ADJUTANT GENERAL'S REPORT.

HEADQUARTERS KENTUCKY VOLUNTEERS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
FRANKFORT, December 1st, 1866.

To His Excellency, THOMAS E. BRAMLETTE, Governor of Kentucky:

I have the honor to submit the following Report from this office, in conformity with a resolution of the General Assembly, approved the 12th day of February, 1864, which resolution reads as follows: "That the Adjutant General of this State be, and he is hereby, required to procure complete descriptive rolls, as far as practical, of every enlisted man who has entered the service of the State or United States from Kentucky during the present rebellion, and include the same in his next annual report; also, that he embrace in said report a succinct historic record of each Kentucky regiment in the field, or that may have been in the service or may hereafter enlist, and such other general information as may be of interest to the people of the State."

In order that anything like justice might be done to the requirements of the Legislature thus expressed, it has been necessary to make this report emphatically a report of the war, so far as our State was concerned in the same; to take up each officer and enlisted man individually, and trace his career from his entry into the service to his exit therefrom, and to reconcile the discrepancies which would almost unavoidably occur in the various rolls. The resolution itself conveys but a limited idea of the work necessary to be performed in procuring the requisite rolls and papers, aside from the preparation of the report in manuscript. In order, therefore, to account for the delay in presenting this report, it may not be improper to make some mention of the difficulties with which I have had to contend, and of the amount of labor expended in obtaining the necessary data for the compilation of same.

When the late war of the rebellion burst upon us, our State was in a sad condition to meet it. The administration of the State, both in its civil and military departments, was regarded as hostile to the General Government, and, from the political views of its principal officers, in sympathy with the insurrection. The Chief Executive, Governor Magoffin, having refused to furnish the quota assigned our State under the first call made by the President for seventy-five thousand volunteers for three months' service, and the absurd idea of a State owing allegiance and service to a General Government assuming the attitude of armed neutrality toward that Government having lived just long enough to become ridiculous even in the eyes of those to whom it owed its origin, the Legislature, to meet the next call for volunteers, which was made early in the summer of 1861, created a Board of Commissioners, termed the Military Board of Kentucky, to whom were intrusted the arms of the State and all the duties pertaining to the raising, organizing, arming, and equipping troops for the national service. This Board, on entering upon its duties, found the material with which it was to act in the uttermost confusion; but, calling to their aid those two distinguished gentlemen and efficient officers, Genl. John W. Finnell, Adjutant General, and W. A. Dudley, Quarter-Master General of the State, they went rapidly to work, raised the requisite funds, purchased stores, and, in an exceedingly short time, placed in the field, armed and equipped, thirty-odd thousand men, a number largely in excess of our quota. Under this system, several regiments having been previously raised at Camps Dick Robinson and Joe Holt, Adjutant General Finnell had but little opportunity to obtain the requisite rolls and reports necessary for perfecting his records. The vast amount of business transacted through this office, growing out of the large number of troops called for, organized, and placed in the field, the hurried manner in which it was done, and the want of a matured military system, rendered it impossible to procure properly certified rolls and reports. The General Government not then having a thoroughly organized mustering department, almost every regiment of the first twenty-eight raised by the State were placed in the field during most active military operations before being mustered into the United States service; and, in several instances, where musters were made, the same were set aside by the War Department, because made by unauthorized persons. To supply the deficiencies thus existing, and with a view of complying with the resolution above referred to, Gen. Boyle, who succeeded General Finnell, applied to the War Department for certified copies. This request was at first refused, but the refusal afterwards modified so far as to grant authority to have the copies made and certified by commandants of regiments in the field. In accordance with this privilege, efforts were made by General Boyle, and renewed by myself, to obtain deficient records from the different regiments, but without success. Such was and had been the activity in the various campaigns of our armies, and Kentucky organizations being constantly where the true soldier is placed, in the front, either through abandonment of baggage consequent upon forced marches, or other vicissitudes of the service, the original papers from which certified copies were to be made were lost, and the officers called upon were unable to furnish the same. The office of the Adjutant General at Washington being overrun with business, I had to look to the assistance of the United States Mustering Officers in the field, and at points of rendezvous of Kentucky troops for discharge, in obtaining records of such troops as were mustered in and discharged in their respective departments; and owing to the kind and uniform courtesy and assistance of Brevet Colonel W. H. Sidell, acting Assistant Provost Marshal General, and Chief Mustering and Disbursing Officer for Kentucky, Brevet Lieutenant Colonel Alfred L. Hough, Chief Commissary of Musters of the Department of the Tennessee, and Brevet Major Charles H. Fletcher, United States Mustering and Disbursing Officer, stationed at Louisville, Kentucky, to each of whom I desire in this connection to express my warmest thanks, I have been enabled, notwithstanding the troubles experienced, to make the records of my office and the statistics of this report more complete than at first I had reason to hope for. I have exhausted every means known to me of supplying the few deficiencies now existing.

Another source of great inconvenience and cause of delay was removed by the Legislature at its last session, by providing for the publication of this report; since which time the work has been pressed with all the vigor my limited force has been capable of. The report consists of two volumes, and, for convenience of reference, has been made up in four schedules. Schedule A contains the individual history of each officer and enlisted man from the State mustered into the United States service, by companies and regiments, as compiled from the rolls and other authentic records in this office, with a short historic statement of marches, battles, skirmishes, &c., together with a table of casualties at the end of each regiment, in the following order as to the arm of service, viz: Cavalry, Artillery, Engineers, and Infantry, the non-veteran organizations of each arm followed by the veterans.

Schedule B is similar to A, but only embraces State troops, not militia proper.

Schedule C gives the same information in regard to the militia proper ordered on duty.

Schedule D contains an alphabetical list of officers, original rank and promotions, number of regiment and residence.

Schedule E is a complete list of General and Staff Officers from Kentucky, appointed and commissioned by the President of the United States.

The first volume contains so much of schedule A as embraces the Cavalry, Artillery, Engineers, and the first seventeen Regiments of Infantry. In this the statistics of the 2d and 3d Regiments of Cavalry, and the 8th, 12th, and 16th Regiments of Infantry, are defective, the extent of, and the cause for which, is set forth in a proper remark in each case. In the 4th Regiment of Infantry the non-veterans were not regularly mustered out of the service, but their names were borne upon and accounted for on muster-out rolls of the veterans.

I may here remark, that, in some few instances, a just standing upon the records is not exhibited herein, owing to the fact that the status of the officer or soldier has been changed by orders from the War Department correcting errors on the rolls since the report had gone to print. As an instance of this, I would cite the case of Sergeant Humphrey Hyde, of Company A, 4th Kentucky Infantry. On the muster-out roll of Company A, 4th Kentucky Infantry, he is reported as a deserter, which is manifestly an error, and by order of the War Department, dated November 7th, 1866, the charge is removed and the records corrected, showing him to have been discharged April 15th, 1862. These corrections and alterations will appear in an appendix to the second volume of this report.

The historic records are not as perfect as I could have wished them in some instances; and if injustice has been done any organization in this respect, it is owing entirely to the officers of that command, who have been repeatedly called upon for such information as would enable me to perfect their regimental history.

It has been fashionable with some to reflect upon the loyalty of our State; but every true man must feel and cordially confess that Kentucky has, during the late war, under circumstances far more trying than those surrounding any other State in the Union, discharged her whole duty. She has at all times, and under all circumstances, promptly responded to the quotas assigned her, and not with the mercenary purchased by excessive State or local bounty, but with citizens prompted by patriotism to the defense of their Government. In proof of this, the gallant record of our State, I would refer those doubting to the casualty statistics of this report, the record of battles in which Kentucky troops have borne an honorable part, and, lastly, to the seventy-nine stand of colors, those silent yet eloquent souvenirs of toil and danger, now displayed in the Capitol of the State, to remain as evidence of the bravery of her sons, and as an incentive to continued patriotism and sacrifice whenever duty calls. Many of these flags have been pierced by shot and shell, and their folds stained with the blood of their bearers, but all bearing evidence of the duty which Kentucky troops were expected to and did perform. Certainly, no one will rejoice more than your Excellency in the fact that there is not a blemish upon the escutcheon of a single organization from Kentucky.

Notwithstanding every possible care has been taken to insure correctness in names, dates, and facts, by careful revision of the manuscript before submitting it to the printer, and by re-reading after him the proof-sheets in the office, errors and omissions have doubtless been made; but it is confidently believed that the number and character of defects and inaccuracies that may have occurred will be readily overlooked, when the extent and magnitude of the work is considered.

In submitting this to your Excellency, I would be doing injustice to my own feelings if I failed to express the obligations I am under to the clerks in my office for their faithful and efficient aid, and especially to Captain Jno. B. Tilford, jr., Assistant Adjutant General, Charles J. Clarke, and Charles Hayden, having charge of departments. It were impossible to find employees more faithful, or whose services could have been more valuable to the State.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

D. W. LINDSEY,

Adjutant General of Kentucky.

*The muster-out rolls of the non-veterans of this regiment are not on file in the Adjutant General's Office of Ky. Its history, therefore, is necessarily incomplete.

FIRST KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The officers having failed to furnish a historic record of this regiment, the following statement of the condition, strength, and operations from its organization to date of muster-out, is taken from the official records and reports on file in the Adjutant General's Office.

The First Kentucky Cavalry, commonly known as "Wolford's" Cavalry, was organized at Camp Dick Robinson, under Colonel Frank Wolford, and mustered into the United States service on the 28th day of October, 1861, by General George H. Thomas. Immediately after, and indeed before their muster into service, the regiment was placed upon active duty, and participated in many skirmishes and all the early battles in Kentucky. Having acquired great efficiency as scouts, they were actively employed in that capacity, and were constantly kept at the front. This regiment was engaged in a great number of battles in which loss was sustained, among them the engagements at

Wild Cat, Kentucky;	Philadelphia, Tennessee;
Mill Springs, Kentucky;	Shiloh, Tennessee;
Lebanon, Tennessee;	Stone River, Tennessee;
Hillsboro, Georgia;	Lost Mountain, Georgia;
Somerset, Kentucky;	Knoxville, Tennessee,

and all the battles of the Atlanta campaign, in all of which, by its gallantry, it not only rendered efficient service to the Government, but reflected great credit upon its arms. It is a matter of deep regret that the data is not at hand from which to write such a history of this organization as its deeds in the field would justify. The veterans and recruits of this regiment were transferred to the First Kentucky Veteran Cavalry.

SECOND KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The officers of this organization having failed to furnish a historic record of the organization, operations, marches, engagements, casualties, &c., of this regiment, the following statement is compiled from official records on file in the Adjutant General's Office.

The 2d Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry was organized at Camp Joe Holt, under Col. Buckner Board, mustered into the United States service on the 9th day of September, 1861, by Major W. H. Sidell, United States Mustering Officer, and was a part of that gallant band raised by General Rousseau, from which the grand Army of the Cumberland sprung, has marched, viz: From Camp Joe Holt the regiment marched out to Muldrough's Hill with General Rousseau in defense of Louisville against the advance of Buckner, and was immediately assigned to duty with the Army of the Cumberland; it was in the advance of General Buell's army at Shiloh, and participated in that battle. The regiment remained in Tennessee until September, 1862, when they again returned to Kentucky with Buell's army, in pursuit of Bragg, and with the cavalry were engaged with the enemy at Chaplin Hills, Kentucky, October 8th, 1862. The regiment marched from Perryville in pursuit of Bragg, as far as Mount Vernon, in Rockcastle county, Kentucky, when the pursuit was abandoned, and both armies made efforts to reach Nashville first. From Nashville the regiment marched to Murfreesboro, and in the fight of Stone River received special mention from General Rousseau, commanding the Division, for gallant and daring bravery.

The regiment has participated in the following noted battles in which loss was sustained, besides numerous skirmishes and minor battles incident to the vigorous campaigns of the Army of the Cumberland, to which it was attached, viz: Shiloh, Perryville, Stone River, Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain, and all the battles of the Atlanta campaign. The regiment veteranized at Bridgeport, Alabama, March 7th, 1864, and the recruits and veterans were transferred to the 2d Kentucky Veteran Cavalry.

THIRD KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The officers of this command having failed to furnish a historic record of its operations, marches, &c., the following statement is compiled from the official records on file in the Adjutant General's Office, and is therefore very incomplete: The 3d Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry was organized at Calhoon, Kentucky, under Colonel James S. Jackson, mustered into the United States service on the 13th day of December, 1861, by Major W. H. Sidell, United States Mustering Officer.

Immediately after organization, this regiment was engaged as scouts in Southwestern Kentucky, a section of the State over which the Confederates then held control. They were assigned to General T. L. Crittenden's division, and marched from Calhoon, Kentucky, to Nashville, Tennessee, in the month of March, 1862. From there, in advance of the Army of the Cumberland, marched through Tennessee to Pittsburg Landing, and participated in the battle of Shiloh; from there to Corinth and Iuka, Miss.; from thence to Florence, Alabama; from there to Athens, Alabama, where the regiment remained during the summer of 1862. From Athens the regiment marched to Decherd, Tennessee, and from there commenced the pursuit of Bragg, who had advanced into Kentucky. At New Haven, Kentucky, they participated in the engagement in which the 3d Georgia Cavalry was captured. In advance of Major General Crittenden's division they marched from Louisville to Perryville, and in pursuit of Bragg out of Kentucky, returning to Nashville and Murfreesboro, Tennessee. The regiment veteranized at Nashville, Tennessee, in March, 1864, having participated in the following battles in which loss was sustained, viz: Sacramento, Kentucky; Pea Ridge, Mississippi; Corinth, Iuka, Mississippi; New Market, Alabama; Kinderhook, Tennessee; Chaplin Hills, Shiloh, Stone River, and Chickamauga, Georgia.

FOURTH KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The following statement of the condition, strength, and operations of the 4th Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry, since its organization to the 6th day of January, 1864, when the regiment veteranized, is taken from the regimental records, and from other authentic sources, and is strictly accurate.

The 4th Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry was organized at Louisville, Kentucky, under Colonel Jesse Bayles, mustered into the United States service on the 24th day of December, 1861, by Captain Bankhead, United States Mustering Officer, and has marched as follows:

On the 6th of January, 1862, the regiment marched from Louisville, Kentucky, to Bardstown, and went into a camp of instruction, established at that place by the late General Lytle; on the 26th day of March, 1862, left Bardstown for Nashville, Tennessee; on the 8th of April, 1862, marched from Nashville, Tennessee, to Wartrace, Tennessee; on the 13th day of July, 1862, marched to Tullahoma, Tennessee, and remained there until August, 1862; from Tullahoma marched to Manchester, Tennessee, and from there to Murfreesboro, and thence to Bowling Green, Kentucky, covering the retreat of General Buell; from the 3d day of September, 1862,

FIFTH KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The officers of this regiment having failed to furnish a historic record of the early organization, operations, &c., of their command, the following statement is taken from the official records on file in the Adjutant General's Office:

The 5th Kentucky Cavalry was organized at Camp Sandidge, Gallatin, Tennessee, under Colonel David R. Haggard, and mustered into the service March 31st, 1862, by Major W. H. Sidell, United States Mustering Officer. It was raised in the Southern portion of Kentucky, and was composed of those sturdy yeomanry who have always been distinguished for their patriotism and the love of justice and liberty. During the organization they labored under many disadvantages, owing to the frequent invasions of the enemy into the district where it was recruited. It was mustered into service with 789 men, and was placed upon duty during the active campaigns of General Buell, and participated in all the early engagements in Tennessee, and by their soldierly conduct won the esteem of the Commanding General.

The regiment has participated in the following battles and skirmishes in which losses are reported, viz.: Burksville, Kentucky; Gallatin, Tennessee; Monroe's Cross Roads, North Carolina; Louisville, Georgia; Adairville, Georgia; Millen's Grove, Georgia; Sweeden's Cove, Tennessee, and Sweetwater, Georgia.

The regiment was mustered out at Louisville, Kentucky, May 3d, 1865. The veterans and recruits were ordered to be transferred to the 3d Kentucky Veteran Cavalry.

SIXTH KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The 1st Battalion of the 6th Kentucky Cavalry was organized at Camp Irvine, Jefferson county, Kentucky, under Major Reuben Munday, and was mustered into the United States service December 23d, 1861, by Major W. H. Sidell. This Battalion comprised five companies, and was commanded by Major Munday until August, 1862, when Companies F, G, H, I, K, L, and M were recruited and the consolidation effected. Previous to the consolidation the 1st Battalion was assigned to General George W. Morgan's division, and did important service with that command in obtaining and occupying Cumberland Gap. Being the only organized cavalry in the division, the duties assigned it were arduous and of great importance. When the Gap was evacuated in 1862 by General Morgan, this Battalion formed the advance, or covered the rear, as occasion demanded, through Eastern Kentucky to the Ohio river, contending with the enemy every day. When the consolidation was effected, Colonel D. J. Halliey was commissioned Colonel, and the regiment assigned to the Cavalry Division of the Army of the Cumberland, and by its efficiency and discipline and gallantry won distinction in every engagement.

It is to be regretted that the officers of this command failed to furnish a full history of all its operations, as it is justly entitled to a reputation among the first for bravery, discipline, and dash in the Western Army.

The regiment was engaged in the following battles in which loss was sustained, viz: Tazewell, Tennessee; Cumberland Gap, Powell River, Tennessee; Perryville, Kentucky; Cowan's Station, Tennessee; Lipsey Swamp, Alabama, and the early battles fought by Generals Buell and Rosecrans in Tennessee.

SEVENTH KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The officers of this regiment having failed to furnish a historic record of its early organization, operations, marches, &c., the following statement is taken from the records on file in the Adjutant General's Office:

This regiment was organized at Paris, Kentucky, in August, 1862, under Colonel Leonidas Metcalfe, and was mustered into service by Major L. Sitgraves, United States Mustering Officer. Before the regiment was thoroughly equipped or disciplined, they were ordered into active duty, and engaged in the battle of Big Hill, Kentucky, where they received the charge of the enemy under Kirby Smith, and lost many officers and soldiers in killed, wounded, and prisoners. Owing to the enemy having possession of nearly the entire State, the organization of the regiment was much retarded. In October, 1862, the regiment, under command of Col. Faulkner (Colonel Metcalfe having resigned), was placed upon active duty, and assigned to the Department of the Cumberland. It was in all the early engagements in Southern Kentucky and Tennessee, and by their gallant bearing and soldierly conduct upon many well-fought fields, won the commendation from the Commanding General.

The regiment has participated in the following named battles in which loss was sustained, in addition to many others not mentioned on the rolls, viz:

Big Hill, Richmond, Cynthiana, and Hopkinsville, Kentucky; Franklin, Triune, Nashville, Tennessee; Lafayette, Resaca, Georgia; Gainesville, King's Hill, Gadsden, Scottsville, Randolph, and near Montgomery, Alabama. The veterans and recruits of this regiment were transferred to the 6th Kentucky Veteran Cavalry.

EIGHTH KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The first battalion of this regiment was organized at Henderson, Ky., by Major Jas. H. Holloway, and mustered into the service September 13th, 1862, by Captain V. N. Smith, United States Mustering Officer. The second battalion was organized by Colonel Bristow, at Russellville, Ky., and mustered into service by Captain T. E. Noell, September 8th, 1862. This battalion was commanded by Major J. M. Kennedy. The third battalion was recruited at Lebanon, Ky., by Major J. W. Weatherford, and mustered in at Russellville, Ky., by Captain T. E. Noell, September 8th, 1862. The whole regiment, numbering 1,248 men, was recruited and organized within the space of three weeks from the time authority was issued for same, and was composed of the very best material in the State. The line officers were competent and gallant soldiers, and, from the day of organization, their respective commands were well disciplined and under perfect control. The first battalion, under Major Holloway, commanded by Colonel Shackelford, remained at Henderson, Ky., during the months of September and October, 1862, and were constantly skirmishing with the rebel forces under Adam Johnson. This battalion, together with one or two companies of Indiana Cavalry, fought a large force under Adam Johnson, at Geiger's Lake, and scattered them in every direction. In this engagement Colonel Shackelford received a severe and painful wound while leading a charge.

The second and third battalions, in the meanwhile, were engaged in a number of skirmishes with the rebel Colonel Woodward, and, finally, by a night march under Major Kennedy, they came upon his forces at Camp Coleman, in Todd county, Ky., dispersing the whole force.

Upon the invasion of Kentucky by Bragg, General Buell ordered the second and third battalions to join his command at Bowling Green, Ky. In conjunction with a part of the 4th Kentucky Cavalry, were assigned to the responsible duty of guarding General Buell's immense wagon train across Green river. Upon returning to Bowling Green two companies of the 8th Cavalry were sent upon a scout into Tennessee, where they surprised and captured a party of over one hundred rebel soldiers who were engaged in collecting supplies for Bragg's army.

In November, 1862, the first and second battalions were ordered to Russellville, Ky., and the third battalion ordered to Clarksville, Tenn., where it remained during the remainder of its term of enlistment, doing good service in repelling invasions and keeping open the Cumberland river, thus securing supplies to General Rosecrans' Army. During the winter and spring the first and second battalions were engaged in many skirmishes, and were assigned the duty of protecting the country west of the Nashville railroad.

In January, 1863, Colonel Shackelford was promoted Brigadier General, and Lieutenant Colonel B. H. Bristow was commissioned Colonel.

This regiment and a battalion of the 3d Kentucky Cavalry, under command of Colonel Bristow, were in the pursuit of Morgan in his raid through Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio, and did good service in that long and fatiguing march, and were present at the taking of the notorious raider.

The regiment was mustered out of service at Russellville, Ky., September 23d, 1863.

NINTH KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The following statement of the condition, strength, and operations of the 9th Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry, since its organization, to the 11th September, 1863, is taken from the regimental records, and from other authentic sources.

This regiment was organized at Eminence, under Col. Richard T. Jacob, and mustered into the United States service on the 22d day of August, 1862, by Maj. L. Sitgraves, U. S. Mustering Officer.

After the regiment was mustered in it marched to Crab Orchard, Kentucky, two companies being detached as a body-guard to Gen. Nelson. These two companies participated in the Battle of Richmond, Kentucky, and after that the regiment marched from Lexington to Louisville, Kentucky, covering the retreat of the Federal forces before Kirby Smith. After two weeks' stay at Louisville, the regiment marched in advance of Buell's army towards Perryville. At Taylorsville, Col. Jacob was ordered to take one half of the regiment and march to Shelbyville, with instructions to report to Gen. Sill; Lieut. Col. Boyle, with the remainder of the regiment, still remained with Gen. Buell's army and participated in the battle of Perryville. The portion of the regiment under command of Col. Jacob was assigned to Gen. Kirk's brigade, and marched from Shelbyville to Frankfort. At Clayvillage the regiment came up with Scott's rebel brigade, and, after a severe engagement, defeated them, with the loss of a few killed and many prisoners. On the following Monday this portion of the regiment, in advance of Gen. Sill's division, drove Scott's Cavalry out of Frankfort, and took possession of the city, and were skirmishing with the enemy all the following day. From Frankfort they marched towards Harrodsburg, and met the enemy in force at Lawrenceburg, where, in a desperate hand-to-hand fight, the enemy was forced from the field. In this engagement Col. Jacob was severely wounded, and was compelled to relinquish his command to Capt. Harney. Four days after this fight the regiment was again united, and, under command of Lieut. Col. Boyle, engaged in the pursuit of Bragg, and, after his retreat beyond the Kentucky line, the regiment was stationed on the Tennessee border to protect the State against the frequent incursions of the rebels, and were daily engaged with the enemy, capturing many prisoners. Col. Jacob rejoined the regiment in December, 1862, and they remained on the border until July, 1863, when they were in the pursuit of Morgan through Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio, and participated in the fights at Buffington Island and St. George's Creek, Ohio, where Major Rue, with a portion of the 9th, 11th, and 12th Kentucky Cavalry, captured Morgan on the 26th day of July, 1863. The regiment then returned to Eminence, Kentucky.

It has participated in the following battles and skirmishes, viz: Richmond, Clayvillage, Frankfort, Lawrenceburg, Perryville, Harrodsburg, Horse Shoe Bend, Marrowbone, Kentucky, Buffington Island, and St. George's Creek, Ohio.

It was mustered-out at Eminence, Kentucky, September 11th, 1863.

TENTH KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The 10th Regiment of Kentucky Cavalry was organized at Maysville, Ky., and mustered into the service of the United States by Lieut. G. G. Huntt, United States Mustering Officer, at Covington, Kentucky, September 9th, 1862.

This regiment, under command of Col. Joshua Tevis, was immediately put upon arduous duty as the advanced guard of the Army of the Ohio, in the campaign against Gen. Kirby Smith. In November and December, 1862, having been assigned to Brig. Gen. Gilmore's division, it was employed on the line towards Knoxville, Tenn., passing the entire winter in continuous marching. During the spring and summer of 1863 the regiment was employed, by battalions, in West Virginia and Northeastern Tennessee. In Southwest Virginia one of its battalions captured the breech-loading artillery so well known in connection with the history of Marshall's invasion. The services of this regiment were of the most active and efficient character. Its skirmishes and small fights were numerous and its marches continuous and severe. Among others, this regiment participated in the engagements of Elk Fork, Tenn.; Gladesville, Va.; Triplett's Bridge, Ky.; Lancaster, Ky.; Richmond, Ky. (1863); and in the pursuit and rout of the rebel cavalry of Pegram and Scott, besides the numerous affairs attending the advance of Maj. Gen. Granger upon central Kentucky. The regiment was mustered out at Maysville, Ky., 17th September, 1863, by Capt. R. B. Hull, United States Army.

ELEVENTH KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

This regiment was recruited in the fall of 1862. Captain Milton Graham opened a camp at Harrodsburg, Kentucky, and Companies A, C, D, and F were recruited from the counties of Mercer, Washington, and Madison, and reported at rendezvous about the 11th of July. On the 22d of July his camp was removed to Frankfort, Kentucky, in consequence of the invasion of the State and the difficulties attending the mustering, arming, and equipping recruits at the former place. On arriving at Frankfort the recruits were ordered to report to Major A. W. Holeman, and during their stay Company B was recruited, and from Frankfort marched to Louisville, Kentucky, and encamped at the Fair Grounds, and were engaged in drilling, recruiting, and picket duty until the 22d of September. Whilst at the Fair Grounds Companies E, G, H, and I were recruited, and the whole command was mustered into the United States service on the 22d day of September, by Captain V. N. Smith, United States Mustering Officer. The regiment remained in Louisville during the invasion of Bragg, and, after the reorganization of Buell's army, was assigned to Dumont's division, and marched to Frankfort, where it remained for several weeks scouting. At this point Lieutenant Colonel W. E. Riley was commissioned and assumed command of the regiment, and marched to Bowling Green, Kentucky, and from thence to Scottsville, Kentucky, and Gallatin, Tennessee. At Gallatin the regiment remained several weeks on garrison duty. On the 25th of December, 1862, reported to General Reynolds and received orders to march to Glasgow, Kentucky, where it remained several weeks, and then returned to Gallatin. From Gallatin the regiment returned to Kentucky, and was constantly engaged in scouting until July, 1863, when it was in the pursuit of Morgan in his raid through Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio, and was present at the capture of the whole force at Buffington Island, Ohio. Colonel Riley having resigned, Major Graham assumed command of the regiment. From Cincinnati, Ohio, the regiment marched to Nicholasville, Kentucky, and engaged in the pursuit of Scott's rebel Cavalry to Somerset, Kentucky, and from there marched with General Burnside upon his East Tennessee campaign, and was in all the engagements incident to that campaign. The regiment was engaged actively with the enemy for several months in the fall of 1864, and sustained heavy losses in killed and prisoners. In an engagement on the 28th of January, 1864, near Severeville, Tennessee, Major Graham was severely wounded, and Captain Slater assumed command of the regiment, and returned to Knoxville. On the 4th of February the regiment received orders to rendezvous at Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. At this point the 3d Battalion, which was recruited in the fall of 1863, under command of Major W. O. Boyle, joined the regiment. The regiment having been remounted and equipped, reported to General Stoneman, and marched for Nashville, Tennessee, and from thence to Chattanooga and Atlanta, participating in all the engagements of that campaign. Lieutenant Colonel Alexander having resigned in August, 1864, Major Graham was promoted Lieutenant Colonel, and the regiment having again returned to Kentucky, was engaged in scouting, and succeeded in capturing about one hundred prisoners of Jesse's command near New Liberty, Kentucky, and from there were ordered to Lexington, Kentucky, to prepare for General Burbridge's raid on Virginia. At Lexington Colonel Holeman resigned, and Lieutenant Colonel Graham was commissioned Colonel, and Major Boyle Lieutenant Colonel. The regiment was in the first engagement at Saltville, Virginia, and acquitted itself with great credit. After this raid the regiment returned to Lexington, and, after two or three weeks' rest, was ordered to join General Stoneman in his campaign through East Tennessee and Western Virginia. On this campaign, which was in December, 1864, the regiment suffered terribly, having many officers and men frostbitten and rendered unfit for service.

On the 18th of December, 1864, in the battle at Marion, Virginia, Lieutenant Colonel Wm. O. Boyle was killed whilst gallantly leading a charge.

The regiment, after the battle at Saltville, returned to Lexington, Kentucky, and was again ordered to join General Stoneman in his campaign through Tennessee, North Carolina, and South Carolina to Atlanta, Georgia, where it was at the time of the surrender of the Confederate army. From there it returned to Louisville, Kentucky, and was mustered out on the 14th of July, 1865, the recruits and veterans being transferred to the 12th Kentucky Cavalry.

It was engaged in the following named battles in which loss was sustained, viz: Cassville, Georgia; Dandridge, Tennessee; Dalton, Georgia; Macon, Georgia; Marion, Virginia; Marysville, Tennessee; Philadelphia, Tennessee; Knoxville, Tennessee, and Hillsboro, Georgia.

TWELFTH KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The 12th Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry was organized in the winter of 1862–3. A portion of the regiment was mustered into the U. S. service on the 17th day of November, 1862, at Owensboro, Kentucky, by W. B. Royall, Captain 5th U. S. Cavalry; the remainder of the regiment was mustered in at Munfordsville, Kentucky, February 12th, 1863, by Captain T. E. Noell. Three of the companies were raised for the 38th Kentucky Mounted Infantry, which was consolidated with the 12th Cavalry in October, 1863.

Q. C. Shanks, who was commissioned Colonel October 11th, 1862, resigned February 14th, 1863, and was succeeded by E. W. Crittenden, Capt. 4th U. S. Cavalry, who was commissioned Colonel March 14th, 1863.

With the exception of occasional skirmishes and scouts, nothing worthy of particular notice occurred until June, 1863, when it was assigned to duty on the Cumberland river border, under Colonel Jacob, Headquarters at Columbia, Kentucky. It was engaged in the fight with Morgan at Horseshoe Bend, and also at Marrowbone, on the 1st July, 1863. Joining in the pursuit of that daring raider in his march through Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio, the 12th had the honor of being present at his surrender to General Hobson in 1863, near Cheshire, Ohio. General John H. Morgan surrendered himself in person to detachments from the 9th, 11th and 12th Regiments Kentucky Cavalry. Having marched over 1,100 miles in one month, the 12th, after a short rest, struck tents, and on the 18th August, 1863, started for East Tennessee. It was at Carter's Station when the rebels evacuated their fortifications, and moved from that point to Athens, Tennessee; was surrounded at Philadelphia, Tennessee, and after three and a half hours hard and desperate fighting, succeeded in cutting its way out, not, however, without considerable loss. It was here the brave Major Delfosse fell, and the fearless, dashing Captain Hill was killed.

On the 14th November, 1863, the 12th was in a severe engagement with the rebel General Wheeler, and, on the 18th, brought on the fight at Knoxville, Tennessee, at which place the entire Federal force was surrounded for 17 days, living on one fourth rations. The 12th was in the thickest of the fight at Bean Station, and, being overpowered, under cover of night fell back on Rutledge, and thence to Blain's Cross Roads. On the 16th January, 1864, it was engaged at Dandridge, Tennessee; was ordered thence to Knoxville, which latter place was reached after a constant march of two days and nights, arriving without rations for either men or horses. On the 25th January, 1864, engaged Longstreet's command, and on the 26th made a successful charge on his lines. Finding the position untenable, and discovering that the enemy's infantry had cut us off from Knoxville, Colonel Wolford, commanding the cavalry, marched his Division through the Coves of Smoky Mountain, reaching Marysville, Tennessee, without serious loss. On the 3d of February, 1864, orders were received to turn over horses and equipments, and to return to Kentucky. After eight days' march the 12th reached Lebanon, Kentucky, and received from Colonel Wolford permission to go home until March 7th, 1864, at which time it was to rendezvous at Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. There the regiment was consolidated into eight companies, to make room for the four companies of the 16th Kentucky Cavalry, which were transferred to the 12th. After being mounted and equipped, the 12th moved with General Stoneman in May, 1864, by way of Point Burnside, into Tennessee, and joined Sherman's main army at Varnell's Station, Georgia, and remained with the 23d Army Corps until after the fall of Atlanta, having been constantly engaged in skirmishing and scouting, participating in the fights at Resaca, Kenesaw, Lost Mountain, Stoneman's Hill, and many others along the line. After the battle of Jonesboro, Georgia, the 12th was ordered back to Decatur, Georgia; and on 14th September was ordered to Louisville, Kentucky, at which place it was placed on post duty. From Louisville it went to Lexington, and thence to Camp Nelson, where, after being partially armed and badly mounted, it was ordered to move with Gen. Burbridge on his second Saltville raid. Joining Gen. Stoneman's command in Tennessee, it was with that gallant officer at the capture of Salisbury, North Carolina, and was intrusted by him with very important and hazardous duties, which were performed to his entire satisfaction and greatly to the credit of Major Harrison, who commanded the regiment at that time. Returning from Tennessee, the 12th was stationed on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad to protect it against guerrillas; and on the 23d of August, 1865, was finally discharged, having received the very highest praise from all of the officers with whom it had served, for valor, daring, prompt and efficient discharge of duties, and high soldierly bearing.

The 12th participated in the following, among other battles in which loss was sustained, viz: Horseshoe Bend, Paducah, and Brandenburg Kentucky; Marion, Virginia; Big Creek Gap, Philadelphia, Knoxville, Bean's Station, Blain's Cross Roads, and Dandridge, Tennessee; Buffington Island, Ohio; Kenesaw, Lost Mountain, and Atlanta, Georgia, and Salisbury, North Carolina.

THIRTEENTH KENTUCKY VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

The following statement of the condition, strength, and operations of the 13th Regiment Kentucky Volunteer Cavalry, since its organization to the 10th of January, 1865, when mustered out, is taken from the regimental records and other authentic sources:

The 13th Kentucky Cavalry was organized at Columbia, Kentucky, under Colonel J. W. Weatherford, and mustered into the U. S. service on the 23d day of December, 1863, by Captain S. M. Letcher, U. S. Mustering Officer. This regiment being principally raised in the counties on the Tennessee border, and being familiar with all the thoroughfares and sections infested with guerrillas, it was stationed in that vicinity for the protection of their immediate homes, and their efficiency, energy, and gallant bearing has been frequently commended by the Department Commander. Having been organized in the winter of 1863, they were placed immediately upon active duty, and before they were mustered into the U. S. service. Seven companies of the regiment were sent from Lebanon, Kentucky, on the 29th of October, 1863, in pursuit of the guerrilla Richardson, and, after a forced march of 75 miles in fourteen hours, forced him across Cumberland river. On the 31st of October, four companies were ordered to Columbia and one company to Greensburg, for the protection of those points against the frequent incursions of the small predatory bands that infested those sections. On the 6th of December, three scouts were started from Columbia, consisting of one hundred men each, one to cross the Cumberland at Creelsboro, one at Celina, and the third at Burksville, with orders to meet at Livingston, Tennessee. This scout was successful, and returned on the 9th of December, having frequent skirmishes, in which fifteen guerrillas were killed, twenty-three captured, and some twenty-five horses, &c., were secured. The regiment was constantly engaged in scouting through the border counties until the fall of 1864, when it proceeded with General Burbridge on the Saltville, Virginia, expedition. In the engagement at Saltville, the regiment received special mention from General Hobson for gallant conduct and its obedience to orders and active co-operation in the engagements at Clinch Mountain and Laurel Gap. Through the agency of this regiment the lower counties on the Tennessee border were cleared of guerrillas, and the families of many loyal men, who had been sufferers since 1861, were allowed to remain at home in peace, while their husbands, fathers, and sons were in the army battling for the preservation of the Union.
