AUBURN

AUBURN UNIVERSITY—Auburn, Ala.; Enrollment—15,705 on campus; Athletic Director—Lee R. Hayley; Football Coach—Ralph “Shug” Jordan; Publicist—Buddy Davidson; Colors—Burnt orange and navy blue.

SERIES HISTORY: The Wildcats and Tigers first got together on the football field in Lexington in 1934—the year after the SEC was organized—and played another game the following year at Montgomery before interrupting their series for nearly two decades. Each held a victory out of the early meetings and the 1954 game, which resumed the rivalry, resulted in a 21-14 decision for UK. Games between the two since have been fraught with frustration. Kentucky walked away with a memorable 14-12 upset victory in 1961 on the Tigers’ home ground, where no Auburn eleven had been beaten in 30 straight games. Prior to that victory, UK had been able to score only once in five years on the stingy Plainsmen. Before the series was interrupted in 1971, the Tigers had won five straight games by impressive margins, outscoring the Wildcats 151 to 32. The 31-13 Auburn victory in 1974 gave the Tigers a 15-5-1 edge over the Wildcats.

LAST MEETING: Oct. 12, 1974 (Auburn) UK 13, AU 31—The undefeated and nationally ranked Tigers unleashed what had been a dormant offense up to that time and registered a 31-13 victory in Jordan-Hare Stadium. Meanwhile, the Wildcats, facing the nation’s No. 1 defense, gained 294 yards, some 90 yards below their season average. Sonny Collins gained 127 of those yards, which was almost the total offense Auburn was allowing before that game. The Tigers made 429 total yards, including scoring drives of 80, 73, and 86 yards. UK turned the ball over five times on three fumbles and two interceptions, but until the Tigers drove 86 yards to score in the fourth quarter and took a 28-13 lead, UK was definitely in the game.

1975 OUTLOOK: The Tigers have an excellent offensive attack built around sprint out quarterback Phil Gargis, the 1974 soph-of-the-year. The three-deep running back corps includes Secdrick McIntyre, who gained 839 yards last season. The offensive line is big and experienced. If Auburn has any problems, they might be on defense. Tackle Rick Telhiard, who led the Tigers in tackles, returns along with end Liston Eddins. Three graduating linebackers from last year include Ken Bernich, an All-American. Senior Carl Hubbard is the only LB holdover. In the secondary, only one letterman returns. Although inexperienced, the replacements are talented. Auburn has lost to Memphis State, Tennessee and VPI while tying Baylor.

They use the split back veer and run it to the outside very well, pulling the guard around. They also run the inside veer and have an outstanding back in Secdrick McIntyre, who has been hurt but did very well in last week’s game against VPI. Mitzi Jackson is another great runner who was hurt most of last year and played sparingly against UK. He gained close to 100 yards against VPI.

Phil Gargis is a fine quarterback. He likes to send his runners off right tackle, where Chuck Fletcher does a fine job. They are big offensively and come off the ball well. They returned intact except for loss of their center and left guard.

The defensive unit lost nine of 11 starters, including a great safety in Mike Fuller and an All-American linebacker in Ken Bernich. They run the Split-4 defense, stunt quite a bit and try to get after you. They have good size in their ends and tackles, the linebackers have good speed and are very aggressive. They like to block punts and almost blocked VPI’s first three punts.

They are a much better team than their record (0-3-1) shows. Penalties hurt them a great deal last Saturday, giving VPI some key first downs and allowing the Gobblers to march the length of the field. Auburn had first and goal on the five with one minute left and was unable to put it across.

DR. OTIS A. SINGLETARY
University President

President of the University since 1969 has been Dr. Otis A. Singletary, who came from the University of Texas, Austin, where he was executive vice chancellor for academic affairs. He earlier had been director of the Job Corps program for the Office of Economic Opportunity, and chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

He is the eighth president of the University. Unique recognition of his service to the institution came recently from the UK Alumni Association, which presented him its Alumni Service Award—an honor rarely bestowed upon a non-alumnus of the University.

CLIFFORD O. HAGAN
Director of Athletics

Cliff Hagan took over as UK athletic director July 1 of this year. One of the all-time great basketball players at UK, he played on teams that won 86 of 91 games and an NCAA championship (1951). The 1954 team, undefeated in 25 games, elected not to play in the national tournament. Hagan set a dozen SEC records and an NCAA record of 528 rebounds as a junior. He averaged 29 points a game, led the nation in rebounding, and scored a then-UK record 51 points against Temple in 1954.

He was All-American at UK, All-Pro with the St. Louis Hawks and player-coach of the Dallas Chaparrals. He was named the 1968 Texas "Professional Coach of the Year." He was named assistant athletic director at UK January 1, 1972.

Fran Curci

Head Football Coach

In 1974, his second year as head coach of the Wildcats, Fran Curci gave the University of Kentucky its first winning season (6-5) since the 1965 team finished 6-4. The Wildcats also tied for fourth in the SEC, their highest finish in nine years. Curci subsequently was awarded a new five-year contract.

"We obviously have been pleased with the progress made during Coach Curci's first two years at the University of Kentucky," Dr. Otis A. Singletary, UK president, said, "and we look forward to his continuing contributions in the days ahead."

During the seven years before Curci came to Lexington, the Wildcats finished 3-6-1 in 1966, 2-8 in 1967, 3-7 in 1968, 2-8 in 1969, 2-9 in 1970, 3-8 in 1971 and 3-8 in 1973.

Despite losing All-Conference runner Sonny Collins for the last 2½ games of the 1974 season, Curci's forces still were in line for a Liberty Bowl bid when they fell to Tennessee at Knoxville after upsetting bowl-bound Vanderbilt and Florida before ABC-TV cameras on consecutive weekends in Commonwealth Stadium.

Reputed as one of the nation's finest recruiters, Curci has worked long and hard to attract fine talent to Lexington and his first two Wildcat squads have featured a host of freshmen and sophomores playing prominent roles. Freshman Art Still was Southeast "Lineman of the Week" in the LSU game last season and was named first team defensive end on the Football News' Freshman All-American team. Warren Bryant, named All-SEC with Sonny Collins, was selected to that magazine's Sophomore All-American.

Curci produced the first two UK All-Americans since 1965 as center Rick Nuzum was honored by Newspaper Enterprise Association and Elmore Stephens was named first team on the Time Magazine squad chosen by professional scouts. Stephens was drafted in the second round by Kansas City, Nuzum in the fifth round by Los Angeles and linebacker Tom Ehlers by Philadelphia.

Curci also had one of his Wildcats honored nationally for the second year in a row as Tom Ranieri was selected "Lineman of the Week" by the Associated Press for his play at noseguard against Florida. He was named an Academic All-America first team member.

In 1973, Sonny Collins was the AP's national "Back of the Week" and a member of the UPI's "Backfield of the Week" for his fine performance against Mississippi State.

Curci's first UK squad had a record of five wins and six losses against tough competition, including six teams involved in bowl games. Kentucky tied Florida and Georgia for fifth place in the conference. Better yet, nobody romped over the Wildcats. They led mighty Alabama, 14-0, at halftime before falling, 28-14, and led LSU, 21-7, at intermission before losing, 28-21, in Baton Rouge. In each case, Curci felt a lack of depth was the cause of the Wildcat loss.

Upset victims included Georgia, Mississippi State and nationally ranked Tulane, which came to Lexington with an undefeated record.

At the end of the season, many honors were accorded Curci, including United Press International "SEC Coach of the Year," Inside Kentucky Sports "Kentucky Coach of the Year," and Courier-Journal "Man of the Year" in Kentuckiana sports.

One of his big problems upon arriving in Lexington was to convince the players and fans that Kentucky could win; after an opening victory over Virginia Tech, he told the squad that a person would have thought they had lost, they had to learn to win. By the end of the season, the Wildcats became known as a team that never gave up, and twice came from far behind to lose by only two points to bowl-bound teams.

Curci came to U.K. from his alma mater, the University of Miami, Fla., where he was head coach two years. He started his career as freshman coach there in 1962 after making All-America and playing as a 5-foot-9, 152 lb. quarterback for the old Dallas Texans of the AFL.

In four years, his Hurricane freshman teams won 12 and lost two games. He then served as a varsity assistant two years (1966-1967), with the Hurricanes participating in bowl games both those years.

Curci was tapped by the University of Tampa in 1968 to see what he could do about a faltering football program; in three campaigns, he wrote one of the most amazing success stories in college football.

In his first year, he put together a 7-3 season, including victories over Mississippi State and Tulane. That earned for him the Florida Sports Writers Association "Coach of the Year" award, a recognition repeated in 1970. His 1969 season was a brilliant 8-2 affair. His 10-1 record in 1970 also included a 31-14 triumph over Miami and brought the Tampans the nation's No. 1 College Division ranking as well as bringing Curci College Division "Coach of the Year" runner-up honors.

He took over as Miami grid boss Dec. 19, 1970, and left the program there in good shape for his successor.

Curci has been selected four times to coach in all-star games. He assisted Bear Bryant with the South team in Tampa's first annual American Bowl game four years ago, then served as South head coach the next year. He helped Charlie McClendon of LSU and Alex Agase of Northwestern direct the East in the Coaches All-America football game at Lubbock, Texas, and was co-South coach with Bill Battle of Tennessee in Miami's Shrine North-South game in 1972.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Curci played his high school ball in Miami, where he lettered three years as a quarterback at Archbishop Curley High and was All-City, All-Conference, Catholic All-State and his team's Most Valuable Player.

At the University of Miami, he was known as the "Mite-y Magician." Playing at 152 pounds, he parlayed intelligence and desire to become All-America as a senior in 1959 after receiving honorable mention All-America and winning acclaim as one of the foremost sophomore football stars in the country in 1957.

His record-shattering feats at Miami included breaking of seasonal and career marks for total offense, most passes thrown, most passes completed and most yards gained on passing. He also was co-holder of the record for most TD passes thrown.

He rolled up 2,767 yards rushing and passing during his varsity career, breaking a total offense record that had stood for more than two decades.

As a senior, he captained Miami and climaxed his career by engineering a stunning upset (18-23) over Big Ten champion Michigan State.

After graduation in 1960 with a degree in marketing, he played one year with the Dallas Texans and then served as a lieutenant in the Army, coaching and playing football for the Fort Eustis team, which won the National Service championship in the Missile Bowl.

He is married to the former Miss Patricia Ann Taylor of Louisville. They have four children, Angela 14, Frankie 12, Mary Teresa 11 and Jimmie 9.

In some states they're called junior colleges. In others they're extension centers or branch campuses.

But in Kentucky the 13 two-year schools of the University of Kentucky are called community colleges, and the reason for the difference in titles is more than semantics.

"We're called community colleges because our whole reason for being is to provide services to the communities we serve," explains Dr. M. Stanley Wall, UK vice president for the Community College System. "Everything we do has as its basis service to the community. We're like the junior college or extension center in that we offer the first two years of course work leading to the baccalaureate degree, but we provide much more than that.

"Each of our 13 colleges is involved in a wide range of programs specifically tailored to meet the needs of the community it serves."

One way the colleges are meeting these needs is by offering 42 different associate degree programs ranging from the popular secretarial and nursing programs to the new and exciting culinary arts, podiatry assistant and fire science technology specialties. The podiatry assistant program, offered through Jefferson Community College in Louisville, is the only program of its type in the country.

Through programs such as these, the colleges are providing students with a wide range of career opportunities, while at the same time providing their communities and the rest of Kentucky with critically-needed technicians and semi-professionals.

This fall a record 51 per cent of all students attending UK community colleges are enrolled in associate degree programs, a statistic Dr. Wall feels is strong evidence of the programs' wide acceptance among students. "Employers are also finding our programs attractive and are hiring our graduates, so we know our programs are accomplishing what they set out to do," he said.

"There's a great need today for technicians and semi-professionals, and these programs are helping to meet that need."

The colleges are also meeting the needs of the adult segment of their communities, offering special classes, workshops and seminars through extensive continuing education and community services programs. In keeping with the community-oriented philosophy of the colleges, offerings vary greatly from campus to campus, depending on the needs of the community.

"What any college offers is largely determined by what the people in the community request," explains Dr. Wall. "All of our colleges keep in close touch with their communities and are very open to suggestions and requests. If people want a certain type of program that is financially feasible and we can find someone qualified to lead it, we'll offer it."

At Henderson Community College, community input is achieved through a 25-member advisory committee composed of representatives of various community groups. Other colleges, including Hopkinsville Community College, conduct surveys to determine what programs community members would like to have offered.

All colleges receive input from their Advisory Boards, special committees appointed by the Governor to advise the colleges on all program offerings. In addition, each technical program at each college is served by an advisory committee that provides suggestions and evaluates the program.

The final result of this community input is a unique set of offerings by each college. Prestonsburg Community College, located in the hills of Eastern Kentucky, makes a special effort to preserve its mountain heritage by offering a course in inkle-loom weaving and a special program describing the folklore of the area.

Nearby Southeast Community College at Cumberland celebrates its mountain heritage each October with a two-day "Kingdom Come Swappin Meetin" festival featuring many of the fast-disappearing folkways of the mountain people.

Hazard Community College provides a public service to its area by offering a strip-mining drainage testing program.

Jefferson Community College in Louisville supplements an extensive Jefferson County Board of Education adult education program by offering specialized courses such as jail operation, private police training, graphoanalysis (handwriting analysis) and effective parenting. The college also offers a special tutorial program to inmates of Pewee Valley Correctional Institution for Women.

Somerset Community College provides senior citizens of the area an opportunity to better themselves with a series of six-week seminars covering cultural, historical and informational topics.

Paducah Community College assists prospective home-builders through a "Facts About Building a House" mini-course.

In addition, community colleges offer a series of special interest courses covering such topics as foreign languages, arts and crafts, consumer issues, household tips, photography, tax and legal matters and other items of interest to the general public.

All courses and workshops offered through these programs are self-supporting and usually require payment of a nominal fee by participants. Instruction sometimes is provided by faculty members, but members of the community possessing special expertise often teach the courses.

At Somerset, for instance, noted artist Gene Gray teaches three art courses, while at Lexington Technical Institute Bill DeRossett, president of Lexington Federal Savings and Loan, teaches a course on savings account administration. Louisville service station owner James Brenzel brings his Jefferson Community College students to his station to teach them about auto mechanics.

"Each of our communities has excellent resource people available and we try to capitalize on that by using them to lead our programs," Dr. Wall explains. "These community members, with their special expertise, enrich our programs and make it possible for us to meet a wide range of community educational needs."

In addition to offering courses of interest to the general public, the colleges are also providing services to the businesses and industries located in their communities. Special seminars and workshops offering the latest in management techniques and technological developments are conducted at the firms' request.

Prestonsburg Community College for instance, is offering a series of management training seminars for Island Creek Coal Co., while Ashland Community College will be offering a leadership development conference designed primarily for volunteers working for the Tri-River Conference of Camp Fire Girls. Henderson Community College is currently conducting a humanistic management course for employees of five local industries.

Along with their special community-oriented programs, the colleges are going out of their way to make educational opportunities available to their communities. Hopkinsville Community College, among others, is offering courses in neighboring towns and is providing Ft. Campbell soldiers and their families educational opportunities through the on-post Eagle University, a consortium of area colleges and universities.

Elizabethtown Community College and several others are utilizing the Kentucky Educational Television network to offer courses in classical theatre and human ecology.

Maysville and Somerset community colleges are serving as graduate study centers for area universities, offering several graduate courses.

And all campuses are providing senior citizens with educational opportunities by awarding scholarships through the Donovan Scholar program.

In addition, the colleges make their facilities available to local civic groups and provide their communities with cultural events through musical, theatrical and artistic presentations. Some colleges also have speakers bureau programs, in which faculty members share their expertise with various groups in the community.

A record enrollment of 17,268 students has been reported this fall by the community college system, an increase of 26.3 per cent over fall, 1974. "This is a very significant increase in our enrollment and reflects the widespread acceptance of the programs we're offering," said Dr. Wall. "We're making a concerted effort to meet the needs of all segments of the communities we serve, both through our regular academic programs and through our community outreach efforts. I think our figures show we're succeeding in meeting those needs."

Academic Grid "Bottom Line" In Second Year

In modern parlance getting to the "bottom line" means successfully completing whatever it is you set out to accomplish. The successful salesman is the one who gets his client's signature on the bottom line of a sales contract. The athlete gets to the bottom line when he finds the scoreboard smiling upon him and his teammates at the end of a hard fought contest. The college student who gets his diploma at the end of four years of study has gotten to the bottom line academically.

The one-year-old University of Kentucky Academic Athletic Program is helping today's Wildcat student/athletes get to the academic "bottom line." "Just keeping a young man in school and eligible for four years no longer serves as a valid criteria for success," says Dr. Frank M. Downing, UK academic athletic advisor. "The ratio between the number of student-athletes starting and finishing in four years with a degree is a better evaluative yardstick."

The improved UK Academic-Athletic program begins its second year of operation under Dr. Downing's aegis with four new AGA's (Academic Graduate Assistants). They are Bob Fenton, a UK grad returned to his alma mater for a masters degree in business; Perry Brown, a native New Yorker involved in doctoral level work in Educational Psychology; Steve Kirshner, a recent University of Tampa graduate doing masters work in Business Education; and Bob Warming, a Berea College graduate who will receive his masters in Physical Education in June. The staff is rounded out by academic secretary, Mrs. Ann Sampson, who brings to the program just the right blend of female intuition and motherly advice that helps many a student-athlete over unexpected trouble spots.

Simply stated the goal of the academic-athletic program is to help the student athlete to help himself earn his college degree. The central thread of the program is the maximum contact counseling that each AGA engages in with his student-athlete charges. The AGA and Dr. Downing in turn have weekly conferences regarding each man's progress toward successful completion of course work, which subsequently leads to the bottom line—the college degree.

Other noteworthy facts of the program include the following: Compulsory breakfast check, nightly study hall in the M.L. King Library; class checks to reduce or eliminate class cuts, a crash course in the study skills necessary for academic survival, student conferences with departmental advisors and professors, and the published academic-athletic honor roll.

This program, which is a healthy mix of the academic and the athletic, has won over many "Doubting Thomases" in the UK Academic Community. With this improved faculty feeling and the improved academic self concepts that it has helped develop in the student-athletes, year No. 2 of the program portends to be more successful than year No. 1. And with its continued success, more and more UK student-athletes will in fact get to the "bottom line"—graduation!

Chevette.

Chevrolet's new kind of American car.

- Chevette is international in concept, design and heritage. It incorporates many engineering features proved around the world.
- Its wheelbase is 94.3 inches. And overall length is 158.7 inches.
- Its turning circle, compared with that of any foreign or domestic car, is among the smallest.
- It gives you more head room and front leg room than some leading foreign cars.
- It can carry cargo up to four feet wide.
- It's basically a metric car. And, as you know, the metric system is on its way to becoming the standard American measurement.
- It has a standard 1.4-litre engine, with a 1.6-litre engine available (except on the Scooter).
- It comes with a self-service booklet.
- It's a two-door hatchback, with seating for four in the standard Chevette, Rally, Sport and Woody versions. A two-passenger version, the Scooter, is also available.
- It is sold and serviced by every Chevrolet dealer in America—all 6,030 of them.

NCAA Taps Gerald Ford for Top Award

The NCAA Honors Program, one of the Association's prize projects, is completing its 10th year of operation and the multi-faceted program is highly acclaimed as one of the best.

At the annual NCAA Convention in January, groups of individuals are recognized for their achievements as student-athletes and in their careers following graduation.

President Gerald R. Ford, former football player at the University of Michigan and a member of two undefeated teams there in the 1930's, was presented the NCAA's highest honor, the Theodore Roosevelt ("Teddy") Award.

The "Teddy" honors one individual for whom competitive athletics in college and attention to physical well-being thereafter have been important factors in a distinguished career of national significance and achievement.

Ford is the second President of the United States to receive the prestigious "Teddy," following Dwight Eisenhower, who was the recipient of the first award in 1967.

Impressive List

Since then, other Teddy recipients have been Senator Leverett Saltonstall; Supreme Court Justice Byron R. "Whizzer" White; Purdue University President Frederick L. Hovde; National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) official Dr. Christopher C. Kraft Jr.; Jerome H. (Brud) Holland, U.S. Ambassador to Sweden; General of the Army Omar N. Bradley; and Jesse Owens, currently in public relations, considered the greatest track athlete of this century.

"Though a young person might not go to college, no youngster grows up in America today without some competitive sport," Ford said in accepting the award in Washington, D.C. "Sports are not only a preparation for life, their spirit is part of the very essence of the American competitive system.

"May I most sincerely thank you for this award and for the good will and the good wishes it represents. It will always occupy a very honored position in my office, in my life and obviously in my memories. I am most grateful.

"In this spirit, I accept the National Collegiate Athletic Association's 1975 Theodore Roosevelt Award. I accept it not for what I might have achieved in the past; but for what I will strive to accomplish with the help of all Americans in the future.

"Thank you very much," the President concluded.

The 1975 Honors Luncheon also presented the "College Athletics Top Ten Awards" for the third year in a row and divided the winners into a "Today's Top Five Student-Athletes" group, honoring seniors from the 1974 calendar year, and the "Silver Anniversary Top Five," which honored former collegiate athletes on their 25th anniversary as college graduates.

Today's Top Five

The 1974 Today's Top Five Student-Athletes honored three football players, a wrestler and a track star as the NCAA paid tribute to Pat Haden, University of Southern California quarterback; John R. (Jack) Baiornos, Pennsylvania State University center; Randy Lee Hall, defensive tackle from the University of Alabama; Jarrett (Jerry) Hubbard, two-time NCAA champion wrestler from the University of Michigan; and Tony Waldrop, the nation's premier miler from the University of North Carolina.

25 Years Later

The Silver Anniversary winners were Robert S. Folsom, chairman of the board of Robert S. Folsom Investments, Inc., four-sport star at Southern Methodist University; Captain Philip Joseph Ryan of the U.S. Navy, Naval Academy football star; Ralph E. O'Brien, general agent of the Franklin Life Insurance Co. and former Butler University basketball great; former Congressman William J. Keating, president and chief executive officer of the Cincinnati Enquirer, a swimming standout at the University of Cincinnati; and Billy Mac Jones, president of Memphis State University, a three-sport star at Vanderbilt University.

Another phase of the Honors Program is the annual awarding of 80 Postgraduate Scholarships for $1,000 each to outstanding senior student-athletes.

The program began in 1964 and annually honors 33 football players, 15 basketball players and 32 student-athletes from other sports.

At the end of this football season, more than three-quarters of a million dollars will have been awarded to student-athletes by the NCAA as 784 have been awarded through September of this year.

CoSIDA—A Leader In Athletic Public Relations

By Phil Langan, Secretary-Treasurer

They call him and her everything—tub thumper, drum beater, image maker. You name it. But when you get down to the basics, and in most cases, the sports information director at the nation's colleges and universities is an expert public relations professional. And within the scope of that title you'll find him involved in layout and design, writing, editing, photography, advertising, radio and television, promotion, film work and a few hundred other things.

It's a 60-70 hour a week job for nine months of the year and high pressure all the way.

The image of this sports information director and his future are the main concerns of CoSIDA, College Sports Information Directors of America, an 18 year old organization which now numbers 625 members.

Started as an independent group after being a part of the American College Public Relations Association for years, CoSIDA concentrated on building its membership and providing a thorough, informative annual workshop for its members until 1971 when it started to expand operations.

CoSIDA has begun to educate athletic directors and college presidents as to just how valuable the SID is, something coaches and athletes have known for years. It has started regional workshops for new members of the profession, in addition to the annual conclave, and now sponsors academic All-America teams in football, basketball and baseball, which are receiving plenty of national attention. It has started a graduate school scholarship program for students who spent their undergraduate days as student assistants in the SID's office.

A total of 22 committees covering everything from "The Future of CoSIDA" to ethics and constitutional amendments, and from surveys to upgrading the profession are now in operation.

CoSIDA also sponsors brochure and game program contests for its members in some 18 categories for both large and small colleges, and offers its members an energetic and informative 20 page monthly publication called the CoSIDA Digest.

However the two most important steps for CoSIDA have been taken within the past three months. The first move was the formation of a joint committee of athletic directors and sports information directors aimed at improving the relationship between the A.D. and the S.I.D. and developing a closer involvement between the two national organizations NACDA (National Association of College Directors of Athletics) and CoSIDA.

The second step was a resolution passed unanimously at the recent annual workshop held in Houston in which CoSIDA resolved not to cooperate with annual and weekly publications that use gambling related advertisements. This step has been applauded by such organizations as the NFL and NBA and by "The Sporting News." It is CoSIDA's first effort in the on-going collegiate battle against gambling.

Many of the publications in question have already pledged full support of the resolution, and will not carry these ads next year.

CoSIDA's membership is made up mainly of male full-time sports information directors, some athletic directors and an increasing number of women, some of whom handle the entire sports public relations program at their respective schools such as Villanova and Illinois State, while others handle only public relations for women's athletics, such as Indiana and Minnesota.

A topic of many panels at the last four national CoSIDA workshops, and one area of activity which has given the SID a chance to show off his many talents, is ticket promotion. With the increasing number of professional sports, the great interest in lifetime sports and the tight budgets of American families, many college athletic departments have developed intricate and creative ticket sales programs, plus the equally creative merchandise of such items as blankets, brochures, lamps, pennants and mugs, many of which are on sale at the game today. The S.I.D. plays a prominent role in the entire operation.

Michigan's promotion conscious athletic director Don Canham, the subject of a Sports Illustrated article which spotlighted his work in this area, doesn't mince words when describing his feelings about SID Will Perry. "The sports information director is now the second or third most important man in our athletic department."

Yet the basic job of the SID is providing information on his school's athletic program and developing feature stories for the news hungry communications media.

"The sports information director is vital to our athletic program," Alabama football coach and athletic director Paul 'Bear' Bryant remarked recently. "He is our link to the public and I rely on his advice all the time."

Some administrators like Bryant know the score. Others don't and that is CoSIDA's task in the years ahead; educating their college administrators to the scope and value of activities involving the SID. In addition, of course, to becoming a positive force in that vital phase of American life called college athletics.

UK VEEPS

By BETTY TEVIS

To administer the vast enterprise that is the University of Kentucky, there are eight vice presidents, each heading a specific area and each responsible to the president.

As in other enterprises, these men have been chosen for management and administrative skills. Beyond that, most have been professors, most earned at least one degree at UK, and six of the eight are Kentucky natives.

UK's vice presidents tend to have been here awhile, to have seen the University grow and have grown with it, to understand what learning is all about and to know how to create a climate where learning can take place.

Lewis W. Cochran

Dr. Lewis W. Cochran, UK vice president for academic affairs, is a native of Perryville, Ky. He earned the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from UK, and joined the faculty in 1946 as an assistant professor of physics. He was promoted through the ranks to professor, served two years as acting head of the department of physics, as associate dean, acting dean and finally dean of UK's Graduate School. He became vice president for research in 1967 and vice president for academic affairs in 1970. He is a member of numerous science societies and also serves as a member of the board of directors of the University of Kentucky Research Foundation.

Cochran is the principal administrative officer of UK's Division of Colleges which includes the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Agriculture, Architecture, Business and Economics, Education, Engineering, Home Economics, Law, Library Science and Social Professions, as well as The Graduate School, Office of Undergraduate Studies, University Libraries, Office of Admissions and Registrar, Office of University Extension, the University Press of Kentucky and University of Kentucky Center at Ft. Knox.

Donald B. Clapp

Donald B. Clapp, since September the UK vice president for administration, is the newest of the eight vice presidents.

His responsibilities include: expediting matters through the president's office, including roles with exterior agencies like the state Council on Public Higher Education and the state Department of Finance and Administration; heading UK's budget planning office, which involves overseeing the Office for Management Information and Analysis (an institutional service office), and acting as liaison with the UK Athletics Association.

Clapp, a Lexington native, has bachelor's and law degrees from UK. He joined UK in 1963 as a research assistant in the office of the executive vice president. He later became coordinator for program planning in the office of UK President Otis A. Singletary, and two years ago was named executive assistant to Singletary.

Peter P. Bosomworth

Dr. Peter P. Bosomworth, vice president for the Albert B. Chandler Medical Center, came to UK in 1962 just weeks before the new Medical Center opened its doors. He was professor and chairman of the Department of Anesthesiology, a department which he is credited with building to eminence.

Vice president since 1970, Bosomworth heads the five schools—all innovative and growing in service and prestige—which make up the Medical Center: Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, Nursing and Allied Health Professions.

A native of Akron, Ohio, with degrees from three Ohio universities (B.S., Kent State; M.D., Cincinnati; master's of medical science, Ohio State), Bosomworth is now active in Kentucky medical organizations, such as the Kentucky Medical Association and Kentucky Physicians Mutual, Inc. (Blue Shield).

Wall

Smith

Zumwinkle

Hornback

Bosomworth is a member of the state Comprehensive Health Planning Council and of the health sciences advisory committee to the Council on Public Higher Education. He is chairman of the University of Kentucky-University of Louisville health sciences coordinating committee.

Jack C. Blanton

Jack C. Blanton, a native of Berea and former Kentucky budget director, is the UK vice president for business affairs and treasurer. He comes to UK from his position as vice chancellor for business and finance of the Tennessee State Board of Regents. Before that, he was associate director for fiscal affairs of the Tennessee Higher Education Commission.

At UK, Blanton's job as vice president for business affairs and treasurer puts him in charge of safety and security; maintenance and operation of the vast physical plant; design and construction of new facilities; auditing, accounting and fiscal management of the University; supervision of auxiliary enterprises such as dormitories; management of real property; purchasing and printing.

He is treasurer of the University and of its affiliated corporations such as the Research Foundation, the Athletics Association, physicians accounts at the Medical Center, and the Fund for the Advancement of Education and Research, also at the Medical Center.

M. Stanley Wall

Dr. M. Stanley Wall, since 1970 the vice president for the UK Community College System, is a former high school teacher of vocational agriculture (Garrard and Jefferson counties), UK Education professor, and associate dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics (now two separate colleges).

He is now responsible for the administration, academic planning and programming of courses for the 13 colleges in the Community College System.

Wall is a native of Casey County and holds the master's and Ed.D. degrees from the University of Kentucky.

John T. Smith

Dr. John T. Smith, former director of the Jefferson Community College in Louisville, was this year named to the newly-created position of UK vice president for minority affairs. In the new job Smith is responsible for the offices of minority student affairs, affirmative action, employee counselor, and also serves as staff advisor to the president in matters relating to minority affairs.

Smith a Lexington native, earned the master's and Ed.D. degrees from UK, and has served as a teacher, and school principal in the Lexington public schools before joining the faculty at UK's Ashland Community College in 1965.

Robert G. Zumwinkle

Dr. Robert G. Zumwinkle became vice president for student affairs in 1970, coming to UK with highly successful records at four other institutions of higher education in working with students both as teacher and as administrator. A native of Minnesota, he holds bachelor's and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Minnesota.

Zumwinkle acts in an advisory and informational role concerning students. The dean of student's office reports to him; the dean's office is responsible for residence hall programming, campus recreation, Student Center, the Human Relations Center, disciplinary actions involving the student code, fraternities and sororities and the off-campus housing office.

Also responsible to Zumwinkle are the Counseling and Testing Center, the Student Financial Aid Office, Placement Office, Educational Talent Search, inter-collegiate debate and student publications.

Raymond R. Hornback

Dr. Raymond R. Hornback, vice president for university relations, has bachelor's and master's degrees from UK and the Ed.D. from Indiana University. A native Kentuckian, he served for nearly two decades at Morehead State University, the last five as a vice president.

At UK, Hornback is responsible for UK's relations with its own faculty and staff, with its alumni, with the general public (including state legislators) and with the media. University Information Services, the Development Office and the Alumni Association all are responsible to his office.

Junior Varsity Football In Good Hands

By JACK PERRY

UK Assistant Sports Information Director

"Greg" Gregory

Warren White

When the NCAA governing body passed legislation limiting numbers of players to dress for home (60) and away (48) football games, the immediate reaction of concerned coaches throughout the country was how to combat the resulting morale problem of personnel who fell in the category of neither dressing or seeing game action.

The obvious solution for many schools, including Kentucky, was a return to Junior Varsity football.

And Kentucky coach Fran Curci made no hesitation in placing his jayvee program in the hands of two young, enthusiastic and talented coaches of varying geographical backgrounds.

They are Charles "Greg" Gregory and Warren White, both in their second year on the UK staff.

Gregory, a native of Georgetown, Ky., lettered four-years at Georgetown High and also at Middle Tennessee State University as a defensive tackle. He was named All-OVC second-team three-years, MTSU Defensive-Player-of-the-Year two years, and defensive captain his senior year. Earning a Bachelor degree in Physical Education in 1972, he remained at his alma mater as defensive line coach while earning a Masters degree. Since coming to Kentucky in 1974, his duties have included scouting opponents, running the offensive scout team, recruiting southern Kentucky, Tennessee and Wisconsin, and this year, sharing head freshman coaching duties with White. He is married to the former Rita Gardenhire of Chattanooga, Tenn.

White, a native of Lynn, Mass., played football at Lynn Classical High, and attended Cushing Prep Academy before accepting a scholarship at Eastern Michigan University. A starter at center as a freshman, White missed his sophomore year due to injury, but recovered and regained a starting role his final two years. He earned a Bachelor degree in speech with a minor in Sociology in 1971, and returned home where he became head freshman coach at Cobbett Junior High. He became defensive coordinator at Lynn English High in 1972 and 1973 while earning a Masters degree in Education from Suffolk University in Boston. During that period, he also took classes at Salem State College and the Mass. Maritime Academy. Since coming to UK in 1974, his duties have included scouting opponents, running the defensive scout team, recruiting Michigan and Georgia, and this year sharing head freshman coaching duties with Gregory.

"We had a pretty good schedule worked out when the 48 rule was put into effect," said Gregory. "Then when the Alabama court ruling moved it back to 60, we cancelled out as did our opponents. Now we're back to 48 and are trying to reset our schedule. We have games at Tennessee, Oct. 24, at Cincinnati, Oct. 21, and are trying to get with Vanderbilt."

"We could have a real powerhouse if we played all our freshmen," said White, "but many of them are on varsity status, so we may have a limited selection since our games will fall on Fridays."

One thing you may be certain of—it will be an eager bunch of young Wildcats and coaches seeking to climb the ladder of success.

AUBURN University Campus

Samford Hall

Coeducation was inaugurated in the South in 1892 when Auburn first admitted women students. Likewise, the Auburn football team, coached by Dr. George Petrie, was a party with the University of Georgia team, with Dr. Charles Herty as coach, in inaugurating football in the Deep South in 1892.

Following an earlier action of the Board of Trustees, the Legislature in 1899 changed the name of the institution to The Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The name change was justified on the basis that the college had broadened its program and taught not only the branches related to Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts, but also the sciences and arts related to the development of modern civilization.

Auburn has been called a liberal arts college, a technical college, a technological college, a college of industrial science, a college of applied science, and more recently a university of applied science. It has always been described as a liberal college, with addition of wider offerings in the arts and the sciences and of more liberal arts curricula, the institution developed into a university in every sense of the word. From the first, the name of the City, drawn from Goldsmith's line, "Auburn, loveliest village of the plain," has been used to designate the institution. In recognition of these facts, the Legislature, as of January 1, 1960, changed the name of the institution to Auburn University.

Today Auburn University is one of the largest institutions in the South. From its 1859 enrollment of 80, Auburn's students today number almost 15,705. Growthwise, the original plant consisting of a single building and 16 acres has expanded into a multi-million dollar plant comprising 60 main buildings and 1,871 acres at the main campus. Total acreage over the state devoted to the Agricultural Experiment Station amounts to over 16,000 acres.

As a land-grant institution, Auburn, through its programs of instruction, agricultural and engineering experiment station research, and the Alabama Extension Service, touches the lives of practically all Alabamians.

The City of Auburn was incorporated in 1838 in Lee County, Alabama. It sits astride the junction of the Piedmont plateau and the Coastal plain. Temperatures are moderate, and the elevation is 732 feet. With an area of about 20 square miles, Auburn has a population of approximately 25,000.

Auburn is 60 miles east of Montgomery, 120 miles southeast of Birmingham, and 125 miles southwest of Atlanta, Georgia. It is served by a system of good highways and the Western Railway of Alabama.

Editor's Notebook

Kentucky's hard luck but scintillating Wildcats hope to get back on the victory trail against an equally hard luck Auburn team here today.

Coach Fran Curci's Wildcats enter Southeastern Conference competition with a record of 1-2-1 against outside competition while the Tigers bring a "surprising" 0-3-1 record to Lexington.

In Coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan's 25th and final year as Auburn coach, the Tigers were a pre-season co-favorite (with Alabama) to win the conference title. Memphis State got Auburn's season off to a bad start by defeating the Tigers, 31-20. Auburn then tied Baylor, 10-10, lost to Tennessee, 21-17, and was upset, 23-16, Saturday by Virginia Tech.

The Gobblers, behing Phil Rogers, a converted running back drafted to call signals on offense, gained 128 yards on the ground and 68 in the air to surprise the Tigers before a crowd of 45,000 at Auburn.

Rogers scored one touchdown on an eight-yard run and another on a 31-yard pass to Steve Galloway. The Gobblers also got a score on an 89-yard run by Roscoe Coles.

Auburn's punter, Clyde Baumgartner, went in at quarterback late in the final quarter and almost brought the Tigers back in the closing seconds, but was shoved out of bounds four yards short of the goal on a crucial fourth down play.

It is the first time in 25 years that the Tigers have gone winless this far into the season. Jordan implied that some changes will be made before he brings his team to Lexington.

Kentucky started the season with a 27-8 victory over Virginia Tech, was upset by Kansas, 14-10, tied Maryland, 10-10, and lost to 10th ranked Penn State, 10-3, Saturday.

In the two losses and the tie, the Wildcats won the battle of the offensive and defensive statistics, but could not put the needed points on the board.

The Wildcats penetrated Penn State's 33-yard line seven times, but were denied touchdown territory by a variety of miscues, including a fumble, an interception and some slipping on the soft turf.

The afternoon was another frustrating one for Curci, who said, "Our kids deserve more than they're getting. We outplay everybody but we can't get a break."

The Wildcat defense so dominated the second half that Penn State did not cross midfield. That defense is allowing the opposition only 166.2 yards rushing and 70.5 yards passing per game. The UK offense is averaging 272 yards rushing and 51 yards passing per game.

Kentucky's All-SEC back Sonny Collins gained 140 yards against Penn State to bring his career total to 3,239 yards, moving him from 26th to a tie for 15th place among the game's greatest ground gainers.

While moving into a tie with Bowling Green's Paul Miles, Collins passed such fine runners as Mike Garrett, Alan Ameche, Ollie Matson, Johnny Bright and O. J. Simpson (O. J. got his 3,124 yards in only two seasons at USC).

Alumni News Notes

"We'll remember . . . and feel glad!" So promised the class of 1950's Kentuckian and today many members of that class were on campus to do just that. During a brunch at the Student Center there was talk of "our COLOSSAL dances, our STUPENDOUS games, our TREMENDOUS activities," our HUGE assignments, and, best of all, our BIG dates.

Take a look at 1950 on the UK campus as they saw it.

BEAUTIES—"We had queens for everything." Pat Moore was the Kentuckian queen. The Key's Sadie Hawkins' Dance found Jane Webb and Tony Rotunno the "best-looking Dog-patchers." Typical Ed and Co-Ed for the year were Mary McKinley and Frank Bassett. Betty Lyon was ATO's snowball queen while Betty White reigned as Phi Sig's moonlight girl.

ADMINISTRATION—Dr. Herman L. Donovan was president; Dr. Leo Chamberlain, first vice president; Dr. Maurice F. Seay, dean of the University and registrar, Frank D. Peterson, comptroller. Deans included Thomas P. Cooper, agriculture; Daniel V. Terrell, engineering; Dr. Cecil Carpenter, commerce; Dr. Louis A. Pardue, graduate school; Dr. Earl Slone, pharmacy; Elvis J. Stahr Jr., law; Martin M. White, arts & sciences; Dr. Frank G. Dickey, education. Dean of men was Dr. Albert D. Kirwan; dean of women, Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes. Professor of the year was Dr. Irwin T. Sanders, head of the soc. department.

ACTIVITIES—"We divided our interests and our time but NEVER our loyalty . . . belonging was part of our education." Student Government Association vice president, Kathy Barnett*, led a discussion concerning the proposed decrease in financial aid to campus publications, the House Presidents

Council, and other campus organizations. Kathleen Bealmer* was V-P of the House Presidents Council. Paul G. Sears*, now a UK Trustee, was president of the American Chemical Society.

Sweater Swings took place every Tuesday night. BMOC's (big men on campus) were the topic of conversation during long hours in the grill. Name bands came to Joyland and then there was breakfast at Comer's. Who could forget?

SPORTS—The football team, under Coach Bear Bryant, posted a 9-2 record and a trip to the Orange Bowl. In the season opener the Wildcats scored 11 TD's - two by Cliff Lawson and one each by Charlie Bradshaw, Dopey Phelps, Lee Truman, Emery Clark, Jerry Claiborne, Jim Howe, Bill Boller, Bob Bezuk, & Dom Fucci. Extra points were made by Bobby Brooks (4) and Boller (1). The score that game was 71 to 7. During the season UK scored 304 pts; their opponents, 53, with five teams being shut-out.

The story in basketball was a 25-5 season for the Rupp-coached team. Dale Barnstable* was captain. The Wildcats won the SEC championship which was decided by tournament play then with a 95 to 58 victory over Tennessee and then lost the National Invitational Tournament 50 to 89.

In intramural sports, Delta Tau Delta captured the All-participation crown. More than a 100 central Kentuckians participated in the fourth annual Blue Grass Tennis Tournament.

CLASSES—The rigors of registration then included "climbing to the rafters in Alumni Gym . . . sweating over schedules, pained expressions, a mass of serious suffering.

"Dreams of the promised tomorrow were rooted in daily long hours of exploration and development, perfecting technique, split-second timing, an atmosphere of absorbing interest, the pride when things went well, a comradely instructor, an inspiring professor, the pangs of doubt, was this your calling, slide rules, term papers, equations, EXAMS-the day of reckoning, wishing you had studied regularly, cramming is a futile task, trying to put your knowledge on paper, the end, the object of study and then forget, the emphasis on grades but had you learned?"

GREEKS—Secret passwords, handshakes, jeweled pins in vital places, Chi-O's house on Rose Street under construction, Gloria Eastburn* was president of Alpha Gamma Delta. Gentry McCauley* was vice president of Sigme Alpha Epsilon and Charles W. Yound* was SAE secretary.

DORMS—for women, and pictured in the yearbook, were Jewell (Kathleen Bealmer*, president), Boyd, Patterson, Jewell Annex and Sayre Halls and McDowell, Lydia Brown and Hamilton Houses.

TODAY—The Fine Arts Building which was opened and dedicated that year, still serves the University well and will soon be part of a larger fine arts complex. Five from the class of '50 serve on the Alumni Association Board of Directors—Cawood Smith* of Harlan, Frank Bassett of Durham, N.C., John Owens of Lexington, Barnstable* of Louisville and McCauley of Versailles.

Youthful Wildcats To Debut An Annual Picture Day

By JACK PERRY

UK Assistant Sports Information Director

Representatives of the Press-Radio-TV media in attendance at annual Basketball Picture Day ceremonies, Tuesday, Oct. 14, in Memorial Coliseum will be introduced to the youngest Wildcat team in modern UK history.

UK head coach Joe B. Hall conceivably could start a junior, three sophomores and a freshman, making up the youngest lineup since 1946 when the Wildcats won the NIT with freshmen Ralph Beard and Wallace Jones, juniors Jack Parkinson and Jack Tingle, and senior Wilbur Schu.

The Wildcats return seven lettermen—two juniors and five sophomores—and from that group, the lineup could include 6-foot-2 junior guard Larry Johnson, sophomores 6-10 Rick Robey and 6-4 Jack Givens at forward, and 6-10 Mike Phillips at center. Fighting for the remaining guard slot are freshmen 6-1 Truman Claytor, 6-4 Pat Foschi and 6-2 Dwane Casey, senior 6-1 Reggie Warford and junior 6-2 Joey Holland.

And if Hall wanted more experience, he could move Givens to guard and fill in at forward with either 6-4 junior Merion Haskins or 6-5 sophomore James Lee. Bob Fowler, a prodigious leaping 6-4 freshman, could surprise after gaining varsity experience.

A vital key to a successful season is 6-10 sophomore center Dan Hall, who is destined for increased playing time with Robey's shift to forward.

Coach Hall, who begins his fourth year at Kentucky, is mainly concerned with replacing six lettermen, including four three-year starters, from last year's NCAA runner-up team. The four—All-America forward Kevin Grevey, UK's second all-time scorer, forward Bob Guyette, and guards, Capt. Jimmy Dan Conner and Mike Flynn—represented almost 54 of the Wildcats' 92.2 points per game.

The first step in forming a rugged frontline is moving Robey, who scored 10.4 ppg at center, to forward, and establishing Phillips, who scored 7.8 ppg in a backup role, as a starter. Both big men suffered from excessive fouling which led to a combined total of 13 disqualifications.

When the Wildcats begin practice Oct. 15, Robey will be in Mexico City as a member of the United States Pan-American team. He joined the Pan-Am camp in Colorado Sept. 14 and will return home around Oct. 30.

"This will be a great experience for Rick," said Hall. "Not only will it give him exposure to some of the great amateur players in the world, but it should increase his chance to make the U.S. Olympic team."

While Robey is carrying the colors of the United States, he also is gaining invaluable experience at forward on the Pan-Am team.

"Moving Robey to forward should come as no big surprise," said Hall. "When we recruited Rick and Phillips, we saw them work together in an All-Star game and knew the potential was there. Now we are going to make it a reality. It will give us greater power inside—and we still have the option of juggling the lineup as we see fit."

A steadying factor on the team likely will be Givens, whose cool, heady play last year at times had a settling effect on a senior dominated squad. The former Kentucky High School "Mr. Basketball" played like a veteran and popped in 24 points in the NCAA semi-final game against Syracuse. He was fourth scorer with 9.4 ppg and rebounds with 4.9 in only 19-minutes playing time per game.

Johnson, one of the SEC's finest defensive players, is expected to lead another aggressive Kentucky defense and also to pick up a 4.3 scoring average.

Observations by Coach Joe B. Hall:

—We must overcome our exceptional youthfulness with intelligent play and 100 percent hustle. — We will continue to demand a toughness in our defensive philosophy and hope to cut down on excessive fouling. — Our sophomores were exposed to the greatest of pressure in tournament play last March and this should benefit them greatly in their approach to the coming season. — With the loss of six lettermen to graduation, our three big men (Robey, Phillips and Hall) must dedicate themselves into reaching an early peak in physical conditioning since we will call on them for more playing time than they experienced last year. — We can be extremely flexible in our offensive alignment. That is, we will employ both the single and double post, utilizing the talents of Robey and Phillips, as well as running the 1-3-1. We will have a good ball-handling group so we will be on the break also. — We face another terrific December schedule which most certainly will prepare us for another tough Southeastern Conference race. — In Robey and Givens, we have two bonafide candidates for post-season honors. Robey is agile for a big man and he possesses great competitive spirit—and he has a good assortment of shots. Givens is smooth as silk. He is always in the right position at the right time. Even though he is small for a forward, he manages to rebound well against bigger players, and he is almost unstoppable in close to the basket. He may be the most mature young player around. — Larry Johnson may be our most improved player. We will depend on him for more scoring and leadership.

HALFTIME

The University of Kentucky Band is pleased to welcome the Bicentennial Pageant presented by the 101st Airborne Division from Fort Campbell, Kentucky. The pageant takes us through history, from 13 colonies fighting for freedom and self-government to our present 50 United States.

The University Band joins the pageant with a special Bicentennial Fanfare composed by UK music professor Bernard Fitzgerald. The program ends with a moving documentary I AM THE NATION to the strains of "No Man IS an Island".

The UK Band expresses its appreciation to Dr. Robert Bostrom, Acting Chairman, Department of Human Communication, for his narration of I AM THE NATION.

University of Kentucky School Songs

ON, ON, U. OF K.

On, On, U. of K.
We are right for the fight today.
Hold that ball and hit that line;
every wildcat star will shine.
We'll fight, fight, fight for the blue and white,
as we roll to that goal, varsity.
And we'll kick, pass and run
'till the battle is won,
and we'll bring home the victory.

U.K. ALMA MATER

Hail Kentucky, Alma Mater!
Loyal sons and daughters sing;
sound her praise with voice united;
to the breeze her colors fling.
To the blue and white be true;
badge triumphant age on age.
Blue the sky that o'er us bends;
white Kentucky's stainless page.

MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME

The sun shines bright in the old Kentucky home,
'Tis summer, the people are gay;
The corn-top's ripe and the meadow's in the bloom
While the birds make music all the day.
The young folks roll on the little cabin floor
All merry, all happy and bright;
By'n by hard times comes a-knocking at the door
Then my old Kentucky home, Good-night!
Weep no more my lady, Oh! weep no more today!
We will sing one song for the old Kentucky home
For the old Kentucky home, far away.

There's more to electricity than meets the plug

Our first responsibility is to supply the electricity you need when you need it — all that's needed, 24 hours a day. Growing needs. For home, business, and industry.

But making sure that everyone in our service area has all the electricity needed is just part of the picture.

Take the problems involving the environment, for example. Reddy's working with scientists and researchers to clean up air pollution, improve and expand sewage treatment, filter pollution out of lakes and streams, and replace old-fashioned polluting processes with clean electrical systems.

In fact, in the area of environmental control equipment on which patents have been issued, more than 90 per cent require electricity.

Reddy Kilowatt makes things happen environmentally!
