Thomas Signs With UK

Irvin Thomas, 6-foot-9, 220 lb. forward-center from Carol City High School in Miami, Florida, today signed a grant-in-aid with the University of Kentucky. Wildcat head basketball coach Joe B. Hall announced.

Thomas averaged 18 points and 15.4 rebounds last season. He also blocked 95 shots as he led Carol City to a 27-7 record. He was heavily recruited by many schools, including Florida, Georgetown, UCLA and North Carolina.

Hall said Thomas comes from a high school program that on its level is much like UK's program on the collegiate level.

"He will fit right into the excitement and the pressure of a high intensity program such as we have here at the University," Hall said. "He is a very gifted athlete and a sound scholar."

"We appreciate the faith that his mother, Delores Thomas, and his coach, Ernie Bell, have in our program."

What A Lonely Feeling On Saturday Night

Less than twenty-four hours after one of the guttiest performances by a Kentucky team in many, many years, the Wildcats stood by lonely, apparently left without a bowl invitation. A feeling of emptiness overcame Lexington.

The feeling dramatized the good and bad of college football. Five hundred miles to the South, there were thousands of Florida fans celebrating over a season made possible by cheating at its highest level.

As one out-of-town media person remarked during the game Saturday between Kentucky and Florida, "this game pits what the game should be about versus what the game should not be about." It was that simple.

Sure, the good guys lost the battle and it appeared for a while Sunday they would lose the war when the Peach Bowl suddenly decided to drop Kentucky from its bowl listing.

Rumors had been rampant since the North Texas State game that UK would be invited back to Atlanta if UK defeated Vanderbilt and played a decent game against Florida. Decent isn't the word to describe the Cats' valiant effort against the second ranked Gators.

Kentucky pushed Florida right to the wall and even scored a touchdown which would have given UK a shot at a tie, only the touchdown was nullified by an illegal procedure penalty.

By late Sunday evening, UK athletics director Cliff Hagan was frantically trying to obtain an audience from any bowl. He sincerely believed this Kentucky team deserved a bowl bid and he was right.

But there were no listeners for quite some time.

Finally, folks in Birmingham responded. And the Hall of Fame officials, if they do indeed invite UK to meet Wisconsin on December 29, may come out wiser than they'd ever anticipated.

Kentucky by no means was or is the Hall of Fame's first choice. South Carolina was the initial target and one cannot totally fault a bowl for reaching for the stars.

When much of the back-room smoke had cleared Sunday around the nation, the Hall of Fame Bowl found itself without a host team, in other words, a team from the South. At the same time, UK stood lone with its 7-3 mark and nobody was tying up the phone lines with Cliff Hagan.

There was some speculation that the strong interest by the Peach Bowl had caused several other bowls to forget about UK since the Wildcats were apparently close to locking up an agreement with the Atlanta people.

Auburn, Georgia, LSU and Tennessee were already assured of bowl berths and that left only Kentucky as a southern possibility. Earlier in the season, schools such as Memphis State, Georgia Tech and West Virginia fit nicely into the list of potentials but they all took a dive in the latter half of the campaign.

Still, the Hall of Fame Bowl must have had serious reservations about a Kentucky team which took less than win a third straight bowl invitation, it would match the feat of three straight bowls that the 1949-50-51 teams did.

No other time in UK history have the Wildcats went to bowls three straight seasons.

If all goes according to prediction

Hall Of Fame Bowl Calls

6,000 fans to its bowl last year. Many argue the small following was attributed to the date (DEC. 22) just three days before Christmas in the middle of the week and poor weather.

Nothing can be done about the weather, but Hall of Fame Bowl officials did move the date to Dec. 29 this year. That date also happens to fall on a Saturday. There will be no arguments about the date this time around.

Whether or not Kentucky fans will return in large numbers is yet to be seen. Perhaps, we'll find out if Kentucky fans are blood-related to those in Florida. In other words, does it require "winning at any cost" to enlist the support of fans?

If ever a Kentucky team deserves fan support and following, it is this one. This Kentucky team is a team made up of good kids who strive 100 percent every day to play the very best they can. They do not have awesome talent, but they lay it on the line every Saturday. They're the type team all sports fans say they like, yet Kentucky fans are yet to prove the claim true. If Kentucky fans do appreciate and approve the manner in which Jerry Claiborne is running the Kentucky ship, then there ought to be some 8,000 to 10,000 fans in Birmingham on December 29.

If they don't have a large following, then Kentucky fans deserve nothing better than a consistent 3-8 team.

Kentucky's inspired play against Florida, generally regarded as the best team in America of late, was a sight for sore eyes and Jerry Claiborne's crew did nothing to dampen the glory being fed UK's way during these rebuilding years.

For the second straight year, the Wildcats are going bowling and that's something Kentucky hasn't enjoyed since 1951 when the Cats trimmed TCU 20-7 in the Cotton Bowl.

With this year's success, UK will have the opportunity to achieve a milestone next season that has been accomplished only once before in Kentucky history. Should UK enjoy a successful campaign next season and and the Wildcats do receive an invitation from the Hall of Fame Bowl against Wisconsin, then we'll have plenty of info next week and the following issues leading up to Dec. 29 classic.

The two clubs have played one common foe this season in Indiana. The Badgers defeated IU 30-26 and Kentucky whipped the Hoosiers 48-14 in Bloomington.

Wisconsin assured itself of a bowl bid by downing Michigan State 20-10 last Saturday. Rumors had it that the winner of that game would be the host school in the newly-found Cherry Bowl in Michigan.

Although State finished 6-5, Cherry Bowl officials still picked the Spartans and the local flavor apparently did the trick, figuring that State would guarantee a big crowd in the Silverdome.

Both Kentucky and Tennessee are going bowling in all probability, but one of the two could be going on a losing note. UK needs another effort similar to the Florida exhibition to overcome a bigger and more talented Tennessee club.

Early in the week, Tennessee was a solid seven-point favorite and the Vols are extremely difficult to upset in huge Neyland Stadium. Over 90,000 will be in attendance.

Tennessee might be more of a gamble to the bowl people than Kentucky. Then, again, maybe the Vols are a steal.

Johnny Majors' Vols can go anywhere from 6-4-1 to 8-2-1. Currently, Tennessee owns a 6-2-1 mark. A win over UK would keep the Vol machine steaming along for a final confrontation with Vanderbilt in Nashville on Dec. 1.

But if the Cats should upset Tennessee, the Vols could suffer a mental letdown against Vandy, a team which will let it all hang out in the season finale. In other words, the matchup with the Vols will be Vandy's "bowl" game of 1984.

Joe B. Hall's hoop Wildcats will open the season for real next Tuesday, and it will be one full of surprises and fears.

At times, the Cats will appear ready to take on the country's best and at times, UK will appear headed for the SEC cellar. The Cats will be neither that good nor that bad.

By tournament time, UK could be a very decent and exciting team, just how good they will be can be measured in Hall and his staff's ability to teach the young Cats a great deal of fundamentals. Or better yet, how quick the young Cats learn the fundamentals and the Kentucky system.

Even more important to Kentucky will be the ability of Winston Bennett and James Blackmon to bounce back from injuries and to keep Kenny Walker away from such misfortunes.

Two of the young rookies which have captured numerous Wildcat fans' hearts are guard Ed Davender and center Robert Lock. Both have been very impressive in early workouts.

And Coach Joe B. Hall says Richard Madison is going to be "one tremendous college basketball player" as soon as he adjusts to the college game.

FIRST AND TENS. . . Never before can I remember when so many people around the South were rooting openly for Kentucky in a sporting event. During the annual SEC Basketball Media Days in Birmingham last week, practically every reporter there (except those from Florida) were hoping that UK would pull the upset of upsets against the Gators. Their wish wasn't far off . . . Once again, SEC reporters voted UK much higher than it deserved. LSU was ranked No. 1, but even the SEC scribes couldn't ignore all the lofty ratings around the nation of Dale Brown's club. Still, they picked Kentucky ahead of Alabama and Auburn and there's no way the Cats should be ranked that high in the preseason. What, in effect, that rating does is to prevent Joe Hall from being given any credit at the end of the season if he should do a great job and finish as high as second. When writers dislike a coach, they can take a good crack at him by voting his team high in the preseason polls. . . Can you imagine an ALL-SEC preseason team without Kenny Walker? Well, the SEC head coaches apparently figure Walker isn't one of the five best in the conference. Yet, seven of the nine SEC coaches paraded to the podium and praised how great UK is and then didn't vote a single UK player ALL-SEC. . . To the SEC writers' credit, they did vote Walker to their team.

Alabama

The University of Alabama basketball program has flourished under the leadership of fifth-year coach Wimp Sanderson. The Tide participated in the National Invitational Tournament in 1981 after Sanderson's first year as head coach; since then there have been three consecutive trips to the NCAA. Bama's post-season record under the Florence, Ala., native is 8-6. His overall record of 80-42, a winning percentage of .656, is an average of 20 wins per season.

Sanderson played high school ball at Coffee and lettered three years at the University of North Alabama where he was team captain his junior and senior seasons. He began his coaching career in 1959 at Carbon Hill High School. After leading the team to a 25-4 record and district championship, Sanderson became an assistant at Alabama, a position he held until he was named head coach in 1980.

In Sanderson's short head coaching career, he has defeated all SEC rivals, won the 1982 SEC Tournament in Lexington, two holiday tournaments and road games over Georgetown, Southern Cal and UCLA.

Sanderson, a well-known speaker and clinician, is regarded as an excellent recruiter; his classes have generally been considered among the best in the nation.

SEC Writers Need A B-ball Course

According to the Southeastern Conference football, uh ... basketball writers, Kentucky is picked to finish second in the conference behind favorite LSU. That's pretty unusual if you ask me.

Every year it seems Kentucky is always everyone's choice as one of the top teams in the league. Sure, the Wildcats have a good nucleus dressing out this year, but they're young and inexperienced. When matching inexperience against one of the best basketball leagues in the country somehow I just don't see this team finishing second in the conference.

Nick Nicholas

Cats' Pause Columnist

This year the SEC is about as well-balanced as it ever has been. There're only three teams - Vanderbilt, Mississippi State and Ole Miss - who realistically don't have a shot at the title. But those teams are not bad ballclubs. Probably C.M. Newton, Bob Boyd, and Lee Hunt will prove my theory wrong -- it has happened before.

However, if I was one of the highly esteemed dignitaries at Birmingham last Wednesday and Thursday I would have picked three SEC teams ahead of the Wildcats.

(1) LSU (18-11 last year) The Bengal Tigers return three starters from a team that came on strong at the end of last season.

Jerry Reynolds averaged 14.2 points per contest last year while grabbing more than eight rebounds a game. Against North Carolina last year, the 6-foot-8 junior showed the talents that earned him first-team All American status as he scored 29 points and pulled down 10 rebounds.

Returning starters 6-6 Don Redden (10.3 points) and 6-0 guard Derrick Taylor (13.4 ppg.) will give the Tigers an impressive balanced attack.

Other returning players include: Nikita Wilson (6.0 ppg.), Anthony Wilson (2.6 ppg.), and Dennis Brown (2.1 ppg.). Coach Dale Brown had one of his best recruiting crops ever, landing seven-footer Zoran Jovanovich, and high scoring prep star John Williams (28.7 ppg. his senior year).

Look for sophomore Nikita Wilson to be the glue that will put Dale Brown's team together. The 6-8 forward was shaky at times during his first year, but the star qualities are there.

(2) Auburn (20-11) Intimidator Charles Barkley packed his bags to meet Moses and Doc in Philly, but even so the Tigers should continue their winning ways.

After receiving an NCAA bid, its first one ever, Auburn was upset by unknown Richmond 72-71. Meanwhile this Tiger, Plainsmen, or War Eagles (by any name) should be a strong SEC contender once again.

All-American Candidate 6-8 junior Chuck Person (19.1 ppg.) can do it all. He can play the tough man-to-man defense, shoot from the outside, is an effective force inside both offensively and defensively, and can steal the ball away from any of the best ballhandlers in the conference (81 thefts last year). Overall he's my pick for the player of the year in the SEC.

As a backcourt combination of Gerald White and Frank Ford work really well together. The two second-year players gained valuable playing time last season. The freshmen combined for 17 points in their 82-63 victory over the previously unbeaten Wildcats.

Vern Strickland (6.7 ppg.) should break into the starting lineup. The 6-5 junior pulled down a career high seven rebounds against the Cats in their victory in Auburn.

Freshman Darren Guest, a member of the McDonald's All-American team, will be battling it out with 6-7 senior Carey Holland for the center position. Guest's muscular play has earned him the nickname "Baby Dawk" after New Jersey's center Darryle Dawkins.

(3) Florida (16-13) The Gators are my sleeper pick. Coach Norm Sloan did a remarkable job with last year's squad. After finishing last in the SEC in '83 the Gators jumped up to place third along side of NCAA participant LSU.

While losing Ronnie Williams and Vernon Delancy to the pros, the men of Sloan still have a lot of experience. Guards Andrew Moten (11.9 ppg.) and Darryl Gresham (11.9 ppg.) and senior center Eugene McDowell (12.4 ppg. -9.2 reb.) can play against anybody in the country.

Add that trio with the promise of newcomers Vernon Maxwell (31.6 ppg., 9.8 reb.), 6-11 redshirt Mark Saso and 6-10 junior college transfer Francisco Leon and Florida could be a terror to be reckoned with. They may be a year away from challenging for the title, though, don't be surprised if this sleeping Gator wakes up a year early.

As for Kentucky the Wildcats possess a lot of pure natural talent. Though, along with a lot of injuries, and five new faces this year, the Wildcats will probably have trouble with their tough early season slate. But with the excellent leadership from co-captains Kenny Walker and Winston Bennett the younger players will definitely improve. For a change of pace this team may peak just right at tourney time. A change Joe Hall will definitely accept.

While we're on the subject here's my SEC all-conference picks: (F) Kenny Walker (Kentucky), (F) Chuck Person (Auburn), (C) Eugene McDowell (Florida), (G) Eric Laird (Ole Miss), (G) Andrew Moten (Florida).

If there was a most improved SEC player award my vote would go to UK's Paul Andrews. The former Laurel County standout has really strengthened his upper body while not losing his shooting touch. If not starting, Andrews still should see a lot of action. His preseason performance indicates that he's ready to shine as a Wildcat.

From The Locker Room

VERNON JOHNSON

(About the penalty) I don't know who it was on. It's hard to tell (if it was a penalty) until you see the films, but that was the call.

(Can the team bounce back for next week's game with Tennessee? Yes. We feel like we played a real good game today. That will just build us up for the next week of practice. We'll come back and hopefully have a real good game against Tennessee.

JOKER PHILLIPS

(About his team's performance) We're proud, but (also) disappointed. We had the opportunity to knock off the No. 5 team in the nation and came up short.

(About his team's chances at halftime) We were sitting pretty good at halftime. Down by nine we knew we were alright. We were driving at one time and I had the crucial fumble. We knew we could drive on them.

(About Tennessee) This game (Florida) will take a lot out of us, but the name Tennessee gets you back up. We'll be ready next week.

PAUL CALHOUN

(About the emotional team play) This was definitely one of the biggest games I've ever played in. Knowing that Florida was playing for the SEC title, it was either us that was going to give it to them or take it away. That's a good feeling to have going into a ball game. We thought we had them and it went down to the wire. But things didn't work out for us.

(About the UK fans being fired up) That really gets the players adrenaline flowing, they really got fired up. (On the Defense) somebody asked me earlier if they get tired out there. I don't think that anybody ever got tired in this ball game, just due to the fact that the fans were so pumped up. When we hear that ... it keeps us going strong. It just keeps you from getting tired when you're out there.

(About knowing that you could stay with Florida) After the first series when they had the ball (we knew we could). They ran the first couple of plays and busted them for pretty long plays. But after we held them to a field goal we knew right then we could play with them. They're obviously a tough team, but we knew we could stick with them.

BRIAN WILLIAMS

(About the emotion in this game) It was great. We went out there with the attitude that we were going to beat them. Like Coach Claiborne said we didn't lose this ball game, we just ran out of time. We knew that our offense could put it in the end zone.

(About your feelings after the contest) I feel alright. I'm pretty satisfied. Anytime you lose, your heads going to be dropped a little bit. But we went out there and laid it on the line and I don't think there was one person on this team that didn't give 110 percent and they played hard.

(About getting ready for Tennessee) If you can't get ready for Tennessee then something's the matter with you. It's a big rivalry and we are going down there ... we've got to beat Tennessee. We haven't beaten them since I've been here. It will be great going back to Knoxville, because I'm from Middlesboro, and that's about 56 miles from Knoxville. I know a lot of (Tennessee) players and a lot of people down there.

Florida

In his five years as Florida head coach, Norm Sloan has once again proven to be one of the greatest rebuilders of basketball programs.

Last year's Gator squad was the perfect example of Sloan's abilities. After the 1982-83 Florida team finished last in the Southeastern Conference, Norm Sloan rallied his '83-84 troops to a 16-13 mark, 11-7 in the SEC and a third place league finish. The Gators made their first post-season tournament appearance in 15 years.

Born in Anderson, Ind., Sloan joined the Navy after graduating from high school. He turned down an opportunity to attend the Naval Academy to enroll at North Carolina State, where he played point guard from 1947-49. He also earned two football and track letters.

Sloan's first head coaching job was at Presbyterian College, the only winning team he has ever inherited. After revitalizing The Citadel's basketball program, Sloan came to Florida the first time and gave the Gators a six-year record of 85-63. Sloan then returned to his alma mater to begin the rebuilding process. In 1974, the Wolfpack captured the national championship. Sloan was named AP national "Coach of the Year."

The Gators finished 12-16 in 1981, Sloan's first year back at Florida, then 5-22 and 13-18 the next two. After the 1984 turnaround and with the talent returning for 1985, Sloan has the Gators in the national spotlight.

Wildcats Beat China Before 19,326 As Sky Stars

Junior Forward Scares UK Fans With Injury

Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall had to feel a little better than he did two nights ago as his team defeated the Peoples Republic of China 94-69 in an exhibition game last Friday at Rupp Arena. The Wildcats looked somewhat better than they did in the Blue-White game Wednesday at Rupp.

Why was it a better night?

With the enthusiastic play of the five freshmen, UK ran away from the visitors late in the contest. Kentucky had a convincing but boring, 13-point advantage (76-63) with 5:32 left in the contest.

After a Wildcat timeout, first-year player Todd Ziegler connected on a 17-footer to build the lead to 78-63. That was the signal to start the freshman on a tear -- which woke up the 19,326 for the first time during the game.

Cedric Jenkins scored on a field goal while in the process of being fouled by Jianli Liu. Jenkins completed the three-point play with a free throw to make the score 81-63.

Following a 20-footer by senior sharpshooter Troy McKinley and a six-footer by freshman Richard Madison, Robert Lock, made the play of the night. Lock, who ended the contest with a game high figure of 13 rebounds, completed a play that will give the UK fans something to look forward to in the future. The 6-foot-9 college rookie stole the ball and raced the length of the court for a two-handed tomahawk dunk over a China player that left the crowd, as well as the rim, shaking in awe.

Ed Davender got into the freshmen act with two nifty assists to his teammate Madison increasing the lead to 94-67. Overall the Cats outscored China 18-5 in the final minutes.

Davender's twisting assists resulting in the two layups reminded fans of the Dicky Beal style of play.

"Ed Davender went back to Brooklyn and got us going," said Coach Hall. "Ed's going to be a real fine player. I've got a lot of faith in him. I liked very much what I saw in the freshmen. I think they will help us as the season goes along."

"We've come a long ways," said Kenny Walker about the team's progress since the first day of practice. "But we've got a long ways to go. I saw a lot of great things out there tonight from the freshmen. But I think they have to make a whole lot of improvement. That will come around with the nonconference schedule."

The starting lineup of Walker, Bret Bearup, Lock, Paul Andrews, and Roger Harden initiated an early lead against China.

Kentucky only trailed once in the contest (0-2) on a goal by 6-4 Liu. Behind three straight field goals by Walker, UK increased its lead from 14-9 to 20-9. The 6-8 forward from Roberta, Georgia, continued to have a fine preseason as he scored 27 points while pulling down eight rebounds.

For a few minutes, though, it looked like Kentucky might have lost its star forward. With almost 13 minutes remaining in the first half, Walker injured his ankle and was barely able to stand up. Coach Hall was outraged at the officials for not calling time because of the injured player. Finally, after a score by Libin Wang, time was called. A silent, empty atmosphere channeled throughout Rupp Arena sensing that Walker was hurt. But Walker relieved the crowd by checking back in with 5:53 left in the first half.

Davender was second in UK scoring with 16, followed by Lock and Bearup with 10 points each.

Wang led China with 20 points. The 6-7 forward showed the Wildcat's good outside shooting hitting six of 13 shots.

"They (China) were an unusual challenge for us," said Hall. "They played an unorthodox style. They are good shooters when left open."

China's 6-2 Jinjing Lu received a technical in the second half after the guard disagreed with a foul called. During the 11:14 mark of the second half the play started to get physical. Seven seconds prior to Lu's technical, Libin and Wildcat reserve LeRoy Byrd collided at center court. Tempers started to rise on the China bench as Coach Chanin Lu couldn't believe the call on Jinjing Lu.

After the game the China coach declined to comment on the contest.

Georgia

In just six short years, Hugh Durham has brought Georgia basketball to prominence it has never known. He has built a winning tradition at Georgia, a characteristic that marks Durham-coached teams.

Prior to his arrival in Athens, the Louisville, Ky., native was head coach at his alma mater, Florida State, for 12 years. While in Tallahassee, he compiled a remarkable 230-95 overall record, a .708 winning percentage. In 1972, his Seminole squad reached the NCAA Final Four, falling to UCLA in the semi-finals. Durham's squad produced 29 wins that year, an FSU record.

His Bulldog squad followed that same road to the NCAA Tournament in 1983 as the Dogs of Dunk finished the regular season with an 18-9 record and an SEC Tournament championship. En route to the Final Four, the Bulldogs knocked off basketball powers St. John's and North Carolina before falling to eventual champion N.C. State in the semi-finals. Durham is only one of three coaches who has taken two different teams to the Final Four.

Durham, a star racquetball player, was a three year starter at guard for FSU and scored 1,387 points in his career. That mark ranks ninth on the all-time list at Florida State.

Auburn

When Sonny Smith was hired as head basketball coach at Auburn in 1978, his goal was to build a program that would equal the best in the SEC. Now, after laying a solid foundation, Smith has met that goal. In 1984, Auburn was 20-11, was runnerup in the conference race, advanced to the finals of the SEC tournament for the first time and made its first appearance in the NCAA Tourney.

Smith was named SEC Coach of the Year by the SEC coaches, AP, UPI and the SEC Radio Broadcasters' Association. The National Association of Basketball Coaches selected him District VI Coach of the Year.

Auburn's basketball program began to make strides as Smith began to put his own recruits into it. The Tigers have never had a losing season since his first group became seniors. With his rebuilding job at Auburn just about finished, Smith is 83-88. Including his two years at East Tennessee State, Smith's record is 113-111.

Smith served as a college coaching assistant at William and Mary, Pepperdine, and Virginia Tech. He is a native of Roan Mountain, Tenn., not far from Johnson City, where he graduated from Milligan College in 1958.

Walkers Parents Watch China Game

Hall Feels Like Btfsplk

Tale of 2 Kentuckys

Will the UK Wildcats be a Top 20 team again this season or a fallen giant on its way to a (egads!) break-even season? Depends on who one listens to.

First, meet Dick Weiss of the Basketball Times. "Everybody seems so quick to write off Kentucky. But the Wildcats still have a solid nucleus with forwards Kenny Walker (best upperclassman in the SEC), Winston Bennett, James Blackmon and a talented group of frosh."

Bob Watkins

Cats' Pause Columnist

OK.

Now, consider a statement made by Coach Joe B. Hall last week: "We're not going to be a very good team for a while, but there's nothing else we can do. ... We're so unprepared, December is frightening."

OK.

And finally, a few remarks team co-captain Winston Bennett made to reporters last week: "We may take some lumps early on while a lot of players are still learning the offense, but we're playing to win this year. Last year, we were playing to not lose. There's a lot less pressure on us."

Depends on who one listens to...

Kentucky basketball fans, the most expert in America, can take it from here.

Joe 'B' Hall

UK's coach can still find a little humor it seems and that's a good thing. His middle initial has always been a curiosity for some reporters and last week the 'B' came up again for discussion.

Hall, considering a rash of injuries and the inexperience of this team, told a reporter: his middle initial this season stands for Btfsplk, as in Joe Btfsplk, the "world's worst jinx" of Li'l Abner fame.

"I feel like Joe Btfsplk, like there's a black cloud over my head," Hall told a wire service writer. "I don't even want to think about (the season), let alone talk about it."

Hall's middle initial stands for Beasman.

National rankings

Tipoff Magazine the official publication of the U.S. Basketball Writers Association issued its preseason college poll last week. Georgetown is No. 1 of course. Indiana is ranked second, Louisville 16th and Kentucky 19th.

Metro teams? Memphis State is No. 5 and Virginia Tech listed among the "others."

SEC teams? LSU is ranked 9th, Auburn is among the others.

On the subject of Auburn, coach Sonny Smith wasted no time "reloading" to replace Charles Barkley. Six-seven 195-pound Michael Jones of Phenix City, Ala. is no bread truck, but the Street & Smith third team All-American is a prize who one talent scout said would choose among Louisville, Kentucky, Mississippi State and Georgia.

Signees

■ UK signee Irving Thomas, a 6-9 210-pounder from Carol City, Fla., was sized up this way by talent scout Van Coleman: "Immensely talented. One of this year's top insiders when he gives the effort."

■ Houston University formally signed the country's premier big man 7-1 Tito Horford last week quashing rumors that, A. he would switch at the last minute to LSU. B. be kidnapped on Wednesday morning Nov. 14 and held for ransom (only kidding, Tito).

According to a spokesperson from the UH sports information department last Friday, "We had two other signees also. Steve Smith, a 6-7 guard, and forward Perry Russell who is 6-9½."

Not bad.

"They're Tito's teammates at Marian Christian High," the lady said.

Hmmmm. Nice package, Guy.

All Americans?

A proliferation of college polls and All-American lists are available these days. But nobody's registered an All Name Team yet. Until now.

- Center — 6-11 Olden Polynice, Virginia
- Forward — 6-8 Anicet Lavodrama, Houston Baptist
- Forward — 6-9 Tony Papa, Texas Christian
- Guard — 6-3 Bruce Dalrymple, Georgia Tech
- Guard — 6-1 Bryce McPhee, Gonzaga
- Guard — 6-2 Andre Boutte, North Texas State
- Sixth man (backcourt) — 6-4 Jeff Topliff, Maine
- Sixth man (frontcourt) — 6-8 Myles McPartland, Hofstra Favorite of favorites: 6-8 Abe Okorodudu, a sophomore reserve forward at Penn.

Hilltoppers.

Has that old 'Topper magic returned to Western Kentucky University?

Could be.

WKU Coach Clem Haskins still knows a fast break when he sees one and he faced a little (sweet) music last week just before his team mixed it up with Yugoslavia's Cibona Club at E.A. Diddle Arena in Bowling Green.

A pesky young reporter, who could not have been more than a twinkle in his poppa's eye when Haskins was making All-American moves at Western, asked the Hilltopper coach if he thought his "might be the best (college) team in Kentucky this season?"

Pause.

Haskins shuffled his feet a bit as the room went quiet. A basketball generation flashed before our eyes as the old heads realized that, for a change, this was not just an innocent remark from some cub wanting to be noticed. In other years the question would have brought a wink and a mutter, a wise crack answer and/or riotous laughter for that is how these press conference things are most times, one clever clog trying to outdo another with a cuter question. But this was the question basketball fans have been waiting to see answered.

And, Haskins response would—in one way or another—be a shot not only heard, but listened to, around the Commonwealth, particularly in the halls of Wildcat Lodge and wherever the Louisville Cardinals read their clippings. It is noteworthy too that such "We're No. 1" suggestions are commonplace to the boys of Hall and Crum. But Bowling Green has been off the beaten track since 1971.

"Well," Haskins said thoughtfully, "I do feel like we can play with any team in Kentucky this year."

Pause.

"In two years I think we'll be able to play with anybody in the country."

OK.

Times have changed at Western and, in the words of a Bowling Green native, "Hilltopper basketball is all people have been talking about around here since September."

Suddenly nobody bothers anymore with the wistful query, "whatever happened to Jim McDaniels?"

The 1984-85 Hilltoppers are loaded with talent even if some of the best of them barely shaves yet. Haskins has assembled a big, burly bunch of bangers who are big time bound just as soon as the guard corps gets sorted out.

First name out of the hat belongs to Kannard Johnson, a sinewy but stout looking 6-9 220-pound prize from Cincinnati who Western beat out UK and U of L to get.

"He's going to be one of the finest ever to play here," Haskins predicted. And Johnson isn't even playing his natural position yet, strong forward.

The (3) bookends: Tellis Frank (6-9, 225 So.), Clarence Martin (6-8, 220 So.) and Bryan Asberry (6-6½, 235 So.).

"Tellis wants to be the next Magic Johnson," Haskins said. "He's going to drive me crazy with his behind the back passes and dribbling between his legs, but as soon as he tones his game down, he's going to be very good. Clarence Martin (sat out last season with a knee injury) is about 50 percent right now. It's still a matter of time. I feel by late January or early February he'll be able to help us."

WKU's up-front talent does not stop here either. Michael Rutledge, a 6-10, 215-pound sophomore who transferred from Auburn, will be eligible Dec. 23. "I'm really pleased with his progress," Haskins said. "If he were eligible today he'd be our starting post man (moving Kannard Johnson to a forward with Frank or Martin)."

And help will come later from freshmen Steve Miller, Fred Tisdale and Brian Fish.

"Tisdale and Miller are your typical freshmen," Haskins said. "They have some good days and some bad ones. Today they're not ready to play, but we have good expectations for them."

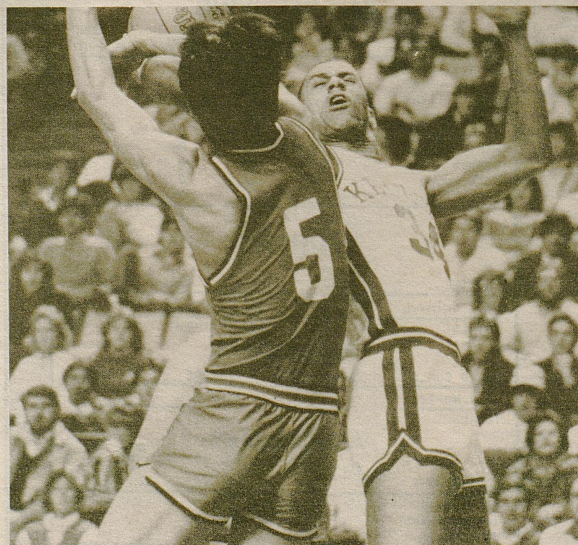

Western's backcourt is the key. Mike Ballenger, a 6-3 Jr. who transferred from UK, and 6-1 Billy Gordon were the starters against Cibona.

"I expect us to get zoned alot," Haskins said in a bit of understatement.

"We've got to have good guard play," he said. "Ballenger has really, really shot well in our scrimmages. I think he's one of the finest jump shooting guards in the college game."

Too there is 6-5 Johnny Taylor, junior college transfer Lamont Coffey and freshman James McNary.

Walker A Big Key To UK

An overview. The key for Western is the schedule. After openers against lightweights Augusta College and Livingston, the 'Tops host Louisville, Karl Malone led-Louisiana Tech and St. Francis in the Wendy Classic Dec. 7-8.

"If we can play well against St. Francis and U of L or Louisiana Tech it'll be a tremendous boost for us," Haskins said. "After going 12-17 last year, it's important to our confidence to get off to a good start this season."

Is that old Hilltopper magic on the way back? Could be.

For now Clem Haskins would settle for being the best team in Kentucky.

Claibornes Comments

The following are Jerry Claiborne's post game comments following Kentucky's 25-17 setback to Florida.

Coach Claiborne: "I thought our players played about as good as they can play. It's just a shame we had that penalty on that last play (Joker Phillips touchdown catch). I would have liked to have had the opportunity to go for two at the time. I can't say enough about our players. I thought they fought hard. We made a couple of crucial mistakes and knew we had to attack them. They threw the pass down there and we stopped them on the one-yard line -- by the way I have to say that was not a bad goal line stance. They just lined up there and got after their butts. They stopped them on third down-and-two several times today, and (also) on fourth down. We tried to get the big play. We felt like we had to get the big play in order to beat them today. It kind of backfired on us. We just didn't have a real good kicking day today either. I feel we didn't punt the ball as well as we could've punted it. (The punts) hurt us on field position several times. But the effort was there.

I can't be prouder of a group of kids than I am of this group. It's a shame that we didn't get to go for that two-point play. They hurt us with their fullback, but in the flats on some passes. We were trying to take away their deepest routes. We knew (John L.) Williams was a good receiver and that they threw the ball to him, but we kind of picked that up later in the game. We had some crucial turnovers. One that kept us from getting anything, and the other gave them the opportunity to score on us, and of course the last one (Ransdell's interception). We had two more downs to take a shot at it if we don't throw an interception. The effort was there. I'm proud of them.

Were you aware of your receiver not lining up in the right position (penalty call)?

Coach Claiborne: No, no. He thought he was on the line (of scrimmage). We'll look at the films and see. You've got to be way off (the line) to call something like that at the end of the ball game. We'll have to look at the films and see where he was.

It wasn't anything of a different formation or anything like that. He (split end) was suppose to be up on the line of scrimmage. We had an unbalanced line -- it was the same play we scored on before. We were legal the first time we ran it and we weren't the second time.

It seems that your team played with the most emotion ever in your three years of coaching at UK. Do you feel that's true?

Coach Claiborne: We had to play with emotion today against those people. In every category they were bigger, stronger and faster. (Though) I don't think they out played us.

What about the time out just before their last field goal?

Coach Claiborne: We were just trying to get them to think about it. How many did he kick, six? (Claiborne shaking his head in disbelief).

Did you come into the game wanting to be the spoiler?

Coach Claiborne: We came into the game today with the attitude we were going to win. We weren't trying to play the spoiler. We just wanted to win a football game. I don't worry about who's trying to win a championship or anything else. All I want is (for) Kentucky to win.

Have you ever tried so many trick plays before?

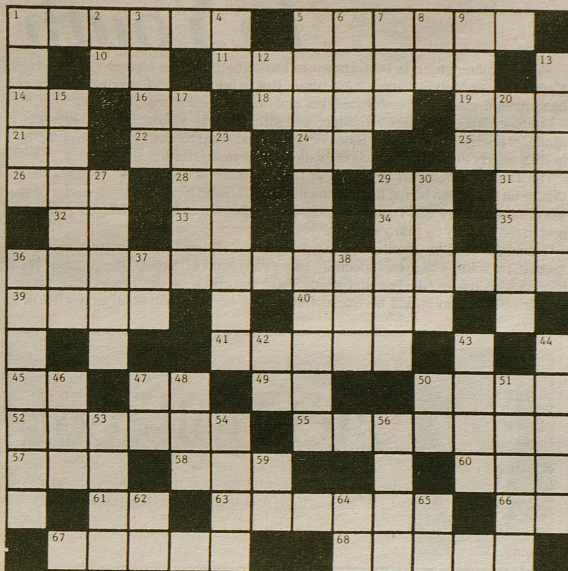

Coach Claiborne: Again, I said we had to come up with something. We can't line there and beat those people man to man. In fact, everything we did worked. We had an inside kick on the opening kickoff. If we don't kick it as far then we're going to get the ball on the opening kickoff. They (Florida) weren't ready to cover it, I can tell you that. We just kicked it too hard.

(On the fake punt) did you take the penalty on purpose?

Coach Claiborne: No. We just took too long to kick the ball. I thought they would stay in the same defense, we called it (the fake) off. We saw them call it (the rush) off. We saw them put their guys deep, so we put it back on.

Last Weeks Answers

Cunningham Instrumental In Youth Basketball

Melvin Cunningham is best known to basketball fans as former University of Kentucky star Melvin Turpin's guardian. But to a lot of athletes around the world he's a friend, counselor, coach, teacher and much, much more.

Cunningham, 45, has been involved with helping young people, especially athletes, nearly all of his life. Since he graduated from Kentucky State University, in 1962, nearly all of his time has been devoted to youngsters.

The Dunbar High 1957 graduate is now director of the Carver Neighborhood Center on Patterson Street in downtown Lexington and he is also the founder of the world-famous Dirt Bowl summer outdoor basketball league, which is rated the best in the country by many experts.

Cunningham is so familiar with young area athletes he's become sort of a "scout" for many colleges, especially basketball schools, around the country. He's friends with many coaches and keeps them informed on the progress of a particular athlete they might be interested in. If a certain individual is worthy of a

"We've had a flurry of superstars play in the league the last 10 years," said Cunningham, who noted that Adams, currently on the Wildcats' football team, is an excellent basketball player. "I also coached in the league, usually the younger kids between the ages of 15 and 18 years, who I thought had a future in high school or college sports. I threw them to the dogs early."

It was through his contacts around the city that Cunningham first became involved with Turpin, who is now a professional basketball player with the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association.

coaches' attention, Cunningham lets them know about it. With the rich pool of talent in the Lexington area, that makes Cunningham a very important link between the young athletes and the coaches.

"It all started about 20 years ago," said Cunningham recently. "That's when I graduated from Kentucky State and took a teaching job at Laing High School in Charleston, S.C. When I went to South Carolina, I was going from a basketball state to a football state."

In Carolina, Cunningham discovered basketball wasn't as important as it is in Kentucky.

"They had very little interest in basketball," Cunningham said. "High school and college football was the biggest thing to them. It was hard to get a basketball conversation started until football season was over, which was around January. I was used to talking basketball all year round."

So, in order to keep himself from being bored, Cunningham started a league with some local youth to show them how James Naismith's game was organized and played in Kentucky. It wasn't easy for him to start a league but his homeroom class at Laing included some basketball players.

"I saw a lot of raw talent," Cunningham said. "I saw kids as good as some up here but they weren't as developed fundamentally. The football coaches down there doubled up as basketball coaches and a lot of them didn't understand how to be a basketball coach. So, it was an untapped source of talent. I started a scholarship program of helping kids the college scouts may have overlooked. I started making recommendations to some coaches I knew. It became a hobby to me."

Cunningham didn't stay in Charleston long. In 1967, four years after he went to Charleston, Cunningham returned to his native Lexington because his mother was ill. He took a job at Kentucky State as a guidance counselor and athletic dormitory director, working there for 10 years until he moved over to the Carver Center, which is a social service agency run by Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government. He's been at the center ever since.

Upon his return, Cunningham picked up on his Carolina experience and founded the Dirt Bowl, of which he was director for 15 years. The Bowl, played at Douglas Park on Georgetown Street from mid-June until mid-August each summer, initially would receive national recognition.

It has been featured in Sports Illustrated magazine and also in the book; "In Your Face" Basketball. The Dirt Bowl has been funded through the Parks and Recreation Department for the last six or seven years. Before that, a lot of the money needed for the league came out of the pockets of Cunningham, among others.

"I took it from the bottom to the top," said Cunningham, who retired from his director's post three years ago but still remains actively interested in the players who participate in the league. "I'd catch the kids coming out of junior high school and place them in the league. It keeps them together."

The league features regular season play, with a tournament at season's end. There are two graded divisions, A and B, with each division an open league. That is, there's no age limit. But most of the participants are between 15 and 30 years old. There is also a Junior Dirt Bowl for the younger kids.

"Most leagues are grouped according to age," said Cunningham. "We're probably the only league in the country where high school, college and professional players go up against each other. Our kids handle it really well. The youngsters kids are able to develop quicker because of the competition they go up against."

Among the players some of the younger players have found themselves going up against have been the likes of Jack Givens, James Lee, Turpin, Steve Miller, Tony Wilson, Guy Minniefield, William Conner, Billy Ray Bates, Keith Berry, Mike Phillips, Leroy Bird and George Adams, to name just a few.

Melvin Cunningham

"When I first met Melvin eight years ago, he hadn't touched a basketball in his life," said Cunningham. "His mother and father were very ill. His dad died of cancer when he was a freshman in high school. His mom has sugar diabetes. His parents wanted to make sure he got the support and proper upbringing he needed, so they gave me legal permission to become Melvin's guardian."

The rest, as they say, is history. Turpin, nicknamed "The Big Dipper" because he's 6-11 and 250 pounds, went on to play center at Kentucky and became the school's ninth all-time leading scorer with 1,509 points in 123 games. During Turpin's four seasons at UK the Wildcats compiled an overall record of 96-27, including last season's 29-5 mark and NCAA Final Four appearance.

His final year at Kentucky was Turpin's best. He averaged 15 points and seven rebounds per game playing alongside UK's other "Twin Tower," 7-1 forward-center Sam Bowie. He connected on 59 percent of his field-goal attempts and shot 75 percent at the foul line. He ranked third in the Southeastern Conference in blocked shots and was among the SEC's top 15 rebounders, scorers, field goal and free-throw shooters. During his career he twice scored 42 points in a game.

Turpin was selected All-SEC twice and made All-America his final season. He started in all 34 games as a senior, which gave him 95 consecutive starts when he left Kentucky. He also played in all 123 games he wore a Kentucky uniform.

Even though he didn't start playing basketball until he was a junior, Turpin was a prep All-American and Kentucky all-stater at Bryan Station under head coach Bob Barlow. In his senior season Turpin averaged 24 points and 15 rebounds. Upon graduation, he attended Fort Union Military Academy for one year, averaging 25 points and 14 rebounds per game.

Turpin was drafted in the first round of the NBA draft by the Washington Bullets but traded to the Cavaliers only an hour later. He signed a very lucrative contract with the Cavaliers and in 10 games so far this season he was averaging 15 points and 10 rebounds.

"He was one of eight players invited to New York City for the draft," said Cunningham. "He didn't have any idea the Cleveland deal was even up in the air. While he was shaking hands with Bullets' executives the papers for the trade were being drawn up in another part of the hotel. He was shocked when told he had been traded to Cleveland. But that's kind of like life sometimes. It's unfair. Melvin has to learn to take the bitter with the sweet."

Cunningham was happy Turpin ended up with the Cavaliers, perennially one of pro basketball's worst franchises in the won-loss department.

"It'll give Melvin the opportunity to grow and be a part of a franchise which may develop into a real contender in the next three years," Cunningham said. "They got new coaches, new general managers and a beautiful arena that seats 20,000 people. Plus, he should develop faster by taking his lumps early. He's playing about 35 minutes a game."

In his first professional contest Turpin was matched against Philadelphia 76ers' center Moses Malone, who outscored him by a near 2-1 margin.

"The thing that's encouraging about Melvin is that his track record shows he improves every year," Cunningham explained. "Some players reach their peak and then flatten out. But Melvin's gotten better every year he has played. Melvin is a player that has shown he will work hard. He's got all the ingredients to become one of the all-time greats. His career in the NBA could last from 10 to 15 years."

During a pre-season practice, Turpin was told to leave, and hit with a fine, by Cleveland Coach George Karil for allegedly not going all out. But Cunningham says it was all a big misunderstanding that wasn't reported by the press.

"Melvin was hurt on the day of practice and the team trainer told him not to go all out," said Cunningham. "This is the normal thing in high school and college when a player is hurt. But the trainer didn't tell the head coach what he had told Melvin to do. The fine was dropped and Melvin was reinstated for the next session."

Cunningham says his protegee didn't let what happened bother him.

"Mentally, he's a tough kid," said Cunningham. "Melvin has the uncanny ability to bounce back from adversity. That's how determined he is. He won't stay down very long. If you whip him on the court today, he can come back tomorrow and whip you."

Cunningham's friendship to Turpin has caused many to say that Turpin probably owes his whole life to Cunningham. But Cunningham doesn't look at it that way.

"They'll be another Turpin," he says. "It's a cycle. It's one great wheel that keeps turning. It goes on with or without you. You get on it. You enjoy it. You benefit from it. Then you jump off. The biggest reward I get out of helping these kids is seeing them become independent of me and their parents and becoming self-supporting citizens of the community. When that happens, I feel I've done all I can do to help them stand on their own two feet."

Cunningham says that, sadly, there aren't too many success stories like Melvin Turpin. More young athletes fail than succeed in sports. Cunningham's office walls in the Carver Center are covered with press clippings of those who did or didn't make it.

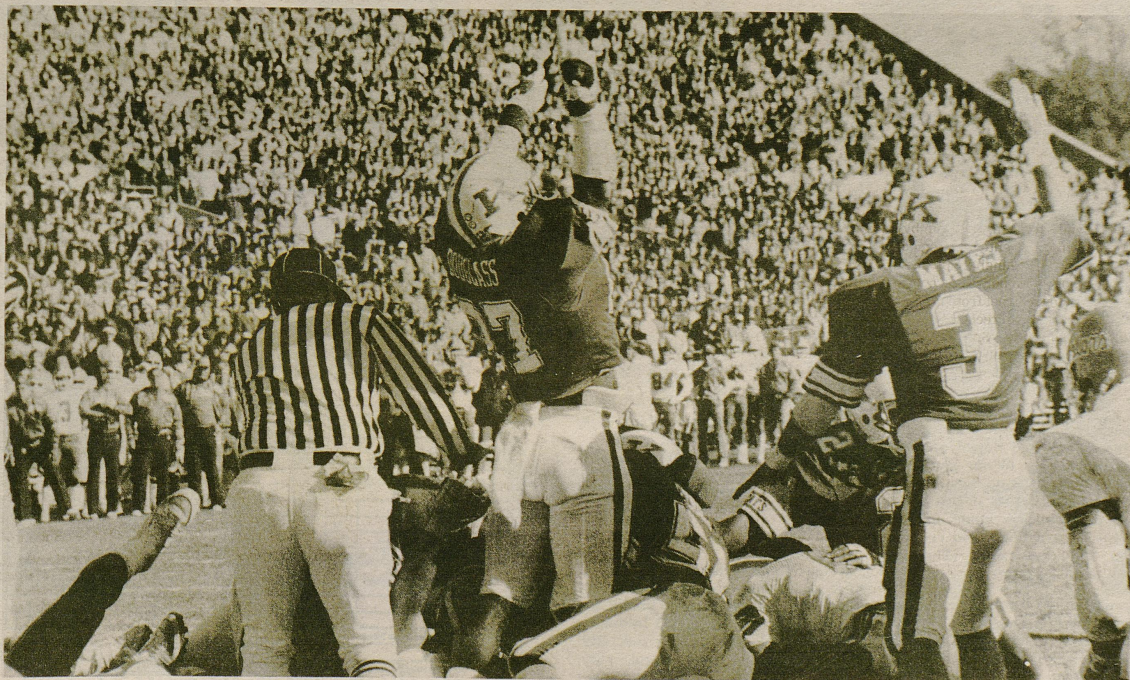

"The biggest fallacy an athlete has is that success will come easy and quick," said Cunningham. "He does not want to make two sacrifices. That is, he does not want to work hard and be patient. A player can't see that far down the road. He wants immediate results. If things don't go a player's way, he's ready to throw up his hands and quit. But if a player doesn't understand life, he'll never understand sports."

"I tell the athletes I'm involved with to be prepared for anything that life throws at you," Cunningham continued. "We live in a tough, cruel world. But if he is patient and works hard, he'll eventually see the light at the end of the tunnel. He may not at first, but if he works hard enough it'll finally show up. It takes hard work, patience and discipline. A lot of athletes have the attitude that 'If you don't give me what I want, I'll take my ball and go home.' Ten years down the road, they pay the price for that decision."

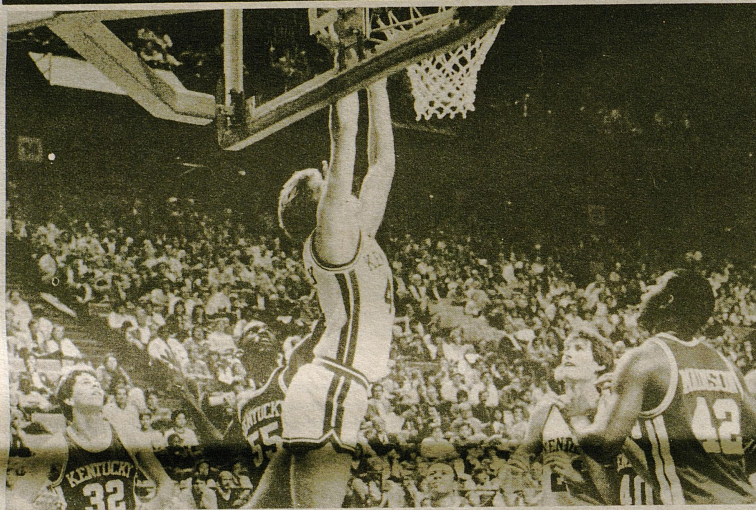

Cunningham usually attends all the major high school and collegiate sporting events in the area. When he's not there or at the Center, he's at home on Lima Drive with his wife, Sondra, and three children: Melony, 16, Monica, 15 and Maxie, his only son, 8. His wife is a nurse at Good Samaritan Hospital.

"If I wanted to, I could go 24 hours a day," said Cunningham. "But there has to be a balance there."

But no matter how much time Cunningham spends with any youngster, be it his own or somebody else's, one can be sure he'll be there to help, in any way he can, that individual become the best person he or she can be.

Walker Unstoppable Against Blue

It was a day Coach Joe Hall would like to erase from the memory banks.

For the first time in three years the University of Kentucky Wildcats did not ink a prep basketball player on the first day of signing. Also, Paul Andrews had to leave the second half of the Blue-White contest last Wednesday night with a badly bruised left forearm. At the time of his injury, though, it appeared that Hall's troops might be reduced to three guards.

The White squad, led by Kenny Walker's 27 points, blitzed the Blue team 85-68 at Rupp Arena before 8,000 (estimated) fans.

"We're just a long ways away," said Coach Hall during his post game conference. "We had hoped to have added some finesse to our game by this time, but there is no way. We've had so many injuries, we're just lucky that we can perform some of the basics. It's been a teach and reteach (process) all preseason. (Though) we're not short on effort."

Andrews' injury came late in the second half. While chasing an errant pass, Andrews collided with 5-foot-5 LeRoy Byrd. The sophomore guard had to be helped off the court to the dressing room with 8:33 in the contest.

After closing to three points (27-24) on a hook shot by Blue team member

Richard Madison, the White squad outscored their opponents 18-4 in building a 45-28 advantage. Robert Lock and Bret Bearup led the charge during that particular run. Lock scored on two dunks and a 10-footer, while Bearup connected on a 16-footer and a layup to put the game out of reach.

Lock and Bearup poured in 21 and 19 points for the winning White team. Both were impressive from the field as Lock connected on 10 of 14 shots, and the 6-9 senior made eight of 12.

Madison, nicknamed the "Master Blaster," had an excellent game for the White squad, hitting on nine of 19 from the field (two of two free throws) for 20 points. Madison also tied for the team high in rebounds with seven.

Day After Notes -- Andrews only bruised his left forearm. It had been feared that the Laurel County product had been lost for the season with a broken arm.

Irving Thomas Signs with UK -- After not signing anyone the first day (November 14), Kentucky finally got its first b-ball recruit in '85 by inking Irving Thomas. Thomas, a 6-9, 220-pound forward from Carol City, Florida, chose the Wildcats over Florida, Georgia, and Georgia Tech. This blue-chipper will definitely be an asset in the near future for Hall's Cats.

Blue Team Crushes White Squad 102-61

Kenny Walker and Bret Bearup combined for 59 points as the Blue squad defeated the White team 102-61 in Pikeville last Monday night.

A crowd of 1,800 witnessed the third straight victory for the Blue team. The winners built up a 15-point halftime lead (47-32) and were never headed.

The Blue team shot well from the field connecting 43 goals on 66 attempts for an exceptional 65.2 percent.

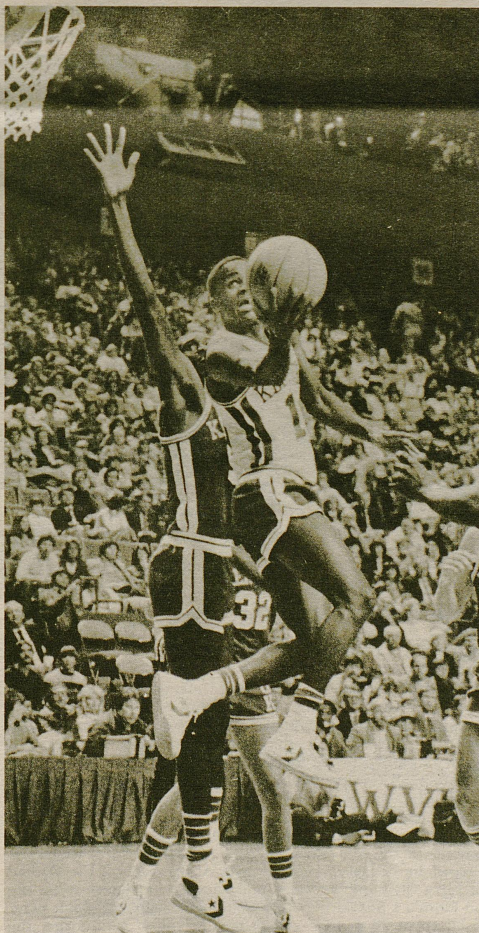

For Walker, who scored 35 points, it was the third straight game in which the junior forward had paced the Blue to victory. Bearup connected on nine of 14 attempts from the field and cashed in six free throws for 24 points. The heir apparent to Melvin Turpin pulled down eight rebounds.

Former Laurel County standout Paul

Andrews hit on nine of 12 from the field (four-six free throws) for 22 points.

Blue team members, freshman Robert Lock and junior Roger Harden had an exceptional overall performance. Lock poured in nine points while grabbing 14 rebounds. Harden, who scored 10, dished off a whopping 19 assists against the White team.

First-year member Ed Davender sparked the White squad with 18 points, his highest total in scrimmage play so far. Troy McKinley continued to have a fine preseason. The 6-foot-6 sharpshooter scored 14 for the Whites. His total for the three games played is 55 points (18.2 points per contest), second only to Walker's 89 (29.6 per game average). Paul Andrews is third with a 54 points (18 per contest).

Florida came out of the gates ready to blow the stadium. On the Gators' first two plays from scrimmage Williams busted loose for gains of 32 and 10 yards. With the Wildcat defense stiffened. After Kerwin Bell's receiver Lorenzo Hampton, Raymond's 30-yard boot Gators grabbed the early 3-0 lead.

The Big Blue faithfuls, though, cheered, when they went from down south to only three points. The fan's reaction to the Cats on their first offensive series.

From their own five UK used the "Wildcat Special" and caught the Gator defenders by surprise. Kentucky side without taking a huddle and George Adams took down the left side for 23 yards.

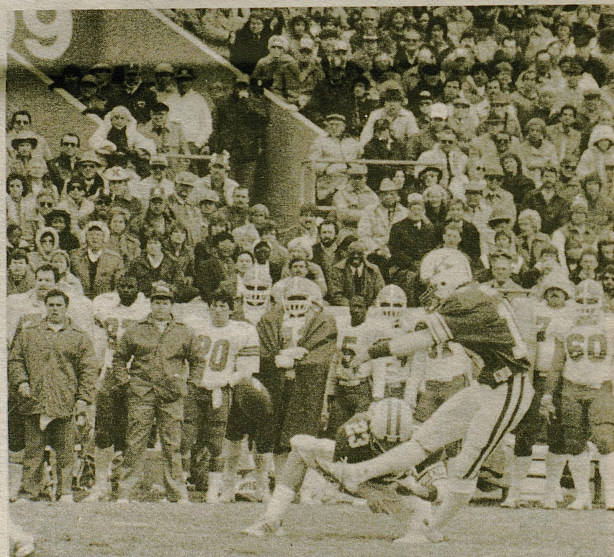

The key play during the 11 series drive was the 16 from quarterback Bill Ransdell intended for Oliver Florida players, and then hauled in by Cornell Burbride the visitor's 40.

UK was stymied at the Florida 32 as kicker Joe Worley down at the UF 33. The freshman, who came into the (Vanderbilt) to his credit, booted a 50-yard field goal in yellow crossbars. The Wildcats did in the first quarter do the entire contest against Florida: score. Kentucky left in the first stanza.

With the Cats trailing 9-3 in the second quarter, Worley skyed to pickoff a Bell pass at the Florida 41 and scramble it was his first interception since the Tennessee game.

But the Wildcats gave the ball right back to Florida. Phillips, after catching a pass, coughed up the ball on who had outscored their opponents 289-136 this year, misque. Raymond kicked his fourth field goal of the game his team a 12-3 lead with 0:43 remaining until halftime.

*Worley Ties The Score
Florida Wins SEC*

Pending the NCAA's decision Tuesday, the University of Florida's '84 football season may have defied the common phrase -- "cheaters never prosper." By beating the Kentucky squad 25-17 Saturday at Commonwealth Stadium (along with LSU's loss), the Gators earned a Southeastern Conference crown and a trip to the Sugar Bowl. The win marked the first SEC title for the football Gators. But that could be nullified if the NCAA decides to punish the Gators this season for their 107 rule breaking infractions (59 of which have been admitted to).

For Kentucky it was perhaps the finest showing of the season. The home team had a chance to tie the contest as an illegal procedure call erased a UK apparent touchdown in the last minutes of play. At that time, if the TD had counted Coach Jerry Claiborne's Cats would have had a chance to tie the game and spoil Florida's SEC title hopes with a successful two-point play.

Outweighed by about 30 pounds a man on the line of scrimmage, the Wildcats on five different occasions held the Gators inside UK's 21 or better -- permitting four field goals by Florida's placekicker Bobby Raymond. Raymond ended up with six three-pointers to tie an SEC record.

An Emotional Stand

Kentucky Marred By One Crucial Turnover

Kentucky was within striking distance, but it definitely needed a big play to have a chance. That big play happened when senior defensive guard David Thompson caused Florida's Williams to fumble, which was recovered by UK's Jeff Kramer at the UF 32.

On fourth-and-one at the 12, Adams bulled his way off right guard to give the Cats a first down. One play later Ransdell, who stayed in the pocket for about five seconds, spotted Phillips in the end zone for the score. Worley's PAT with 10:15 remaining in the third quarter pulled UK to within two points, 12-10. Phillip's touchdown was the first one the stingy Gator defense had allowed in 11 quarters.

At this time it was evident that the Gators were in for a tough struggle. The whole Kentucky sideline was urging the diehard Blue fans to stir up some noise. Noise is exactly what most of the 52,823 caused -- the place was simply going bonkers. The wild atmosphere charged up the already electrified Kentucky defense.

The series following UK's score, Florida began to make some noise of their own, but to no avail.

John Williams on third-and-two deep in UK territory over middle, ala Hershel Walker, but was viciously met by defensive end Brian Williams for a one-yard gain. On fourth down at the one, Florida's Williams tried the same tactics and was stopped again, this time by No. 56, Frank Hare. The defense had held and was ready to start another scoring drive.

However, Ransdell's pass was intercepted by Jarvis Williams at the UK 15. It was a crucial mistake as the Wildcat defense, who had just held the Gator offense, was asked to perform another stand. Florida got its first touchdown when Bell connected with Frank Neal in the end zone to complete the three-play, 2:10 drive.

A Gallant Last Effort

Kentucky pulled another one of its trick plays out of the Coach's blue hat. After a delay of game penalty against UK, the Wildcats were faced with a fourth-and-14 from the Gator 45. With Florida's return team now in, Calhoun took the snap, faked the punt, and completed a pass to Burbage for 17 yards and a first down. On the very next play Burbage was again on the receiving end, this time catching a pass from Ransdell for 20 yards. One play later the Elizabethtown sophomore hit Phillips in the right side of the end zone for the score.

With the score 25-17 and a little more than 3:00 remaining, Kentucky almost threatened to tie the game.

Aided by Ransdell's four of five completions, along with a 10-yard penalty, UK moved from their 29 to the Florida 10 with over a minute to play.

Ransdell then veered left and fired a bullet to Phillips in the end zone to apparently pull UK within two points. Meanwhile, an official dropped a flag indicating UK's split end (Eric Pitts) had not set up on the line of scrimmage --no touchdown.

The Wildcat end noted that he had set up the same way during Kentucky's previous touchdown. So he either lined up illegally both times, or the official made a mistake.

Though the day after the game it was reported (on film) that Pitts failed to set up on the line of scrimmage. The call by official Ronnie Baynes was correct.

Florida's Adrian White ended UK's hopes on the second down with an interception of a Ransdell pass. The final count Florida 25, UK 17.

After the game, Florida president Marshall Criser went to the Gators' locker room to praise the team and to inform Coach Galen Hall that he had been selected the permanent head coach of the Gators. Since taking over for Charley Pell after Florida's third game of the season, Hall has guided the Gators to a 7-0 record (8-1-1 overall).

The Wildcat Stars

BILL RANSDALL -- The sophomore signal caller completed 18 of 35 passes for 189 yards and two touchdowns. Ransdell used his receivers well as nine UK players in all were on the receiving end of his passes.

JOKER PHILLIPS -- Phillips had a fine overall performance. The senior receiver caught four passes for 35 yards and two touchdowns. He also threw a pass, on a fake reverse, to Adams netting 31 yards.

CORNELL BURBAGE -- Had probably his finest game of the season catching five passes (including the fake punt) for 76 yards.

BRIAN WILLIAMS -- The senior from Middlesboro played a very spirited game. He had 13 tackles (11 first-hitters and three assists) and broke up one pass.

CAM JACOBS -- The Florida native played with a cause Saturday against his hometown boys. Jacobs had 12 tackles (11 first-hitters, and one assist).

Vols Playing Jekyll/Hyde Routine

One of more puzzling teams to evaluate in college football the past few years has been the Tennessee Volunteers. Season after season during the 80's, the Vols are frequently selected to become a top contender for the SEC crown. But for some reason or the other, Johnny Major's club usually finishes with an average but respectable overall record. Also, for some strange reason, Tennessee always manages to lose to teams which possess lesser talent. Since 1980, Tennessee has lost to such mediocre teams such as Virginia (1980), Kentucky (1981), Duke and Georgia Tech (1982). Last year ABC college football analyst Beano Cook shocked everybody and picked the Volunteers as the pre-season number one ranked team in the country. It didn't take very long for Cook's selection to go down the tubes because three weeks into the season, UT suffered two home defeats at the hands of Pittsburgh 13-3 and by Auburn 37-14, with both games played.

Todd Hallum

Cats' Pause Columnist

On the other hand, Tennessee did win nine games with a season ending victory over Maryland in the Citrus Bowl. By defeating the Terrapins, the Big Orange won their first bowl game since 1981, when the Vols beat Wisconsin 28-21 in the now defunct Garden State Bowl. With the significant victory, many of the Tennessee followers thought last seasons bowl win might be a great momentum builder for this season, but that hasn't been the case.

With injuries to key personnel, especially All-SEC candidates Johnnie Jones and Alvin Toles, have plagued the Volunteers quest for another bowl invitation in the early going this season. But as the season progressed, the injured bodies started to heal and Tennessee has pieced together a three-game winning streak going into last week's Ole Miss contest. The Vols ran off a string of wins over the likes of Alabama, Georgia Tech, and Memphis State. Coming off a disappointing tie with Army and two losses to Auburn and Florida, the Alabama win looms as an important victory. Defeating the Crimson Tide was not easy to say the least, a touchdown, and ensuing two point conversion in the closing seconds resulted in a thrilling 28-27 come from behind victory. When this year is completed, many UT fans might remember the Bama contest as the turning point of the 1984 season.

It ought to be a real war when Kentucky strolls into the colossal Neyland Stadium for a scheduled 1:30 kickoff. There's no question both teams are still vying for bowl spots but both squads will be fired up over this annual rivalry, for the coveted beer barrel. Kentucky hasn't defeated Tennessee in Knoxville since 1976, when Derrick Ramsey passed to Greg Woods for 62-yard score to give the Cats a 7-0 victory. It should be noted that Tennessee's Johnny Majors owns a 5-2 record over the Wildcats during his head coaching career at Tennessee. On paper both teams appear fairly equal with the Vols possessing a slight edge in overall team speed, especially at the wide receiver position. Flanker Tim McGee happens to be one of top receivers in the SEC and has had an outstanding season thus far into the season for the Vols. Conversely, the Wildcats will be looking to give Jerry Claiborne his first win ever over the Volunteers as a Kentucky head coach. For a prediction, lets make it Kentucky 24-21, in a game thats decided by a last second Joe Worley field goal.

UK Notebook: Sam Bowie's basketball career continues to be hampered by nagging injuries. On November 14, game against the Dallas Mavericks, Bowie sprained an ankle and will be out of action for the Portland Trail Blazers for approximately 10 to 12 days. X-Rays revealed nothing more serious but a sprain to Sam's right ankle. . . .Ex-Wildcat Rick Robey underwent successful surgery on his heel at an Oregon hospital. Dr. Stanley James who performed the operation along with the assistance of Phoenix Suns orthopedist Dr. Richard Emerson, said Robey will have his ankle in a cast for eight weeks and should be ready to play for the Suns next season. . . .Former UK offense tackle Warren Bryant was released by the Atlanta Falcons. Bryant, a first-round draft choice back in 1977, had not started a single game this season. Atlanta head coach Dan Henning said the big lineman was not producing for the Falcons. . . .The leading pass receiver for the New England Patriots is ex-UK quarterback Derrick Ramsey. After 11 games into the NFL season, Ramsey has grabbed 42 passes for 459 yards and three touchdowns. Incidentally, the Patriots sport a 7-4 record and are still in contention for an AFC playoff spot.

Adams Sets UK Record For All-Purpose Yards

Senior George Adams gained a total of 184 all-purpose yards Saturday against Florida to give him a total of 1,524 yards, beating the record of 1,413 yards set by Dicky Lyons in 1967.

Sixty of Adams' yards against the Gators came on 14 rushes, which gives him a total of 223 rushes and 975 yards for the season. He also caught two passes for 34 yards and returned six kickoffs for 90 yards.

Adams has 975 yards rushing, 240 yards kickoff returns and 309 yards receiving for the season and 2,401 all-purpose career yards. Sonny Collins holds the record of 4,123 career yards.

Collins also holds the record for most carries in a season with 248 in 1975, which means Adams must rush more than 25 times against Tennessee in the season finale at Knoxville Saturday if he expects to break the record.

Quarterback Bill Ransdell, with 236 attempts and 133 completions, is only three away from tying Babe Parilli in both categories, who holds the records with 239 attempts and 136 completions set in 1951.

Paul Calhoun, leading pass interceptor in the conference, added one against Florida for a total of seven, two below the UK record of nine set by Jerry Claiborne in 1949.

Calhoun averaged only 33.0 yards on four kicks against the Gators, but his season average is still a healthy 44.3, ahead of the UK record 43.5 set by Ralph Kercheval in 1933.

(The above statistics do not include bowl games).

As a team, the Wildcats have attempted 273 passes, which is far below the 326 attempts by the 1969 team; however, with 152 completions, the current Wildcats are in good position to break the school record 157 set by the 1970 team. The current team has 84 first downs passes ... the record is 87 set in 1980.

The Wildcats have posted their second consecutive winning season (7-3-0) since the 1976 Peach Bowl team finished 8-3 and the 1977 team was 10-1. Going back further, Blanton Collier's 1955 team was 6-3-1, his 1956 team 6-4-0. Paul "Bear" Bryant did not have a losing season during his eight years (1946-54). Collier followed him with consecutive winning seasons in 1954-55-56.

Kentucky's last consecutive bowl appearances were in 1948 (Great Lakes), 1950 (Orange), 1951 (Sugar) and 1952 (Cotton). The Wildcats didn't appear on the bowl scene again until 1976, when they defeated North Carolina in the Peach Bowl. They lost to West Virginia last season in the Hall of Fame Bowl. The post season record is 4-2.

Tennessee

Don DeVoe's Tennessee Volunteers are one of the most formidable basketball powers in the nation. All six of DeVoe's teams have participated in post-season tournaments, his first five in the NCAA and last year's squad in the National Invitational Tournament. His first Vol squad won the SEC Tournament, while his 1981-82 team was regular season co-champion.

In 1984 Tennessee won 20 plus games for the fifth time in DeVoe's six years at UT. The Ohio native and Ohio State graduate is 121-67 at UT, a 64.4 winning percentage. His overall record stands at 238-137, 63.5.

DeVoe began his coaching career in 1964 as an assistant at Army to Coach Bobby Knight. DeVoe's first head coaching opportunity came in 1972 from Virginia Tech, where he compiled an 88-45 record in four years. At Wyoming he chalked up a 29-25 record in two years before accepting the job at Tennessee in 1979.

Because of his outstanding success at Tennessee, DeVoe has won many prestigious coaching honors. In 1979, he was voted SEC Coach of the Year by AP and captured the same honor in 1982 according to AP, UPI, and the KNOXVILLE NEWS-SENTINEL.

Being A Receiver Is No Joking Matter

Size and speed can be great assets to receivers. However, those aren't the keys necessary to beat defensive backs in the Southeastern Conference gridiron battles.

"A good receiver has to be smart," says UK junior wide receiver Cisco Bryant. "The defensive backs are all fast so you can't just run by them. You have to study films and see what you can do against a particular defensive back."

Larry Vaught

Cats' Pause Columnist

Joker Phillips, UK's second leading receiver this season, agrees 100 percent with Bryant. Phillips says, "You've got to learn how to get open in the SEC. You just don't go out and catch passes."

The UK receivers watch film before and after practice every Monday through Thursday. Three days a week the receivers and quarterbacks get together late at night in the dormitory to watch additional film on upcoming opponents.

"We don't have to watch all that film but we all want to do it," says Phillips. "You can learn to read the defensive backs by doing that. You know where the backs will be and you learn to pick up what coverage the secondary is using."

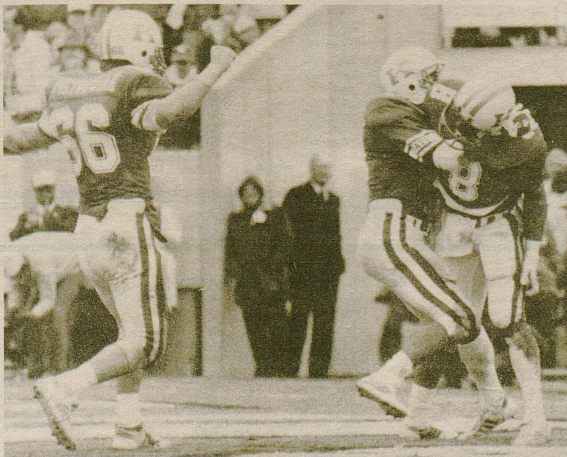

Phillips, though, says defensive backs can't tell as much by studying UK's receivers. He says, "One plus for us is that we use four wide receivers (Bryant, Phillips, Eric Pitts and Cornell Burbage). If a defense tries to key one of us somebody else will get open. We aren't in the game enough for backs to learn that much about us own film."

But even if the defense does spot a tendency in one formation the Cats can always change that at the line of scrimmage. Bryant says, "(Quarterback) Bill Ransdell doesn't make his audibles obvious. We really have to concentrate and we even look in to watch his motion. But he does a great job changing plays at the line."

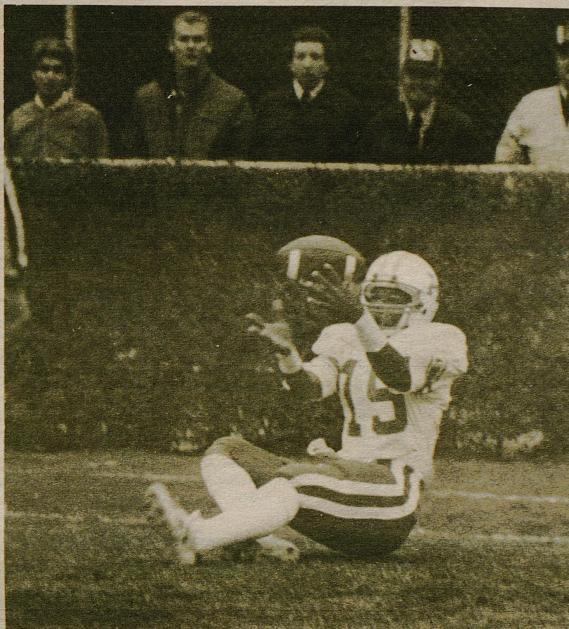

Even when Kentucky isn't throwing, the wide receivers can contribute to a big play. Phillips says, "Each week Coach (Jerry) Claiborne always tells the receivers that we can be on the end of a big play whether it is a pass or long run. We've got to get the defensive back down or at least tie him up for our backs to make those long runs."

"Personally, I love to hit. I played defensive back in high school and I'd rather make a big block to let George (Adams) or one of the other backs score than I would catch a touchdown pass myself. Blocking has never been a problem for me. Besides, the backs here are so good that they make blocking easy. Their moves set up our blocks."

Bryant, who seems to have a knack for making only important receptions, says the receivers understand that if Kentucky can run the ball if usually will win. He says, "We all want to catch passes but we're running the ball more now and winning. We can all accept that and look for other ways to help the team other than catching the ball. But we also can make teams respect our passing."

Phillips After Scoring TD

Bryant In The Right Place

Bryant's high school team threw only 20 percent of the time his freshman year. By his final season Bowling Green threw 70 percent of the time.

But Bryant, who caught a 57-yard touchdown pass against Mississippi State this season, was never one to complain. In fact, he seldom smiles or says anything on the football field. He smiles and says, "I have to concentrate so much on what I'm doing that I just don't have time to talk during a game. I don't do it to look tough."

"Off the field I like to relax with my teammates and talk about football. I don't go out much but I do now how to enjoy myself."

Phillips, too, is soft-spoken despite his nickname. "When people first hear me called Joker they think I must be a comic," says Phillips. "But once they get to know me they realize it is just a nickname. I'm a quiet person."

He's had his nickname, though, most of his life. His grandfather started calling him Joker when he was only two years old to avoid confusing him with his father, Joe.

"The name just stuck with me all these years," says Phillips. "Really, I prefer to be called Joker."

KENTUCKY will receive its second straight bowl bid today no matter what happens against Tennessee. And it should be a "peachy" day for the Wildcats.

The Peach Bowl has been interested in Kentucky since its 5-0 start this year. Today the Cats and the Peach Bowl will once again be reunited.

Coach Jerry Claiborne has made UK football respectable once again. But the Cats can't quit working. They need another solid recruiting year and another off-season of hard work in the weight room.

Kentucky has won only four SEC games during the last three years and only one of those wins came against an upper division club. Claiborne says, "We've improved our program but we've still got a ways to go before we're at the same level as the Floridas and Auburns and Georgias."

Still, two straight bowl appearances can only help the UK program. And a win today at Knoxville over Tennessee would be another boost for the Cats.

COACH JOE Hall will send his basketball team into action Tuesday against Toledo in the 1984-85 season opener. The Cats, ranked 18th in The Associated Press preseason poll, desperately need to win the opener with Indiana, Louisville, SMU, Purdue and Kansas waiting in December.

Injuries may keep Winston Bennett and James Blackmon out of the lineup against Toledo and force Hall to use his freshmen even more than anticipated.

The Cats will be inexperienced but should be exciting this year. Look for freshmen guard Ed Davender to be a major contributor, especially if Blackmon has any more problems with his knee.

And look for Kenny Walker to emerge as a true superstar this season. Walker was hesitant to put himself in the limelight the last two years. This season he has to be a dominant player for UK to survive.

Kentucky

In 12 seasons as Kentucky head coach, Joe B. Hall's teams have won 279 games and lost only 87.

Hall's teams have won an NCAA championship, an NIT championship, finished as NCAA runners-up, been to the NCAA Final Four three times, been to the NCAA final eight six times, been to the NCAA tournament nine times and to post-season play 11 times.

Hall has won eight Southeastern Conference championships and coached five All-Americans who have been selected a total of 10 times. His eight All-SEC performers have captured that honor 17 times. Hall was National Coach of the Year in 1978 and has been a nominee three other times.

After winning three letters and captaining the team at Cynthiana, Ky., High School, Hall played two years at Kentucky before transferring to the University of the South where he set a school single game scoring record and was team captain.

After touring Europe with the Globetrotters, Hall entered UK in '55 to complete requirements for his B.A. before beginning his career. His overall record includes a 57-50 mark at Regis College and a 19-6 record at Central Missouri.

Hall returned to UK in 1965 as assistant coach and head recruiter, and replaced Rupp when he retired in 1972.

The Lady Kat Volleyball team ended their regular season last Tuesday with a victory over visiting Louisville. Kentucky, 20-7 defeated the Cardinals 5-15, 15-2, 15-4, 15-13.

Coach Kathy DeBoer's team now has their sights set on Knoxville for the SEC Tournament, November 16-18. The regular season SEC champs are the No. 1 seed in the single elimination tourney and will face the Florida-Georgia winner Saturday.

"I think we're ready," commented DeBoer. "We've struggled a little in bit lately. The coach was referring to losses in the last three weeks at the hands of Illinois State, Japan, San Jose State, (twice) and Penn State.

"Those losses were to good teams. We had to play at our peak to be competitive against those teams. (But) I think we're ready."

It was a special night Tuesday as the three Kentucky seniors-- Linda Buntton, Lori Erpenbeck and Kim Martinsen -- were given the royal treatment. A spotlight shined on each player as their name and career accomplishments were read by the public address announcer. Mrs. Glorinda Singletary, wife of UK president Otis A. Singletary, presented the girls with a bouquet of flowers during the ceremonies. The seniors then stood side by side for the playing of My Old Kentucky Home.

Prior to the game, Erpenbeck and Martinsen were named to the All-SEC squad. UK was the only SEC school to place more than one girl on the six-player list. "That's a very high honor," noted DeBoer. "But it's one that they're both very deserving of."

Led by Erpenbeck, the Lady Kats got back into the match after losing the first game. With UK leading 7-1, the 6-foot-2 senior saved an apparent U of L point and from then on the Lady Kats were not to be beaten.

Two straight spikes by Erpenbeck upped the advantage to 11-2 as Kentucky routed the Lady Cards to even up the match at one game each. Aided by a Mabelle Elliot ace, two Erpenbeck spikes and a Martinsen spike, UK scored the last seven points in winning 15-4.

In the fourth game Louisville took a 9-7 advantage, but a Erpenbeck block, a Martinsen ace, and a Louisville net violation gave the lead to Kentucky at 10-9. The Lady Cardinals, however, would not give up as they knotted the score at 13. After five straight exchanges of serves UK's Lisa Dausman broke through with a scoring spike to put the home team ahead by one.

Martinsen's powerful spike gave UK a two-point victory and the match.

"It was a senior night," said DeBoer in referring to her teams nervous and shaky start. "Louisville is a very fine team (current Metro conference leaders)." We started off sluggishly and I was concerned."

The Lady Kats finished second in the Penn State Classic. UK defeated Rutgers 15-6, 5-15, 15-6, 17-15 and Carlton (Canada) 15-3, 15-3, 15-3. For the second time this year Kentucky was beat by Penn State. The 14th ranked Nittany Lions outlasted UK 15-13, 6-15, 15-5, 12-15, 15-5.

"It's hard to be satisfied when you lose a close match to a good team," said DeBoer. "The fact that we came up short was disappointing to us."

Swimming

The men's swim team had a successful opening win in Nashville, while the women's team was not as fortunate. Coach Wynn Paul's men defeated Vanderbilt 68-43.

UK's Chris Godfrey (1,000 yard freestyle), Martyn Wilby (200 free style), Doug Beima (50 free), Norman Martin (200 individual medley), John Pratt (200 butterfly), Dennis Damron (100 free) and Jeff Owsiany (200 breaststroke) won their respective events.

Wildcat freshman Mike Massey of Clearwater, Florida, captured the 3-meter diving event over second place finisher Robbie Cottrell also of UK.

Kentucky also won the 400 yard medley with a time of 3:34.64 compared to Vandy's 3:53.05.

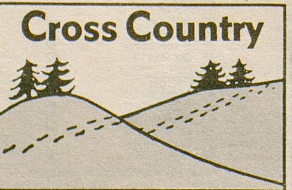

The girls squad, meanwhile, lost to Vanderbilt 59-54.

Individual winners for UK were Meredith Wingard (200 butterfly), Carole Lyon (200 backstroke), Linda Burney (200 breaststroke).

UK's women won the 400 yard medley in a time of 4:10, 00:12 faster than the Vandy team.

Senior diver Becky Keller was the individual winner in the girls 3-meter board event.

After the men, 1-0, face Purdue (November 15), both squads (men and women) will swim their home opener at the Memorial Coliseum pool against Louisville, November 30 at 6:00 p.m.

Cross Country

Bernadette Madigan's 16 place run was the best finish for the women's team in the District competition at Furman University. However Madigan, an '82 NCAA All-American in Cross Country as well as an '84 All-SEC performer, did not qualify for the national championship at University Park, PA.

Other Kentucky runners in the 5,000 meter event were: Kim O'Brian 41, Bev Lewis 55, Elisa Frosini 73, and Lori Linville 101. The race featured 182 collegiate women runners.

"The women did alright," said Coach Don Weber. "They thought they were pretty good, but they realized they weren't the best. (Overall) they were a good team."

Results of the men's team were not available at the time.

Recruiting -- Weber and his staff have been gazing over some of the nation's top prep long distance runners.

The coaches have attended (or will attend) state championships in Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Indiana, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York (Federation Meet), and New Jersey (Meet of Champions).

Weber mentioned that, in many cases, the older the high school runner starts the decline of his or her cross country ability. That is, runners are getting bigger and heavier during their junior and senior years -- thus detrimenting to their time.

"There're very few of them who we want to commit ourselves to until the very last moment," noted Weber. They (recruits) usually wait until springtime. "I hope, come April, that we can be able to sign quite a few people."

April 12 is the signing date for the prep runners.

Lady Kats

Aided by an outstanding overall performance from junior forward, Leslie Nichols, the Blue team defeated the White squad 60-50 at Breathitt County High School in Jackson.

This was the Lady Kats final tune up before their season opener at Memorial Coliseum against Cincinnati (November 20).

"We were a little rugged," noted Coach Terry Hall about her team being fatigued during their third scrimmage. "I was real pleased with Leslie Nichols performance. Basically we are ahead of where we were at this time last year."

Nichols pumped in 25 points (nine of 19 from the field, seven of 11 free throws), pulled down 16 rebounds, and dished out five assists. She also had two steals and blocked four shots.

Senior guard Diane Stephens and sophomore center Debbie Miller scored 13 and 10 points respectively for the victorious Blue squad.

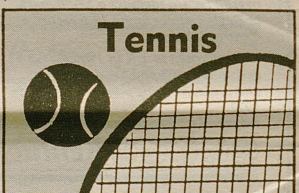

Junior Karen Mosley paced the White Team with 13 points.

"I've been real pleased with Melanie Warren, Debbie Miller, and Karen Mosely," commented Hall. "They, have improved tremendously over the summer."

While indicating that the freshman have been performing well, Hall noted that they will be counted during this very difficult schedule.

The Lady Kats will be facing a '84-85 slate that is similar to last season. Last year's schedule was ranked the fourth hardest in the country.

Said Hall, "We have a pretty tough schedule early on. It's just as tough as last year, but we have a little more maturity to handle the schedule this year."

Tennis

Kentucky's Tamaka Takagi qualified for the college indoor singles championship by finishing second in the Rolex-Southeast Women's Tournament in Winston Salem, N.C.

The UK freshman won four matches before losing in the finals to Jill Heatherington of the University of Florida 6-4, 6-4. "She's just real aggressive from the baseline," said her coach Mike Patrick. "Tamaka just hung in there and won her matches. It was a good tournament for her."

Takagi will compete in the women's national singles championship in Houston next February. The tournament will feature 32 of the nation's top women collegiate vieing for the prestigious championship.

On her way to the finals, Takagi defeated: Mary Anne Sarver (Wake Forest) 6-2, 6-2; Patti Henderson (Florida State) 6-2, 7-6; Jane Young (Mississippi) 6-4, 6-4; Irene Fallon (North Carolina) 1-6, 6-3, 6-1; and Barb Smith (Mississippi) 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Patrick noted that even though Takagi is a first-year player she doesn't play like one.

"She's the most experienced player on our team even though she is a freshman," Patrick said. "She has played in a lot of tournaments."

Results of other UK players in the individual tournament were: Beckwith Archer losing in the first-round to Megan Foster (Duke) 2-6, 6-4, 5-7; Lee McGuire defeated Sue Taylor (Duke) 6-2, 6-4. McGuire also won against Middle Tennessee's Michelle Grille 6-2, 6-2 in the second-round before

LSU

When Dale Brown arrived in Baton Rouge in 1972, LSU had been to two NCAA tournaments and one NIT. In the last six years, Brown has taken his Tiger teams to two NITs and four NAAs, to the Final Four in 1981. His teams have averaged almost 22 wins. Brown's career record is 212-130.

LSU is the only SEC team to have finished in the upper division for eight consecutive years and one of only 17 schools to have participated in post-season play six years in a row.

Brown has been national coach of the year (1981), SEC coach of the year three times (1973-79-81) and Louisiana coach of the year five times (1973-78-79-80-81). LSU has claimed three SEC championships and an SEC Tournament title during his tenure.

Brown began his coaching career at the high school level, where he worked with wrestling, football, track and basketball. His first collegiate job was as an assistant at Utah State (1966-71). He spent one year at Washington State as an assistant before accepting the LSU position.

Brown was the leading scorer in both football and basketball and set a school record in the 440-yard dash at Minot High School in North Dakota. He earned 12 letters in basketball, football and track at Minot State College, graduating in 1957.

Senior receiver Joe Phillips of Franklin and junior center Ken Pietrowiak of Grafton, WI, were named offensive back and lineman, respectively, for outstanding performances in Kentucky's 25-17 loss to Florida.

Phillips had four receptions for 35 yards, including two touchdown receptions. Phillips also had a 10-yard touchdown catch nullified by a penalty in the closing minutes of the game. He threw a 31-yard pass off a reverse to George Adams. Pietrowiak was cited by offensive line coach Jake Hallum for an outstanding performance.

Seniors Paul Calhoun of Louisville and Cam Jacobs of Coral Gables, FL share the defensive back award. Calhoun had 11 first hits, six assists, an interception a key tackle and a great effort. Jacobs led the team with 14 first hits and six assists.

Freshman Joey Worley of Oakwood, VA, won the kicking game honor for the second consecutive week. He kicked two extra points and a 50-yard field goal.

Juniors Jon Dumbauld of Troy, OH, and Brian Williams of Middlesboro, share the defensive lineman award. Dumbauld had five first and five assists. Williams had 14 firsts and four assists, three key tackles, a tipped ball and a great effort.

Members of the senior class will be captains for the season finale against Tennessee Saturday at Knoxville.

The University of Kentucky will close out its second consecutive winning football season under Jerry Claiborne as the Wildcats, 7-3 after losing to Florida Saturday in Lexington, meet Tennessee (6-2-1) Saturday afternoon in Knoxville.

While the Wildcats were losing, 25-17, to the Gators of Galen Hall, Tennessee overwhelmed Ole Miss, 41-17, in Jackson as Vol quarterback Tony Robinson wrecked the Rebel defense, hitting 19 of 31 passes for 199 yards. Tailbacks Johnnie Jones and Charles Wilson also ran through the Ole Miss defenders at will.

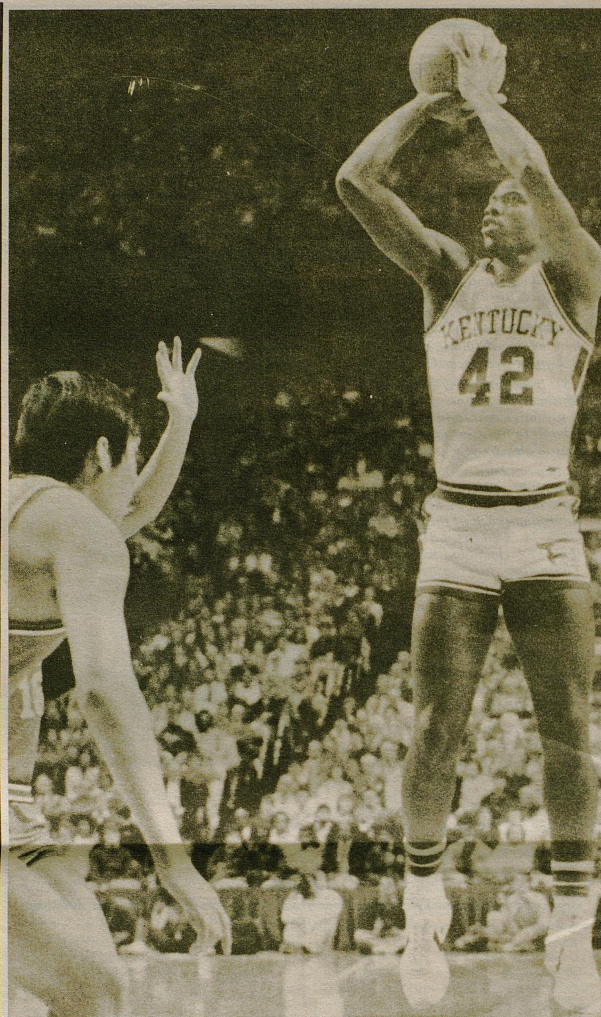

The Wildcats, a definite underdog to a Florida team that was 7-1-1 and coming off impressive wins over Auburn and Georgia, were praised by Claiborne for a valiant effort as they carried the Gators down to the wire.

Kentucky's chances for a tie were wiped out as Adrian White intercepted a Bill Ransdell pass on the Gator five on a second and 15 play. The interception came two plays after a 10-yard UK touchdown was nullified by a five-yard penalty for an illegal formation.

Florida is now atop the Southeastern Conference with a 5-0-1 record. Kentucky slipped to 2-3 and is tied with Vanderbilt for sixth place.

Tennessee leads 48-22-9 in a series that began with a 56-0 UK victory at Knoxville in 1893. Since a 20-7 victory at Knoxville in 1964, the Wildcats have managed only four victories and a tie with the Vols.

The 1976 Wildcats defeated the Vols, 7-0, at Knoxville and earned a Peach Bowl bid; the 1977 team capped one of UK's finest seasons by defeating UT, 21-17, for a 10-1 record. Tennessee won three straight, bowed to UK 21-10 in Fran Curci's final season (1981) and won 28-7 in 1982 and 10-0 last season.

Joe Hall's Comments

The following are Coach Joe B. Hall's post game comments following the 94-69 win over China.

Coach Hall: There's no amount of work that will be enough for all of our young players. They played spirited. They scrapped, hustled, and got on the boards good. I thought it was a good opener for us. I was pleased with our aggressiveness. (However) I was displeased with our offensive and defensive breakdowns.

Was there a mark of improvement from the previous Blue-White games?

Coach Hall: Yes, I thought playing in Rupp Arena against an outside opponent helped us a lot.

Can Ed Davender give you the play of a penetrating type guard?

Coach Hall: I think Ed is going to be a real fine player. He's going to learn from his mistakes and what he can use and what he can't. I've got a lot of faith in him. I think he has what it takes.

What about the breakdowns?

Coach Hall: Simple things like giving up the baseline and getting caught on the shuffle cut on the weak side when we should have been off the ball more. We got broke down one on one. In the second half we did a good job. Outside of some freshmen mistakes, we made some good adjustments. I was pleased with that.

(About Lock)

Coach Hall: He made a lot of friends tonight, certainly a lot of floor blurns. How are James Blackmon and Winston Bennett doing?

Coach Hall: Blackmon will start back to practice Monday (November 19) in somewhat a protective way. Winston will go through some of our offensive patterns and try to stay current with what we've been doing. He'll continue his work for the next week. I hope that next week he'll start some contact work.

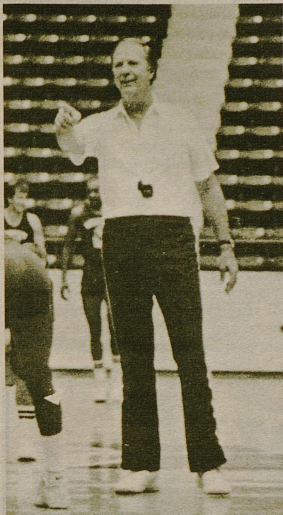

Miss. State

Beginning his fourth season in Starkville, Bob Boyd continues to lead the Mississippi State basketball program to new heights. Though the Bulldogs slipped to 9-19 last season, never were they out of contention in any of the contests. The Bulldogs also pulled off major upsets over highly-ranked Memphis State and Southern California.

Boyd's coaching history is a rich one. Beginning his coaching career in 1964 at Seattle University, the Los Angeles native quickly established that team as a national contender. The 1971 team finished 24-2 and lost to eventual national champion UCLA in the Far West Regionals.

Boyd returned to his alma mater, Southern Cal, in 1967 as head coach. In 13 years Boyd's Trojans compiled a 216-131 record and appeared in the National Invitational Tournament, the NCAA Regionals, and the Commissioner's Conference Tournament on five different occasions. He was named NCAA District VIII Coach of the Year by UPI in 1971 after his squad went 24-2.

Boyd was the only coach able to pin a loss on John Wooden's Bruins in their first 167 games at Pauley Pavilion—and he did it twice. His ability to teach is evidenced by the 14 students (11 Trojans and three Bulldogs) he has sent to the pros.

Back Thru The Wildcat Years

One Year Ago

*Kentucky's offense was unable to dent the scoreboard at Commonwealth Stadium and although the defense played a highly spirited game, the Cats dropped a 10-0 decision at the hands of the Tennessee Vols. Both teams immediately accepted bowl invitations with UK going to the Hall of Fame Bowl and Tennessee to the Citrus Bowl.

*Joe B. Hall's basketball Wildcats received a boost when California prep star Robert Lock signed a national letter of intent with the Wildcats during the November signing date.

*Kentucky's basketball Cats prepared for the season opener, an unusual one against the University of Louisville with expectations running high in the Commonwealth. The Wildcats were ranked in most pre-season polls among the nation's top four team.

Five Years Ago

*Kicker Alan Duncan kicked a 25-yard field goal with just seven seconds left in the game as Tennessee hung on to defeat Kentucky 20-17 at Commonwealth Stadium and earned a bid to the Bluebonnet Bowl for the Vols. UK, which finished the season at 5-6, would have won a ticket to the Hall of Fame Bowl had the Cats won.

*Having bounced back from an overtime loss to Duke in the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame Classic, Joe B. Hall's Cats prepared to journey to Alaska for the Great Alaska Shootout with senior Kyle Macy leading the way.

*Just moments after the Cats' loss to Tennessee in football, newly elected Governor John Y. Brown, Jr. told UK supporters that he hoped to have Commonwealth Stadium expanded to 78,000 seats. He told recruits that he planned to have the stadium expansion done before the recruits finished their final season at UK.

Ten Years Ago

*Nothing went our way from the beginning,' Kentucky Coach Fran Curci said after his team lost a Liberty Bowl bid and a 24-7 game to Tennessee in a game played in Knoxville. The Vols controlled the game as Kentucky's hopes were dampened when quarterback Mike Fanuzzi was flattened in the second quarter and never returned to action. Cliff Hite came in and hit seven of 14 passes and ran for 44 yards. Steve Compassi led UK with 95 yards in ten carries. UK finished the year 6-5, 3-3 in SEC play.

*Sonny Collins, who led the SEC in rushing despite missing over two games with injuries, was named the SEC's Offensive Player of the Year by UPI. Collins named 970 yards 107.8 yards per game. UK tackle Warren Bryant was also named first-team All-SEC, one of only three sophomores.

*The UK basketball team scored a 103-65 victory over the Athletics in Action East team. Led by 18 points by freshman Mike Phillips and 16 from fellow frosh Jack Givens, the UK team looked outstanding in their final tuneup for the season opener.

Ole Miss

An outstanding recruiter and motivator as an assistant coach at four different schools, Lee Hunt has brought a new era of basketball to Ole Miss, and the results are already being felt.

After serving with Gene Bartow at Memphis State, Illinois, UCLA, and UAB, Hunt came to Ole Miss in February 1982 as head basketball coach and assistant athletic director. His first season in Oxford, the Rebels were 19-12 and tied with LSU for second place in the SEC. Hunt was named SEC Coach of the Year by AP and UPI for his efforts. The Rebels also participated in the National Invitational Tournament, knocking off Alabama State and South Florida before falling to DePaul. Last season, the very young Rebel squad was 8-20, bringing his overall record to 27-32.

While an assistant, Hunt's teams were 231-91, a 71.7% winning rate, and won Missouri Valley, PAC Eight, and Sun Belt titles.

The Windsor, Mo., native graduated from Central Missouri State in 1957. Hunt coached high schools to a record of 136-66 in nine years before returning to his alma mater for five years. He joined the Memphis State staff in 1970.

Named one of the Outstanding Young Men in America in 1967, Hunt is a regular participant in basketball camps and clinics held throughout the country.

Vanderbilt

It didn't take long for C.M. Newton to establish himself at Vanderbilt. After only three campaigns in Nashville, Newton has 48 wins, more than any other Commodore coach in so short a time.

Newton left an administrative position at the SEC to assume head coaching and associate AD duties at Vandy in 1981. His 1983 team made the school's first trip to the NIT. The well-respected coach is chairman of the NCAA Rules Committee and served as manager of the U.S. Olympic team.

Born in Tennessee and reared in Florida, Newton played for Adolph Rupp at Kentucky and lettered on the 1951 national championship team.

Newton began his coaching career at Transylvania in Lexington, Ky. In spite of the handicap of a limited subsidy program, he guided his 12 teams there to a 169-139 record. The 1963 squad was 20-8 and captured the NAIA district title. Still, he was a virtual unknown when, in 1968, he accepted Paul Bryant's offer to coach at Alabama.

After four years at the football dominated school, everybody knew who C.M. Newton was, and the Crimson Tide basketball team won three consecutive SEC titles (1974-76). The '77 team finished 25-6, a Bama record. He joined the conference office in 1980.
