The Kentuckian

Published by the class of 1927
of the University of Kentucky

Foreword

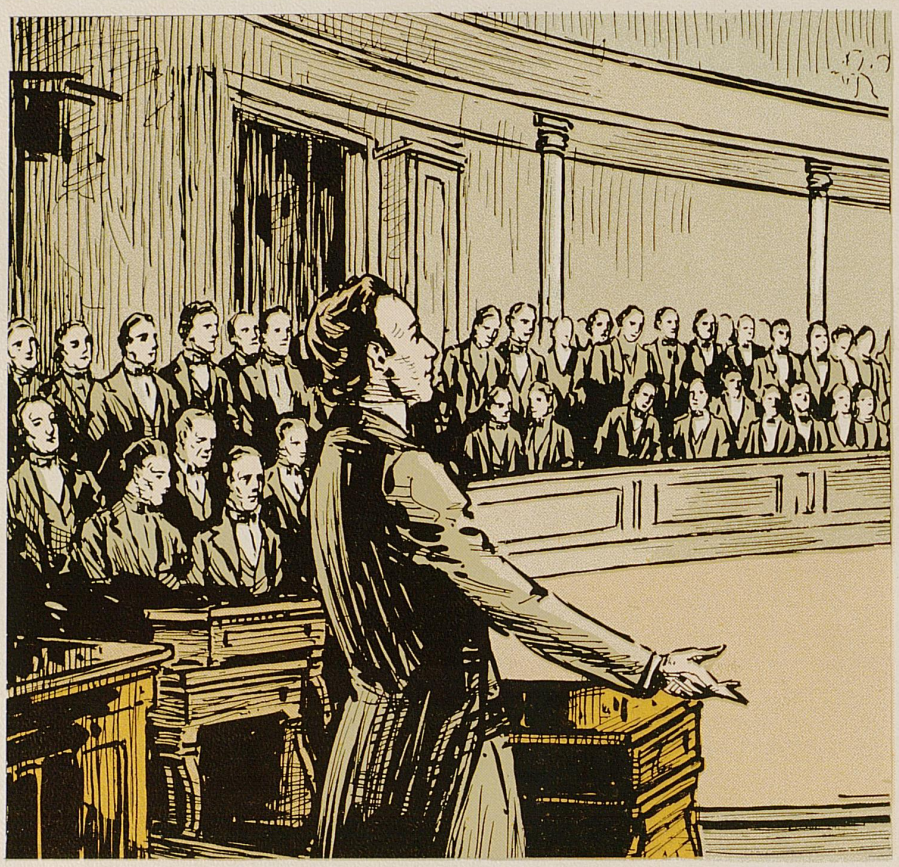

We present to the class of 1927 and to the University one further link in the chain of Kentucky history, depicting its modern theme in the guise and manners of perhaps the most prosperous era the state has ever known, that just prior to the Civil War. May it serve both as a connecting link with that past and as an entering wedge to a still more eminent future.

Dedication

To the Mill Boy of the Slashes,
The Great Commoner,
The Maker of Presidents,
The Sage of Ashland,

The Colossus who stood for thirty years between two nations;

Who never failed before a jury of his peers,
Who never lifted his voice but the world listened,
Who never moved but it was a gesture for freedom,
To him who would rather be right than be president,

Henry Clay

Early Kentucky Justice

". . . . . It chanced that, at that time, there was a company of forty trappers and hunters from Kentucky, with their rifles, who had made their headquarters at the Pueblo; and these, together with the Americans and Englishmen in the place, who were between twenty and thirty in number, took possession of the town, and waiting a reasonable time, proceeded to try the man according to the forms in their own country. A judge and jury were appointed, and he was tried, convicted, sentenced to be shot, and carried out before the town, with his eyes blindfolded. The names of all the men were then put into a hat and, each one pledging himself to perform his duty, twelve names were drawn out. The men took their stations with their rifles and, firing at the word, laid him dead. He was decently buried, and the place was restored quietly to the proper authorities. A general, with titles enough for an hidalgo, was at San Gabriel and issued a proclamation as long as the fore-top-bowline, threatening destruction to the rebels, but never stirred from his fort; for forty Kentucky hunters, with their rifles, were a match for a regiment of hungry, drawling, lazy half-breeds. This affair happened while we were at San Pedro (the port of the Pueblo), and we had all the particulars directly from those who were on the spot."

RICHARD HENRY DANA,
in "Two Years Before the Mast."

PRESIDENT FRANK LEROND MCVEY
Doctor of Philosophy

President McVey would, no doubt, observe with Ruskin, "We are not sent into this world to do anything into which we cannot put our hearts." Into his working energy and executive ability he has put the heart which, in the nine years he has been with us, has brought to the University of Kentucky the widest improvement and greatest progress it has ever known. Into the farsighted dominance of his leadership have gone the artistry and literary finish which will do their part in one day, making the University of Kentucky a figure in the educational world.

Columbus R. Melcher

Dean of Men

Dean Melcher, graduate of Hanover College, holding a degree in law from the University of Louisville, has for nineteen years served the University first in the capacity of Professor of Languages and later in the twin duties of head of the German department and Dean of Men. In all that time his continuous and unfailing performance of his duties has shown better than words his interest in the University, and his recent appointment as President of the National Association of Deans of Men but heightens our admiration of him.

Sarah G. Blanding

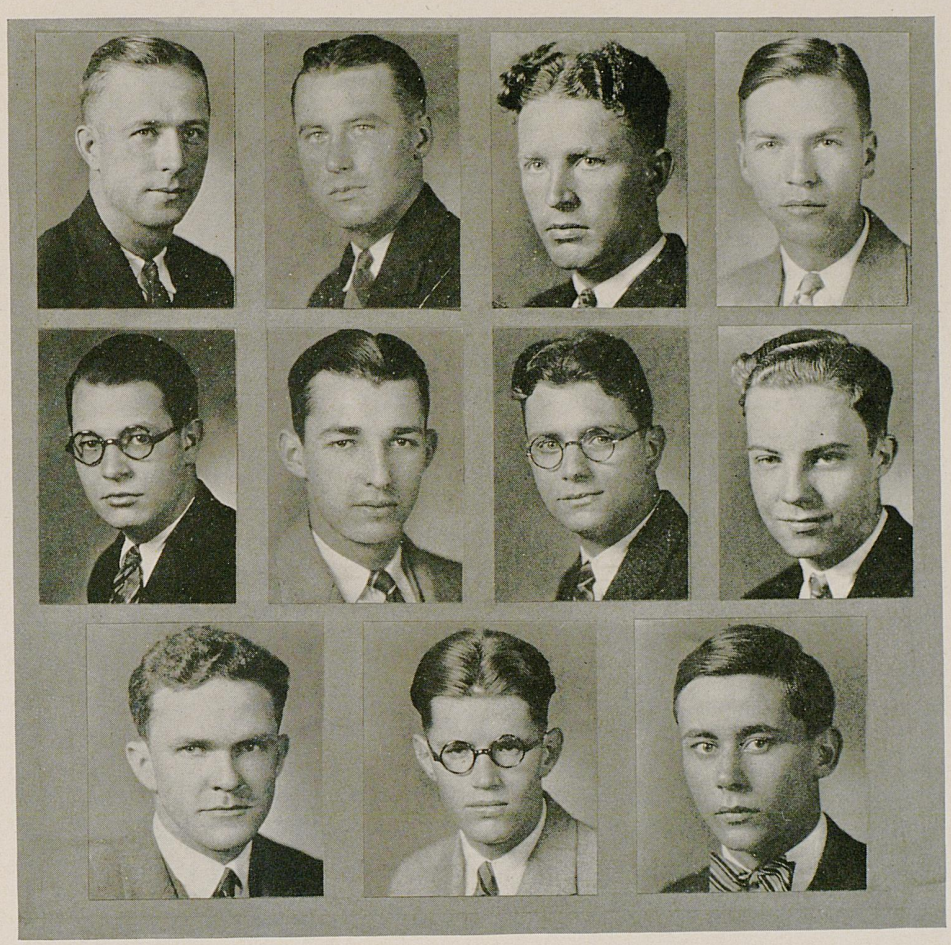

Dean of Women

Dean Blanding, herself a Lexington woman, and a graduate of the University of Kentucky, has, in her three years as Dean of Women at the University of Kentucky, won an enviable position in the esteem of the entire student body. She left us last year to obtain her master's degree in Public Law from Columbia University, but the Fall of 1926 found her back on Kentucky's campus again, dispensing hospitality from her offices on the second floor of Neville Hall, respected and admired by girls and men alike.

Distinguished Alumnus

PHILIP L. BLUMENTHAL

Received the B.S. degree at the University of Kentucky in 1909, later receiving the M.A. and Ph.D. at Yale, and studying at the University of Berlin. While attending the University of Kentucky he was one of the charter members of the local chapter of Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemical fraternity. He is now a life member of the University Alumni Association. He is also a member of Sigma Xi and Phi Lambda Upsilon, another honorary chemical fraternity.

His first position was with the Carnegie Steel Company in 1913. A few months later he was research chemist of the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station. From '15 to '19 he furthered research work at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. In 1918 he enlisted in the Chemical Warfare Service of the U. S. Army. Since 1921 he has been secretary-treasurer of the Lacteal Analytical Laboratories, Inc., at Buffalo, New York, where he has speedily proven himself an invaluable member of the company.

CLARENCE C. CALHOUN

Is a member of that eminent family to which belonged John C. Calhoun. He was born in Davis County, Ky., in 1862. His collegiate course was marked by the winning of many scholastic honors. During his senior year at the University of Kentucky he was tendered the principalship of the commercial department. Mr. Calhoun was an organizer, charter member, and first vice-president of the Patterson Literary Society, and also of the Intercollegiate Oratorical Society. At present he is an honorary member of the alumni association of the University of Kentucky.

In 1896 he was admitted to the Kentucky bar, and began his practice in Lexington. During the Spanish war he organized Company "C" of the Kentucky Volunteer Infantry. He ranked as captain in the Kentucky State Guard. He was employed by fifteen states on litigation before the federal government and was successful in every instance. He is associate counsel on the Lusitania case, and is attorney of record in the largest suit ever instituted against the federal government, involving $700,000,000, that of the Sioux Indians, popularly known as the "Black Hills" case.

Mr. Calhoun holds the degree of Master of Diplomacy from George Washington University, and is a member of the American Bar and of the American Society of International Law.

Was graduated with the Class of 1896, and for the succeeding five years was an instructor at Berea College. From 1900 to 1912 he was with Ginn & Co., publishers of school and college textbooks, at Boston, as representative and supervisor of the field forces. In 1912 he, with J. A. Lyons of Chicago, formed the firm of Lyons and Carnahan, educational publishers, but due to his partner's death he became sole owner in 1920. His present firm supplies school and college textbooks to nearly every English-speaking nation.

Mr. Carnahan in 1898 married Mary Williams of London, Ky., and has two children and one grandchild. Since the day he was graduated he has been an active and generous alumnus, having contributed to the Student Loan Fund, the stadium fund, and other university enterprises.

LENA MADESIN PHILLIPS

Who has enjoyed a spectacularly brilliant professional career, received the degree of LL.B. at the University of Kentucky with the added distinction of being the first honor graduate the School of Law had ever had, either man or woman. Besides taking the degree of LL.M. at New York University, she is an alumnus of Goucher College, Peabody Conservatory of Music, and Jessamine Institute, Kentucky. She is an alumna of the local chapter of Chi Omega sorority.

She began her practice in Nicholasville, Ky., but soon after went to New York to do war work for the National Y. W. C. A., in which capacity she began the career which has made her one of the best known woman attorneys in New York City.

In 1919 Miss Phillips was instrumental in organizing the National Federation of Business and Professional Woman's Clubs, Inc., of which she became executive secretary. She resigned from that position to take her LL.M. at New York University, and afterwards opened an office for the practice of law in New York City. She has recently been elected president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Woman's Clubs.

Born at Paintsville, Ky., was graduated with the Class of 1901 with the degree of B.C.E. During his college career he was a member of the football and baseball teams, and later became president of the Athletic Association. He was business manager of the "Cadet," the only college publication at that time. It is of interest to note that he was a charter member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Immediately after graduation Rice took the position of assistant engineer of the Ohio and Kentucky Railroad at Jackson, Ky., and remained in that capacity until January of 1902. From 1906 to 1908 he was superintendent and director of the Dunn Construction Co., Huntington, W. Va. In 1908 he became chief engineer and manager of the Goose Lake Valley Irrigation Co. at Lakeview, Ore., where he designed and built one of the largest private irrigation projects in the West. As chief engineer and general manager of the California Southern Railroad in 1920 and 1921, he further proved himself a capable executive. Today he is the consulting engineer and escrow officer of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles, Cal.

RICHARD CHARLES STOLL

Was graduated from the State College of Kentucky in 1895 with an A.B. degree and received his LL.B. from Yale in '97, and an LL.D. in 1913 from the University of Kentucky. While attending here he was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa.

Having been admitted to the bar in '97, Judge Stoll has been general counsel and director of the Kentucky Traction and Terminal Co., First and City National Bank, and the Lexington Utilities Co. He is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Law Institute, the Kentucky State Bar Association, of which he was president in '22, and the Lexington Bar Association. He served as a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1912, 1916 and 1920. Judge Stoll, whose home is now in Lexington, has been circuit judge of the Twenty-second Judicial District of Kentucky since 1921.

Book Three : Athletics

FOOTBALL

Confronted by the toughest schedule attempted by a University of Kentucky football team for many years, Coach Fred J. Murphy started the 1926 season with fair prospects for a team. The early season found the Wildcats going through conditioning exercises and the learning of enough plays to serve them when they met the Maryville College Highlanders in the opening game October 2.

A well coached Kentucky team tore the Highlanders' defense into shreds and scored a 25 to 0 victory in the opening game. Jenkins went over for the first touchdown early in the first quarter and from that time on if the Cats had chosen to loosen the full fury of their attack they could easily have scored many more touchdowns. In the line Pence, Wert and Gilb were the main factors in the victory. However, the ability of Creech, Edwards, Schulte, Belt and Phipps was attested by Maryville's noticeable lack of first downs—three. Kentucky made 18.

INDIANA 14; KENTUCKY 6

The Crimson and Cream warriors of Indiana University scored a close 14 to 6 victory over the University of Kentucky eleven in the second game of the season.

Kentucky's only score came in the last two minutes of play. Mohney was substituted for Portwood at half. Jenkins called for a pass, received the ball from the center, stumbled, almost fell, and shot the oval on a 40-yard journey through the air. Hovering near the Crimson goal post was a lone wearer of the Blue and White. Mohney, the last minute substitute, gathered the ball in his arms and stumbled over the Indiana goal line. Although defeated, the Wildcats had scored. The game ended a few minutes later, with both teams near the center of the field.

CAPT. FRANK SMITH

WASHINGTON AND LEE 14; KENTUCKY 13

The W. and L. Generals, who the previous week had tied Princeton, 7-7, came to Lexington in October hell-bent on washing the Wildcats away. When the final whistle had blown the score stood: Washington and Lee 14; Kentucky 13.

The margin of victory came in the third quarter on an offside play as Rauber attempted to kick goal, after plunging one yard for the touchdown. Rauber's kick was wide and low and undoubtedly it would not have gone for an extra point had not one of the Cats been guilty of being offside.

Frank Smith made both of Kentucky's touchdowns, one each in the first and second quarters. The Generals got only one during the half and Kentucky's hopes were raised when her sons were leading the Virginians, 13 to 7, at the end of the first two playing periods.

KENTUCKY 18; FLORIDA 13

Upholding the confidence of all followers of the Blue and White and the predictions of sport writers, the Wildcats skinned the Florida Alligators, 18 to 13, at Jacksonville October 23.

Handicapped by the extreme heat, which at the start of the game was near 90 degrees, and the hard clay field with barely a covering of short grass, the Cats were behind by the unlucky point after touchdown at the half. After trailing the 'Gators during the third period a long heave from Jenkins to Mohney on the fourth down with 20 yards to go, netted the winning points.

Mohney was Kentucky's ace in the hole, and it was this youngster who we all know and love so well, who climbed the heights of stardom and as he climbed, pulled a clawing, scrapping bunch of Wildcats out of the depths of defeat to a sensational victory over a fighting eleven.

ECKLUND, MURPHY AND MANN

KENTUCKY 13; V. P. I. 13

The Wildcats fought and splashed their way to a 13 to 13 tie with the V. P. I. Gobblers on Stoll field, October 30. The game was played in a drizzling rain which continued to a greater or lesser degree throughout the contest. Despite the adverse weather conditions, 5,000 rooters populated the stands.

Kentucky's points came as a result of Wert's recovery of Peake's fumble in the first quarter and Frank Smith's right tackle sneak in the final quarter. Mohney had been substituted and thinking that a pass was to be thrown to him, the Gobblers failed to watch Smith to their sorrow.

ALABAMA 14; KENTUCKY 0

In better shape for a hospital clinic than a football game, Kentucky was defeated by Alabama at Birmingham by 14 to 0 on November 6.

With Jenkins injured and no one to successfully feed passes to Mohney and others, the Cats lost their most serious scoring threat and had to resort to line play on the offense and that "Thin Red Line" was just 196 pounds to the man thick.

Kentucky's only serious threat to score came in the second quarter when two successive passes put the ball on 'Bama's 13-yard line. The Tide held, however, and the threat passed quickly.

V. M. I. 10; KENTUCKY 9

November 13 found the Wildcats in an awful slump which continued until they met Tennessee. On this unlucky 13th the V. M. I. Cadets turned the tables on Kentucky at Charleston and licked them by a 10 to 9 score.

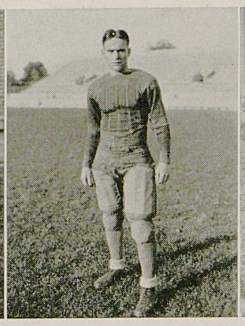

Their victory was due, not to their own superior playing, but to the listless and half hearted manner in which Kentucky played. Smith and Mohney made Kentucky's only points, a touchdown and a field goal.

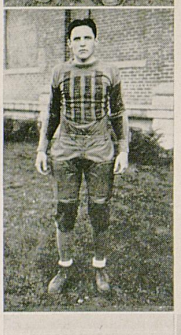

CENTRE 7; KENTUCKY 0

The Wildcats continued on their losing streak on November 20, with the Centre Colonels taking the annual game by the score of 7 to 0, a pass, Goings to Hyatt, accounting for the winning touchdown.

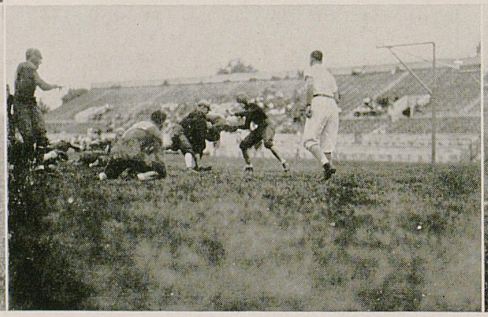

In the first quarter the Wildcats showed signs of doing what was expected of them by ripping off steady gains through the light Centre line. The Cats gained possession of the ball on their 24-yard line after the blue clad wall had repulsed Tom Catlett's plunge for a first down after kick-off. Paul Jenkins, on the first play, went off right tackle for a pretty gain. A penalty nipped Kentucky's rally, however.

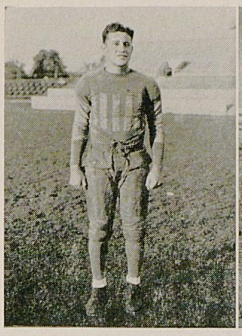

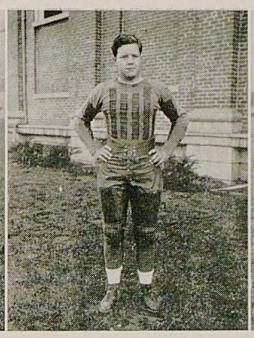

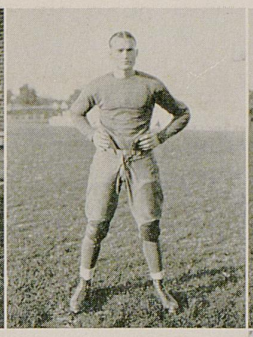

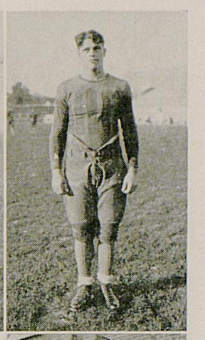

Kentucky's downfall came like a bolt of lightning from a gray sky. So quick did it occur that it left the multitude wondering for an instant just what had happened and how it happened. Jimmy Goings, possessing that unconquerable Centre spirit, co-operated with Hyatt to score the touchdown that took the game back to Danville. It was third down for Centre, with the ball on Kentucky's 2-yard line in the second quarter when the fatal play came. On a peculiar spread formation Goings threw a pass into the waiting arms of Hyatt and he scampered over the goal line unhampered.

TENNESSEE 6; KENTUCKY 0

The Wildcats rose to heights which they reached in the Washington and Lee and V. P. I. games to hold the Tennessee Volunteers to a 6 to 0 victory in the final game of the season at Knoxville on Thanksgiving Day.

Many times the alertness of Wildcat forwards checked a Vol when he was in the act of starting on a touchdown run, causing him to drop the ball. The Blue team recovered virtually every fumble made by their heavier opponents and won the praise of those who braved the rain and cold to witness the game.

Freshman Football

From a slow start, Coach Ray Eklund's University of Kentucky Freshman football team turned in one of the most successful schedules in recent years, winning three of the five games for which "Daddy" Boles saw fit to schedule them.

Their first defeat came at the hands of the Vanderbilt Rats, who nosed them out by one touchdown, 13 to 7. In our one touchdown Jeffries took the ball from a punt formation and ran almost the whole length of the field for the Kitten's score.

The next game of the season saw the Georgetown College Cubs take the measure of the Eklundmen by a 9 to 0 score, although the Kittens clearly outplayed them throughout the entire game.

With Len Miller at the quarterback position, the Kittens ran wild over the University of Tennessee freshmen in the next game, running up forty-two points, thanks to spectacular work by Jeffries, Miller, Covington and McIntosh.

To the surprise of everyone, including Eklund, McIntosh scored the touchdown, after a series of plunges down the field, which defeated the Butler freshmen 7 to 0, in the semi-final game of the season.

The final game, against the Centre Lieutenants, found the Kittens running rough shod over the Looies, making fifty-five points to none for the Centre frosh. Most of the squad got a chance to play a part of this game, and among them Covington, brother of the former Centre flash, "Herb," turned in the most creditable performance.

BASKETBALL

CAPT. PAUL JENKINS

Following in the footsteps of the football team, the University of Kentucky basketball team, coached by Basil Hayden, former All-Southern star while playing with Kentucky, suffered the most disastrous season in many years during the school year 1926-27, and for the first time in seven years were not invited to participate in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference tournament in Atlanta.

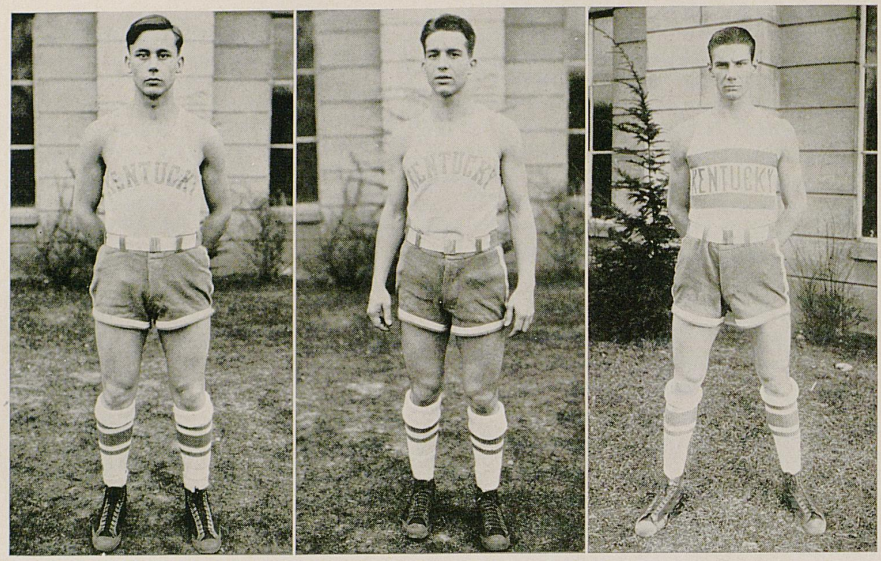

The season, from start to finish, was a series of losses, broken only by well-earned victories over the University of Florida and Centre College, whom the Wildcats defeated twice.

The season opened inauspiciously with the University of Cincinnati on December 18, and the Queen City team ran up a 48 to 10 score on the Wildcats. Indiana came next, and although Kentucky showed some improvement over her showing against the Cincy five, the Hoosiers won the game, 38 to 19.

Princeton University, appearing on the University of Kentucky athletic card for the first time, did their best in vanquishing the Wildcats, 30 to 26, in the next game.

The Wildcats won their first game of the season from the University of Florida Alligators, 44 to 36, and incidentally opened their Southern Conference season just as they opened it last year—with a victory.

Hopes of a state championship quintet went into the air in the next game, however, when the Kentucky Wesleyan Panthers slipped up on the Cats and defeated them, 31 to 24, in the Winchester gymnasium. This was somewhat of a blow to Kentucky.

DEES KNADLER HELM

The next game saw the Vanderbilt Commodores trounce Kentucky by 48 to 32. Kentucky then started on the annual trip through the South, and succeeded in dropping games to Tennessee and Georgia Tech by scores of 19 to 14 and 48 to 16.

Centre came next and, incidentally, Centre was defeated, 27 to 25, "Toots" Knadler tieing the score at 25-all in the final minute and shooting the field goal, which won the game for Kentucky in the final second. This was the only bright part of the local season.

Georgetown virtually eliminated the Wildcats from the running in the state title race by besting them in their annual game, 26 to 19, in Georgetown.

Washington and Lee, famed for her good football teams, did the expected in trimming Kentucky, 36 to 34, in the next game, the score being close throughout. The Generals presented a rangy team with which Kentucky could not cope.

The West Virginia Mountaineers were the next foe for the Blue team, and the visitors carried off our scalps by a 44 to 26 score.

"Ole Miss" presented a brilliant and crafty basketball team to hand the unfortunate Wilcats a 37 to 17 licking in the semi-final Conference game on the schedule.

SHARPE PHIPPS ROPKE

The Wildcats ended their season with Kentucky teams by surprising Centre at Danville, besting the Colonels by 22 to 16 for the second straight victory during the year. In this, the third victory for the Cats, Frank Phipps and Paul Jenkins were stars, the former having his eye for the basket for the first time during the season, and leading all scorers, and the latter putting up a floor game which stamped him as the best running guard in Kentucky.

The season was brought to an unsuccessful close with the University of Tennessee Volunteers, who won their second straight game during the season from Kentucky, the final score being 30 to 21.

Kentucky started the season with a poor lot of basketball players and without the services of four regulars last year. Paul Jenkins was the only regular back, but several freshmen helped in the cause during the season, notably Clair Dees, whose back guarding was beyond reproach.

With the best freshman material in the history of the institution, Kentucky should regain her place in the basketball sun of the South when these wearers of the green graduate into varsity ranks next year.

Freshman Basketball

Playing the stiffest schedule that a freshman team has ever played at the University of Kentucky, the U. K. Kittens, coached by Jimmie McFarland, former Blue Devil and Wildcat net star, won nineteen consecutive basketball games during the 1926-27 season and were undefeated during the year.

They numbered among their victims Kentucky Wesleyan, twice; University of Louisville, twice; Centre College, twice; Lexington Goldbergs, twice, and other teams of scholastic and independent standing throughout central and eastern Kentucky. The highest score run up by the freshmen was against the Pikeville High School Panthers, whom they defeated by a margin of 70 points. Georgetown gave them their hardest game in the final of the two-game series, making nine field goals to the Tiger Cubs' eight, winning the game principally by their ability to shoot foul goals.

The regular line-up consisted of Jeffries and Lyons, forwards; Milward, center, and Combs and Miller, guards. Others outstanding on the team were Lew Ellis, Hayes Ownes, McBrayer, Page, Howard, McLane, and Williams.

The pass-work of this year's five was remarkably perfect, and nothing short of a Southern Conference title will satisfy these champions in '28.

BASEBALL

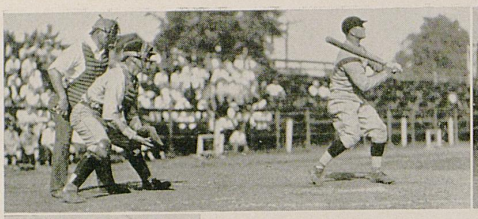

CAPT. JOHN RIFFE

Kentucky enjoyed the most successful baseball season in years in the spring of 1926, easily taking the state championship and being well up for Southern Conference honors.

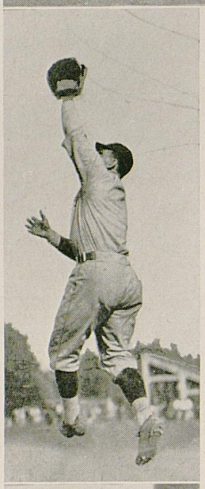

Five games were won, five lost, and two tied, one each with Cincinnati and Western Normal.

Possibly the brightest spot on the schedule was the defeat of the Mississippi Aggies twice in succession by the scores of 6 to 2 and 12 to 1, Charley Wert and Red Bach turning in the victories.

Centre bit the dust twice, one by 10 to 0 and finally by 19 to 5. Georgetown was subdued 10 to 0 in the second game of the season.

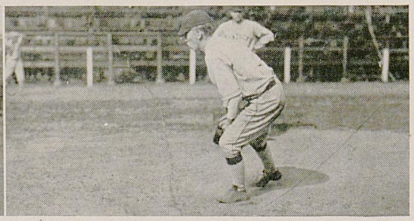

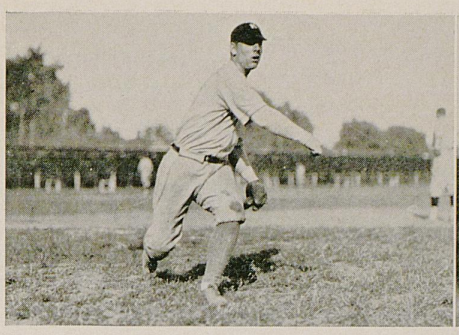

The scores:

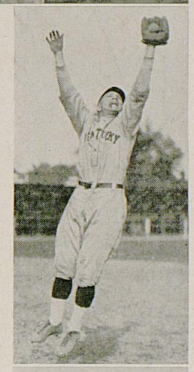

April 10—Michigan . . . . . 13; Kentucky . . . 8
April 17—Georgetown . . . . 0; Kentucky . . . 10
April 27—Cincinnati . . . . . 10; Kentucky . . . 10
April 29—Western Normal . . 9; Kentucky . . . 9
April 30—Vanderbilt . . . . . 9; Kentucky . . . 7
May 1—Vanderbilt . . . . . 9; Kentucky . . . 6

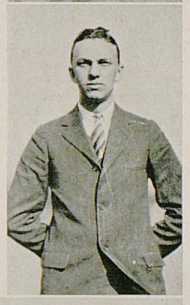

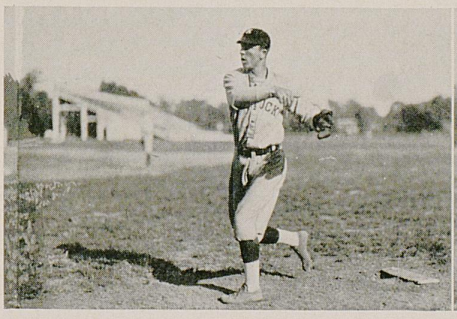

May 8—Centre	0;	Kentucky . . .	10
May 17—Mississippi A. & M. .	2;	Kentucky . . .	6
May 18—Mississippi A. & M. .	1;	Kentucky . . .	12
May 22—Centre	5;	Kentucky . . .	19
May 28—Georgia	11;	Kentucky . . .	7
May 29—Georgia	16;	Kentucky . . .	2

The freshmen, coached by Bill Hansen, had little success as far as winning the state championship was concerned, the Georgetown Rangers taking the title as they did in football and basketball.

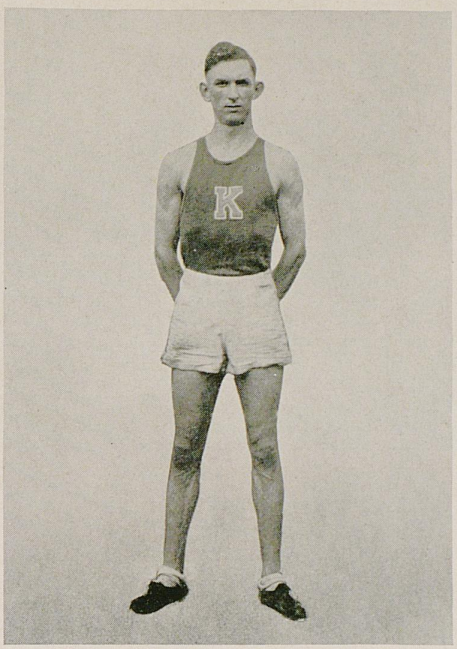

The results of the season:

Picadome High School	10;	Kentucky Freshmen	3
Georgetown Freshmen	6;	Kentucky Freshmen	4
Picadome High Schoo!	6;	Kentucky Freshmen	7
Kentucky Wesleyan Freshmen	2;	Kentucky Freshmen	12
Paris High School	2;	Kentucky Freshmen	27
Georgetown Freshmen	8;	Kentucky Freshmen	6
Wesleyan Freshmen	2;	Kentucky Freshmen	11

Won 4; lost 3.

TRACK

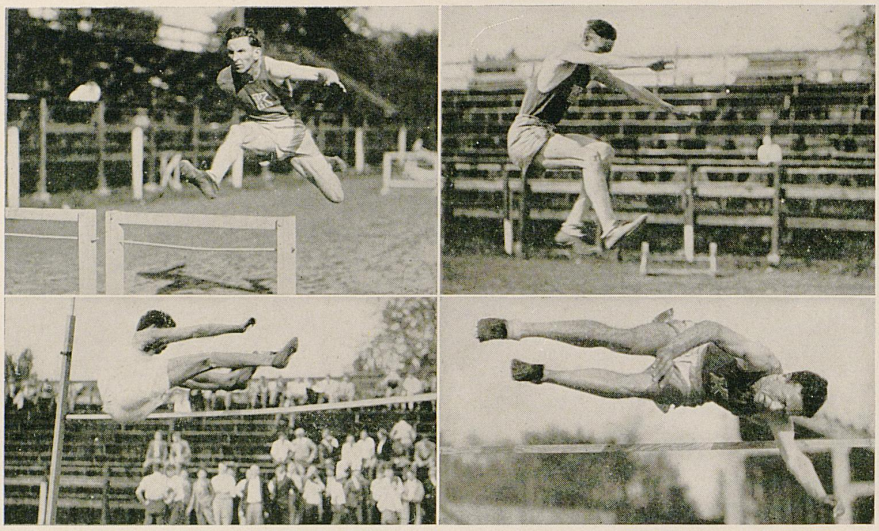

CAPT. JAMES BRADY

Ray Eklund's University of Kentucky track team enjoyed a small measure of success during the 1926 season, winning two meets and losing two, and scoring 11½ points in the Southern Conference meet at Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

The first meet of the year resulted in a close 67 to 45 victory for the Vanderbilt Commodores, the result of which showed Kentucky to have possibilities for a successful season.

Tennessee, old athletic rival of Kentucky, was met next, and the Wildcats carried off the meet in almost a walk, scoring 74 points to the Vounteers' 49. In this Gess and Brady were the scoring stars, Kentucky excelling in the dashes and middle distance runs.

Kentucky won her second meet of the year from the Sewanee Tigers on May 1 on Stoll Field, trouncing the University of the South boys by a 63 to 45 score. In this, Kentucky garnered many firsts and seconds, mainly in the middle distance runs. Lewis Root, star Wildcat hurdler, upset the dope by defeating Nash, star athlete of Sewanee, in the low hurdles, although the high hurdle event went to the Sewanee man. Nash was the champion of the year before, and was favored to win 10 points in the two events.

Indiana University's track squad came here for a return match on May 8, and although Kentucky made an excellent showing, the Hoosiers carried off the match, 74 to 43. Bill Gess starred in this meet, taking the quarter-mile dash, and barely losing the half-mile run because of the unfairness of one of Indiana's entrants on the home stretch turn. Gess was fouled, but this went unnoticed. Ted Creech won the javelin and surprised everybody who witnessed the match. Indiana's men had previously set up some high marks in the Big Ten meets.

Thus ended the regular season, with two victories and two defeats.

Gess and "Skipper" Jim Brady were Kentucky's entrants in the Southern Conference meet, and Brady set up another record in the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet. He had previously set the Conference record, which he held until he set the new one last year. Besides this, he holds the record in the pole vault, set in 1925.

Gess, entering his first S. I. C. track meet, finished second in both the quarter and half-mile events, and at that had the worst luck of anybody starting each race. He has great possibilities of developing into a possible champion in at least the quarter mile.

Kentucky lost but three men through graduation, although the loss of these will be keenly felt.

BRAME CREECH BROWN BRADY

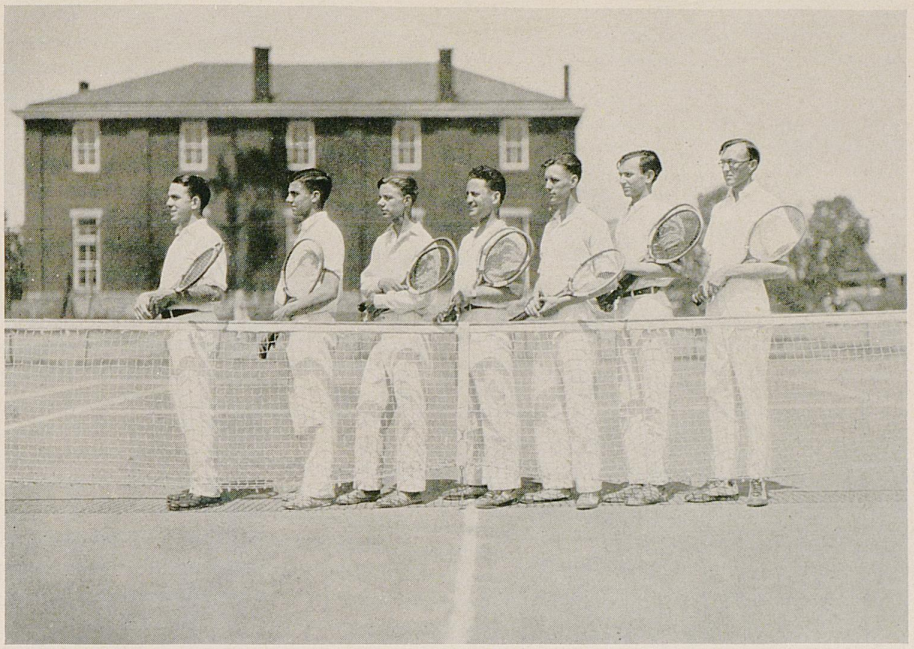

Tom Cochran, fine two-miler, who was captain of the cross-country team at Yale in the fall of 1926, is back to run for Kentucky, and he will undoubtedly make good. He and Gess are Kentucky's best bets for S. I. C. honors this year.

The complete results of the 1926 meets follow:

April 17—Kentucky	45;	Vanderbilt	67
April 24—Kentucky	74;	Tennessee	49
May 1—Kentucky	63;	Sewanee	45
May 8—Kentucky	43;	Indiana	74

May 15—Kentucky 11½ points and fourth place in the Southern Conference track meet at Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

TENNIS

The University of Kentucky tennis team, under the direction of H. H. Downing, gained a tie with the University of Louisville for the state championship in tennis in 1926, defeating the Cardinals in the first match of the year and losing the second.

Besides this, they defeated Berea, Georgetown and others in decisive fashion.

Members of the 1926 team were James McFarland, captain; George Ragland, Carl Ebert, Alvyn Greenbaum, Titus Fenn, James Reed, Jesse Bobbit and H. H. Downing, coach.

Professor Downing organized a Freshman tennis team which won quite a few matches during the season.

Members of the team were "Buddy" Ringo, Frank Nelson, Arthur Munyon and Byron Pumphrey.

MILITARY

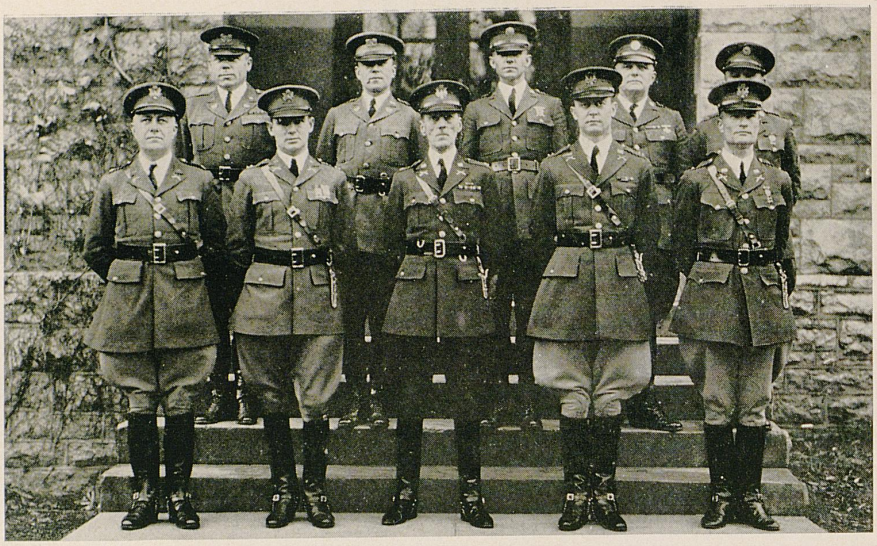

Colonel Hobbs

He is one of the most familiar figures on our campus, this commanding colonel who wears his khaki with the pride that proclaims him a soldier and an ease born of long experience.

Colonel Hobbs has been with the University of Kentucky as head of the Military department since 1924.

He began his military career in 1897 when he was graduated from Pennsylvania Military College. In 1899 he was appointed second lieutenant in the regular army infantry. In the years that followed he served in military campaigns in the Philippine Islands, France and Cuba.

During this time Colonel Hobbs continued his studies in his chosen profession and in 1912 was graduated from the Army School of the Line and in 1921 from the Field Officers' Course. At stated intervals he was promoted through the various ranks of the army until in 1924; shortly after the rank of colonel had been conferred upon him, he came to the University as a Professor of Military Science and Tactics, in which capacity he has won the esteem and admiration of the entire student body.

Russian Season

DON your seven league boots topped with astrakan, little maid and little lad, and hop you from the old home town to the St. Petersburg of Kentucky, for it's Russian season. Wear your costliest furs and your most ingratiating smiles, for the royalty of the Greek world dwell in that remote cold country, though it may seem strange for the aristocracy of Athens to wander so far from home.

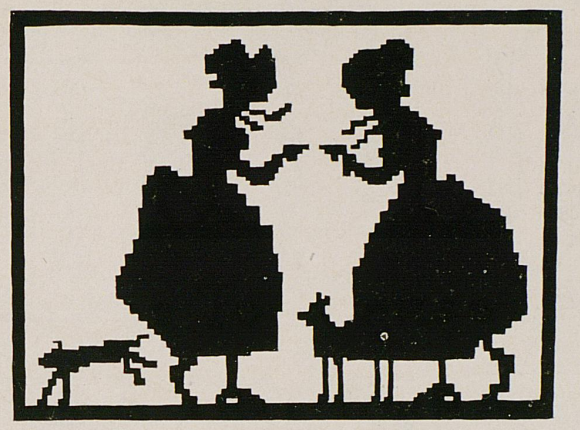

There are numerous important little things to remember about Russian season. If you are not a Greek and are beseiging the charmed circle, you should arrive fortified with all the clothes, money, and prestige you can borrow. If you are a male it would be well, also, to carry concealed about your person a six-shooter, two revolvers, a blackjack, and some brass knucks; for imprisonment, murder, and forced inebriation are fair in love, war, and fraternity rushing. Females should be adepts at flattery, deceit, and pretending; they should be able to utter words in any emergency and at any time, for therein lies poise.

Pretending is highly advisable for both sexes. For instance, a boy may pretend he's John Barrymore. He need not tell any of the Russian Greeks who he is imitating. The very fact that he's doing it will give him a certain air of savoir faire which is highly imposing and attractive. Do not, however, follow the example of the poor young fellow who played he was Edgar Allen Poe and forgot to go to the Alpha Beta smoker, or the young lady who got so interested in being the coughy Camille that she choked to death.

As for the Russian Greeks—in the first place, forget you were ever "broke" and hungry. Try to order taxis as though you had always done it, drive borrowed cars nonchalantly, talk about your great grandfather's home on Long Island. If you have any ancestors, mention them casually as though you expected everybody to have them. If you haven't any, give your imagination free rein. It is perhaps better so. Men must talk about the good looking women they know, and women must talk about vice versa. Here an instance must be given of the true Russian spirit. A certain sorority during the last season asked all the boys they knew who owned cars to drop by and let the Russianees look them over. The dear collegiates arrived in the midst of a tea, were admonished to run on away as the sisters were busy, and the little infants were duly impressed. Other delightful ruses may be conceived. Tell the children about the man you had on the third team last year, about the sister who plays hockey and the one who makes all the dances. Offer refreshments at every possible moment. It is your one sure point of contact.

Beware, you Russianees, of any slips in the way of shyness and modesty for the penalty is far worse than death; yea, the penalty is a torture devised by the cunning minds of the Russian Greeks. They will have no mercy; no czar of the Russian empire was as inexorable in the execution of sentences as they are today. The penalty is unqualified exile for four years to the Siberias of the university, Boyd hall and the men's dormitory. And do not oppose the Russian Greeks in word or deed, for they are bad old ogres and especially ravenous during Russian season. They will eat you, seven league boots, astrakan, and all.

The Poet and the Philosopher

A rivulet of song bursts through the wood,
Chanting, laughing a melody,
Moving sinously like a dancer,
A dancer in garments of shifting colors.
Singing and laughing and dancing, the brook flows on:
A brook of music—a brook that is a poet.

Nearby broods a hill in watchful silence.
Stolid, detached, aloof it stands,
Unmoved by storms that change the stream,
That change its singing to a snarl.
Unchanged in winter,
In winter when the brook is frozen:
A poet struck mute, a lyre of rusted strings.
The hill stands by, serene, implacable;
A hill of contemplative melancholy—a philosophic hill.

—Dave Alexander.

I

It is ungallant to remind a woman of a promise which she has forgotten.

II

One lives only in order to love and write. And yet one must teach or bootleg, or do something else equally as irrelevant, in order to live.

III

Although one knows that it renders one more liable to mockery and cozenment than perhaps any other quality, one prefers to bring to Life and Love, the arena dedicated to Pain and the altar miraculously discoverable therein dedicated to sublimer Pain, a fervor which demands nothing, doubts nothing and gives all, for one is enamored of it for its own sake, as a species of personal decoration.

IV

One despises and disregards most of the taboos of the moral code because one discerns that they are merely the apologies of herdal cowardice and impotence, but there are certain others which one must respect and obey because one recognizes that they are distinctions evolved with the aesthetic sense of the race, distinctions which it has been either too ignorant or too craven to affirm as aesthetic.

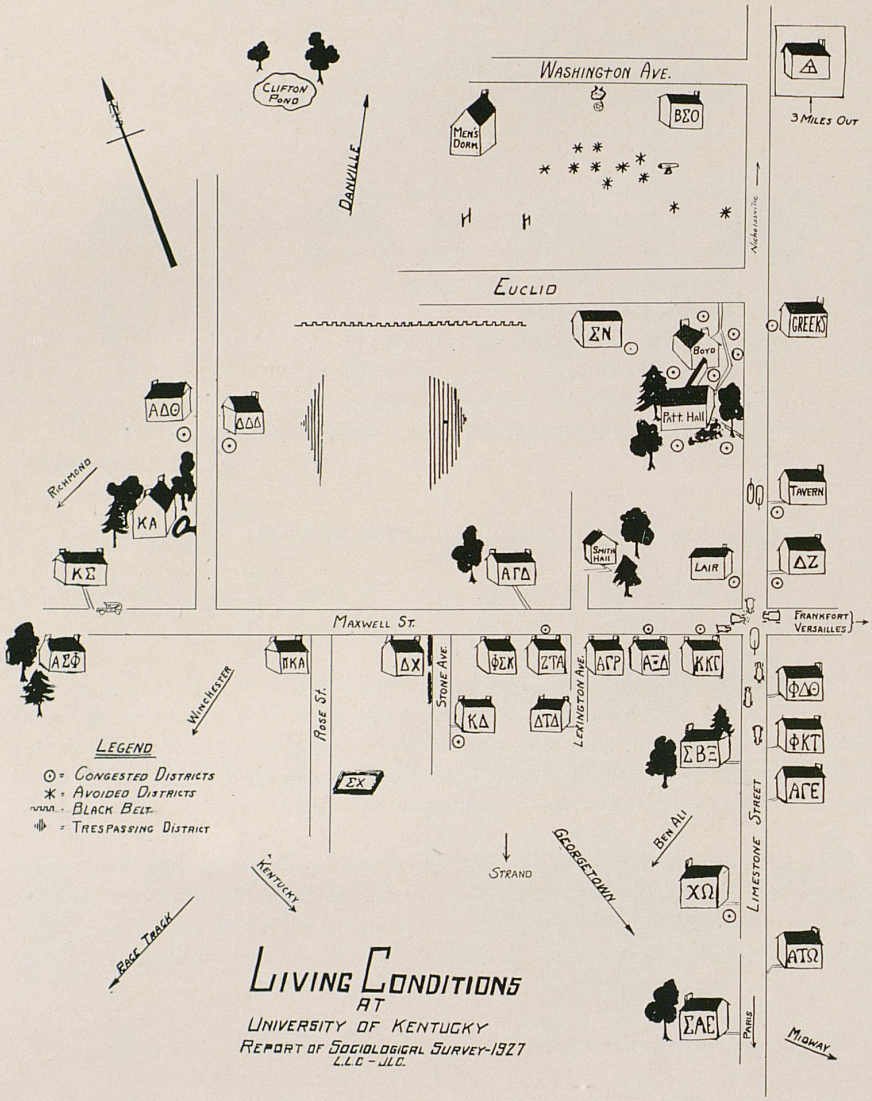

V

The heaven of the philosopher is a garden close.

VI

The categorical imperative—pooh! Just as every figure requires a different fit of clothes, so every temperament requires a different fit of morals. The man-in-the-street, of course, wears hand-me-downs.

LIVING CONDITIONS AT UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

REPORT OF SOCIOLOGICAL SURVEY-1927

L.L.C - J.L.C.

Report to the Kentucky Legislature

Of A Sociological Survey of Living Conditions at The University of Kentucky

(Diagram of Campus and surrounding territory accompanies report)

Sigma Alpha Epsilon—Bad entrance; too bold a front.
Alpha Tau Omega—Bad air due to encroachment of large buildings. Tenement conditions.
Chi Omega—Bad architecture. Overcrowded, upstairs and down.
Sigma Beta Xi—Bad internal conditions.
Alpha Gamma Epsilon—Bad Southern exposure.
Phi Kappa Tau—Bad on both sides.
Phi Delta Theta—Bad buy. Too much exposure. Need window shades.
Kappa Kappa Gamma—Bad neighborhood. Nightly outside inspection.
Alpha Xi Delta—Bad fighting facilities.
Alpha Gamma Rho—Very bad. Not enough garden space.
Zeta Tau Alpha—Bad rural atmosphere. Need more bolts and locks. Too open to outsiders.
Delta Tau Delta—Bad results from a good influence.
Phi Sigma Kappa—Bad publicity service.
Alpha Gamma Delta—Bad conditions obvious. Fewer windows might help.
Delta Chi—Bad wrecking crew.
Kappa Delta—Bad parlor arrangement. Two many exits.
Sigma Chi—Bad boys for a good house.
Pi Kappa Alpha—Bad warehouse. Too suite.
Alpha Sigma Phi—Bad retreat to suburbs.
Kappa Sigma—Bad interior decorations.
Kappa Alpha—Bad heating system. Musty odor. Too many trees.
Delta Delta Delta—Bad foreign influence. Too much expansion. Needs readjustment.
Alpha Delta Theta—Bad butterflies but good cooks.
Sigma Nu—Bad situation—too close for first hours.
Beta Sigma Omicron—Bad state of isolation.
Triangle—Bad angles.
Delta Zeta—Bad location for scholarly enterprise.
Patterson Hall—Bad inmates.
Boyd Hall—Bad food—bad inmates. Too much!
Men's Dorm—Bad, too, as far as we can make out.
Smith Hall—Bad frontage. Calls for too much exercise of fourth dimension.
The Tavern—Bad food.
The Lair—Bad service. Worse food.
The Greeks—Bad idea. No food. Most neglected during "Greek" season.

The Dawn's Monarch

The dawn's aspiring bold monarch
Peers but into a darker dark
Of more efficient motor cars,
Aeroplanes, factories and wars.
Bid him turn back into the room
And bask in the hearth's ruddy bloom.

There is no other God but Los,
So close the casement of Logos,
And hang the old bright curtain there
Tricked with its buffoon shapes of air,
The saint astride his broom, heigh-ho!
The witch sombreroed with halo.

JOE LEE DAVIS.

I

Truth is that which at first we are disposed to doubt, but for which, after a maximum of meditation, we can find no satisfactory alternative. A paradox is a second-rate truth.

II

The philosophic pre-requisite of the artist is a balanced blend of idealism and of irony, each of which acts as a check and purgative upon the other, the idealism preventing the irony from degenerating into cynicism and the irony, in return, preventing the idealism from degenerating into sentimentality.

III

Woman, if she has produced little of the world's great literature, has at least inspired one of its greatest poems, some of its greatest fiction and certainly its greatest body of criticism. Behind "The Divine Comedy" of Dante is Beatrice; behind "The Human Comedy" of Balzac is Madame Hanska; behind the "Causeries du Lundi" and "Port-Royal of Sainte-Beuve" is Madame de Stael.

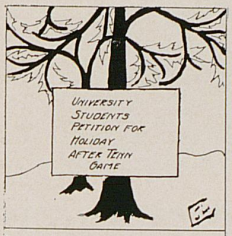

IV

The artist derives his inspiration to self-expression from life. The critic derives his from the work of the artist. Ergo, criticism is a kind of super-art, an art twice distilled.

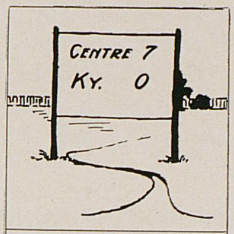

V

The only real laughter is the laughter of children and of old men. It is free alike from the ribaldry of youth and the spiritual dispepsia of middle age.

You have escaped me . . Through labyrinthine days,
Through starless nights, through an empurpled maze
Of fleeting dreams, and still white hours
We lay together and were ours
Alone, I knew you not.
Love, that I thought could blot
Time, pain, and even life itself from me, is fled
In the cold hour of waking. You are dead,
Who never lived save in my dreams
Of finding you. Only there gleams
Mockingly ever, cruel, fair,
Your white, white face . . your shining hair . . .

I

One admits, with Tarde, that life is the pursuit of the impossible through the useless. And that is its very glory! For how prosaic a matter it would be were it merely the pursuit of the probable through the useful.

II

And we have been thinking these many years that we were in leash to the Fate resident in Matter. In sooth, Matter is in leash to Chance resident in our own minds. Perverting the point of jest, we have missed a deal of laughter.

III

Imagination is the faculty of perceiving the immediate in terms of the eternal.

IV

The whole irony of life consists in this: that its sublimities are at the beck and call of its trivialities.

V

The trouble with the ignorant is that they do not know how to ignore.

J. L. D.

Heave Ho!

Comrades!
The winds are wild and free,
Our dory breasts the foam.
Land to the back of us;
To the front the sea . . . .
On! On!
Comrades!
Jib the sail, and duck
The swinging boom. The sea
Rolls over—but ahead!
Life is only luck . . . .
Free! Free!

REMINISCENCE

Memory brightens o'er the past,
As when the sun concealed
Behind some cloud that near us hangs,
Shines on a distant field.
—LONGFELLOW

Perhaps it is well that human nature deplores the present and glorifies the past. In idle moments it is comforting to permit the mind to shine back on distant fields of pleasant experiences.

Thus, this memory book will serve you and prove the source of real future pleasure. For Stafford combines these elements with the artistry, the quality and the workmanship which entitle it to bear the phrase ...
