outplayed Auburn in almost every respect, but the Tigers wound up on the long end of the score, 14-13. Although Auburn's offense penetrated the Kentucky defense almost at will during the first half, the Wildcats' play during the second thirty minutes was almost flawless.

Bouncing back into the victory column, Kentucky's Rick Norton and Bob Kosid teamed to give the Wildcats a 35-18 win over Detroit. Norton completed 8 passes for 171 yards, while Kosid accounted for 112 yards on the ground. One of the highlights of the game was an 82-yard run by Kosid, his first of two touchdowns. With victory assured, the Cats let up, and Detroit scored two last-half touchdowns.

The 28-7 score in UK's defeat at the hands of Louisiana State University did not accurately reflect the closeness of the fight. Until the final period, the Wildcats were definitely in contention, but LSU iced the game by scoring 14 points in the final quarter.

A bright spot found quarterback Rick Norton completing 13 of 24 passes, for a total of 165 yards. The difference of the game was LSU's potent defense—it held UK to only 18 yards on the ground.

Homecoming was played before 30,000 short-sleeved spectators, and their fever pitch was accurately reflected in the weather. UK's 17-14 loss could have easily been turned into a win, as Darrell Cox returned the second half kickoff for a touchdown, only to have the ball returned to the 42 where he had stepped out of bounds. The outcome of the game was in doubt until the final seconds, as the Wildcats penetrated to the Georgia goal line with less than three minutes remaining. The Bulldog defense held tight, however, and UK could not score.

Cats Come Back to Upset Baylor

"The upset of the year" was the way many people described Kentucky's 19-7 victory over the Baylor University. The Bears, a team that had held National Champion Texas to a 7-0 win the week before could not muster an effective offense behind star quarterback Don Trull.

UK's Herschel Turner, turning in one of the finest games of his career, completely bottled up Trull, and in doing so, stopped Baylor's scoring punch.

In a game played the day after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, Tennessee regained the "Old Beer Barrel" with a 19-0 victory at Stoll Field. The Wildcats turned in a poor performance and gave the fans little to cheer about in a game that saw Tennessee's single wing offense rip time after time through Kentucky's line.

Miami's All-America quarterback, George Mira, proved to be the downfall of Kentucky as the Hurricanes emerged victorious in a game marred by four UK fumbles.

The Wildcats gave several indications of possible victory, but each time a combination of UK fumbles and George Mira's pin-point passing put a stop to any serious threat.

The final score of 20-14 indicates the closeness of the game in which halfbacks Darrell Cox and Rodger Bird each scored on long runs.

Although Kentucky and Vanderbilt battled to a 0-0 tie, nearly everyone agreed that the Commodores pushed the Wildcats all over the field.

The game was full of frustrations for both teams, but Kentucky found one point to cheer about as quarterback Rick Norton set a new SEC record with 61 consecutive passes attempted without an interception.

Once more, Kentucky's downfall was its failure to gain yardage on the ground. The Cats were limited to 38 yards rushing.

Freshman Team Has Perfect Record

The Kentucky freshman team, touted as one of the best in years, compiled a 4-0 record and kept intact the undefeated record of last year's team.

The offensive machine of this year's Kittens totaled 164 points, while the defense limited the opposition to only 14 points.

The highlight of the season was a 70-0 slaughter of the Tennessee Baby Vols. The other three games, though not quite so spectacular, ended in a 39-0 win over Cincinnati, a 27-0 romp over Xavier, and a 28-14 triumph over Vanderbilt.

The Kittens' offense led by Frank Antonini, Don Danko, and Larry Seiple.

This is one of the few times the Tennessee Frosh line stopped a Kitten back: UK won 70-0.

Coach Adolph Rupp and his four NCAA trophies.

Coach Rupp's Wildcats Surprise the Experts

Coach Rupp's lowly rated team at the beginning of the season surged ahead to win UK's 21st SEC crown and moved into competition for Kentucky's fifth NCAA championship.

For Kentucky, the 1963-64 season was not expected to be an overly good one. Most experts did not rate the UKats in the nation's top 20, and one national sports magazine said of Kentucky: a small team with a big schedule.

Kentucky's first ten games, all against non-SEC competition, proved the experts to be wrong. The Wildcats breezed past all ten opponents with ease, and rose to first in the national ratings after winning the Sugar Bowl Tournament. The classic's finale against Duke must rate as one of the greatest all-time performances by a UK team.

A typical scene at the Coliseum as the 'Cats warm up before a capacity crowd.

A disastrous road trip into the South, however, jolted Kentucky's "Century Express" as the Cats lost successive games to Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt. These losses dropped the Wildcats from their top-rated national position to the bottom of the SEC ladder.

The losses not only jolted Kentucky's pride and prestige, but also presented a formidable challenge to Rupp's team: no team in SEC history had lost its first two games and managed to come back to win the conference championship.

Yet, as Coach Rupp said, "The boys didn't roll over dead—they stayed in there pitching."

The team did quite a job in a brilliant comeback. Another UK Invitational Tournament championship trophy was added to Memorial Coliseum's collection.

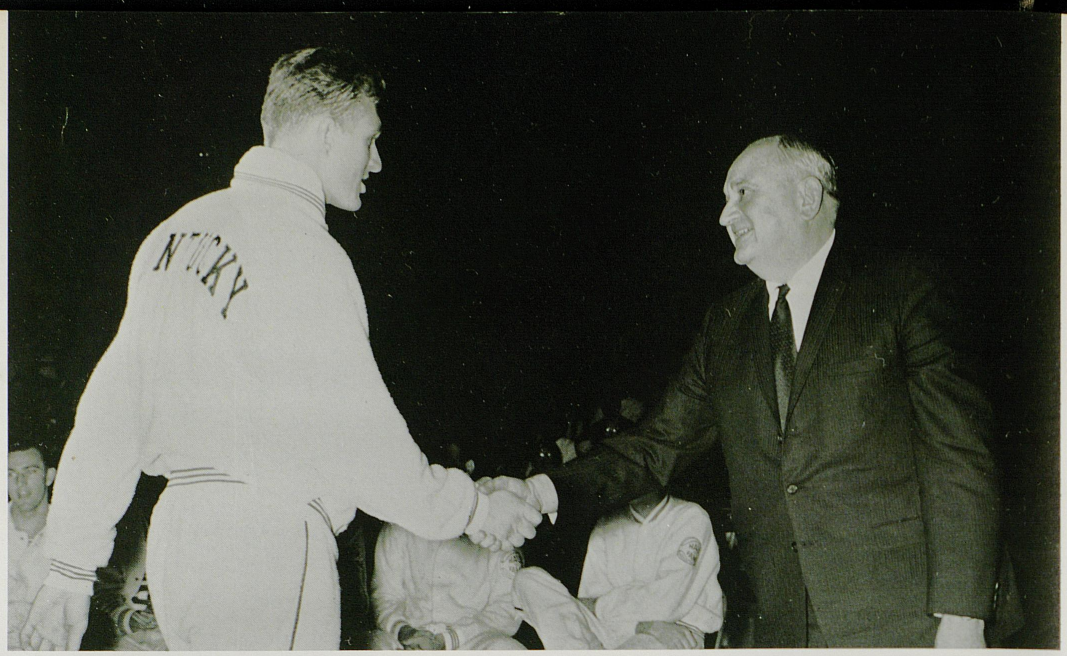
It's almost game time as the UK starting five are introduced.



Coach Rupp and All-American Cotton Nash exchange greetings at the ceremony honoring "Der Baron's" 700th victory.

A late-season loss to Alabama prolonged the inevitable, but the Wildcats clinched the SEC championship five days later against Tennessee at Knoxville. The Volunteers, beaten by nine points in an earlier contest at Lexington, tried ball-control tactics on the Wildcats, and held the "Century Express" to a 19-13 lead at the half. The slowdown tactics weren't quite enough to stop Kentucky's offense, though, as the Wildcats clinched the SEC title by way of a 42-38 victory.

The season's finale, a non-conference game with St. Louis, was a spectacle of signs, cheers, and ovations. A sign, proclaiming this as "The Age of Rupp," was cheered loudly, and even received a wave of acknowledgement from the Baron. The game marked the last game at Memorial Coliseum for Cotton Nash as a UK player. When his name was announced in the starting lineup, the All-American was given a standing ovation.

The Wildcats went to Minneapolis seeking a fifth NCAA championship, but were surprised by Ohio University in the first game of the Mid-East Regionals.

Kentucky Receives Its 21st SEC Championship

With Adolph Rupp's 21st SEC championship a certainty, the Wildcats were due for a let-down, and it came as St. Louis handed Kentucky its only home loss of the season, 67-60.

The regular season of 21-4 placed Kentucky second in national ratings, and the conference championship assured the team of another shot at the NCAA title.

Cotton Nash, voted by sportswriters as the nation's second best player, picked up a number of other honors, including selection on numerous All-America teams. Nash was again named SEC "Player of the Year," a duplicate of an award he won for the 1961-62 season.

Nash was also the first player picked to play for the East team, which automatically qualified him as a candidate for the U. S. Olympic team.

Although Nash was the team's standout, other Wildcats also basked in glory. Ted Deeken, co-captain along with Nash, was named to the All-SEC first team, as he averaged over twenty points per game.

Larry Conley earned national recognition as a sophomore for his brilliant playmaking and was called the team "sparkplug" by many.

Tom Kron, another of Rupp's "Katzenjammer Kids," became known as the "point man" of Kentucky's zone defense, the first ever used under Coach Rupp.

Although Coach Rupp called it a stratified transitional hyperbolic paraboloid, it was clearly a 1-3-1 zone, and was responsible for surprising several SEC opponents.

The ceremony catches Coach Rupp completely by surprise.

Calm Kittens Provide Wins for Early Fans

The '63-'64 UK freshman basketball team was also a fast-breaking and high scoring group of hustlers. Several of the freshmen's preliminary games broke the one hundred mark and kept the fans interested with sharp shooting and teamwork.

Coach Harry Lancaster's Kittens ended the season with a 13-3 record, suffering losses at the hands of Tennessee, Vanderbilt, and an independent team from Dayton, Ohio.

Standouts of the team were Louie Dampier, who averaged 26.7 points per game, and Pat Riley, with a 20.8 average. Several members of the Kitten team are expected to move up to the varsity next year, maybe providing another version of the "Katzenjammer Kids."

Wildcat Baseballers Post .500 Record in '63

As usual the absence of good weather hampered Coach Harry Lancaster's baseball team in early Spring, but they stayed with the weather for an 11-11 record in all games, and 8-10 standing in the SEC.

Cotton Nash, playing first base and pitching for the Cats, led the team with 18 runs batted in, while Ron Kennett following close behind came in with 17.

Rex Ratcliffe with a 2-0 and Cotton Nash with a 4-1 record led the pitching staff. The entire pitching crew accounted for 108 strikeouts and turned in a 4.85 ERA.

Tennessee was the first team to stop the Cats after a six-game beginning season winning streak as the Vols beat Ky 12-7 on their home diamond. Then the Cats had a turn of luck and lost eight straight before regaining form with 5-3 and 10-2 wins over Tennessee during a double header at home on April 20.

Kentucky had five men with 60 or more times at bat who compiled better than a .300 batting clip while Cotton Nash trailed with a .304, and Randy Embry following a close with a .303 record at the plate.

UK Track Men Break SEC Indoor Record

Lack of depth proved to be a serious handicap to Coach Bob Johson's talented cindermen last spring against such teams as Cincinnati, Hanover, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, and top competition from the midwest at the Ohio Relays. Jim Gallagher set a new freshman record of 1:53.3 for the 880 in the SEC championship, and John Knapp and Keith Locke took fourth places respectively in the varsity 880 and two-mile run. The mile relay team set a new school record of 3:19.4 in capturing fourth place.

A highlight of the indoor season was the standing ovation given the Wildcats by the fans at the Knights of Columbus Invitational in Boston when it was announced that they had traveled to the meet by automobile. The mile relay team turned in an excellent performance here in coming a close second to Villanova's world record holders.

At the SEC Indoor Championship held at Montgomery, Alabama, the mile relay team of John Cox, John Knapp, Bill Arthur, and Jim Gallagher set a new SEC indoor record of 3:25.9, five seconds faster than the old record. An indication of the talent on the squad was the invitation to several members to compete in the NCAA Eastern Championship held in Louisville.

The holding of the first edition of the Kentucky Relays and the SEC outdoor championship will no doubt increase the interest in track around the Central Kentucky area. The University has the best track facilities in the country and should be attracting the best competition.

Catfish Meet Tough Competition

Although Coach Algie Reese's swimmers still had difficulty in close matches, they came back to break into the winning column after a losing year.

Facing teams which awarded grants-in-aid again proved hard for UK's swimmers to overcome. With the return of a few experienced swimmers and diver Bob Karsner, the record was much more impressive in '63 with the help of some first year varsity swimmers. The '63-'64 season showed evidence of a better future with Steve Hellman's outstanding butterfly performance and the presence of a strong-looking freshman squad.

UK Rifle Squad Holds Winning Streak

With the help of two new coaches and the return of several of last year's top marksmen, the UK Rifle Squad started another good season.

Capt. Arnold and Sgt. Large, the two new coaches, kept the squad on their winning path as they came in 4th out of 21 teams at the Walsh Invitational Tournament at Xavier.

The varsity rifle team ended its season with the National Rifle Association match which was held at Murray State College on March 14-15.

UK Golf Team Has a New Look

Donnie Heilman and Juddy Knight led the '63 season golfers to a 12-5 record. The UK golf team tied for eighth in the SEC competition and came in 14th at the LSU Invitational held in Baton Rouge. Losing a few of the team members due to graduation, the UK Golf Team bounced back with some new faces.

Despite the slow start the team made in early Spring, the future looks good with the return of Jim Gracey, Don Rogers, and Harold Haskins. With the addition of a girl golfer to the '63-'64 varsity, and the help of a few new, strong drivers, Coach L. L. Martin's new look could prove to be interesting and successful with his young team that has only one senior.

Tennis Team Breaks Even

Falling short of the 13-4 performance of the previous season, the UK netmen were only able to break even last spring with a mark of 7-7. Although unable to defeat SEC teams in dual competition, the Wildcats finished eleventh in the conference tournament.

The Wildcats were paced by Woody McGraw and Roger Huston, who both won tournament matches, along with Mike Cox and John Hipsher. Among teams to fall to the Cats were Villa Madonna (twice), Berea, Morehead (twice), Mercer, and the Bluegrass Tennis Club.

The varsity experience, strengthened by freshman talent, gave the netters a bright outlook for next year.

Cross Country Meets Run on New Course

Falling short of their 9-1 record of last year, the UK harriers split their card with four wins against four defeats. Victories included a close meet with Eastern, the Wildcats edging the Maroons 26-29, and near perfect scores over Cumberland, Hanover, and Berea.

Leading the Wildcats with two first places each against strong competition were Keith Locke and Forno Caywood. Excellent performances were also turned in by John Knapp, Charles Webb, and Jim Gallagher.

A new cross-country course was established this fall at Blue Grass Park. The rough terrain of the new four-mile trail makes it considerably more difficult than the old Picadome course.

Hockey Team Undefeated

This year's women's hockey team, one of the most popular of the extramural sports offered to the UK women, continued its undefeated record against five opponents from Kentucky and Ohio. The schedule included victories over Transylvania, Berea, and Eastern, and tie games with Cincinnati 1-1 and Ursaline 3-3. UK scored a total of 15 goals to their opponents 4.

An integral part of campus life, the women's extramural program offers the opportunity to participate in athletic events with other schools in the surrounding area. Other sports offered are softball, tennis, and basketball.

PE Offers Course in Sports Medicine

The 1963-64 school year found Physical Education having its largest enrollment in the history of the University as over 2,200 students participated in PE courses.

The newest course in the department is Sports Medicine, and is the only course of its type offered in America. Taught by Dr. Ernest Jokl, the course delves into the medical aspect of athletics.

Dr. Don Cash Seaton, head of the Department of Physical Education, feels that sports is an important part of modern culture, and the increased enrollment indicates that more students are taking an active interest in physical fitness.

WAA Has Intramural, Extramural Program

Enjoyment of the physical activity, spirit, and companionship found in sports participation is emphasized by the Women's Athletic Association. Both intramural and extramural sports are a part of the organization's program. Softball, badminton, table tennis, archery, and swimming are among the intramural sports, while basketball and field hockey are among the extramural sports in which the members participate.

Intramurals give women of the various dorms, sororities, and town residences an opportunity to unite as a particular group in a fun situation. WAA awards trophies and gives individual recognition for exceptional talent and enthusiasm.

Government in WAA is achieved through a council of student executive officers elected by members of the organization. Each year, the retiring officers and the faculty advisor appoint the sports managers.

Residence Halls

Blazer House Council officers prove that even the busiest people have time to relax and enjoy others' company.

"Study Dorm" Active Too

For the second year, Blazer Hall opened its doors to upperclasswomen—in came Sophomores full of pep and trying to avoid the "slump," Juniors with the "settled-down" look, and Seniors, those who went into seclusion and those who were ready to give their last big year a fling.

Harmon, Julie Dee Halcomb, Jackie Eberhard, Joan Gene Kramer, Carole Hamm, Linda Leathers, Patty Jewell, Esther Hatchett.

Each occupant applied to be in the dorm and was carefully considered before being admitted. In return for such conveniences as carpeted halls, closed staircases, and air-conditioning, the girls had to give up radios and record players and radios in their rooms to enable maximum quietness.

Although the hall has been dubbed the "study dorm" and is the newest dorm on campus, it has begun to develop its identity and find its place on campus. Already Blazer has won trophies in the "Yell Like Hell" Contest, LKD, and Homecoming.

The shorter semester this year has left little time for dorm activity but Blazer managed to cram in coke parties, hootenannies, a Halloween party, Open House, the completion of a new hall library and record loan, a listening room and brand new stereo console, and many, many fire drills! After this year, the girls must part with their "quiet" neighbors from across the street, the Sigma Nu's, since the fraternity is moving residence.

Bowman Participates In Spring Sports

A new head resident, Mrs. Eleanor Smart, began the new year for girls in Bowman Hall. In December, Kinkead Hall entertained at a dessert for Bowman girls to start the Christmas season. A "Peanut Week", involving the giving of small gifts secretly, was held at this time. It was high-lighted by a devotional given by Father Moore of the Newman Club.

Bowman was represented in the Kentuckian Queen Contest, WRH Golf Tournament, intramural volleyball tournament, and Little Kentucky Derby.

Boyd Hall Has Fun-Filled Semesters

Fun and frolic filled Boyd Hall's social calendar this year. The women gave several open houses, and counted in their social life the usual parties to celebrate holidays.

Cooperation was exhibited as everyone pitched in to build the Homecoming display. The year ended with each person's having gained good experience in living with others.

Bradley Holds Open House

In spite of the limitation of having no lounge, one of the inconveniences of women living in a dormitory built for men, Bradley Hall was enjoyed by those women who made their residence there this year.

Activities within the hall included a speech by Dr. Gladden of the sociology department, and an open house just before the Christmas holidays. In the Spring semester, Kinkead Hall sponsored a dessert for Bradley with the music being provided by a group of Kinkead musicians.

BRADLEY HALL—Row One: Sue Shaw, Treasurer; Sandy Perry, Irene Lewis, Judy Mahaffey, Karen Roeser, Janice Turner. Row Two: D. Jewell Adds Social to Scholastic Life

Supplementing the rigorous studying of the semester, the women in Jewell Hall sponsored several social activities. After the Homecoming game, an open house for parents and friends was held.

The holidays were not neglected as parties for Halloween, Thanksgiving, and Christmas were included.

In keeping with the Christmas spirit, Breckinridge girls presented a play "A Child Is Born" at the annual Christmas party. In January a hair styling and make-up demonstration was given by a local salon.

Other activities include a vocational night in February and a "Before Mid-Term" jam session. Father Moore of the Newman Club was the main speaker at a program given in March. Culture was stressed in April with a ballet and modern dance program

Hamilton Economical

Through a cooperative program of sharing expenses and housework, the twenty-one women of Hamilton House manage to attend college more economically.

This year Hamilton House women participated in numerous activities and were members of campus honoraries.

Socially Hamilton House residents enjoyed the Snowball Formal, the Homecoming tea, the faculty tea, Parents' Day, a service project, picnics, desserts, and dinners.

Dillard Maintains 2.7

A semi-cooperative housing unit for girls of all classifications, Dillard House traditionally had been filled with home economics majors until recent years. This year there were 14 different majors among only 20 girls.

With more diversified interests, the girls have participated in many different activities, including LKD, intramural and extramural sports, livestock showmanship, and queen contests.

In addition to maintaining a 2.7 overall scholastic average, individual residents received campus honors.

Weldon House Has "Holly 'n Berry Week"

Weldon girls kept busy this year with their 1963 annual Senior dinner, Parents' Day, Halloween festivities, Snowball formal, and the Christmas celebration entitled "Holly 'n Berry Week".

Residents were active in campus organizations and honoraries, boasted an attendant in the Little Kentucky Derby Queen Contest and were named the winners in the "Yell-Like-Hell" independent division.

Holmes Has New Library

Women in Holmes this year were fortunate to have a new library in the hall which was begun to help students in reference work.

On the social side, Holmes House Council did a take-off on "The Night Before Christmas" which gave the residents a pleasant break from studying for finals.

In addition, the women sponsored a Mother-Daughter Weekend, open houses, and a tea for Mrs. Royal, head resident, and Miss Batchelder, assistant head resident.

Keeneland Honors Girls With 3.0

Keeneland Hall, largest women's residence hall, has experienced a prosperous year. The main emphasis of dormitory life was to promote scholarship. The newly organized scholarship committee honored those with a 3.0 standing or better at a banquet featuring guest speakers. A new library and an honor system are in the process of completion, and new recreation facilities have been installed this year.

A Mother-Daughter weekend, complete with a hootenanny, was held in the Fall, with guest speaker Dean Seward. The annual programs included a Thanksgiving worship service with Reverend Tom Fornash as speaker, and the Christmas service featuring Rev. Herren.

Patterson Starts Year With Hootenanny

Patterson Hall, oldest women's dormitory at the University, began the year by having a Hootenanny for the freshmen men.

Catching the competitive spirit, they entered the Homecoming display contest.

The Christmas season was high-lighted as the women had an old-fashioned party during which everyone sang carols while decorating the tree and exchanging gifts.

Looking forward to their sophomore year as the end of second semester approached, the Patterson women reflected upon the experience of living in a small freshman dormitory and the close ties formed among its residents.

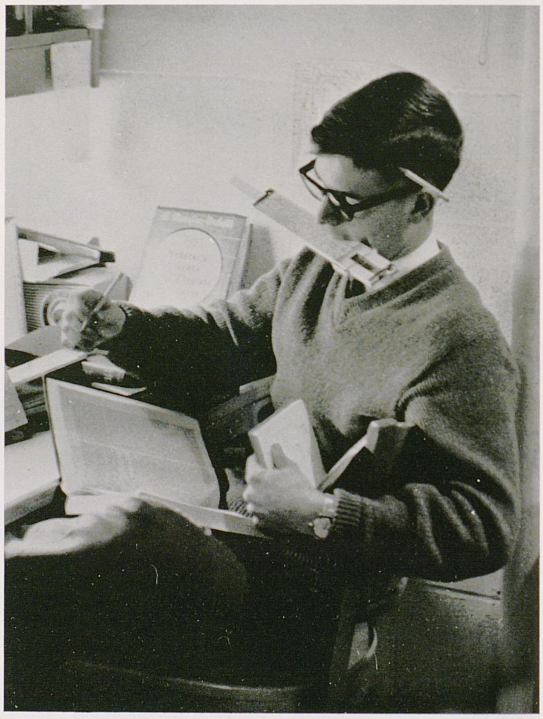
Haggin C-2 Active as a Group

Young men of Haggin Hall C-2 have been quite active as a group in dormitory and campus activities. They attended several home football games as a group. During the Fall open house, each room was opened and radios were turned to the same station to give a continuous musical effect for families and friends.

Very active in intramural athletics, these students lost their only football game in tournament play. In softball, they took the Men's Residence Halls Challenge Trophy.

Bill Bondurant, Ed Marshall, Charles Cox, and Tommy Durall find a game of cards a relief from books.



Students, like Barry Arnett, spend the hours studying that are necessary for the new semester system.

Occasionally one may find small groups of residents of the coetiquette quadrangle gathered in the courtyard for a moment of relaxation.

Leadership

Dr. John K. Oswald—UK president

Dr. Oswald Becomes Sixth UK President

Progress and quality are the immediate concern of Dr. John W. Oswald, sixth president of the University of Kentucky.

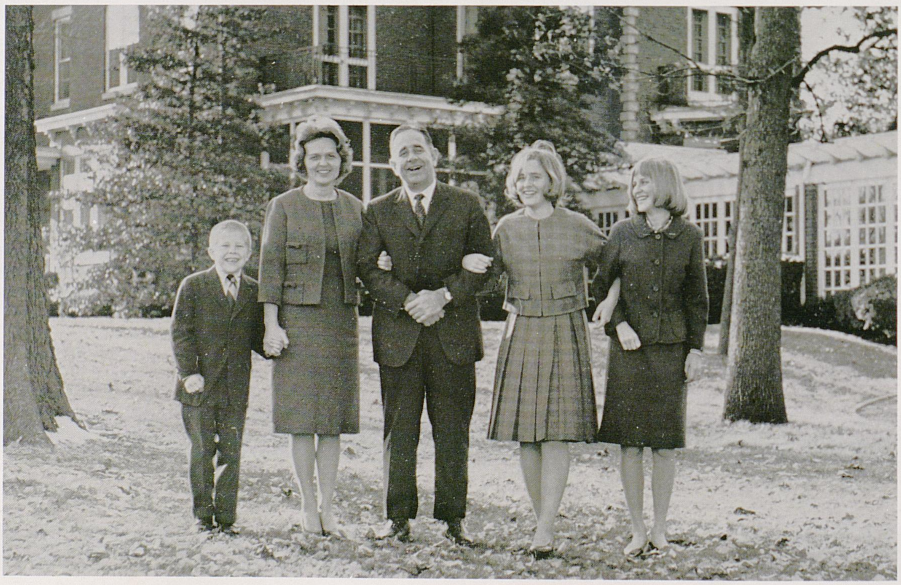
Chosen UK president last May after a nation-wide search for a successor to Dr. Frank G. Dickey, he has shown determination that both are to be by-products of the University.

A strong advocate of the community college system, increased salaries for faculty members and a rejuvenated research and graduate program, the energetic new president has shown unquestioned devotion to his new tasks.

Of no small importance to Oswald is the ever-increasing role of the individual student in the University program. Consequently he initiated a weekly "bull session" with the student body.

Few know the sacrifices of one carrying such a burden of responsibility. Long hours and a limited family life are the most noted of these. Yet to guide the University's academic destiny is his chosen task. If energy and determination are the prerequisites, success will be the result.

John, Mrs. Oswald, Dr. Oswald, Nancy, and Betsy



During the many receptions held for them, the Oswalds greeted all with a refreshing warmth of personality.

In meeting the President, students felt Dr. Oswald's personal concern and interest in their ideas and problems. Sue Ellen Grannis talks with him at one of the student sessions.

A father and a son—in spite of his busy days, Dr. Oswald still finds time to be with John. One may sometimes see them enjoying a game of football.

Dr. Donovan Stresses University's Growth

Integrity, drive, stubborness, administrative ability, courage, a sense of humor, personal warmth, and kindliness are only a few of the personal characteristics of the University's President Emeritus, Dr. Herman L. Donovan.

A UK graduate, Donovan left the presidency of Eastern Kentucky State College in 1941 to become the University's fourth Chief-executive. During his 15 years in office, Donovan guided the University through one of its most important transitional periods.

A greater and better UK was the creed to which he subscribed. His book, "Keeping the University Free and Growing," is a record of his administration and this belief.

Board Sets Policies

Financial and academic policies must be made and decided upon by the Board of Trustees. This year, being election year, brought a new Chairman, Governor Edward T. Breathitt. The official board is composed of the Governor of the Commonwealth, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the commissioners of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics; twelve members appointed by the governor; and two non-voting members of the faculty.

The board, which met four times during the year, was involved mostly with the orientation of a new building program, consisting of additional housing, a new commerce building, and an addition to the Taylor Education Building.

Dr. A. D. Albright

Albright Adds Second Year at University

Known as an idea man, Dr. A. D. Albright completed his second year as the University's Executive Vice President. His administrative competence was shown during his three-month stint as Acting President, preceding the arrival of Dr. John Oswald.

With wide experience in both teaching and administrative capacities, Albright has served as a visiting professor at the Universities of Utah and Tennessee as well as on the faculties of Yale University and Teacher's College of Connecticut. The Vice President has also served in numerous supervisory positions with the Tennessee State Department of Education. The University's academic affairs are Dr. Albright's main responsibilities.

Dr. R. D. Haun

Haun Appointed Financial Officer

Dr. Robert D. Haun was appointed interim business and financial officer in the fall of 1963. Before his appointment as financial officer, he was Senior Professor of Accounting with the responsibility for teaching in assigned courses and general supervision of lower division course instruction in accounting.

Dr. Haun is responsible for co-ordination of instruction in economics and commerce at the University centers.

Dean Seward Completes Sixth Year in Office

One of the best-known campus personalities, Dr. Doris M. Seward, is completing her sixth year here. Besides being responsible for all women students, Dean Seward acts as an advisor to AWS, and was instrumental in the initiation of senior women's late privileges last year.

Having served in the Dean of Women's office from 1939-41, she left the University to serve first on the Vassar College staff and then on Purdue University's. Dean Seward then returned here in 1957 to assume her present office.

Dean Martin Resigns Post Held Ten Years

The resignation of Dean L. L. Martin as Dean of Men ends ten years of service to the University in that post.

Dean Martin, a professor of education, spent three years as an Air Force Personnel Psychologist, and five years as a public school psychologist. A member of professional organizations, ODK, and several civic clubs, Dean Martin has many means of helping the men students. He is in contact with the students, through Inter-Fraternity Council, Student Congress, Leadership Conferences, and serves on a number of student activity committees.

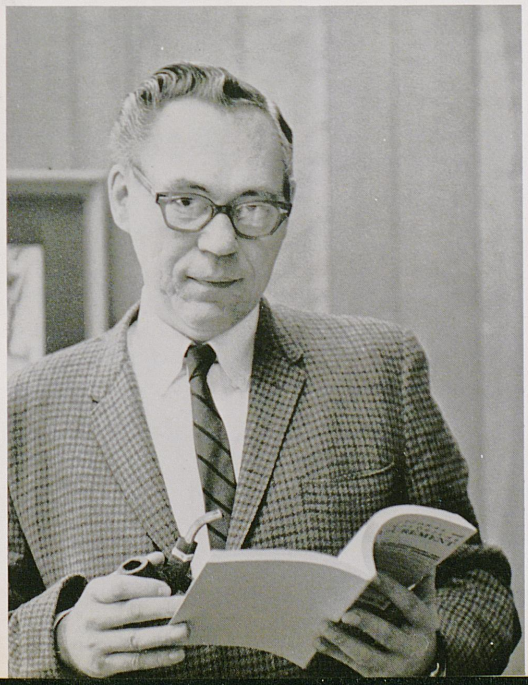
Dean Charles Elton



Dean Elton Guides Registration Program

Ironing out the growing University's registration problem has been Dean Charles Elton's main task. His initiation of the summer registration program for freshmen and seniors drew commendation for him. This, along with drawing up schedules and overseeing admission policies, are the affable dean's main responsibilities.

A former Director of the University of Mississippi's counseling center, Elton came to the University in 1956 as counseling director. He assumed his present position a year later.

College of Agriculture Rich in Research

Agriculture was one of the first subjects taught in the Agriculture and Mechanical College of Kentucky. Today with the completion of the new Agriculture Science and Research Center, students have greater opportunities to learn how to feed the nation more economically. The National Tobacco Research Center, which is located in the new Agriculture Center, offers federal funds for the research, development of the tobacco industry, which is under surveillance of the Surgeon General.

The UK College of Agriculture maintains an Experiment Station on South Lime which was struck by fire during the year but was not seriously damaged. This station provides the agriculture industry with the latest data in agriscience.

With the vastness of Coldstream, the many experimental farms, the new Research Center, the college of Agriculture offers the undergraduate and graduate a wide curriculum of study in the fields related to agriculture.

Practical experience is gained by students in a seamstress class in the department of Home Economics.

Council Promotes Student, Faculty Relationships

Serving to integrate the activities of organizations and clubs in its college, the Agriculture and Home Economics Council's primary objective is to foster cooperative relations between students and faculty.

Membership consists of the president of each agricultural and home economics organization and representatives from the freshman and sophomore classes. Each year the council sponsors student activities and a student-faculty awards banquet.

Agronomy Club Host to Exchange Day

Besides sponsoring the Soil Judging Team, Agronomy Club was host to the Illinois, Purdue, Southern Illinois, and Kentucky Exchange Day this year. The April event featured contests in judging soil.

Each year a $200 scholarship is given by the American Plant Food Council to the outstanding junior or senior Agronomy Club member. The club is composed of students interested in the study of agronomy. The sale of popcorn helps sponsor yearly activities.

Banquets, Smokers Held By Alpha Zeta

Alpha Zeta is a National Honorary Agriculture Fraternity whose membership is based on character, leadership, and a minimum 3.0 accumulative scholastic standing.

During the school year various activities are held. The Scovell chapter members are in charge of the ballot boxes in all agriculture campus elections. On the educational side, UK placement service representatives from various fields of Agriculture gave talks on preparing for interviews and securing jobs.

Block and Bridle Club Barbecues for Funds

Kentucky's Block and Bridle Club members have discovered that giving barbecues is not only fun, but an excellent way to raise money for their organization's functions. The proceeds have enabled the club to sponsor its annual Little International, a showmanship contest in which participants show swine, sheep, and beef cattle. The King and Queen of this year's show were Kenny Poston and Gretchen Meyers. Other Block and Bridle projects were a Quarter Horse Show, which is approved by the American Quarter Horse Association, and sponsorship of the livestock and meats judging teams.

Dairy Club Promotes Dairy Career Day

Any undergraduate or graduate agriculture student with an interest in dairying or its related fields is eligible for membership in Dairy Science Club. Monthly meetings, a dairy show in the fall, field trips, and Dairy Career Day in April keep the members busy throughout the year.

The Dairy Science Club brings students who are interested in dairying together, stimulates interest and brings a closer relationship between students and the men of the dairy industry.

4-H Sponsors Social, Educational Activities

Established in 1927 the University 4-H Club promotes friendship among its members and keeps former members informed concerning agriculture and home economics.

The Club sponsored several programs during the year. Speakers gave talks relating to the fields of agriculture and home economics. Films on 4-H work were shown by International Farm Youth Exchange and panel discussions were held. Each year the club presents plaques to Kentucky's Outstanding Boy and Girl during State 4-H week.

Home Ec Members Hold National Offices

This year members of the Home Economics Club can be especially proud of their club's record of activities and honors, for they were represented by officers at both the national and state levels. Last summer at the convention held in Kansas City, Judy Hopkins was elected National Secretary, and in November, Dianne McQuary was chosen for the office of State Second Vice President.

A sample of the many and varied activities the organization's 90 members enjoyed this past year includes a Jam Session, Christmas Bazaar, Initiation Banquet, Senior Breakfast, and fashion show.

Horticulture Club Has Full Calendar

Not all activities held by the Horticulture Club are related to the field of Horticulture. A barbecue for members, friends, faculty, and guests started off the school year. A Halloween Party and a picnic in the spring with the Horticulture staff kept things at a busy pace.

The annual Mum corsage sale added funds to the treasury and gave much practical experience to the members. Field trips, speakers, and movies at monthly meetings rounded out the year's activities.

NSID Designs Christmas Cards

Beginning a new project of designing Christmas cards, NSID used funds received from this to sponsor club activities. Field trips, speakers, and panel discussions were held at the meetings. The yearly award of a $300.00 scholarship was given to the student whose room plan was chosen the most outstanding.

To become eligible for membership, a student must be recommended and have completed three courses in the field of interior design or architecture.

Phi Upsilon Omicron Sponsors Convocation

Established at UK in 1922, the Iota Chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron is part of a national honorary professional home economics fraternity.

Annually it sponsors the Home Economics Convention which is for all majors and interested freshmen. The fraternity sets basic principles and ideals for the academic year and unites the faculty and students of the College. Phi Upsilon Omicron also furnished sets of slides promoting the profession of home economics and the School of Home Economics at UK.

Arts and Sciences Offices Moved

On September 15, the College of Arts and Sciences found a new home in the oldest building on campus—the home of James K. Patterson, first president of the University. It seems fitting that the oldest of the University colleges should have offices in one of the original campus buildings.

The college is by no means old in methods of education. Through the media of television, laboratory practice, classroom lecture, field study, and classroom participation, the college prepares the student for his contribution to society. Not all study is done in the regular term or in the classroom. Last year, for instance, saw the beginning of summer study courses in Europe. Installation of $465,000 nuclear accelerator, to be used by UK science departments, was completed and offered new fields in graduate work. Thus the College of Arts and Sciences develops to the needs of education.

Alpha Chi Sigma Sponsors Help Programs

Working to improve all phases of chemistry, to cultivate it as a profession, and to promote new ideas and ambitions in the field, Alpha Chi Sigma is a professional chemistry fraternity.

Besides the weekly help sessions it provides for all general chemistry students, Alpha Chi Sigma works on the safety program maintained in the chemistry labs.

The fraternity's rush program is held each semester with initiation during December and April. Banquets with guest speakers from professional Alpha Chi Sigma chapters are held twice yearly to honor new members.

Choristers Present Christmas Concert

An organization of 48 singers, both undergraduate and graduate students of the University, the University Choristers present many concerts during the school year. These included an annual Christmas concert. The Christmas concert this year was the 30th annual concert of this type given by the group. The Choristers also presented eight concerts in various cities of Kentucky, at high schools, community colleges, and in community concert series. The final spring concert on the campus was given with the University Orchestra and was devoted to contemporary music.

Eta Sigma Phi Promotes Interest in Classics

Promoting interest in the classics is the main purpose of Eta Sigma Phi. Membership is open to students who have a 3.0 standing in Latin or Greek.

An initiation banquet was held in the fall with a discussion led by Dr. Dill on "The Roman Personality." Scholarship medals were presented to graduating high school seniors who did outstanding work in Latin.

The society was represented by the president and vice president, Barbara Hart and Carolyn Cramer respectively, at the national convention held in Baltimore.

100 Performs at Games

The Marching Band is one of the only remaining all-male organizations of its type in the SEC. It performs at all home athletic events and takes one trip to an out of town football game. Also included under duties performed are presidential and gubernatorial inaugural parades, state festivals, and appearances at the Kentucky Derby. Auditions are held both in the spring and fall. A five day band camp is required of all participants one week before the opening of school.

Men's Glee Club Covers Wide Range of Music

In December, Men's Glee Club sang for Hanging of the Greens, the traditional ceremony which introduces the Christmas Season on campus. In addition, it made frequent appearances at banquets, club meetings on and off campus, and on request was available for out-of-town appearances. This spring members presented a concert in conjunction with the Women's Glee Club.

Men's Glee Club offers an opportunity for all interested men on campus to participate in a singing organization stressing vocal literature suitable to the male voice. An attempt is made to cover as many styles as is practical, from sacred music to musical comedy and including folk song and secular works of recognized masters of composition from all periods.

Society Requires Course in Speech

The Patterson Literary Society is one of the oldest organizations on campus. It was founded in 1886 and is named after the third President of the University, John W. Patterson.

The requirements for membership in the Society are an interest in speaking beyond the classroom, a course in speech at UK, and a speech given to the group.

The Patterson Society has twenty-one active members at the present time. Several outside activities are sponsored by the Patterson Society. The Kennedy Speaking Contest is held each fall and in the spring the group participated in the Crum Extemporaneous Speaking Contest, members only being eligible.

Association Acquaints Members With Field

Started in 1956 for students majoring in speech therapy and audiology, the University's Speech and Hearing Association acquaints its members with the professional field. Programs centered around all allied fields such as Cerebral Palsy, the perceptually handicapped, cleft palate, stuttering, deafness, and articulation disorders help fulfill this purpose. Social functions of the organization this year include a picnic and a Christmas party.

Tarr Award Presented

Each year the Tarr Award for the outstanding senior in earth science and an award to an outstanding underclassman are presented by Sigma Gamma Epsilon. The Society also helped the geology department in the expansion of the geology library by assisting in the shifting of books.

Sigma Gamma Epsilon, national earth science honorary was founded March 30, 1915, at the University of Kansas. The annual fall picnic for anyone associated with the fields of geology, mining, and metallurgical engineering gave everyone a chance to talk shop.

Symphonic Band Gives Concert Tour

Each year the UK Symphonic Band presents formal concerts, outdoor concerts, and radio broadcasts. In October, under the direction of Phillip Miller, it presented a Fall concert featuring the Gianini Symphony of contemporary wind literature selections. A performance for the KMEA convention in Bowling Green and a three day tour throughout western Kentucky rounded out the year for the band.

Chorus Presents Works of Purcell and Bach

The University Chorus gave two concerts this year in Memorial Hall. This fall they presented two sacred cantatas by Purcell. In April a concert comprised of Bach's music was performed in conjunction with the Symphonic Band. Members in the University Chorus are chosen during auditions in the fall.

Glee Club Sings for Community, Campus

Composed of 67 members from the various colleges on the University's campus, the Women's Glee Club has no elected officers, but is led by three appointed Section Leaders. This year's Section Leaders were Noel Thorpe, Patty Higgins, and Nancy Fitch. Under the direction of Sara Holroyd, the music group sang for various community functions and campus activities, such as the annual "Hanging of the Greens" program at Christmas.

Orchestra Performs for Statue's Unveiling

Several programs were scheduled by the University Orchestra this year. Among those was the performance given at the dedication ceremonies of the Alben Barkley statue in Frankfort. Membership in the Orchestra is based on tryouts at the beginning of each school year. After being chosen, members practice three and a half hours a week. Second semester brought a change in these workouts as Abraham Mishkind replaced Kenneth Wright as conductor of the Orchestra.

School of Journalism Includes Publications

In addition to the regular curriculum leading to professional degree in Journalism, the activities of students in the School of Journalism include editing and publishing the two major student publications, the Kernel and the Kentuckian. The Kentuckian is now in its 66th year and the Kernel has been published continuously for 55 years, a total of 121 years of student publishing.

However, 1964 marked the end of a long association of the two publications with the School of Journalism. Beginning next fall the publications will be placed under a Board of Student Publications for supervision and direction.

The Journalism Building also houses the Division of Printing, from which all formal publications of the University are issued.

Theta Sigma Phi Awards Woman in Journalism

During the Fall semester this year, Theta Sigma Phi sponsored a Christmas party for the journalism students and faculty members and aided with the high school press clinic. In the Spring, members participated in the annual Matrix banquet. Theta Sigma Phi presented its annual award to the outstanding woman in journalism at Stars in the Night.

Theta Sigma Phi, oldest journalism fraternity in the country, selected members on the basis of scholastic achievement, intent to pursue journalistic careers, and the approval by the active chapter and head of the department.

SDX Members Attend National Convention

Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, endeavors to maintain the high ethical and technical standards of the journalism profession. The undergraduate chapter selects its members on the basis of scholarship and the intention to become professional journalists.

The society aids with the annual high school press clinic, and sponsors a high school newspaper contest, with awards for the top six entries.

This year the society sent four members and the chapter advisor to the National Sigma Delta Chi convention held in November, at Norfolk, Virginia.

Staff Publishes 66th Kentuckian

The 1964 Kentuckian is the 66th publication of this book. It presents a record of the many events which occurred this year, both on and off campus.

Work began in the Spring of 1963, in an effort to maintain the high standards of the 1963 and 1962 Kentuckians which were awarded the highest rating of the National School Yearbook Association. The staff united to merit again the First Class Honor Rating from the Associated Collegiate Press, awarded to the 1963 yearbook.

For the first time, the introductory section, increased to 26 pages of full color, was prepared and sent to the publisher before school opened.

Faced with a shorter semester, the staff found that the first deadline coincided with finals and felt the pressure of studying while preparing 144 pages for printing. The Kentuckian Queen Contest, held November 1, provided a welcome break in the staff's routine. The next two deadlines followed closely, with the second falling the week after students returned to campus from Christmas vacation.

With the final deadline met, this year's staff will have completed its work. The finished book will be on the way to the students as the 1965 staff begins to work on the Centennial edition of the Kentuckian.

Kernel Named One of Best Papers in Nation

The Kentucky Kernel, once again recognized as one of the nation's outstanding college dailies, added to its reputation by providing in-depth coverage of the Student Congress elections, the Governor's budget, and the President's assassination.

The Kernel also published a four-day series on the Eastern Kentucky depressed area. The series, completely researched and written by Kernel staff members, was just another example of the Kernel's attempt to provide complete news coverage for all UK students.

Forced to meet a 6 o'clock press deadline, newspaper staff members worked like their counterparts in the professional ranks reporting, writing stories, and editing copy with speed and efficiency. Important national and international news stories sent students to the teletype machine watching for a late bulletin. Book reviews, sports features, and society columns added to the reader interest of the 10,000 circulation daily.

New Commerce Building to Open Next Fall

Thoughts of moving away from the main flow of campus traffic were prevalent among the faculty and students of White Hall this year. Construction of the long awaited $1,600,000 Commerce Building which is to be added to the face of the ever-changing campus is expected to be completed this summer.

With the new building, there will be a new dean of the college as Dr. Cecil C. Carpenter is retiring to the teaching profession after having served as dean for 16 years. During Dean Carpenter's tenure of office, the college has grown to an enrollment of nearly 1,000 students and has done much in aiding students to obtain a position in the business world through the placement service.

AMA Informs Members of Future in Field

Dedicated to the advancement of science in marketing, merchandising, advertising, and marketing research, the University's chapter of American Marketing Association received its charter in April of 1960. Objectives of the collegiate organization are to keep its members informed on: the uses of marketing research data; basic sources of marketing information; new development in sales, advertising, and research; and current job openings.

The campus chapter places great emphasis upon informing its members of the careers available in marketing through contacts at meetings, conferences, tours, and other related programs.

Beta Alpha Psi Honors Accounting Students

Founded at the University of Illinois in 1919, Beta Alpha Psi is a national accounting fraternity. The local chapter, Alpha Mu, was established in 1952.

Beta Alpha Psi limits its membership to outstanding underclassmen in accounting. The organization is dedicated to the promotion of accountancy, and to the development of high moral, scholastic, and professional attainment among its members.

This past year, the fraternity's activities included regular meetings, banquets, and field trips.

College of Education Uses TV Instruction

"Television in the Classroom" proved to be the talk of the College of Education all year long. With the facilities for working with this new method of teaching and the new addition of the Taylor Education Building, the college was more able to answer the ever increasing demand for more school teachers and guidance counselors.

An opportunity to learn accepted and desirable methods of teaching and to develop skills in teaching is the main goal of the college. Through a prescribed undergraduate curriculum and an opportunity to observe teaching in nearby schools, the College of Education prepares the student for a rewarding career in the area of education.

Honor Society Upholds Education Standards

Dating back to 1911 and the old Illinois Education Club, Kappa Delta Pi is an education honor society. Since that time the organization has grown into a national society with 256 chapters in 46 states.

Kappa Delta Pi's purpose is to encourage high professional, intellectual, and personal standards and to recognize outstanding contributions to education. To this end, the organization invites to membership such persons who exhibit commendable personal qualities, worthy educational ideals, and sound scholarship.

During the year, Alpha Gamma Chapter held initiation banquet, participated in the Third Annual Professional Education Dinner, held in November, and co-sponsored a coffee during the Annual Meeting of the Kentucky Association of Colleges, Secondary, and Elementary Schools. Current membership is over 150 students, teachers and professional educators in area.

KSEA Participates in Education Week

Membership of the Kentucky Student Education Association is composed of university students planning to make teaching their profession.

KSEA provides opportunities for personal and professional growth, development of leadership skills, understanding of the history, ethics and programs of education groups at state and national levels.

During the past year, the club held a monthly meeting with a speaker and co-sponsored a Coke party for new students in education. The association also participated in American Education Week Activities, and attended the KSEA state convention and workshops.

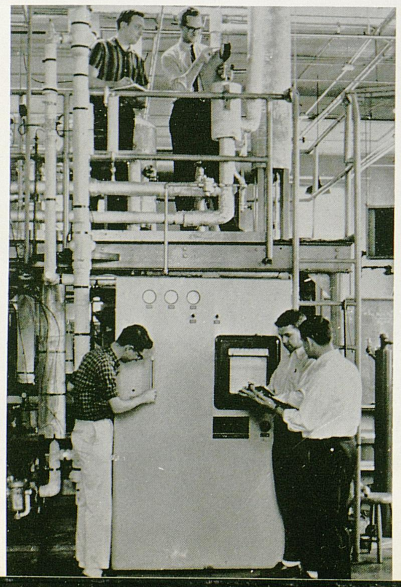
Engineering Addition to Be Seven Stories

Soon to tower out of the heart of the UK campus will be a new landmark—the seven-story addition to the College of Engineering. It will be built where old Anderson Hall now stands.

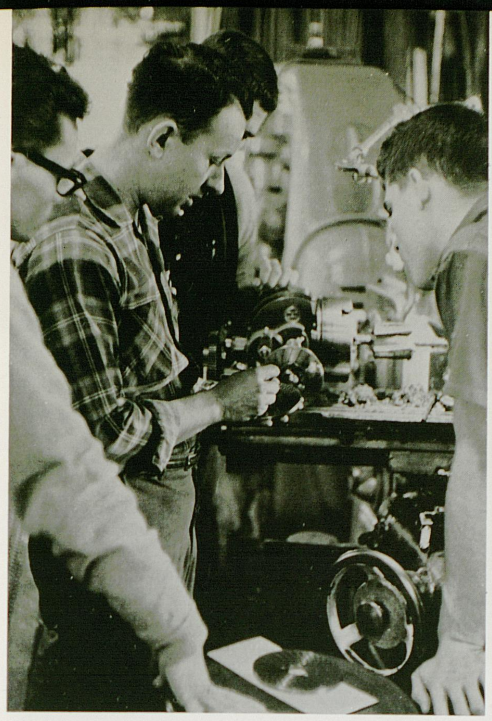
Utilizing the state's resources through organized research and consultation with industry while providing an engineering education is the main objective of the College of Engineering. Many hours of laboratory work helps the engineering student to become highly competent in his work. The student is also encouraged to broaden his field of learning through the humanities and physical sciences. Eight departments in the College enable students to study in any of a variety of fields.

Computers are becoming increasingly more important to the agricultural engineer.

Supervised lab work plays a large part in the chemical engineer's schooling.



Electrical engineers adjust a rheostat to the needs of their experiment.



Students in Mechanical Engineering spend much of their time in laboratory study.

Mining Engineers gain practical experience from a field trip.

Norwood Society Holds Spring Picnic

Prof. Norwood, head of the Mining and Metallurgical Department at UK in the early twenties, is the founder of the local organization. The club is for students interested in the field of mining and metallurgy. Guest speakers present topics of latest development in the field at weekly meetings, and each spring a picnic is held. The Kentucky chapter is a member of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical, and Petroleum Engineers.

ASCE Assists With Doctorate Program

Daring to step forward in the field of advanced degrees, the Civil Engineering Department has initiated the planning and developmental facets of graduate study leading to the Doctor of Philosophy Degree in its Department. The members of the American Society of Civil Engineers at UK have participated in this program by inviting Dean Rowe of the Engineering School at Vanderbilt to be the guest speaker at one of their meetings. Dean Rowe has played a great part in initiating Doctorate Programs in Civil Engineering at many other universities. After his lecture, he held a question-and-answer period for the students.

Lectures on Scotland, structural design, and highway design, and films concerned with civil engineering were also sponsored by the ASCE chapter during the year.

Maintaining and promoting the status of Civil Engineering as an ideal profession is the dedicated purpose of Chi Epsilon honorary society. To be eligible for membership, a student is required to have a 2.8 grade point standing and a minimum of 75 credit hours.

One of the principal projects of Chi Epsilon each year is the sponsoring of an award to the outstanding Freshman Civil Engineering student. Other activities include luncheons to honor guests of the Engineering profession and the maintenance of an old test file for students.

Service, Scholarship Vital to Eta Kappa Nu

Eta Kappa Nu, the national electrical engineering honorary, has as its guide posts, the stimulation of high scholarship and service to its members in becoming better citizens.

Other purposes of this organization are to improve the standards of the profession, the courses of instruction, and the institutions where its chapters are established.

Eta Kappa Nu sponsors interdepartmental events, electrical exhibits for Engineering Day, counseling for underclassmen and other engineering activities.

ASME Assembly Holds Variety of Programs

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers exists to provide an open forum for the presentation of interesting and new aspects of mechanical engineering. A basic purpose of ASME is to raise the status of engineering as a vital profession in our society.

The College of Engineering at the University of Kentucky maintains a chartered student section of ASME, its purpose being to make the work of the national ASME available to students while giving them an opportunity to contribute useful research of their own. Student members may enter technical papers in sponsored regional and national competition for cash prizes and prestige.

All mechanical engineering students meet once a week in assembly where programs of interest are presented. Programs range from speeches on drilling for oil to a yearly appearance by the Lafayette High School girls chorus.

Engineer in 26th Year

Serving its twenty-fifth year as the official publication of the College of Engineering, the "Kentucky Engineer" furnishes information about the realm of Engineering.

The magazine is for engineering students, alumni, and faculty. It contains feature articles of a technical nature, recent engineering developments, and news of students and student organizations. It also contains information concerning alumni and their activities.

Each year several members of the staff attend the Engineering College Magazines Association convention held on a major college campus.

Pi Tau Sigma Honors Mechanical Engineers

Pi Tau Sigma, the national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, works to establish a closer bond between students, faculty, and professional engineers. Membership is based on the possession of qualities of leadership, personality, industry, dependability, and a scholastic standing in the top 35 percent of the class.

One of the most noteworthy accomplishments of the Kentucky Pi Lambda Chapter of Pi Tau Sigma is its invaluable assistance offered on Engineers Day each year. In addition, an up-to-date file is kept of current employers interested in securing mechanical engineers.

Tau Beta Pi Recognizes Outstanding Engineers

Established in 1902 to recognize those students who have excelled scholastically as undergraduates in engineering and to recognize alumni who have made outstanding accomplishments in the field, Tau Beta Pi initiates new members each semester and honors them with the annual banquet.

Recognizing the outstanding freshman in engineering by presenting him with an engraved slide rule, assisting during Engineer Day and helping engineering freshmen to apply for scholarships available to them, are the main activities of the chapter.

Law School Plans Include Modern Facilities

Part of the University's $22,817,000 building program which is underway is the construction of the new $1,100,000 Law Building. The L-shaped building will be located near Memorial Hall, with one wing running parallel to South Limestone Street. The building will have a specially designed 275-seat "Model courtroom." The building will provide for the first time facilities required for modern legal education.

The College of Law aims to provide the individual student with a foundation education of lasting quality. The college has served the Commonwealth by sending out many graduates who have become leaders in the profession.

SBA Initiates Legal Aid Society

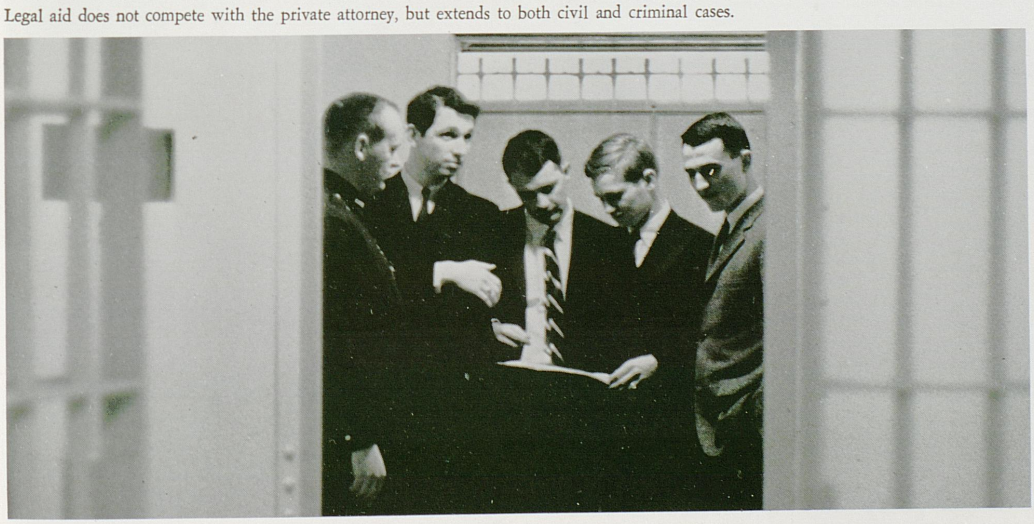
Allowing senior students to assist the members of the Fayette County Bar Association's legal aid committee, Legal Aid Society was launched by the UK Student Bar Association in October of 1963. Legal aid is the providing of legal services, such as advice, negotiation, or representation in court without charge, or at a nominal fee, for clients who are financially unable to consult or retain counsel.

W. L. Matthews, Jr., dean of UK's College of Law, said "this is an experimental program between the local bar and the law school, designed to give the students practical experience under regular practicing attorneys. It has gotten off to an excellent start." The plan also has drawn praise from local attorneys and judges.

Each of the 14 participating students was assigned as a general assistant to a member of the Fayette County Bar's committee to furnish him with research and preparation materials. The students also attended sessions of the Fayette County Probate and Quarterly Courts and the Lexington City Police Court. More than 50 other law schools have such a program.

A second activity initiated by the SBA was the Moot Court Board, consisting of select second and third year students, which administer the moot court competition within the College of Law. The SBA also started a Law Forum Series, which brought prominent speakers to the Campus; a placement brochure, which pictured and described members of the graduating class; a law school newspaper; and an awards program. These awards were presented on Law Day, a national event. The Law Day program included a nationally prominent speaker, the presentation of a prize trial, and a dance for visiting members of the bar.

Legal aid does not compete with the private attorney, but extends to both civil and criminal cases.



Nursing Offers Four Year Curriculum

Designed to prepare students for assuming responsibilities as competent professional nurses, the College of Nursing offers a four-year curriculum. Through a coordinated general and professional education, students are stimulated to apply general knowledge to specific nursing skills. They gain practice in community hospitals and health agencies. This curriculum is constantly being evaluated and revised to meet demands of increasing knowledge and changing health needs.

The first graduating class and underclassmen of the College of Nursing have been very active this year. Two students were flown to the Great Lakes Navy base for a tour of the base. This was to show the nurses the opportunities in this area. Dr. Faye Abdellah spoke to the students on research, and in March, Mrs. June Remillet, representing the master's program from the University of Florida, spoke on graduate education. In addition, students have been attending the regularly scheduled education programs with speakers and nurses' panels.

Nurses Active in Fund-Raising Projects

Taking advantage of the holidays, the Student Organization of the College of Nursing decorated the Med Center's student lounge and caroled in the University Hospital. Through the year the group worked hard on its fund raising projects by increasing the membership, selling donuts, Christmas cards and candy bars.

The Nursing Student Organization, whose membership is entirely voluntary, was formed in 1960 in order to give the students a recognized voice and more unity.

High Standards Sought By College of Pharmacy

Opportunity for service has ever been the chief attraction to Pharmacy. The spirit of practicing pharmacists is exemplified in the acts of the Good Samaritan. With the increase in our aging population, as well as our higher birthrate, these opportunities for service to their fellowman must inevitably continue. Most pharmacists enjoy a long useful life of service with consequent spiritual, mental and temporal satisfactions.

In view of all his professional relationships, a pharmacist needs to understand the social and economic environment in which he practices his profession.

The objective of the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy is to prepare its graduates to assume, with dignity and honor, the intellectual, legal, civic, and moral responsibilities of the profession of pharmacy. Every motivation and every act of the pharmacist must be in the interest of the public. Such dedication is not acquired through accident; it is the result of systematic inculcation of the highest ethical and moral standards throughout the entire curriculum of the College of Pharmacy.

Active Honorary Has Fraternity House

At its inception, membership of Phi Delta Chi was limited to students majoring in pharmacy and chemistry, but soon became restricted to pharmacy students.

Activities of the Alpha Beta chapter are professionally oriented and conducted in close harmony with the aims, goals, and ideals of the College of Pharmacy and the profession itself. At the College's special Honors Day dinner, the Fraternity presents three awards, one to its outstanding Senior student, one to the outstanding Senior woman, and one to the outstanding member of the entering class. At the Spring banquet honoring the newly elected officers, a meritorious pharmacist was received into the Chapter as an honorary member. A faculty reception for the entering class is also held in the Fall under its direction. Every year the Fraternity actively participates in the annual meeting of the Kentucky Pharmaceutical Association by presenting an award to the Chapter's outstanding alumnus of the year at the Grand Banquet. A further distinction of Phi Delta Chi is that of being in all probability, the first professional fraternity to maintain a house on UK's campus.

Research Important in Graduate School

Research is the key to the University Graduate School projects including physics, research on tobacco composition and diseases, soil elasticity and strength, biochemical study of mouth tissues, and the use of television as a teaching aid in dentistry. Graduate School offers over a thousand courses acceptable for graduate credit, twenty available doctorate degrees, and the assistance of the Kentucky Research Foundation for those interested in obtaining a higher degree.

The largest single grant, almost $200,000, given to a UK research team was made available to the Physics department from the National Science Foundation. Spindletop Research Center added a computer statistic center of Thoroughbred horses, and a photoelastic stress analysis service, which determines the proper structural shape of products, devices, and machines, to its facilities. University research projects represented a total investment of $6,107,505, the highest such amount in University history.

Labs, Television Used in Dental Program

Dedicated as the nation's 48th dental school in September, 1962, the University College of Dentistry deviates from the traditional curriculum. The College exposes the student to clinical experiences as well as basic sciences throughout the four years.

The students are exposed to an image of Dentistry as a preventive measure, rather than viewing it as a corrective measure only. This is the only College of Dentistry in the United States to have a Department of Community Dentistry. It cooperates with organized dentists of Kentucky, participates in the teaching of students, and conducts studies on the dental problems of Kentucky.

Individual clinical cubicles contain completed dental units, unlike the usual clinical situation which affords little privacy for the patients. Every patient admitted to the University Hospital will receive an oral examination as part of his admissions procedure.

The first two classes of Dentistry have a total enrollment of 62 students. The Dental Science Building contains research labs, closed circuit television facilities, general and specialized facilities for treatment of dental patients, and research space.

Med School Records Highest Enrollment

The College of Medicine, accepting its first students in September 1960, has grown from an enrollment of 40 students to a total of 229 students in the four classes. This year's Senior class will be the first to graduate.

The structure of the Medical Center is so designed that each academic department of the College of Medicine is on the same floor as its clinical counterpart in the University Hospital, which was opened in April 1962. Teaching areas were designed and built to facilitate the close student-faculty relationship essential to quality education. Most laboratories in the Medical Center are designed for only 16 students, and in several courses professors will move from laboratory to laboratory instead of students having to move from every lab class.

Training is offered to interns and residents through the University Hospital. Educational programs in ancillary medical fields, such as X-ray technology, dental hygiene, and physical therapy will be offered after the basic programs are fully operational. Partnership with all individuals, groups, and agencies interested in the health of Kentuckians is a major aim and function of the Medical Center.

AED Sponsors National Convention

Alpha Epsilon Delta is an international pre-medical honorary. Recognizing scholastic excellence in pre-medical students, stimulating interest in pre-medical education, providing contact between medical educators and students, and giving a common bond to pre-medical students are the goals of the organization.

To achieve these ends, the Kentucky Beta Chapter uses a program including educational medical movies, tours of different facilities at the U.K. Medical Center, and speakers on opportunities in medicine.

This year, the Chapter was host to the Region II Fifteenth National Convention. Representatives from chapters in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Michigan, West Virginia, and Kentucky attended.

Society Aids Pre-Med Students

To stimulate interest among students in choosing or planning a career in medicine, Pryor Pre-Med Society assists all pre-med students academically and socially, and serves as a medium through which association can be made with leaders in the multi-faceted aspects of medicine.

The group observes on field trips to local hospitals and health institutions during the year. In addition, well-known physicians and specialists speak to the society on various aspects of medicine at the monthly meetings.

AWS Plans Convention

The biggest job of the Associated Women Students this year was the planning of the Third Regional Convention of AWS held at UK during spring vacation. Committees were assigned to organize every phase of the program.

AWS was also busy with its traditional projects. The High School Leadership Weekend was held in the Fall to interest and inform prospective women students at UK. Stars in the Night was held in March to tap new members of the women's honor societies, and to present awards and scholarships. A favorite AWS project with all UK students is the Penny-a-Minute Night which was held twice this year. Residents in the University living units were able to stay out until 2:00 a.m. by paying a penny for each minute after 1:00 a.m.

WRHC Cheers Patients

Women's Residence Hall Council sponsored a new project this year at Christmas. They made all sorts of interesting tray favors for the patients at the Medical Center Hospital to brighten up their holidays.

The Council also continued to sponsor films and lectures concerned with topics of current interest for the members of the women's residence halls.

Assembly Awards Outstanding Player

A new tradition was initiated this Fall by the Men's Residence Halls under the direction of the Central Assembly. A trophy was presented to the outstanding freshman football player in the freshman Kentucky vs. Tennessee game. This year Frank Antonini was the recipient.

Other activities organized by the Central Assembly included a pep rally held in conjunction with the Homecoming festivities, and a dance during LKD, with all the proceeds going to the LKD scholarship fund.

The Assembly's main functions are to improve the exsiting living conditions in the residence halls and to aid in the governing of the student life in the dormitories.

Donovan Investigates Study Facilities

Besides acting as the governing body of the residence unit, the Donovan Hall Assembly has taken on the added responsibility of investigating study facilities in order to improve the study habits of its freshman men. It also stresses to its members the importance of entering into campus activities.

This year the Assembly's officers were able to boast with pride of the fact that they had finalist candidates in both the Homecoming Queen Contest and the Kentuckian Queen Contest.

The Haggin Hall Assembly chose Vivian Shipley to represent its residence unit in the Homecoming Queen contest. Out of all the nominees running in an all-campus election, Vivian was elected Queen by popular vote.

One of the numerous social activities sponsored by the Assembly was an all-campus dance given in December in the Student Center Ballroom with music provided by the Epics.

Kinkead Holds Desserts With Women's Dorms

The Kinkead Assembly provides an organized body of government for those students living in the dorm. In addition to this, it organizes a social program for Kinkead's residents. The social events the Assembly initiated this year include a series of desserts with the women's residence halls in the quadrangle, an open house and jam session. They also nominated candidates for Kentuckian Queen and Homecoming Queen.

Congress Meets Student Needs

In fulfilling its duties to the students at UK, Student Congress took full advantage of its elected leaders who led planning of projects of interest to everyone. During final week, SC has also been busy revising the constitution under the leadership of Richard Ford.

The Washington Seminar, a program under which UK students are able to work in Washington for the summer, is planned by Student Congress. SC has also helped the University administration in planning the Centennial program for next year, and its Harper Lecture Series was planned to coincide with President Oswald's inauguration in April.

Planning for the future, Student Congress has tried to improve the annual Leadership Conference by broadening its scope. Representatives from the various university Centers will be invited next year.

Student Congress is the medium through which students are able to express their problems and needs. Congress is composed of fifty representatives apportioned on the basis of enrollment in the various Colleges. The active interest and participation of SC activities benefits all students at the University.

Student Center Board Hosts Kingston Trio

The Student Center Board plans and directs the programs and activities that take place in the Student Center. In order to make more effective use of the expanded facilities of the new Center, the Board recently revised its constitution and split into two boards of six members each. The Senior Board is a policy-making and evaluative group, while the Junior Board has direct supervision of the cultural, social, and recreational programs.

The highlight of this year's program came on October 4, when the Board presented the Kingston Trio in concert at Memorial Coliseum. The profits from this concern provided scholarships for University students.

Among the new programs sponsored by the Board were the weekly art and trade movie series; Horizons '64, informal discussions aimed at non-majors by professors from various departments; jam sessions in the Grille; and student art exhibits in the Center Gallery. In addition to the new programs, the Board continued to sponsor the Homecoming Dance, Hanging of the Greens, Golddigger's Ball, Turtle Derby, and intracollegiate tournaments in billiards, bridge, and ping-pong.

The Kingston Trio entertained a crowd of over 8,000 in Memorial Coliseum.

Council Stimulates Good Conditions

The Family Housing Council, comprised of full-time married students who live in Cooperstown, helps to provide a good atmosphere for the residents. Keeping living and study conditions on a high level is one of its major aims. Responsible for social and recreational activities, the Council is currently interested in providing extended sport facilities, study rooms in the living units, and better parking facilities.

Alpha Lambda Delta Honors Freshmen

Honoring high scholastic achievement in the freshman year, Alpha Lambda Delta is a national society for women. Freshman women who have achieved a 3.5 standing either for their first semester or an over-all of 3.5 for both their semesters are eligible for membership. Alpha Lambda Delta members welcomed freshmen to the dorms on opening day. Other fall activities included talks and skits in the freshman residence halls to promote high scholastic attainment; service at the polls during Student Congress elections and conduction of formal fall pledging and initiation services.

National President Visits Local Chapter

Highlighting the year's activities for Cwens was the Fall visit of their National President, Mrs. Carlton Sweeney. She reviewed the honorary's program carefully, and then presented helpful criticism to the Theta Chapter.

Cwens members participated in numerous events this year, as they ushered at Honors Day and at the Hanging of the Greens, aided in freshman orientation, and made posters encouraging the freshmen to study.

It was through the interest of a past Dean of Women, Sarah Holmes, that this national sophomore woman's honorary opened its University of Kentucky chapter in the fall of 1931. All freshman women with a grade standing of 3.0 and extracurricular activities are eligible.

Keys Honors Sophomore Fraternity Leaders

Recognizing outstanding qualities of leadership in fraternity men is the purpose of Keys sophomore men's leadership society. Its goals are the advancement of a spirit of cooperation among fraternities and contributions to the general welfare of the University. Members of Keys are selected on the basis of leadership and scholastic achievement. Six members from each fraternity is the maximum number permitted in the society.

Last year Keys sponsored The Four Preps concert to raise money for a scholarship fund for worthy sophomore men.

Honorary Recognizes Campus Leaders

Lamp and Cross is a senior men's honorary, organized to honor those men who have achieved recognition as campus leaders. Twenty men are selected annually on the basis of leadership, scholarship, character, and achievement.

The organization plans to present a picture of an old scene on the around the turn of the century to the Administration Building. It has been the group's annual project.

Lances Aids in Centennial Reception

Assisting President and Mrs. Oswald with the reception in honor of the members of the Centennial Class was the main activity of Lances, junior men's honorary.

Its membership is limited to twenty juniors, who are selected on the basis of scholarship and leadership. Lances had its beginning in 1903, it was then known as the "Mystic 13." This group was disbanned in 1928, and reorganized later as the Lances.

Homecoming Mum Sale Nets Scholarship Award

The junior women's honorary has instituted a new tradition at the University of Kentucky; mum corsages for Homecoming. This money-making project has been so successful that it has enabled the members to give a scholarship annually to a deserving junior girl.

Directing the Leadership Conference, giving a party for all sophomore girls with a 3.0 overall, and providing transportation from bus depots, airports, and train stations for all incoming freshmen were the other principal projects of Links.

These junior coeds were tapped for qualities of scholarship and leadership in campus activities. The honorary functions to provide a "link" between Cwens and Mortar Board.

Mortar Board Honors Juniors With 3.0

Staff and Crown Chapter of Mortar Board was founded in 1920 at the University as the 11th chapter of the only national honorary for senior women. In the fall semester, Mortar Board, in cooperation with Cwens, sells engagement calendars and assists the Dean of Women's Office with freshman orientation. Together with Omicron Delta Kappa members, Mortar Board aids the Alumni Association in the selection of the recipient of the Outstanding Professor Award.

In the Spring Mortar Board honors all junior women with a 3.0 or better overall standing with a "Smarty Party." The selected girls are then tapped into Mortar at the annual Stars of the Night program. Also at this program Mortar Board presents the Senior Service Award to senior women who have contributed significantly to the University and who have not been previously honored.

Phi Eta Sigma Fosters Scholastic Merit

To encourage incoming students to recognize scholastic achievement early in their college career is the main objective of Phi Eta Sigma national honorary fraternity for freshman men.

The University of Kentucky Chapter was established on December 5, 1946. This chapter functions as an honor society only and does not sponsor a program of sustained activities. The group does participate upon request in general community or university programs. The recognition of scholarship is its principal goal.

ODK Presents Awards Night

Omicron Delta Kappa sponsors Awards Night for Men in the spring semester in order to honor all those men who have distinguished themselves in academics and activities during the year. This program is an actual application of the honorary's own purposes, which are: to recognize men who have attained a hight standard of leadership in collegiate activities; to bring together the most representative men in all phases of college life; and to assemble members of the faculty and student body of the institution on a basis of mutual interest, understanding and helpfulness. Members of ODK are selected from those men who have high scholastic standings, leadership ability, and are active in campus activities.

Scabbard and Blade Co-sponsors Ball

Company D, 4th Regiment of the National Society of Scabbard and Blade was founded December 15, 1922, on the campus of the University of Kentucky. Scabbard and Blade is the Nation's highest ranking honorary military leadership society. To raise the standard of military education in American colleges and universities and to encourage and foster the essential qualities of good and efficient officers are the main ideals of the society.

Scabbard and Blade is the co-sponsor of the annual Military Ball and lends assistance to various other activities within the military department.

Sponsors Participate in Inaugural Parade

Serving as a coordinating body between ROTC cadets and other campus organizations, Air Force Sponsor Corps girls are nominated by the cadets, screened by a selective board, and then voted on a final time. Once chosen, Sponsors aid in the corps' social activities, act as official hostesses for AFROTC at UK, advance and promote interest in the AFROTC, and serve as a campus organization when called upon.

This year members were honored with an invitation to march in Governor Breathitt's Inaugural Parade. The Sponsors' other activities included participation in the Armed Forces Day Parade, the Military Ball, and serving as hostesses and official honor guard for the governor at the Kentucky Derby.

Pershing Rifles Active in Drills, Parades

Pershing Rifles is a military honorary fraternity which stresses proficiency in dismounted drill, and the development of leadership, character, and fraternity qualities.

Company C-1, part of the largest military fraternity in the world, has furnished color for all home football games. The group also marched in such parades as the governor's Inaugural Parade, Lexington Fire Prevention Parade, and the Daniel Boone Festival Parade. Company C-1 participated in the Xavier Invitational Drill Meet.

BSU Has Services, Social Functions

BSU is composed of many students who take advantage of a myriad of opportunities. The serious student attempts to deepen his spiritual life by attending the Vesper services which are held Monday through Thursday from 6:30 to 7:00. On the lighter side, frequent parties, open houses, and picnics are held. The incoming freshmen were welcomed at the Roaring Twenties Party. The international students were honored at a Halloween Party which showed the visitors an American tradition.

The freshmen were oriented into the BSU work at a retreat at Natural Bridge. In October many traveled to Georgetown for the State Baptist Student Convention. In November the Lexington churches and the BSU acted as hosts to the Kentucky Baptist Convention which featured a Youth Night in Memorial Coliseum. Prior to second semester, vital planning and essential challenging were accomplished at the Cedarmore retreat. Early March found the students at Morehead taking part in a state-wide conference. From time to time youth teams led services in various Kentucky churches.

Lutherans Serve Church

Serving as an official organization of its church, the purpose of the Lutheran Students Association is to equip the student as a Christian for ministry of the Laity in the world.

Activities center mainly around intellectual aspects, but these are supplemented with worship and recreation. Emphasis during the school year was academic rather than social. A spring social and guest lecturer along with the usual weekly meetings were part of the program. The annual student-faculty banquet held for the cultivation of student-faculty relationship was again a success.

Council Plans Retreat

Mass meetings were held by Interfaith Council to question local restaurants about integration. Also committees were formed to discuss points of interest such as the purpose of religious groups on campus, the role of church and state, and human relations. A retreat was planned for April to discuss the findings of the committees and to plan activities for next year.

A religious column, written by the Council, was an innovation in the Kernel this year. It contained all religious meetings for each week.

Reorganized on campus three years ago, the Interfaith Council is comprised of representatives from different campus religious organizations. The Council's main function is to coordinate activities among these groups.

Newman Club Holds Traditional Dance

Mardi Gras, the dance sponsored annually by the Newman Club, was held on Feb. 15 in the Student Center. Tracy Shillito, nominated by Alpha Xi Delta, and Dr. Frank Buck of the Animal Husbandry Department were elected queen and king by popular vote. The queen's attendants were Janie Olmstead, Becky Hudson, Dianne Berger, and Sandra Johnson.

The Newman Club is the organization of Catholic students at UK. The purpose of the Newman Movement is to make Christ incarnate on the secular campus. The club's programs are centered around this theme and can be divided into four categories: educational, recreational, social, and religious.

Tracy Shillito, Mardi Gras Queen, dances with Dr. Frank Buck, the favorite professor.

Members of the Newman Club who attended the Winter Formal at Runnymeade Farm, Paris, Ky., are Linda Swanson, Clare Jaquith, Roy Nelson, Rev. Elmer R. Moore, and Dick Fister.

Wesley Foundation has interesting informal panel discussions after Sunday evening dinner.

Wesley Foundation Welcomes Students

Although the Wesley Foundation is a Methodist student organization, it welcomes and gears its activities to the needs of all students. Throughout the year, the Foundation presented interesting programs such as the Forum Hour which is held weekly on Sundays. The students also had the opportunity to worship at the foundation, attend parties and picnics, and participate in athletics and community service projects. Summer, the members traveled to the Regional Conference at Lake Janaluska.

Westminster Sponsors Student Seminars

Westminster Fellowship is the Presbyterian Church in action among students at the University of Kentucky. A Lay Theological Seminar and a special Freshman Seminar provide structured study. For fellowship, students participate in monthly planned socials, informal open houses, and coffees. Retreats are planned to provide the opportunity for breaking completely away from school for a few hours. Students also participate in service projects which are designed to direct their attention beyond themselves. This may be a needy family that they help or a worship service regularly in some area of the Lexington community or a weekend at Kentucky or Ormsby Village.

Cosmopolitan Club Always "New"

This past year the club's activities included a square dance, a tour of the house farms, "Culture around the World," a presentation of customs from many countries, a camping trip, Indonesian Night, and the International Dinner-Exhibition Show.

Formed to provide a social outlet for a growing community of international students, Cosmopolitan Club gives American students and internationals a chance to meet each other and to learn a little about the different countries represented.

The club is one of the most dynamic groups on campus with many varied programs and activities which are suited to the present members.

Each year approximately half of its old members who return home or go on to other campuses are replaced by incoming students. This shifting membership keeps Cosmopolitan Club a "new" organization.

Marlins Give 14th Annual Show

Fifty girls participated in "Swimarama," the Marlins 14th annual show this year. Musical selections from popular motion pictures formed the background to the show. All routines, costumes, and scenery were done by the members, with some outside help from the men students of Troupers to give it that extra touch. Marlins also perform on special occasions at the Campbell House and present shows for local civic groups.

Blue Marlins is the women's synchronized swimming group on campus. Guppies, new members of the group, are chosen each year after fall tryouts and become Marlins after making their debut in the annual spring show. The new members are chosen on the basis of perfection and grace in swimming, and their ability to perform water ballet.

Cheerleaders Go to Sugar Bowl

Besides cheering the Cats on at the home games this year, the cheerleaders traveled to New Orleans mid winter Sugar Bowl Basketball Tournament, to the Tennessee and Vanderbilt football games, and to the Vanderbilt basketball game. The trips were financed by Suky.

Cheerleaders who must try out every year are chosen by judges from all over the state. Their sponsor is Susan Bradley Cox, a past cheerleader at UK.

Paula Choate expresses enthusiasm typical of cheerleaders.

Dames Active in Service Project

During the 1963-64 school year the Dames Club provided educational programs for the members, and social activities for the families. As a community service project, the Club aided the Tuberculosis Association with the Christmas Seals Distribution. A needy family was also provided with food, clothing and toys for the children. In the spring the annual banquet for the initiation of officers was held and a style show was presented to the club.

Tau Sigma Has Open Tryouts

All University students are eligible to try out for Tau Sigma of Orchesis, the modern dance honorary. Once a year a practice and training session is conducted by the members for those who are interested. Following this period try-outs are held and the new members are selected on a point basis.

This past year Tau Sigma's activities included participation in television shows, a Christmas program, and special lecture demonstrations throughout the year for various campus and town organizations.

DAMES—Row One: Mrs. Janett Price, Mrs. Buyl Whaley, President; Mrs. Sheila Ayres, 1st Vice President. Row Two: Mrs. Glenda Smith, Mrs. Sherry Brown, Mrs. Betty Lou Eilers, Mrs. Shirley Ross, Mrs. Kay Cannon, Mrs. Carolyn Stevenson, Mrs. Mary Wagoner, Mrs. Leslie McCoy, Mrs. Janey Hadden, Mrs. Gloria Smits, Mrs. Barbara Johnson, Mrs. Roberta Greeman, Mrs. Linda Wiley, Mrs. Donna Alexander. Row Three: Mrs. Patricia Scully, Mrs. Alma Dellamura, Mrs. Pat Bowles, Mrs. Linda Hovermale, Mrs. Mary Dunnebacke, Mrs. Jane Holder, Mrs. Sarah Anderwon, Mrs. Carolyn Wolfe, Mrs. Carroll Thompson, Mrs. Diana Meuth, Mrs. Gloria Allison, Mrs. Phyllis Downing, Mrs. Hazel Six, Mrs. Diana Venters.

Greek Week Held in February

The 1964 Greek Week featured a concert with the Chad Mitchell Trio and a dance with Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs—both planned and scheduled by the Greek Week Steering Committee.

The Greek festivities, which were celebrated February 23-29, included an all-Greek banquet where the outstanding Greek man and woman were presented. A dessert and dislussion program were held to help the Greeks better define their place in the University community.

The Chad Mitchell Trio concert was one of the highlights of Greek Week.

Club Studies All Phases of Judo

The purpose of the Judo Club is to teach and promote the sport of Judo under the auspices of the Kodokan Institute in Tokyo, the United States AAU, the Judo Black Belt Federation, and the National Collegiate Judo Association, respectively.

In addition to the intercollegiate competition training and participation, the historical and philosophical aspects of Judo are dealt with along with basic Japanese culture study. The club was officially organized in the fall of 1960.

Students demonstrate the skills they have learned.

LKD—Row One: Ophelia Speight, Secretary; Ken Brandenburg, Chairman; Carole Cosby, Co-Chairman. Row Two: Bill Neel, Treasurer; Jeanne Landrum, Publicity Chairman; Bob Rawlins, Solicitations; Amy Lenz, Friday Chairman; Ted Gum, Saturday Chairman.

Biggest UK Weekend Sponsored By LKD

In 1956, a group of Kentucky students set out to find an activity which would service the community, develop spirit and loyalty, provide scholarships to deserving students at the University, and make possible a student loan fund. The answer was the first Little Kentucky Derby.

The steering committee this year was composed of seven students under the direction of the student chairman, Ken Brandenburg. Each member was responsible for a certain phase of the weekend.

"America's most Spectacular College Weekend" includes the Debutante Stakes and the selection of the Little Kentucky Derby Queen on Friday night, a Turtle Derby, the bicycle derby, and a concert on Saturday.

The spirit of the Derby runs throughout the year, as the committee sponsors additional concerts. Early in January, LKD brought the Brothers Four to UK.

SuKy Circle Adds to School Spirit

A Yell-Like-Hell Contest for the Tennessee football game and the SuKy Leadership Award presented to Bob Kosid were two of the highlights of the University Pep Club. Their main function, one that never changes, is that of helping to provide school spirit and support for the athletic teams.

SuKy is in charge of decorating the football field, sponsoring pep rallies, send-offs and preparing welcoming parties for the returning athletes. In addition to these activities, SuKy furnishes two members and the chairman for the Homecoming Steering Committee and has charge of the Homecoming house displays, the queen contest and the half-time ceremonies.

The Leadership Award given to Kosid this year marks the initiation of this prize. It was presented for his outstanding leadership both on and off the football field. The award will hang permanently in Wildcat Manor.

At a mass membership meeting many plans are made to promote school spirit and support for the athletic teams.

Troupers Perform for Benefit Organizations

Tumbling, clowns, gymnastics, and various novelty acts characterize the performances of Troupers. Shows throughout the state are given to stimulate physical education in various sections. Members perform for benefit organizations such as, Veterans' and Eastern State Hospitals, Shriner's Crippled Children's Home, local high schools, civic groups, and various campus organizations. The highlight of the year is the Annual Spring Show centered around a central theme which features the entire membership.

WAA Sponsors Intramural Awards

Women's intramural and extramural sports are conducted by Women's Athletic Association at UK. Enjoying the spirit and physical activity of competition is the main purpose of the WAA.

The Association is governed by a council of student executive officers elected by members, and managers for each sport who are appointed by retiring officers and faculty advisor.

At their annual banquet in May, the WAA presented plaques and trophies to the women's intramural teams who were winners or runners-up in the various tournaments.

Young Democrats Active in Politics

The fact that every resident College student in Kentucky is of voting age has allowed the Young Democratic club of the state to become a politically potent organization. The year being highlighted by a successful gubernatorial campaign, the club attained its largest membership. The club sponsored a rally for Governor Breathitt and Lt. Governor Waterfield, and absentee ballot program which aided over 2,000 Democrats in acquiring and notorizing their ballots. Following a club tradition, the members once again selected a Republican precinct and campaigned vigorously for the Party. The most controversial project attempted was the mock poll which gave Breathitt a 2½ to 1 margin.

Projects for the Spring included a thorough revision of the group's by-laws, programs with guest speaker, and the choosing of delegates for the state convention.

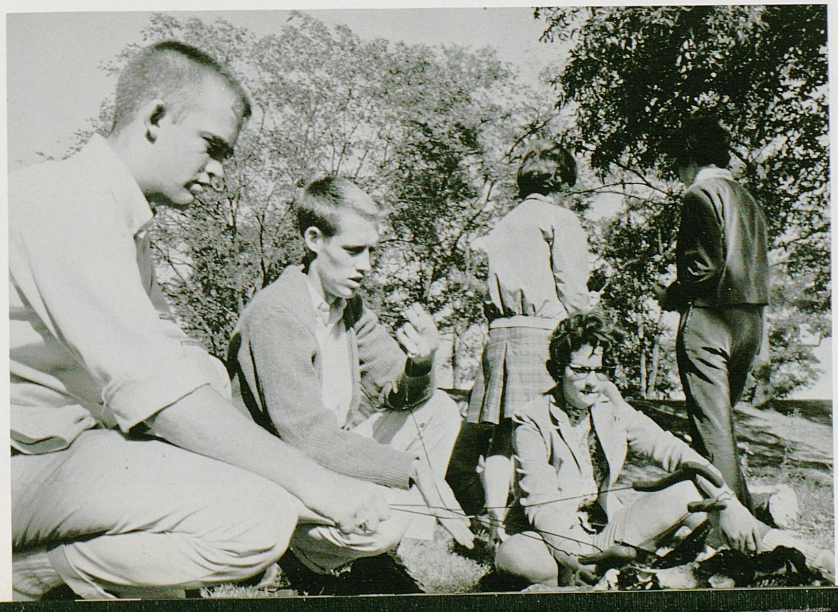
YMCA Co-sponsors Harper Lecture Series

During 1963-64, the YMCA has expanded its program activities and personal services to involve a large number of students. In addition to the traditional programs like Freshman Y, the Freshman Camp, United Nations Seminar, and Hanging of the Greens, the YMCA has moved into new areas such as the Atlanta Human Relations Seminar, the Miami Beach Conference, service at various community centers, Freshman Leadership Retreat, and co-sponsorship of the Harper Lecture Series.

The YMCA begins its program with individual students and their interests and needs. This personal approach is present in each of the thirty YMCA program committees. As the Y serves the students and leads the campus all men students and faculty members are invited to become members and to participate actively.

The University of Kentucky Young Men's Association was founded in 1890 for the promotion of moral and spiritual values among college students. In carrying out such a purpose the YMCA seeks to aid students in relating their academic studies to their experiences of life.

YMCA members and their dates enjoy Fall picnic.



YWCA Theme for Year Is "Changing Roles"

"The Changing Roles of Men and Women" has been the general theme this year for the "Y." The YWCA works jointly with the YMCA on the Freshman Y, the United Nations Seminar, Hanging of the Green, World University Service, and Freshman Camp.

The "Y" Cabinet is responsible for co-ordinating the work of thirteen committees which plan a variety of programs including the Twin Sister Program, Dutch Lunch, Community Service, Faculty-Student Discussions, and work in the area of human relations.

Discussion groups were held after conference at which Reverend Clapp was the main speaker.

Extended Programs Reorganized

Extended Programs was organized within the University in 1957 to offer appropriate programs and services to all citizens of Kentucky. It aids the various colleges and divisions which extend their services to individuals who otherwise would be unable to enroll in UK for residence credit.

UK operates five off-campus Community Colleges which were under the supervision of Extended Services. Through the legislation of the Kentucky General Assembly, they are now responsible to the Board of Trustees and University president. New Community Colleges are being built in Elizabethtown, Somerset, Prestonburg, Hopkinsville, and the Hazard-Blackey area.

The services of Extended Programs are effected on campus through the Extension Class program, conferences and institutes, music, speech, and drama activities, an evening class program, and the home study program.

Ashland Offers Two Year Course

The Ashland Center replaced Ashland Junior College in 1957, a municipal college which had served the community needs for higher education. In operation all year, the Center has an average enrollment of 340 students during the fall and spring semesters, and 150 students during the summer session.

The Center provides educational opportunities for high school graduates who wish to undertake their freshman and sophomore years at Ashland, and extension courses at the upper and graduate levels.

Northern Center Oldest In Program

Created in 1948, the Kentucky Northern Center provides an opportunity for education beyond the high school level for the people of the Northern Kentucky area. The Center serves full-time freshman and sophomore students, and citizens of the community who desire to further their education.

The conception of the Northern Center, the oldest of the centers, marked the beginning of the University policy of offering education to those who cannot travel to the main campus.

Army Center Serves Military Personnel

The University Center at Fort Knox, created in the fall of 1959, was designed to serve the military personnel, their dependents, and individuals employed on the base. Due to great demand, the Center was opened to the people of the surrounding area in 1961.

The Center program includes the freshman and sophomore years of University work, and, through the Extension Service, many upper-level courses are offered.

Center Established Through Foundation

In 1957, a group of civic-minded citizens took the initial steps to establish the Northwest Center at Henderson through a College Foundation. The Foundation acquired the property which was deeded to the University for the purpose of providing higher education in that area. The Center, located three miles southwest of Henderson, began its first semester in 1960, and offers courses on the freshman and sophomore levels which carry full-time resident credit.

Dr. John W. Oswald, is greeted by Mr. James A. Jones, Director of The Ft. Knox Center, on his first visit to the Center.

Southeast Accommodates Five Hundred Students

Opening of the Southeast Center at Cumberland in 1960 was made possible by the donation of a 123-acre tract of land by the International Harvester Corporation. The Center is housed in a modern, two-story building which will accommodate 500 students.

Courses are offered to freshman and sophomore students and for credit or non-credit to adults who wish to further their education for cultural or professional reasons. Ten full-time instructors, supplemented by several part-time staff appointments, a director, librarian, bursar-recorder, maintenance engineer, and custodial force compose the staff.

Typing is one of the business courses offered at the Southeast Center.

Retrospect

A year of transition—1963-1964—brought many changes to our way of life and to our University. Those of us here for the last year can look back and determine what effect these changes have had on us.

This year, students and faculty returned to campus to begin classes the first week in September. Finals for the first semester fell before the Christmas vacation and the second semester closed the first week in May. This was in accordance with the new school calendar which the University is using as a two-year experiment.

1963-64 brought a major change in the UK administration as Dr. Frank Dickey, UK President, resigned to accept the position of executive director of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools in Atlanta. His successor is Dr. John Oswald, the sixth President of the University. Dr. Oswald and his family came to Kentucky from California where he was Vice-President-Administration of the University of California.

October saw heated political battles fought on UK soil as the annual Student Congress campaigns began. The election was barely completed when the campus became involved in the Kentucky gubernatorial campaign. Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt emerged the victor.

At the end of November, the University joined the nation and the world in mourning the tragic death of President John F. Kennedy. This proved an opportunity for the public to observe one of the greatest feats of democratic government—the smooth transition of leadership as Lyndon B. Johnson became the 36th President of the United States.

Along with the changes off campus, UK faced the need for more classroom space to accommodate the increasing enrollment. Plans were drawn up and construction began on the Commerce, Law, and Agriculture buildings. These soon will join the Medical Center and the Chemistry-Physics building as additions to the UK scene.

To mark the progress of time, the Colleges of Medicine and Nursing graduated their first classes in 1964, and the University began to prepare for the celebration of its Centennial in 1965.

And so, the students change, the University grows, and the 1963-1964 school year closes.
