FOREWORD

The Guide to Vital Statistic Records in Colorado is one of a number of guides to source materials prepared throughout the United States by workers on Historical Records Survey projects of the Work Projects Administration. The publication herewith presented, an inventory of public depositories of vital statistics, is the first volume in a two-volume guide to vital statistic records in Colorado.

The Historical Records Survey program was undertaken in the winter of 1935-36 for the purpose of providing useful employment to needy unemployed historians, lawyers, teachers, and research and clerical workers. In carrying out this objective, the project was organized to compile inventories of historical materials, particularly governmental documents and records which are basic in the administration of local government and which provide invaluable data for students of political, economic, and social history. Up to the present time approximately 1,350 Survey publications have been issued throughout the country.

The volume herewith presented is designed to meet a pressing demand for a complete and accurate guide to vital statistic records in public depositories. It is hoped that, as a reference work, this volume may become indispensable to vital statisticians, insurance people, lawyers, businessmen, and other citizens who must resort to public records for vital statistic information to expedite the proper conduct of their affairs.

The successful conclusion of the work of Historical Records Survey projects would not be possible without the support of public officials, historical and legal specialists, and many other groups in the community. Their cooperation is gratefully acknowledged.

The Survey program was organized by Luther H. Evans, who served as Director until March 1, 1940, when he was succeeded by Sargent B. Child. The Survey operates as a Nation-wide series of locally sponsored projects in the Division of Community Service Programs, of which Mrs. Florence Kerr, Assistant Commissioner, is in charge.

PREFACE

The Colorado Historical Records Survey Project, was organized in the winter of 1935-'36, as a unit of the Works Progress Administration. It operates as a State-wide project under the local sponsorship of the Colorado Department of State.

The Survey has, as its primary objective, the preparation of inventories of the municipal, county, State and Federal archives in Colorado, and the publication of these inventories as guides to source material of historical interest. The nature of the survey work in archival materials, and its demonstrative adaptability in handling varied research problems as they are assigned to it, have qualified the Survey for the task of preparing a guide to vital statistics records in Colorado.

The Guide to Vital Statistics Records in Colorado is being issued in two independent, though complementary, volumes relating to two different sources of archival material, namely: public records, and church records. The present volume of public records is arranged to show birth, marriage and death records in separate series. Persons interested in locating any particular vital statistic document will find in the entries all the necessary information relative to location, quantity, inclusive data and kind of record. The essay material prefacing the series of records gives, briefly, the history of county and State legislation affecting the recording of birth, marriage and death statistics. Also included is a complete transcription of all legislation and other pertinent information regarding vital statistics.

The data for the volume was gathered in the field, under the Supervision of Frank W. Howard, William M. Lambert and Edward J. Chol, District Supervisors. The compiling of the data into entry form and research necessary for the legal transcription, was done by Marguerite D. Clarke. The Guide was prepared under the supervision of Cyril R. Coates, Editorial Supervisor.

This Guide and the various other publications of the Survey are distributed without charge to Government offices, libraries, and historical societies in Colorado and to major universities, libraries, and depositories throughout the Nation. A list of other publications of the Colorado Historical Records Survey Project appears at the end of this volume. Requests for information concerning any unit of the Survey should be addressed to the State Supervisor, 5th Floor, City and County Building, Denver, Colorado.

INTRODUCTION

Vital statistic records are of growing importance in connection with recent welfare acts, the formulation of social legislation, and to aid persons engaged in or seeking employment in National Defense activities to establish proof of citizenship.

Birth records are probably the most important of the vital statistic records because of their being prerequisite for employment in defense occupations and entrance into the armed forces. They are also essential in determining questions of parentage, property rights, and to aid in establishing claims to old age assistance and pensions.

Death records are required as proof of death in the probate of wills, settlement of estates, and the establishment of claims for insurance and pensions.

Marriage and divorce records are used to decide questions of parentage, property rights, inheritance, and citizenship.

OBTAINING VITAL STATISTIC INFORMATION FROM GOVERNMENTAL RECORDS

The records and indexes kept by county clerks should be consulted to establish facts of births, deaths or marriages in Colorado prior to 1907. For information regarding vital statistics since 1907, the Department of Public Health, Bureau of Vital Statistics, should be consulted. Copies of birth and death certificates may be obtained upon the payment of $1.00 to the State Department of Public Health, or any county clerk or local registrar.

Since the law makes no provision that separate divorce records be kept, to obtain information regarding such records, it is necessary to consult the records of the court in which the decree was granted.

Information regarding the delayed registration of births, evidence for proving American birth, and nationality at birth will be found in the Appendix, page 139.

LEGAL SUMMARY REGARDING VITAL STATISTICS IN COLORADO

The first attempt to procure the registration of vital statistics in Colorado was made in 1868.

Births, Deaths

The board of trustees of every incorporated town was empowered "to require a registration of deaths and births" within the limits of the town.¹

1. R.S., 1868, p. 606, sec. 1, sub-sec. 12.

In 1876 the first legislation for the recording of vital statistics was enacted at which time a Territorial Board of Health was established.¹ Local boards of health were already in existence² and it was the duty of all physicians and clerks of local boards of health of each town, village, and city, and the physician of each public institution to report annually their proceedings to the Territorial Board of Health.³

The first session of the General Assembly of the State of Colorado on March 22, 1877, approved legislation adopting parts of the laws of the Legislative Assemblies of the Territory of Colorado, which were to remain in force, enacted new laws and compiled both in a volume to be known as the General Laws of the State of Colorado. The Territorial Board of Health was superseded by the State Board of Health.

In 1877 the statutes provided that the board of commissioners of each county should act as a board of health for their respective counties, the county clerk to act as the clerk of said board.⁴ In 1893 the mayor and council, or trustees of each incorporated town or city were authorized to exercise all the powers and perform all the duties of a board of health within the limits of the incorporated towns or cities.⁵

The statutes of 1877 required physicians and midwives to submit quarterly reports to the clerks of the boards of health,⁶ and all boards of health were required to make an annual report to the State Board of Health, of all births and deaths occurring in their respective districts.⁷ The law of 1905 required monthly instead of annual reports to be made to the State Board of Health.⁸

In 1907 the State Board of Health was given supervision of the State system of registration of births and deaths.⁹ By the same statutes a central bureau of vital statistics was authorized to be established by the State Board of Health. The secretary of the State Board of Health is the State Registrar of Vital Statistics.¹⁰

Registration districts were established for the registration of births and deaths, one for each city, incorporated town, and county, exclusive of such cities or incorporated towns located within the boundaries of the county.¹¹

The State Board of Health appoints a local registrar of vital statistics for each registration district in the State and each local registrar is required to appoint a deputy.¹

Stillborn children are registered as both births and deaths and a certificate for both filed with the local registrar. The attending physician signs the medical certificate stating the cause of death; midwives are not empowered to sign them. In case of stillbirths occurring without the attendance of either midwife or physician, they shall be treated as deaths without medical attendance.² The certificate of death shall contain such information as is required by law.³ The undertaker is held responsible for filing the certificate of death with the local registrar.⁴

All births shall be registered immediately in the registration district in which they occur⁵ and the attending physician, or midwife, shall file the certificate of birth with the local registrar within ten days from date of birth.⁶ If there is no attending physician or midwife, then it shall be the duty of the father or mother of the child, the owner of the premises, or the superintendent of the public or private institution in which the birth occurred to notify the local registrar within ten days from date of the birth. It then becomes the duty of the local registrar to secure the necessary information and signature to make a proper certificate of birth.⁷ The certificate of birth shall contain such information as is required by law.⁸

Every practicing physician, midwife, and undertaker is required to register with the local registrar of the district in which they maintain a residence and the local registrar shall make a report of those registered to the State Registrar of Vital Statistics within thirty days following the close of each calendar year.⁹

The State Registrar of Vital Statistics is required by law to preserve all certificates of births and deaths, and to maintain a card index of all births and deaths registered, with such information as is required by law.¹⁰

Local registrars are required to examine each certificate of birth or death when they are presented for record. If the certificate is incomplete in its information, such information must be obtained before submitting report to the State Registrar.¹¹

Certified copies of record of birth or death may be obtained from the State Registrar of Vital Statistics upon payment of a fee of one dollar.¹²

In 1935 provisions were made for certificates of identification for adopted children whereby at the time of adoption, or at any time thereafter, the adopting parent or parents of any child, under the age of 16 years, may have a certificate of identification issued and signed by the judge of the court decreeing the adoption, and the certificate shall be accepted by all school districts and school authorities in the State in lieu of a birth certificate and without further evidence of a birth certificate.¹

The 1935 statutes also provided that, upon the written request of the superintendent or other official of the Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children, the State Board of Health shall furnish, without cost, certified copies of birth certificates of all illegitimate children who have been legally committed to the said home.²

In 1939 legislation was enacted that required physicians and others required to make reports regarding births and still births to state on the birth certificate whether or not a blood test for syphilis had been made upon a specimen of blood taken from the woman who bore the child for which a birth or stillbirth certificate is filed, and the approximate date when the specimen was taken. The statutes prohibit the results of the blood test being stated.³

The State Board of Health is empowered to approve the standard serological test for syphilis. The State provides for this test to be made without charge if the person submitting to such test cannot pay for same. Such free test shall be made at the Colorado State Board of Health laboratory.⁴

In 1941 legislation was enacted permitting any citizen of the State wishing to file the record of any birth or death, not previously recorded, or to make any changes in a certificate previously registered that are necessary to provide a correct registration of the birth or death, to submit to the county court in the county where the birth or death occurred, a record of that birth or death written on the accepted forms of birth and death certificates accompanied by a court fee of one and one-half dollars ($1.50) to cover the cost of handling. The certificate must be substantiated by the affidavit of the medical attendant present at the time of the birth, or in the case of death, the affidavit of the physician last in attendance upon the deceased, or the undertaker who buried the body. If the affidavit of the medical attendant or undertaker cannot be secured, the certificate must be verified by the affidavit of some person who was acquainted with the facts relative to the birth or death, at the time the birth or death occurred, with a second affidavit of some person who is also acquainted with the facts surrounding the birth or death, and who is not related to the individual by blood or marriage. The county court is empowered to require such other information or evidence as it deems necessary to establish the citizenship of the individual filing the certificate, and the truthfulness of the statements made in the record.⁵

Marriages

Since the laws of the Territory of Colorado stipulated it as such, marriage has been a civil contract to which the consent of both parties is essential.¹ All marriages contracted outside the (Territory) State have been valid in all courts of the (Territory) State.² Books of marriages and entries contained in same are considered evidence in all courts of the (Territory) State.³ The county clerk has been required to record returns of marriages within one month from date of their receipt.⁴ The (Territory) State recognizes marriages performed before March 10, 1864 by any justice of the peace, any clergyman, or president or judge of any mining district.⁵ In 1883 the law was amended to permit first cousins to marry.⁶ Marriages between negroes or mulattoes and white people have always been void.⁷ From 1864 to 1931 there was a law in effect which prohibited any person authorized to perform the marriage ceremony from marrying a couple if the man was under 21 years of age and the woman under 18, without the consent of the parents or guardian. If no parents or guardian of the party under age was in existence, then the party authorized to perform the marriage ceremony was permitted to exercise his own judgment;⁸ there was also a law requiring every party having authority to perform marriages to keep a record of same and within three months to transmit marriage certificates to the county clerk. Both these statutes were repealed in 1931.⁹

In 1881 the following legislation was enacted, but repealed in 1931. The county clerk, when he had personal knowledge of the competency of the parties to marry, could issue a license, and if he did not have such knowledge, he could accept the affidavits of the two contracting parties, or of such persons whose testimony was offered;¹⁰ and he was to keep on file every marriage license returned to him and record every marriage certificate.¹¹

In 1881 legislation was enacted which is still in effect at this time. The county clerk and recorder is authorized to administer all oaths required by law regarding marriages.¹²

The statutes of 1874 empowered the county clerk of any county in the Territory of Colorado to issue marriage licenses to any couple applying for same and who were entitled to contract matrimony under the territorial laws. In 1876, when the Territory of Colorado became a State, this law was repealed, but in 1881 the State laws again provided for marriage licenses to be issued by the county clerk.¹³

In 1939 legislation was passed requiring a premarital examination before a license would be issued. This examination requires that both parties file with the county clerk and recorder a health certificate that both are free from venereal disease. In the event that either one or both of the parties are unable to pay for this examination, the State provides for free tests upon request of the Colorado State Board of Health laboratory.¹ The marriage certificate is required to be attached to the marriage license and returned to the county clerk and recorder, by the minister or officer performing the marriage ceremony, within thirty days from date of the wedding.¹ From 1877 to 1905 all local boards of health reported to the State Board of Health, on the 31st day of December, marriages for the year preceding such date in their respective districts. In 1905 the law was amended and the report is now made on the 5th day of each month.²

For a period of two years, 1931-33, there was a law in Colorado commonly known as "Colorado's Gin Law," which required couples to make application, verified by oath, five days before the issuance of the license, or at the discretion of the county clerk, issuance of license could be withheld for 30 days from date of application.³

In 1931 legislation was enacted permitting any judge of a court of record to order the county clerk and recorder to issue a marriage license, if he deemed the grounds for refusal of same insufficient. In 1933 the act of 1931 was repealed in its entirety and a new act relative to marriage was enacted by the General Assembly. The new act is substantially the same in its provisions.⁴

In 1939 the statutes were amended to the extent that the premarital examination and serological tests could not be waived even upon the opinion of the judge, however, prior to 1939 such examination and test were not required by law.⁵ If the county clerk and recorder refuses to issue a marriage license, in cases of circumstances arising which would necessitate the temporary waiver of premarital examination and serological tests, both applicants may apply to the State Board of Health for the issuance of a certificate. If the State Board of Health deems it advisable to issue a license, they may reckon the time of treatment period and order the county clerk and recorder to issue the license on a specified date.⁶

An application for a marriage license must be made and verified under oath by one or both of the parties desiring to be married.⁷ The marriage

Divorces

There is no legislation in Colorado requiring the keeping of separate series of divorce records. Divorces are granted only by courts having general chancery jurisdiction, and generally the decrees, abstracts of proceedings, and other documents are simply spread over the regular chancery papers in the regular court or chancery files.

From 1861 to 1877 the district court, sitting as court of chancery³ had jurisdiction in all cases of divorce in the Territory of Colorado. The laws of the State of Colorado, 1877, were identical with the Territorial laws⁴ until 1893 when the district court was given jurisdiction of divorce cases when the plea for alimony was in excess of two thousand dollars
($2,000); where the plea was for less, jurisdiction was in the county court.⁵

DIVORCE RECORDS

There is no legislation in Colorado requiring the keeping of separate series of divorce records. Divorces are granted only by courts having general chancery jurisdiction, and generally the decrees, abstracts of proceedings, and other documents are simply spread over the regular chancery papers in the regular court or chancery files.

From 1861 to 1877 the district court, sitting as a court of chancery, had jurisdiction in all cases of divorces in the Territory of Colorado.¹ The laws of the State of Colorado, 1877, were identical with the Territorial laws² until 1893 when the district court was given jurisdiction of divorce cases when the plea for alimony was in excess of two thousand dollars ($2,000); where the plea was for less, jurisdiction was in the county court.³

There is no legislation in Colorado requiring the keeping of separate series of divorce records. Divorces are granted only by courts having general chancery jurisdiction, and generally the decrees, abstracts of proceedings, and other documents are simply spread over the regular chancery papers in the regular court or chancery files.

From 1861 to 1877 the district court, sitting as a court of chancery, had jurisdiction in all cases of divorces in the Territory of Colorado.² The laws of the State of Colorado, 1877, were identical with the Territorial laws³ until 1893 when the district court was given jurisdiction of divorce cases when the plea for alimony was in excess of two thousand dollars ($2,000); where the plea was for less, jurisdiction was in the county court.⁴

APPENDIX

MANUAL OF UNIFORM PROCEDURE
FOR THE DELAYED REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS

(Prepared under the direction of Halbert L. Dunn, M.D., Chief Statistician for Vital Statistics; Department of Commerce, Jesse H. Jones, Secretary; Bureau of the Census, J. C. Capt, Director, Washington, D.C.)

PART I
PURPOSE OF MANUAL

This manual outlines the procedure for the delayed registration of births and for the issuance of delayed certificates of birth. It is hoped that this procedure will be adopted and followed by the Bureau of Vital Statistics in the States.

PART II
PROCEDURE FOR REGISTRATION1. DEFINITIONSA. Delayed Registration of Birth.

"Delayed Registration of Birth" means the registration of a person's birth on or after his fourth birthday. (It is recognized that states may, by law or regulation, establish a lower critical age).

B. Delayed -- Special Registration of Birth.

"Delayed -- Special Registration of Birth" means the registration of a birth which occurred prior to the enactment of the Vital Statistics Law of the state in which registration is sought.

C. Class A Records.

"Class A Records" are records established before the fourth birthday of the registrant.

D. Class B Records.

"Class B Records" are records established on or after the fourth birthday of the registrant.

2. REQUIREMENTS FOR ESTABLISHING THE FACTS OF BIRTH

In all instances of delayed registrations of birth, all the following facts concerning the person whose birth is to be registered must be established:

- (a) Date of birth
- (b) Birthplace
- (c) Parentage

The foregoing facts must be established by one of the following methods:

1. Documentary Method:- The presentation of two records, each from independent and different sources, one of which must be Class A; or three Class B records, each from independent and different sources. Class B records must be at least five years old in order to be considered as evidence, but, if made later, may be taken into account in investigating a case. The types of documentary evidence which may be accepted to establish the fact of American birth are shown in Part III.

2. Inquiry Method:- In instances where acceptable documentary evidence is not available, all other evidence possible should be assembled and presented. The proper authorities should institute a thorough and independent investigation in all such cases and prepare a report and recommendations. In cases in which the applicant for delayed certificate of birth is subject to court order, an abstract of the evidence and the pertinent facts stated therein should appear on the certificate. When this evidence, in the opinion of the responsible registration official, presents questionable aspects, the case should be referred to the court of proper jurisdiction with a statement of the reason for such action. Although the courts are legally responsible for the adjudication of such records, the specialized experience of the Registrar of Vital Statistics will often lead him to discover questionable circumstances not readily apparent to others less familiar with vital statistics procedures and requirements.

3. RESPONSIBILITY FOR INVESTIGATION OF CASES

The determination as to whether documentary evidence submitted is sufficient to warrant the issuance of a delayed certificate of birth, is the responsibility of the Registrar of Vital Statistics. In making such determination, this officer should be authorized to institute a thorough and independent investigation. In all cases of investigation, a summary of the findings should be included as a part of the certificate to be filed, which as a minimum, should show the kinds of documents submitted, together with their origin and authenticity, the registrant's age and birthplace, and his parents' names.

4. OATH OF THE REGISTRANT

The signature of the registrant, if twelve years of age or over, should be obtained on the certificate attesting under oath to his belief in the truth of the statements made concerning his age, birthplace, and parentage. If the registrant is under twelve years of age, the certificate may be signed by him or by his parents or guardian. This signature is essential for linking the identification of the person to the certificate.

5. CERTIFICATION BY REVIEWING OFFICIAL

The responsible registration official or his designated representative should certify that he has reviewed the evidence submitted to establish the facts of birth, and that the summary, or abstract thereof, appearing on the delayed certificate conforms to the statements as set forth in the evidence. In cases where the registration of delayed certificate is subject to court order, the official of the court should make this certification, and the responsible registration official should certify only to the fact that he has received and signed the certificate.

6. PRECAUTIONS

- (a) Unauthenticated documents on plain paper are not of primary value.
- (b) When a registrant gives his birthplace as only "U.S.A.", the assertion should be challenged, and accepted only if other more explicit evidence has been submitted.
- (c) Differentiation should be made between actual date appearing on the face of a document and what is believed, claimed, or inferred by the applicant or by the examining official from a knowledge or examination of such a record.
- (d) There is a distinction between an original document and certified copies thereof. Every certified or photostatic copy of an original document should give information as to the date the copy was made and as to the location and custodian of the original.
- (e) All unauthenticated documents must be supported by an affidavit incorporating all statements made by the applicant relative thereto.

7. EXCEPTIONS

Exceptions to the foregoing procedure should only be made in the case of persons who are under the age of twelve years, and then only where the prescribed procedure is wholly impractical. In certain specialized cases, the inability of an applicant to furnish evidence should not necessarily prevent the filing of a certificate relating to that person. Extreme care, however, should be exercised in such instances, and a complete statement of the facts setting forth the reason for the absence of evidence should be placed on the certificate and shown on certified copies thereof.

8. School Records. (The applicant should write to the principals of various schools which he attended or the Superintendent of Schools for the locality in which such schools are situated, requesting a certified copy of the original record of the applicant's age or birth date, his birthplace and his parent's names as given upon his entrance. Where available, a certified copy of any application filed should be obtained.)

Note: Please do not request a search of United States Census records unless you have been unable to obtain this information from state or local records. A certification that this has been done is required of every applicant for a Census search.

PART III EVIDENCE FOR PROVING AMERICAN BIRTH

The types of evidence which will generally be acceptable to establish the facts necessary for the issuance of a delayed certificate of birth are set forth below in order of preference. Records which are less than five years old will not be considered acceptable evidence but should be studied by the examining official in his investigation of the case. In each case the applicant should be required to certify under oath that the evidence which he has submitted and the statements which he has made are true to the best of his knowledge and belief. He should also be required to authorize an investigation by the appropriate official of any of the information which he has furnished.

1. Hospital Record. (A certified copy, preferably photostatic, of the hospital record of birth.)
2. Physician's Record. (A certified copy, preferably photostatic, of the office record of the physician who attended the birth.)
3. Record from a local, state or federal census. (The value of such evidence will vary depending upon the date and circumstances under which the record was made. Where the applicant can produce consistent transcripts from two consecutive decennial federal census records, the evidence will be considered of considerable value. Application forms for the foregoing records may be obtained from an applicant's County Health Officer, the State Bureau of Vital Statistics, or the Bureau of Census, Washington, D.C.). (See note)
4. Family Bible Record. (Bible records will be considered Class B records unless it can be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the information in question was recorded prior to the registrant's fourth birthday. The name and address of the current custodian of such records and of the person whom it is believed made the original entry should be furnished.)
5. Baptismal, Cradle Roll, Confirmation Certificate or Other Church Record. (If the applicant does not have an original or certified copy of such record, he should be instructed to write the present pastor of the church where such record was made and to request a certified copy thereof.)
6. School Record. (The applicant should write to the principals of various schools which he attended or the Superintendent of Schools for the locality in which such schools are situated, requesting a certified copy of the original record of the applicant's age or birth date, his birthplace and his parent's names as given upon his entrance. Where available, a certified copy of any application filed should be obtained.)

Note: Please do not request a search of United States Census records unless you have been unable to obtain this information from state or local records. A certification that this has been done is required of every applicant for a Census search.

7. Insurance Policy. (If the applicant no longer has the policy he should write to the insurance company for a statement showing the date of birth, birthplace and names of parents as shown on the application for the policy. Where available, a certified copy of the signed application for such policy should be obtained.)

8. Army, Navy, or Marine Discharge. (In cases where the actual birth date is given.)

9. Other types of Documents. Several other types of documents may be acceptable as evidence depending upon their age and the circumstances under which they were made. The weight which is to be accorded any single document of this character will also vary accordingly. Since for the most part it represents less reliable evidence, any such document should be carefully scrutinized.

a. Driver's license

b. Marriage records

c. Voting registration record

d. Employment records

e. Birth certificate of registrant's child

f. Records from organizations of which applicant is, or at one time was, a member, whether trade, professional, social or fraternal.

10. Affidavit. The value of an affidavit to establish the facts necessary for the issuance of a delayed certificate of birth will vary materially. Thus an affidavit of a reliable physician who attended the birth of the applicant deserves substantial weight. If the affidavit is to prove the date of the applicant's birth, the affiant should state why he knows and remembers the date. In each instance the relationship of the affiant to the registrant must be stated in the affidavit. (See note)

Note: The Colorado General Assembly approved an act, February 24, 1941, providing that any citizen of the State wishing to file a record of birth, or to make any changes in a certificate previously registered, may submit to the county court a record of birth, substantiated by the affidavit of the medical attendant at birth. In the event the affidavit of the medical attendant cannot be obtained, the affidavit of some person acquainted with the facts of the birth, with a second affidavit of some person acquainted with such facts and who is not related to the individual by blood or marriage shall be submitted. If the court accepts the record, the State Registrar of Vital Statistics shall issue a certified copy of such record, and such certified copies shall be prima facie evidence in all courts and places of the facts stated therein.

PART IV
NATIONALITY AT BIRTH

The determination of nationality at birth is fully covered in Chapter II of the Nationality Act of 1940. (Public No. 853, 76th Congress), approved October 14, 1940, as follows:

The preceding provisions shall not apply to a child born abroad whose American parent is at the time of the child's birth residing abroad solely or principally in the employment of the Government of the United States or a bona fide American, educational, scientific, philanthropic, religious, commercial, or financial organization, having its principal office or place of business in the United States, or an international agency of an official character in which the United States participates, for which he receives a substantial compensation;

Sec. 205. The provisions of section 201, subsections (c), (d), (e), and (g), and section 204, subsections (a), and (b), hereof apply as of the date of birth, to a child born out of wedlock, provided the paternity is established during minority, by legitimation, or adjudication of a competent court.

In the absence of such legitimation or adjudication, the child, whether born before or after the effective date of this Act, if the mother had the nationality of the United States at the time of the child's birth, and had previously resided in the United States or one of its outlying possessions, shall be held to have acquired at birth her nationality status."
