"All we have of freedom—all we use or know—
This our fathers bought for us, long and long ago."
—Rudyard Kipling

This collage by New York artist Fred Otnes was especially commissioned by Brown & Williamson for its permanent collection of fine art works.

The freedom to choose our livelihood was provided to us long ago. And it was typified by the struggle of immigrants to America in the early 1800's. People like Adam Gimbel, a humble Jewish peddler from Germany, who later founded the country's first department store. And individuals who became industrial giants, like Andrew Carnegie from Scotland, who built one of the largest steel producing businesses in the United States. America had given both of them the freedom. The freedom to choose.

A free individual does not live without choice. A free society does not prosper without it. Consider, if you will, the personal choices we make every day without intervention from others. Now consider how many we take for granted.

The right to choose is the basis of all freedom—political, social, artistic, economic, religious—for all people. But this right must be protected from those who would chip away at it...either deliberately for personal gain, or innocently for the "betterment" of humanity. It must be protected from those who would make their choice, your choice. These personal freedoms are our legacy as well as our responsibility...to protect and to pass on to those who follow.

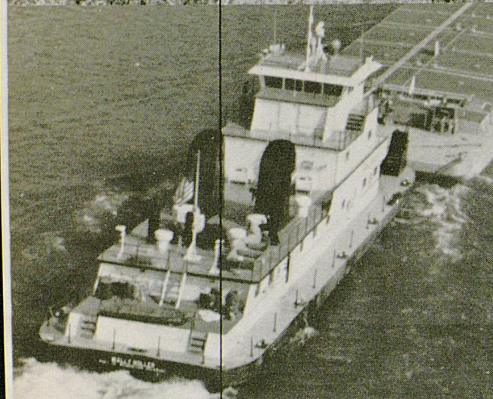

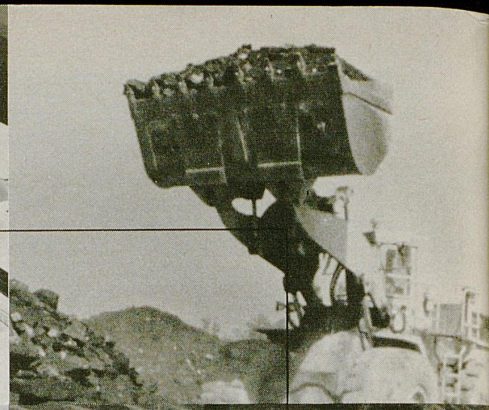

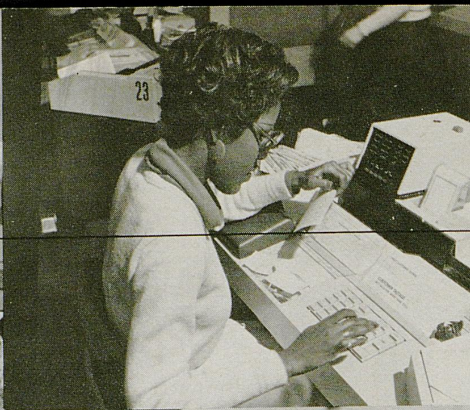

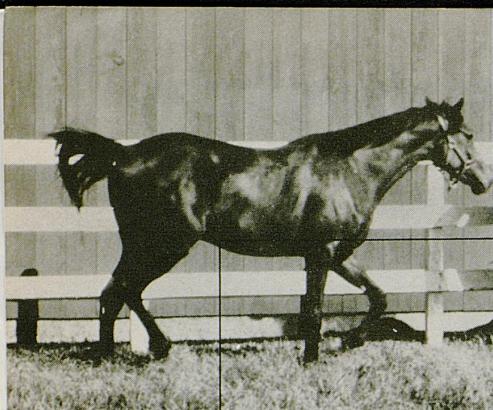

Freedom. It's a matter of choice.

Joe B. Hall's 10-year record establishes him as one of the finest coaches in college basketball.

While leading the Wildcats to a 22-8 record last year, Hall upped his UK record to 227-74, an average of 22.7 wins per season, to keep ahead of the pace set by his former coach, Adolph Rupp. Rupp averaged 21.5 victories per season over a 41-season span to become the winningest college basketball coach of all time.

One of the finest compliments Hall has received during his coaching career came from Rupp, who died in 1977.

"A good coach," Rupp said, "is a person who can take good material and win with it. Joe has done that."

Judging from Hall's coaching honors, Rupp was as usual, right on target with his evaluation.

Hall has won such honors as Kellogg's 1978 National "Coach of the Year," three Southeastern Conference "Coach of the Year" awards (1973, '75 and '78) and nomination for Kodak's 1975, '76 and '78 (finalist) "Coach of the Year" awards.

In 1978 when Kentucky won its fifth NCAA title, Hall was also presented the Rupp Cup (presented to the SEC Coach of the Year by the Birmingham Tipoff Club) and Hall's most coveted personal award, the Dr. James Naismith "Peachbasket" award. The Peachbasket has previously been given to UCLA's John Wooden, Oklahoma State's Hank Iba, Kentucky's Rupp and Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics.

The 1978 national champs, which had a 30-2 record, became the sixth Wildcat team to win 30 or more games, joining such illustrious company as the 1947 NIT runner-up (34-3), the 1948 Olympic Champions (36-3), the 1949 NCAA champions (32-2), the '51 NCAA champs (32-2) and the '66 NCAA runner-up (32-2).

The Hall Era has produced five All-Americans and seven All-Southeastern Conference players. Kevin Grevey, Jack Givens, Rick Robey, Kyle Macy and Sam Bowie were selected a total of 10 times.

Hall began his tour as UK head coach in rather auspicious fashion in 1973, becoming the first rookie coach in league history to be designated Coach of the Year by his peers.

Gathering such honors has been one of Hall's trademarks during a career that began at Shepherdsville (Ky.) High School in 1956 and continued through Regis College before he returned to Kentucky, July 1, 1965, as an assistant to his former coach, Adolph Rupp.

thiana, Ky., Hall played freshman basketball and one year of varsity basketball in the "Fabulous Five" era at UK before transferring to the University of the South at Seawanee, Tenn., where he set a school single game scoring record and was considered by Coach Lon Varnell as the best player he ever coached.

After touring Europe with the Globetrotters in 1951, Hall returned to UK in 1955 to complete requirements for his B. A. and later received his M. A. at Colorado State University.

Returning to UK again in 1965 as assistant coach and head recruiter, he was instrumental in developing a running-conditioning program which obviously paid big dividends as the Wildcats capitalized on speed and endurance to advance to the championship game of the NCAA Final Four.

Hall became No. 1 varsity assistant and head freshman coach to Rupp after Harry C. Lancaster was named permanent athletics director Feb. 1, 1969. His record with the freshmen was 60-15, including a 22-0 season in 1971-72.

Hall's basketball reputation stretches world-wide and has made him a much sought-after clinician and guest speaker. Last summer during the Wildcats' tour of the Orient, he conducted clinics in the Republic of China and in Hong Kong.

He was guest lecturer for the World Basketball Coaches Congress in July of 1977 in the Canary Islands. Hall considers the chance to speak before some 400 coaches from the international set to have been one of his major coaching honors.

He was a member of the 1975 Olympic Basketball Committee and in 1972, he served under Hank Iba in the Olympic Trials at the Air Force Academy.

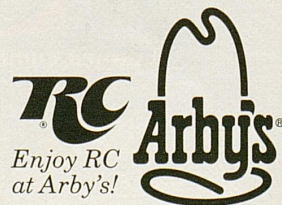

He is married to the former Katharine Dennis of Harrison County, Ky. They have three children—Mrs. Mike (Kathy) Summers, Mrs. Rick (Judy) Derrickson and Steve of Lexington.

The 1982 UKIT

The 1982 University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament features three teams that made post-season tournaments a year ago and all three teams return most of the players from last year's squads.

The odds-on favorite is tourney host Kentucky, undefeated in five starts and ranked No. 2 in the country below Virginia.

There are, however, legitimate contenders to UK's crown. Rutgers also brings a stainless 5-0 worksheet into tonight's first round game with 3-3 Tulane. Both schools went to the National Invitation Tournament last season and the Green Wave advanced to the third round.

Rutgers is a very capable team. The Scarlet Knights defeated

UCLA last year at the Meadowlands and the top six scorers from last season are back. Coach Tom Young's team from New Brunswick, N. J., will contend for the Atlantic 10 Conference title with the likes of 6-9 senior Roy Hinson at center and 6-6 Kevin Black at forward. Young realizes the tourney will be a challenge.

"Tulane is tough as we all know from their game with North Carolina earlier, and UK may just have the best team in the country," says Young. "Duquesne, of course, is in our conference and we have a 5-5 series record with them."

Tulane, under second-year coach Ned Fowler, is coming off a 19-9 season in which it defeated Memphis State during the regular season and downed LSU and Nevada-Las Vegas in the NIT. The Greenies also placed second in the rugged Metro Conference.

As Young mentioned, the Green Wave carried North Carolina to three overtimes before losing by two at Chapel Hill in November.

Like Rutgers, Tulane has an outstanding man in the pivot in 6-9 John Williams, averaging 17 points per game. Williams versus Hinson should be a tasty matchup.

Kentucky's first round opponent is Duquesne, also a member of the Atlantic 10. The Dukes are rebuilding under new coach Jim Satalin. Though only 36, Satalin already has nine years of head coaching experience under his belt as the successful mentor at St. Bonaventure.

Assistant Coaches

LEONARD HAMILTON
Associate Coach

Leonard Hamilton was named UK's first associate basketball coach on Oct. 15, 1980.

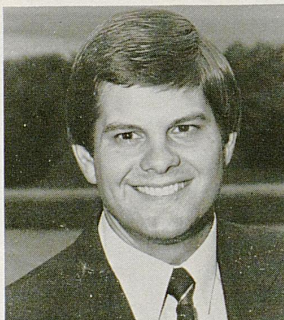

Hamilton has been a member of the Wildcat coaching staff for eight years. He came to Kentucky after serving three years as an assistant coach at Austin Peay.

He has always been noted as an outstanding recruiter and as a defensive specialist. In 10 of the 11 years Leonard's been coaching, the team he has been associated with has advanced to post-season play.

A product of Gastonia, N. C., Hamilton lettered three years in football and two years in basketball in high school. He captained his basketball team for two years at Gastonia Community College, and also served as team captain at the University of Tennessee at Martin, where he graduated in 1970.

The 34-year-old Hamilton is married to the former Claudette Hale of McMoresville, Tenn. They have a son, Lenny, 13.

JOE DEAN
Assistant Coach

Enthusiastic, hard-working Joe Dean is in his sixth season with the University of Kentucky basketball program.

The Baton Rouge, La., native earned football and basketball letters at Baton Rouge High and played basketball at Mississippi State, making the 1976 Academic All-SEC squad.

Besides his duties associated with the Wildcat basketball team, Dean also serves as director of the annual Wildcat Coaching Clinic and the popular Joe B. Hall Wildcat Basketball Summer Camp.

He is married to the former Ellen Anger of Jackson, Miss. They have a son, Scott, 3.

BOB CHAMBERS
Assistant Coach

Bob Chambers, a respected high school coach in Tennessee prep circles for 20 years, is now in his third season with UK.

Prior to the 1979-80 season, Chambers coached nine years at Tennessee High in Bristol, Tenn., where he compiled a shining 228-68 mark and made three trips to the state playoffs.

Of his 20 total years in high school coaching, he spent 13 as a head coach. His overall record is 317-116.

He is married to the former Elva Jean Potter of Elizabethton, Tenn. They have a daughter, Robin Lea, 20, a student at UK and 18-year-old Chip.

Fayette Mall is the place for the Working Woman, Like Me!

Because I'm a working woman, I have precious little time to spend on shopping, and Fayette Mall understands. There are over 80 great stores including Sears, Stewarts, and Shillito's, full of quality products and the latest fashions all in one location. Fayette Mall is convenient to where I work and I always get fast, courteous service. And when I need a quick lunch or dinner, Fayette Mall has everything from salads to steaks. Reasonably priced too, just like everything else I find at Fayette Mall, the best products at the lowest possible cost. That's value. That's why Fayette Mall is the place for the working woman . . . like me.

Administration

Dr. Otis A. Singletary, the eighth president of the University of Kentucky, assumed that office in August 1969. He had previously served as chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, executive vice chancellor for academic affairs in the University of Texas System and director of the Job Corps for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Dr. Singletary, a native of Gulfport, Miss., holds degrees from Millsaps College and Louisiana State University.

As president of the principal institution of higher learning in the Commonwealth, Dr. Singletary is greatly concerned with the University's role as a land-grant institution, a "people's university" accessible to all who can profit from education.

In the 12 years he has been president, the University has grown to where there are now more than 23,400 students on the Lexington campus and about 22,000 students in UK's 13 community colleges, and the University has become one of the major research institutions in the country.

Great strides toward academic excellence have been made during Dr. Singletary's presidency at UK. Two professional schools—dentistry and pharmacy—have been ranked among the best in the nation. Departments such as political science, history and mathematics have gained national attention. The UK Library now ranks among the best in the Southeast, and a large portion of the world-wide research related to tobacco and health is now done at UK.

Under Dr. Singletary's guidance, strong efforts have been made to meet the needs of minority groups including the establishment of an office of vice president for minority affairs.

Recognition of his service to the University was evidenced by the UK Alumni Association which presented to Dr. Singletary its Alumni Service Award—an honor rarely bestowed upon a non-alumnus of the University.

He and Mrs. Singletary, the former Gloria Walton, have three children: Bonnie, Scot and Kendall.

Athletics Director

Continued growth in practically all phases of UK athletics has been a hallmark of Cliff Hagan's seven-year reign as Wildcat athletics director, with fine attendance at football and basketball games, increased attendance at Lady Kat basketball and men's baseball, and a steady up-grading of facilities.

Recent physical improvements include a new baseball grandstand behind home plate, a new athletic learning center for the academic advisory staff, new locker rooms in the football dressing rooms and construction of a new equipment shed for track.

On the institutional side of the ledger, the University was host to both the men's and women's Southeastern Conference basketball tournaments earlier this year and will host the NCAA Mideast Regionals in 1984 and the NCAA Championship Finals in 1985.

Hagan, who has seen and overseen vast improvements in all phases of the UK athletics program since returning to his alma mater as assistant athletics director in 1972, has under his command a total of 20 sports ranging from football and men's basketball in Level I, to women's basketball in Level II, and 17 sports in Level III.

On the personal side, Hagan received one of his highest individual honors in 1978 when he became the first University of Kentucky basketball player to be installed in the Naismith Memorial National Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

He is married to the former Martha Milton of Owensboro. They have four children: Mrs. Barry "Lisa" Thaxton of Lexington, Mrs. Jim "Laurie" Hill of West Liberty, and Amy and Kip, both of Lexington.

UK Chancellors

PETER BOSOMWORTH
Medical Center

Dr. Peter Bosomworth, vice president of the Albert B. Chandler Medical Center since 1970, was named chancellor of the center when a major reorganization of the University was completed in August.

ART GALLAHER
Lexington Campus

Dr. Art Gallaher is chancellor of the main Lexington campus in the University of Kentucky system. Dr. Gallaher came to UK in 1963 as chairman of the UK anthropology department and in 1972, he was named dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

CHARLES WETHINGTON
UK Community College System

Dr. Charles Wethington became vice president of the UK Community College System in 1980 and is now chancellor of the system. Dr. Wethington began his UK career in 1964 as an instructor of educational psychology.

UKIT A Wildcat Tradition S

By DAN METZGER
Kernel Sports Writer

Kentucky's 73-60 victory over LaSalle for the championship in the inaugural University of Kentucky Invitational Championship was the beginning of an era in 1953: an era of UK domination as host of the UKIT.

The UKIT traditionally draws top-notch teams to Lexington and this year is no exception. North Carolina, Indiana, Oregon State and UCLA are among the 56 teams that have appeared in the UKIT. UK has won 21 trophies, the most recent being last season when the Cats beat Seton Hall 98-74 for the title.

The Cats' offensive machines were in full gear last season as the Cats rolled up a season-high 107 points against Jacksonville. In that 107-91 victory, Derrick Hord led a balanced UK scoring attack with 17 points, 11 coming in the second half. Other double digit scorers for the Cats were starters Melvin Turpin, Dirk Minniefield and Jim Master, along with strong bench support from Tom Heitz, Chuck Verderber and Troy McKinley. Jacksonville's Mike Hackett led all scorers with 26 points.

Meanwhile, in the opening game of the tournament, undefeated Seton Hall defeated Utah State 85-77 to advance to the finals. Dan Callandrillo led Seton Hall with 26 points, while Mike Ingram added 17.

In the championship game, a Jim Master 18-foot jump shot enabled UK to take an early 2-0 lead. Callandrillo countered with a 15-footer, but Turpin's lay up started the UK rout. By the half, UK had rolled up a 31-point lead at 57-26. Hord, Minniefield, Master and Charles Hurt were all in double figures at intermission. Seton Hall, behind Callandrillo's 25 points, was able to slice into the UK lead, but UK pulled away for a convincing 98-74 victory.

Callandrillo and Jacksonville's Hackett were named to the All-Tournament team along with Hord, Minniefield and Master. Hord was the recipient of the Most Valuable Player Award for the tournament.

"The UKIT's like the SEC—it's tradition for Kentucky to win," said UK head coach Joe B. Hall

n Since 1953

"It puts extra pressure on us to win because we don't like someone else to come in here and take the trophy away," he said.

Visiting teams have had a difficult time wrestling the trophy away from the Cats. Illinois was the most recent conquerer of the tournament other than UK in 1978. The Illini also won the 1964 title with a 91-86 victory over UK. Dayton, Purdue, St. Louis, Utah and

Hall likes the concept of the UKIT and thinks the experience will come in handy for tournament time. "I like it because there is a tournament atmosphere. It's a good experience to play two games in two nights," he said.

West Virginia have all managed to get out of Lexington with the UKIT championship.

Illinois' title in 1978 came at the expense of Syracuse in the first round and Texas A&M in the final. UK was upset by the Aggies 73-69 in the first round, but rebounded to upend the Orange-men in the consolation game 94-87.

Hall likes the concept of the UKIT and thinks the experience will come in handy for tournament time. "I like it because there is a tournament atmosphere. It's a good experience to play two games in two nights," he said.

Strangely enough, no UK player holds a UKIT individual game record, even though the Cats as a team hold the majority of the team single game records.

If experience has anything to do with winning the UKIT, the Cats have a definite advantage. They are 50-8 in the tournament, while this will be the first appearance for Duquesne, Tulane and Rutgers.

When asked what UKIT championship was most gratifying, Hall said, "no special one—they're all gratifying."

Attention joggers and other non-professional athletes: more help has arrived.

It comes in the form of a new sports injury clinic at the University of Kentucky being run by a UK orthopedic surgeon and a physical therapist.

Dan Primm, the orthopedic surgeon, and Duane Williams, a physical therapist, are both recreational athletes themselves. In their clinic at the UK Albert B. Chandler Medical Center, they are concentrating on the treatment of non-professional athletes like joggers and runners.

"There has been a lack of attention to musculoskeletal injuries in recreational athletes," says Williams. The varsity athletes have team physicians and specialists, he points out, but the recreational athlete has been treated, not as an athlete, but as any other sedentary patient.

The common mode of treatment, according to Williams, was "if it hurts to do it, don't do it." It is at that point that Williams and Primm branch out. They are looking into the causes of injuries and their prevention, not just treating the symptoms.

The clinic, which operates from 1-4:30 p.m. Wednesday, is in line with a new trend of preventive counseling medicine. Originally planned to handle the university community, the clinic obviously will expand into other populations as the concept grows.

People are more informed of good health practices today than they used to be, according to Williams, and as a result, more are actively involved in physical activities. With the rise in activity, there is an increase in the number of injuries. Many of these injuries are sports specific, Williams said.

For example, joggers or runners tend to have knee, ankle and foot problems. Williams said that to date the greatest number of patients they have seen have fallen into this category.

"In the past we've not seen people until the pain was severe or they were at the point of needing surgery, according to Dr. Primm. "We want to use a more conservative approach, seeing athletes earlier and hopefully preventing future injuries through counseling."

"After the patient is evaluated and the cause of his/her problems identified, specific treatments are then prescribed," Williams explained. "These treatments are either carried out within the physical therapy or orthopedic department or the patient is referred to other UK departments."

The common mode of treatment, according to Williams, was "if it hurts to do it, don't do it."

The clinic is limited in its scope, however. According to Williams, they aren't set up to do procedures such as cardiovascular testing. The emphasis is on the muscles, bones and the connective tissues.

"The healing process is basically the same for all persons, Williams said, "but the athlete has some special needs. For instance it might be better to direct him (or her) to some non weight-bearing activity such as swimming or bicycle while allowing a knee or ankle injury to heal. The non-athlete could follow the more traditional approach of staying off of it."

Williams tries to home in on the specific structure that is injured before looking to treat the injury. He said it is often difficult to identify the exact tissues injured; that comes with practice and application of the known facts. With the correct information it is easier to delineate a recovery program rather than having to use a shotgun approach to cover all bases.

It may result in people returning to the activity faster when the correct injury site is diagnosed and treated. "They don't heal faster," according to Primm, "but the correct, often more aggressive, rehabilitation program may result in a quicker comeback."

"We'd like to create the optimal situation for healing to take place for a specific injury," Williams added. Focusing on the actual location and getting it healed helps reduce the re-injury rate.

A lot of times there is more involved the athlete than purely applied medicine. Even recreational athletes can become addicted to their activity and keeping them from it can be emotionally upsetting, Williams said.

Depending on the athlete's "addition" to his or her sport, Williams said he modified his advice. Involving the patient in his own care is helpful, he said. "People tend to be more willing to take their own advice than someone else's. We tell them what we think is best, we outline the possible outcome and leave it (the final decision) up to them."

"We'd like to create the optimal situation for healing to take place for a specific injury," Williams added.

"We spend a lot of time sorting out facts and fallacies," Williams said. "We try to understand the athlete's goals—and sometimes they are completely divergent from what you would think—and help him decide if they are realistic."

"Not everyone can do every sport," he added. "Body types quite often determine what activity you can do safely and comfortably."

Saying that there will be pain when you start to use different parts of your body, Williams pointed out that there are certain signs which indicate something is amiss. If an athlete properly warms up and stretches out before and after exercise and yet has continual pain or swelling, pain at rest, or pain at night, something needs attention. It may be a simple change, such as a different type of shoe for a runner, or it may mean a drastic change in the athlete's activity, up to complete abstinence.

A person may unaware of a malalignment of a joint which causes distress. Williams and Primm can diagnose this and offer solutions.

Both men have been able to set up their program because of the availability of the facilities at UK and the support of their department heads.

Primm and Williams are required to spend a certain amount of their time in service activity. The sports injury clinic fits into that slot, according to Williams, and at the same time gives them "practice of what we preach."

Future plans are to include other. As set up, the clinic is a veritable bargain. The patient gets to see "two for the price of one," Williams said. "Both a physical therapist and orthopedic surgeon will meet with the patient during the initial screening."

For information, call the clinic (606) 233-5842.

SEC Roundup

By MARK DYER

It's difficult to really assess many teams in the Southeastern Conference yet because their schedules are so easy.

Kentucky, of course, is an exception and so is Vanderbilt.

The Commodores of Coach C. M. Newton are 5-2 going into Saturday night's assignment at Clemson, a team Vandy has already beaten in the Great Alaska Shootout this season.

Vandy also beat Illinois in the Shootout but the Illini gained a measure of revenge by outlasting the Commodores at Champaign on Monday night in double overtime, 79-77.

Sophomore Phil Cox from Dayhoit, Ky., has tied the Southeastern Conference record by hitting 43 consecutive free throws and will be out to break the mark at Clemson.

Newton's four freshmen are all playing a lot for the 'Dores. Forward Bobby Westbrook (6-6), center Brett Burrow (6-10) and guards Darrell Dulaney (5-11) and Michael Dupont (6-4) represent a very solid recruiting effort by Newton and are a sign that Vandy is on the road back.

Burrow, from Ratcliff, Ky., is subbing for Jeff Turner at the pivot and is averaging around seven points a game.

Vandy lost to Louisville in the finals of the Shootout by 10 but rebounded to beat Western Carolina, St. Louis and Duke at home. Watch for VU to land in the NIT in March.

Louisiana State is showing signs of improvement with a 5-2 record. Silky forward Leonard Mitchell and swingman Howard "Hi-C" Carter are the Tigers' leaders, but they're getting help from 6-8 sophomore Steffond Johnson at center-forward and 6-9 freshman Jerry Reynolds. All are scoring in double figures and Mitchell leads with a 16.8 scoring average.

Reynolds, from Brooklyn, N. Y., is Dale Brown's prized recruit of 1982 and has started every game for the Bengals.

Reliable Prescription Service
Since 1921

From our first drug store in London, Kentucky to 48 locations throughout Kentucky, Begley's is dedicated to continued growth while upholding the tradition of old fashioned personal care and friendly service to all our customers.

How James Worthy improved his game over the summer.

Between the NCAA Championships and his professional debut as a Los Angeles Laker, James Worthy took a step to improve his game:

He started wearing the most technically advanced shoe in basketball—the New Balance Pride.

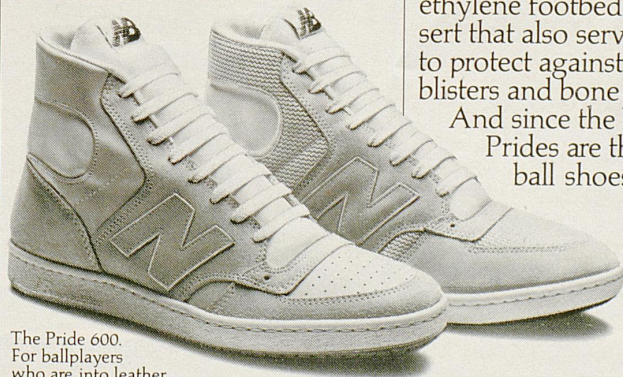

The sine wave outsole gives James great traction.

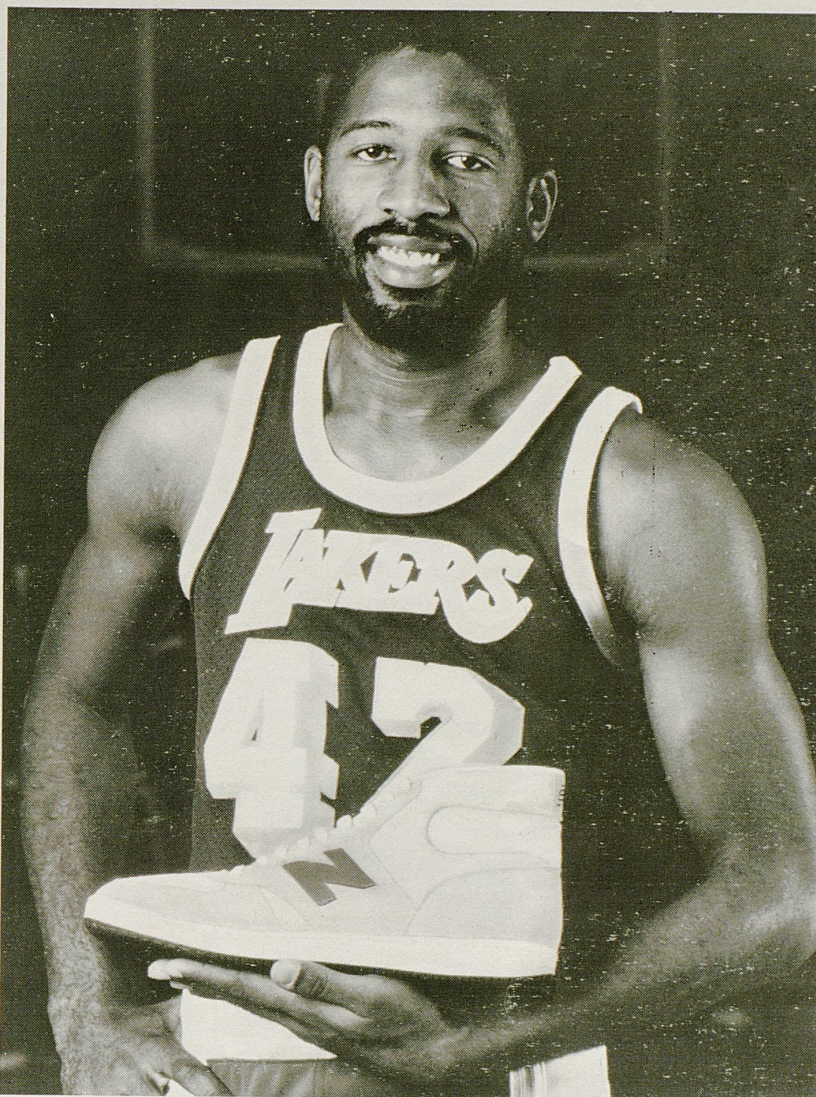

(Given the fact that Mr. Worthy wears a size 14 shoe, this was no small improvement.)

Consider the high performance features the NBA's number one draft choice now enjoys:

For superior upper foot support, the Pride has a unique triple-layer upper. This combination of lining, mesh and leather results in a shoe that retains its shape—and stability—better than any basketball shoe ever has.

The Pride 600. For ballplayers who are into leather.

For superior traction, the Pride has a sine wave outsole made of durable, high-grade rubber.

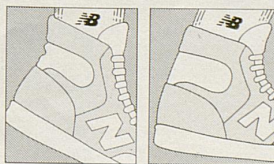

For unprecedented comfort, the Pride has a polyethylene footbed insert that also serves to protect against blisters and bone spurs.

And since the New Balance Prides are the only basketball shoes available in a variety of widths, James Worthy is now able to get exactly the fit he demands from his shoes.

Why not take a tip from a guy destined for greatness in the NBA, and get yourself a pair of Prides.

You'll notice an immediate improvement in your game.

A thickly padded action collar cradles and protects James' achilles.

The Pride 500. For ballplayers who think mesh is cool.

Meet The 1982 UKIT Teams

UKIT Preview: Kentucky

Balanced. Relaxed. Unselfish. Talented. Experienced.

The superlatives describing Kentucky's basketball team are flowing as the Wildcats host the 30th annual University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament.

Coach Joe B. Hall brings the nation's No. 2 basketball team into the tourney, complete with a 5-0 record and a long roster of talented, effective players.

Kentucky polished off young but talented Illinois last Saturday, 76-57, for its second straight win on national television. A week earlier, UK smashed Villanova, ranked No. 4 at the time, 93-79, before a national television audience and the usual full house at Rupp Arena.

Kentucky's only road game to date was a 58-45 win at Notre Dame. The 'Cats take to the road next week with a big showdown at Indiana on Wednesday night.

When speaking of standouts for UK so far, it's easy to find a starting place. Dirk Minniefield is Kentucky's true leader at guard. The 6-3 Lexington senior is only averaging 7.8 points per game, but has 46 assists (9.2 per game) and his floor game and defense have been nothing short of outstanding.

Derrick Hord has led UK in scoring twice this season, including a sterling 26-point job against Villanova. The 6-6 senior All-America candidate is averaging 13.2 points per game and is shooting a tropical 62 percent from the field.

Ironically, Hord and Minniefield had their worst games of the young season last Saturday against Illinois, but Kentucky won handily anyway.

"We survived Minniefield and Hord having mediocre games and I feel good about that," said Hall. "We're playing good but we can be a lot better."

It's hard to imagine senior forward Charles Hurt playing much better. The 6-6 strongman from Shelbyville, Ky., is shooting 78 percent from the field, averaging 9.4 points per game and is playing the baseline like a madman. Even though he's averaging playing only half of each game, Hurt is making big things happen around the basket for UK.

Junior Melvin Turpin continues to improve at center, averaging 13 points a game and shooting 64 percent from the field. The 6-11 Lexington Bryan Station product leads the team with five rebounds per game, although Hall says of the Wildcats: "We're still not where we should be on the boards."

Long-range bomber Jim Master is another Wildcat off and running this season. The 6-5 junior from Ft. Wayne, Ind., is scoring 12.2 points per contest on 58 percent field goal shooting.

Kentucky's "Supersub" is speedball Dicky Beal, who enjoyed perhaps his most meaningful game as a Wildcat against Illinois. Dicky led the 'Cats with 14 points and was named NBC-TV Player of the Game. Beal made the evening highlights segment with a double-clutch layup that brought the house down.

The 5-11 junior from Covington, Ky., is averaging eight points per game and is a prime example of

Kentucky's sturdy bench.

The development of 6-9 Bret Bearup has been encouraging for Kentucky's inside game. Bearup played especially well against the Illini, scoring nine points and hitting the boards for six rebounds. He'll be needed once the Wildcats hit the treacherous SEC road, as will 6-8 freshman Kenny Walker. Walker's averaging four points a game, 3.6 rebounds per outing, and good things seem to happen when the highly recruited rookie is on the floor.

The 'Cats also have dependable Tom Heitz and improving freshman Todd May to help inside. Both will contribute significantly as the season progresses and freshman Roger Harden and sophomore Troy McKinley are also showing improvement.

UKIT Preview: Duquesne

Pittsburgh-based Duquesne University got off to a rough start this season, posting a 1-3 record.

The Dukes opened with a win over Indiana University of Pennsylvania but lost three in a row to the likes of Pittsburgh, Nevada-Las Vegas and Maryland.

Like Rutgers, a member of the Atlantic 10 Conference, Duquesne is in a rebuilding program under new coach Jim Satalin. Satalin, only 36, already has nine years of Division I coaching under his belt as the successful head man at St. Bonaventure.

The Dukes are led by senior swingman Billy Searles, who's averaging 12.5 points per game and 7.5 rebounds a contest. A product of Pittsburgh, Searles transferred from Allegheny Community College last year and averaged 7.7 points per outing for the Dukes.

Nicknamed "Silky," Searles is a threat inside or outside on the perimeter.

Duquesne's center is 6-8, 240-pound Joey Myers, an outstanding outside shooter for a big man. The burly senior is scoring 10.2 points a game and rebounding at 6.7 per contest clip.

Duquesne's scoring guard is 6-1 senior Terry Teachout from Novelty, Ohio. Teachout is averaging 9.7 points a game and is a dangerous perimeter shooter. Teachout was the Dukes' best free throw shooter last season.

Freshman starter Dwayne Rawls is the latest in a line of Macon, Georgians who have played at Duquesne, the most famous being Norm Nixon of the Los Angeles Lakers.

The 6-6 Rawls averages five points a game and starts at forward for the Dukes. He prepped at Southwest Macon High, the same school that produced Terry Fair of Georgia and Mississippi State's Jeff Malone.

Point guard Andy Sisinni has bounced back from an off year to regain his starting job. The 6-2 junior started 24 games as a freshman.

Duquesne's reserves in the backcourt are 6-3 freshman Emmett Sellers, 6-3 sophomore Pat Farrell and 6-2 junior Marcus Long.

In the Dukes' frontcourt, 6-5 freshman Fitzgerald Bobo and 6-5 junior Derrick Eaglin provide depth.

Joey Myers of Duquesne looks to make the outlet pass.

Pat Farrell goes up to dish off a pass for an assist.

Head Coach

Duquesne University

With more than a century of tradition as Pittsburgh's only private, church-related university, Duquesne has developed step-by-step with the city it calls home.

Founded in 1878 by the Holy Ghost Congregation, Duquesne was established in 1885.

Duquesne offers a traditional liberal arts education through eight degree-granting schools. Duquesne employs 278 full-time and 194 part-time faculty and more than 600 staff persons to provide services for nearly 6,000 undergraduate and graduate students.

Duquesne takes pride in its campus, a legendary transformation from a make-shift neighborhood facility to a $75 million university complex. But a greater source of pride is in the more than 22,000 alumni who live and work in the Pittsburgh metropolitan area.

Jim Satalin is the tenth basketball coach in the 67-year history of the sport at Duquesne.

Satalin, whose St. Bonaventure team won the NIT title in 1977, was named head coach at Duquesne in March, 1982.

Satalin has nine years of head coaching experience at age 36. He compiled a winning mark of 156-93 (.626) at St. Bonaventure.

He was an outstanding guard on St. Bonaventure teams that compiled an amazing record of 56-16. Satalin ranks 25th on the all-time scoring list at his alma mater.

Jim spent one year in the high school ranks before returning to St. Bonaventure as freshman basketball coach in 1970. In three seasons, his freshmen were 43-11. When Larry Weise retired after the 1972-73 season, Satalin was named to replace him at the tender age of 26. His first team went 17-9 and he's yet to have a losing season in Division I coaching.

Since taking over in March, Satalin has been a tireless worker selling Duquesne basketball. He and his staff held 30 free basketball clinics this summer in the Pittsburgh area and formed a Junior Dukes Club that has more than 1,500 members and new fans for Duquesne basketball.

Jim closed out his college career as captain of the Bonnies in 1969 and graduated with a B.A. in English. As a student he was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Outstanding Young Men of America.

He replaced Mike Rice, who coached four seasons.

UKIT Preview: Rutgers

Rutgers brings a spotless 5-0 record into this year's UKIT and the Scarlet Knights are perhaps the top challenger to Kentucky's title among this year's teams.

Coach Tom Young, in his 10th season at the New Brunswick, New Jersey school, has a veteran team that posted a 20-10 record and placed second in the Eastern Athletic Association a year ago. The EAA has since become the Atlantic 10 Conference with the addition of Penn State, Temple and St. Joseph's and the loss of Pittsburgh.

The Scarlet Knight that makes Rutgers go is 6-9 center Roy Hinson, the team's leading scorer and rebounder.

Hinson, who's started every game in his career, is averaging 15.6 points per game and 5.8 rebounds a contest. The senior from nearby Somerset, N. J., was named honorable mention All-America by the Associated Press last year.

Versatile Kevin Black is second in scoring and rebounding with a 14.2 ppg scoring average and the 6-6 swingman is grabbing 5.6 rebounds per outing.

One of the three Scarlet Knights from Washington, D. C., Black can play small forward or guard and was his team's top defensive player last year.

Forward Clarence Tillman has been a solid player for Rutgers since he transferred from Kentucky. The 6-7 senior averaged Kevin Black goes up for a shot.

Roy Hinson is excellent around the basket.

12 points a game the last two seasons and is scoring 10 points a game this season for the Scarlet Knights.

The Philadelphian is also Rutgers' third leading rebounder, averaging 4.8 per game.

In the backcourt, Rutgers starts senior Rich Brunson at point and sophomore Brian Ellerbe at second guard.

The 6-2 Brunson is averaging 6.4 points per game and 5.6 assists a contest. A product of the talent-rich playgrounds of Queens, N. Y., Brunson is an exceptional ballhandler.

Ellerbe is the Scarlet Knights' only non-senior starting. The 6-1 native of West Seat Pleasant, Md., averaged 7.9 points a game as a freshman and is scoring 7.6 points a contest thus far this season.

Sophomore John Battle is first off the bench at guard. The 6-2 sophomore from Washington, D. C., is a hustling, aggressive player.

Senior Chris Nieberlein gives Rutgers depth inside at 6-8, 225 pounds. Nieberlein spells Hinson at center and can also play forward.

Sophomores Sam Randolph and Chris Remley are also likely to see action. Randolph is a 6-2 reserve guard while the 6-9 Remley comes in at forward.

Rutgers

Since its beginning in 1766, Rutgers has offered a superior education to generations of students, and the original New Brunswick campus has been joined by university campuses in Camden and Newark.

With the diversity, resources and excitement of a major research university, Rutgers balances the best of the traditional with the best of the contemporary.

Today, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, enrolls over 48,000 students in its 13 undergraduate colleges and 12 graduate schools, offering a variety of educational options. Each of the university's colleges, with its own identity and traditions, provides a distinctive collegiate experience.

The schools range in size from 195 to 8,225 students, offer liberal arts or professional curricula (or a combination of both), and are coed or all-women, urban or suburban, residential or commuter, day or evening.

In his tenth season as head coach of the Scarlet Knights, Young brought an overall coaching record of 380-206 into his 23rd season as a college basketball coach.

Young's Rutgers team of 1981-82 went 20-10 and made the National Invitation Tournament and four starters are back from last year's club.

Young had a 185-81 record at Rutgers coming into the season.

In nine seasons at Catholic University, Young posted a 134-88 mark with only a single .500 season, a 12-12 record in 1959-60.

Following his tour at Catholic, Young returned to his alma mater, Maryland, as an assistant. After two seasons, he accepted the head coaching post at American University in Washington, D. C., where he suffered the only losing season of his career in his first year.

After that 11-12 season, the Eagles went 13-12, 16-8 and made the NIT in his fourth and final season with a shining 21-5 worksheet. Young also groomed his first All-American at American U., Kermit Washington.

UKIT Preview: Tulane

Tulane could be a darkhorse in this year's UKIT. The Green Wave had an outstanding year under first-year coach Ned Fowler in 1981-82, carving out a 19-9 record and advancing to the third round of the National Invitation Tournament.

The nucleus of that club is back this season and the Greenies bring a hard-earned 3-3 record to Rupp Arena despite having played only one game at home this season.

Sophomore center John Williams leads Tulane with a 17-point scoring average and the 6-9 product of Sorrento, La., is the Greenies' leading boardman with 7.2 per game.

Williams led Tulane in scoring as one of the nation's best freshmen last year. The All-Metro Conference pick also set a school record by rejecting 56 enemy shots.

Tulane's other scoring machine is 6-6 senior Paul Thompson, averaging 15.3 points per contest. Thompson is also second in rebounding on the club with 6.7 per game.

The gifted forward led Tulane in rebounding, steals and taking charges last season, proving his overall worth to the Green Wave. A native of Alexandria, La., Thompson averaged 18.7 points per contest as a sophomore and made honorable mention All-America.

Tulane's third-leading scorer is 6-6 Elton Webster, averaging 9.5 points per game as a guard. Webster also goes to the glass for 5.7 rebounds a game.

Fowler brought Webster with him from Tyler Junior College when he accepted the Tulane job. Webster was a junior college All-American for Fowler at Tyler. The senior from Austin, Texas, had shooting troubles last season but is scoring almost twice as much as last year's 5.2 ppg mark.

The quarterback of the Greenie offense is 6-1 senior Daryl Moreau. Moreau contributed 141 assists and shot an amazing 94.7 percent from the free throw line last year and also paced the team in minutes played with 960.

Moreau once hit 126 consecutive free tosses during his prep career at DeLaSalle High in New Orleans. A solid, veteran player, Moreau lends stability to the Tulane attack.

Another Tyler JC import is Curtis Wallace, a powerful forward who gives Tulane some muscle inside at 6-7, 222 pounds.

Wallace, a native of Huntsville, Texas, started nine games for Tulane last season and hit 59 percent from the field. Wallace is scoring 6.8 points a game this season and averaging 3.8 rebounds.

Junior Howard Jenkins shares playing time with Wallace. Jenkins, also a Tyler Junior College transfer, is an outstanding outside shooter who averaged 21 points a game for Tyler last winter.

The 6-4, 204-pound junior from Bryan, Texas, is scoring 4.2 points per game for the Green Wave and is often called on to attack opponent zone defenses.

Tulane has beaten Wyoming, West Texas and Nicholls State and lost at North Carolina, Rice and Southern Mississippi. The 70-68 loss to the Tar Heels took three overtimes.

Tulane University

In the midst of charming old New Orleans, Tulane University has been educating leaders of the south and the nation over 100 years.

From its birth as an independent school in 1834, the university has grown to include some 9,000 students, 800 faculty members, 11 schools and colleges, and a one-hundred acre main campus with four outlying campuses—at the Medical Center in downtown New Orleans, at the Delta Regional Primate Center in Covington, Louisiana, at the F. Edward Hebert Research Center across the Mississippi River from New Orleans, and at the International Center for Medical Research in Cali, Colombia.

Though Tulane is moderate in size, it is cosmopolitan in character, with a student body including residents of every state and 60 or more foreign countries. Faculty members hold highest degrees from many distinguished universities in the United States and Europe.

President of the university is Eamon M. Kelly, B.A., M.A., Ph.D., whose academic field is economics.

Through its colleges and schools, Tulane offers undergraduate and graduate degrees in a wide variety of fields.

Ned Fowler is Tulane's 18th head basketball coach.

In his first year, 1981-82, with the Green Wave he posted a winning season, 19-9. Of the 17 previous head coaches only five had a winning season in their initial year.

His 19 wins represent the most a first year man ever had at Tulane. Cliff Wells, a member of the National Hall of Fame and Tulane Hall of Fame, had 15 victories in his first year, 1945-46.

Fowler was voted the Metro Conference Coach of the Year by a panel of league coaches, writers and broadcasters. He was the first rookie coach to win the honor. In addition, he was selected Rookie Coach of the Year by Basketball Times and Coach of the Year in Louisiana.

Fowler, who came to Tulane from Tyler Junior College, brought discipline and defense with him and he instilled those "2D's" into his 1981-82 squad, a squad he brought to the quarter-finals of the National Invitation Tournament. It marked the first postseason bid for Tulane basketball in the history of the University.

In his first season at Tyler (1978-79) he had a 20-11 record and was voted the conference coach of the year. His team followed with a 32-7 work sheet in 1979-80 and advanced to the national tournament. Once again he was voted the conference coach of the year and in addition the region XIV coach of the year.

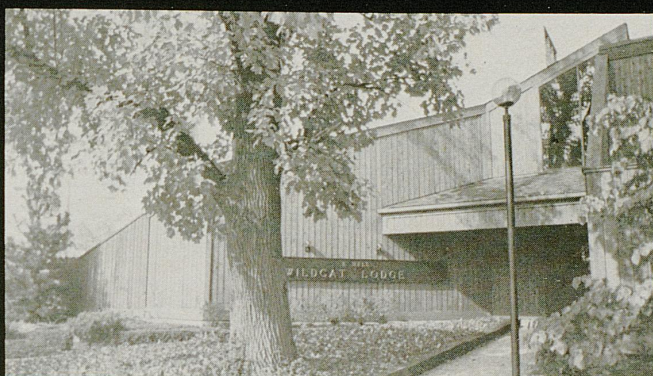

The 1980-81 season was even better. His team finished with a 31-4 record.

FOODTOWN introduces "G.O.Q."—supermarket specials that are so super special, you've got to "Grab One Quick" before they disappear! Each week, Foodtown makes some extra special deals with manufacturers and suppliers and speeds the savings down the line to you—so grab one quick.

Look for the specially marked "Grab One Quick" displays in your neighborhood Foodtown (expiration dates will be indicated for each item). Grab one quick, because at prices like these, they'll be gone before you can say "G.O.Q."

When you walk into Bill Spivey's Restaurant on South Broadway there's no question of which person inside is the owner. He's the only seven-footer in the place. As a matter of fact, when he played for the Wildcats in 1950 and '51, he was the only seven-foot player in college basketball. Newspapers reported of Adolph Rupp's "elongated recruit from Warner Robins, Ga."

Spivey seemed destined for greatness as the biggest man in the biggest game in the state of Kentucky. He had a few problems, though, when he arrived in Lexington. One was the fact that he only weighed 170 pounds. "Coach Rupp had me take two trays of food at each meal," Spivey said, chuckling at the remembrance of his playing days with the Wildcats.

"I had to get four quarts of milk and six helpings of potatoes with all my meals to fatten me up. And I couldn't get into the movie theater downtown unless I stopped at the drug store to have a malted milk shake."

"He didn't believe in the weight lifting programs or anything like they do today," Spivey said. "That wasn't the way he did it then. It wasn't popular like it is today."

Another reason Spivey did not reach the potential he thought he might have been able to was because Rupp didn't believe in feeding the ball inside to the big man, but would rather stick to his guard offense that won him 880 games in 41 years of coaching basketball.

"We played a lot in the fast break like they do today," he said. "He didn't believe in having a high scoring pivot man. There weren't any plays designed around me. I could have scored 35-40 points a game, but he didn't have the plays for the pivot man. I got the ball occasionally, but most of my points came on my rebounding."

But Spivey eventually won acclaim as an All-America in 1951, the same year that he won the Helms Foundation Award that was given annually to the top collegiate basketball player. "I was the first player to receive the Helms Foundation Award as a junior," Spivey said with pride. "A few years ago it was the most coveted award in college basketball—something like the Heisman Trophy in football."

—Bill Spivey

But Spivey's career at UK would go no further than the 1951 season as he was implicated in the betting scandal that had Kentucky placed on probation for a year. Although he was cleared of all charges, he lost the last year of his eligibility after being suspended from the university until the matter was settled in court.

"I went to court and proved that I didn't do any of that game fixing," he said. "But I couldn't finish my last year of eligibility because I had to turn pro to pay my lawyer's bill."

"I was out of school for three years, barnstorming playing against the Harlem Globetrotters and it was very important for me to come back and get my degree," he said. Spivey returned to UK and was graduated from the college of education with a degree in physical education.

"It became very important for me to have the same president of the university hand me my degree," Spivey said. "He was the same one that had suspended me from the University after being accused of fixing those games. It became important to me to have that man hand me my degree. I was the only one to ever get a standing ovation when I got my degree. I missed a beautiful trip to Egypt and Israel to stay and walk up that stage."

Spivey spent the remainder of his years until he was 39 traveling with the Globetrotters and playing in the American Basketball League and the Eastern Basketball League, in Wilkes Barre, Pa. "After I left the University of Kentucky," he said, "I went to two years of night school at Penn State and got a certificate in business management. That was pretty rough working during the day and going to school and playing basketball at the same time."

Spivey, in addition to his restaurant, breeds horses, has a real estate license and an insurance license. He said he returned to Kentucky with the intention of retiring here. "I always loved this state while I was here," he said. "The people are lovely, the climate is right, everything about it I like."

Spivey talked about his basketball career at UK and thereafter with relative ease, referring to the legendary Adolph Rupp of whom he said, "he was really doing what was best for the team, himself, and you, when he would get on you like he did. We probably didn't like him very much, but we had a lot of respect for him."

"You realize how helpful that was when you leave," Spivey said. "In achieving that, he made you work harder than you thought you really could. He got the maximum out of you."

education, Spivey said he was looking forward to maybe getting into coaching when he first got out of school, but the opportunities were limited, as well as the salaries. "I was making about $20,000 a year playing basketball and coaching jobs were only paying about $4,500 a year at the time," he said. "An Adolph Rupp or a Bear Bryant only come along so often. I would have been foolish to take a job like that when I was playing basketball."

And basketball is what led him out of a small Georgia town to his globe-trotting exploits. "I went around the world twice," he said, "stayed in the best hotels in the world and had a lot of fun. We played eight games a week. One year we played more than 310 games. We would start dreaming about basketball, living it. We would wake up in towns and just wonder where we were."

Your insurance needs are unique

Putting a finger on the program that matches your needs is our principal concern

*Call UK alumni
James Harris and
W. Grant Lewis*

No two insurance programs should be identical. If they are, they may be in the wrong hands. When a program is tailored to your operation, your risks, your goals, and your perception of value, it can't be exactly like anyone else's. So don't become a victim of mistaken identity. At Harris & Co. you deal with a principal of the firm who recognizes your individuality, and whose experience is best suited to your field. And you deal with a buyer, who knows where to go for the coverage you need.

You May Not Know The Difference Between Tires. That's Why We Make Sure We Do.

Let's face it, tires aren't the number one topic of discussion at most cocktail parties. All you know about them is you want good handling, a smooth ride, and lots of mileage. And, of course, you want the best possible price.

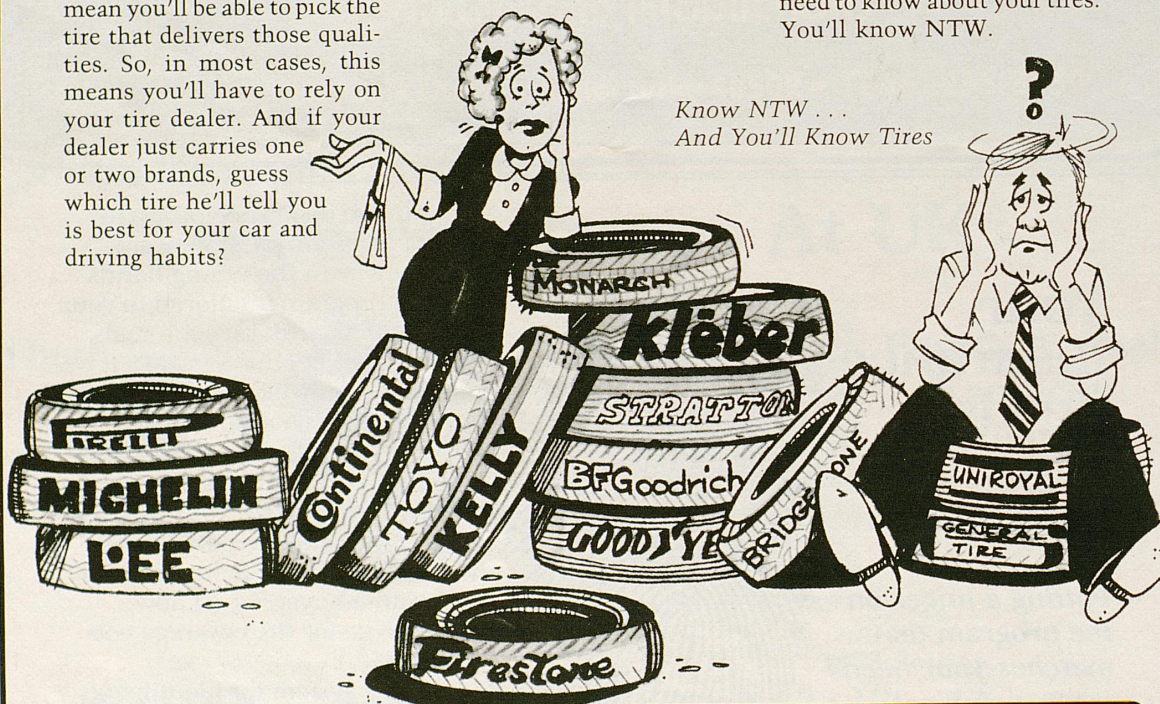

Unfortunately, knowing what qualities you want doesn't mean you'll be able to pick the tire that delivers those qualities. So, in most cases, this means you'll have to rely on your tire dealer. And if your dealer just carries one or two brands, guess which tire he'll tell you is best for your car and driving habits?

At NTW, our customers have been trusting us for a long time. We've built our reputation with honest and accurate advice, given by courteous, classroom trained salespeople. Our multiple brand selection assures you of getting exactly the right tire you need. And the buying power that comes with our $80 million annual sales means you won't find the tire you want at a better price — anywhere.

Next time you need tires, try NTW. Once we become the tire dealer you trust, you still might not want to talk tires at cocktail parties, but you'll know everything you need to know about your tires. You'll know NTW.
