Welcome To ABC Television

The University of Kentucky welcomes the ABC-TV Regional Game of the Week crew to Lexington and the Blue Grass. It was with extreme pleasure that we received and accepted ABC-TV's request to televise today's game between what we feel are two of the up and coming football teams in the Southeastern Conference and the nation. We trust the experience has been most satisfactory and rewarding for all parties concerned.

WENDELL H. FORD
Governor of Kentucky

Kentucky's 57th governor was a prime mover, as lieutenant governor and a member of the State Property and Buildings Commission, of the drive to provide a new football stadium for the University of Kentucky. A native of Owensboro, he is a veteran of World War II and attended the University of Kentucky before graduating from the Maryland School of Insurance. He has been a member of the President's Council on Youth Fitness, National Council for Religion in American Life, Kentucky Council of Education and the Second Army Advisory Committee. An active Jaycee in his earlier years, he was director, vice president and president of the Owensboro Jaycees and vice president and president of the National Jaycees and vice president of the North American Jaycees. He has represented the Eighth District in the Kentucky Senate and was chief assistant to Gov. Bert Combs in 1959-61.

VANDERBILT

VANDERBILT—Nashville, Tenn. Campus Enrollment, 7,000. Athletic Director, Clay Stapleton. Coach, Steve Sloan. Conference, Southeastern. Publicist, Ron Barnes (615) 322-4727. Colors, Old Gold and Black.

SERIES HISTORY: The Wildcats and Commodores first met on the gridiron in 1896 at Nashville and the series is one of the South's oldest from the standpoint of first meeting and number of games. The record stands solidly in Vandy's favor, 26-16-4, with the Commodores registering 12 shutouts in the first 20 years and U.K. failing to get into the win column until 1939. The Wildcats' 27-0 homecoming rout of Vandy in 1960 ended a three-year trend to close games, but the rivalry got back in the groove in 1961 as U.K. struggled for a 16-3 decision. Kentucky's biggest margin since that time was 34-0 in 1965, Vandy's 42-6 in 1969. Last year's win was U.K.'s third in a row after Vandy won the previous two. U.K. had a seven-game string—six victories and a tie—before that.

LAST MEETING: Nov. 10, 1973 (Nashville) U.K. 27, V.U. 17—Determined to shut off Sonny Collin, Vandy limited the U.K. star to 83 yards, his lowest total since he gained 91 against L.S.U., but the results were disastrous for the Commodores. Wildcat quarterback Mike Fanuzzi connected on six of 11 passes for 138 yards and hit Elmore Stephens and Ray Barga with TD throws of four and 41 yards, respectively. On an eight-play, 80-yard TD drive that gave U.K. a 7-3 halftime lead, Fanuzzi hit Stephens for gains of 28 and 32 yards, the last to Vandy's one-yard-line, setting up a scoring plunge by Collins. Darryl Bishop's fumble recovery sent U.K. on a 26-yard march that ended with another Collins' TD for a 14-3 lead. After an eight-yard Vandy punt, Fanuzzi angled a first-down strike to Barga, streaking up the middle for a 41-yard TD. A couple of minutes later, Bubba McCollum recovered a Vandy fumble and Fanuzzi took U.K. across in two plays—a 20-yard throw to Stephens and a four-yarder to Stephens. The Wildcats then had to fight off a determined Vandy rally in the second half.

TODAY'S GAME: Steve Sloan brings to Commonwealth Stadium this afternoon a Vanderbilt team that U.K. coach Fran Curci feels has perhaps the most balanced offense the Wildcats will meet this season.

Entering today's Wildcat homecoming game, the Commodores sport a record of five wins and two losses and are fresh from back-to-back victories over Mississippi and Army.

They also own victories over UT-Chattanooga, V.M.I. and Florida and have lost only to Alabama and Georgia.

The Wildcats evened their record at 4-4 with a 30-7 victory over Tulane Saturday night in New Orleans as the defense sparkled with three pass interception returns for touchdowns, equalling a school and national record set by the 1949 squad in a 47-0 rout of Ole Miss at Oxford.

Greg Woods got the first defensive touchdown, picking off a Terry Looney aerial on the 45 in the second quarter, giving U.K. a 16-0 lead after Sonny Collins had scored on a 66-yard run and John Pierce kicked a 44-yard field goal.

Tony Gray returned an intercepted pass 42 yards for a third quarter touchdown and Mike Siganos scored on a 23-yard return in the final quarter. Tulane scored on an 11-yard pass from Looney to Tom Fortner in the second quarter.

Defensive back Ben Thomas thwarted another Tulane threat, intercepting a Looney pass in the end zone in the closing minute of the first half.

Curci said the Wildcat defense dominated the game and even though the backs had four interceptions, with three going for touchdowns, most credit has to go to the defensive line for putting pressure on the quarterback and keeping him off balance most of the time.

He said it seemed in the first half that the Wildcat offense was going to have its much expected explosion, but, due to the scoring situation, it bogged down considerably in the second half.

He pointed out that he did play several players who had seen little or no previous action. Among those were freshmen Ken Northington, Derek Ramsey, Chuck Postel, Ed Dooner and Mark Keene, along with upperclassmen Steve Slates, Rick Alvey and Cliffe Hite.

Curci said that had a tendency to hurt timing and the Wildcats looked "rather sloppy"; however, he said the valuable experience those players gained far exceeded an inability to move the ball.

Collins carried the ball 26 times for 169 yards against Tulane, bringing his season total to 896 yards. At the present rate, he will finish the season with 1,232 yards, compared to 1,213 yards last year, when he came within 99 yards of the conference season rushing record of 1,312 yards set in 1949 by John Dottley of Mississippi.

He has carried 166 times this season and should break his own record of 224 carries set last year, when he broke the U.K. record of 180 set by Roger Gann in 1969. With 518 career carries to date, Collins has already broken Rodger Bird's record of 397.

Quarterback Mike Fanuzzi, who gained 61 yards in 10 carries against Tulane, has a season total of 716 yards on the ground and has completed 26 passes for 369 yards, giving him a season total of 1,085. He is the 10th Wildcat player to reach that coveted plateau.

In the Vanderbilt victory over Army, Jamie O'Rourke ran for two first half touchdowns and established a Vanderbilt career rushing record, leading the Commodores to a 38-14 victory.

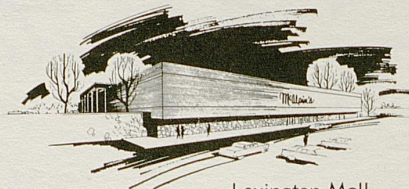

O'Rourke scored in the first quarter from one yard out and again with 5:12 left in the half from the eight, helping Vandy to a 24-6 lead at halftime. He gained 70 yards, lifting his career rushing total to 1,747 yards.

DR. OTIS A. SINGLETARY

University President

President of the University since 1969 has been Dr. Otis A. Singletary, who came from the University of Texas, Austin, where he was executive vice chancellor for academic affairs. He earlier had been director of the Job Corps program for the Office of Economic Opportunity, and chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

He is the eighth president of the University. Unique recognition of his service to the institution came recently from the UK Alumni Association, which presented him its Alumni Service Award—an honor rarely bestowed upon a non-alumnus of the University.

HARRY C. LANCASTER

Director of Athletics

Named athletic director in 1968, Harry C. Lancaster has been connected with UK athletics since 1942, when he was a full-time instructor in physical education and part-time basketball coach. A native of Paris, Ky., he lettered in football, basketball and baseball at Paris High. He was an All-Conference halfback three years and captain two years at Georgetown College. He also won three All-Conference nominations and was twice captain of Tiger basketball teams.

He served as an assistant football and basketball coach at Georgetown College (1932-33) and Paris High (1933-34); head basketball coach at Bagdad High (1934-36) and principal and coach at Gleneyrie High (1936-42). He was assistant basketball coach at U.K. 22 years and baseball coach 16 years.

SONNY COLLINS- Player-of-the-Month

(from Southeastern Football Magazine)

The Sonny Collins show has been running around the Southland for most of three autumns and everywhere it goes, a crowd gathers.

"That's just the way it is for a great running back," says Fran Curci, Kentucky coach and stage manager for the Collins production. "There's a group of people trying to make a living stopping Collins. The fact that he gains so much yardage despite defenses designed to stop him is a compliment to his tremendous ability."

Collins is Kentucky's junior tailback. He is Southeastern Football's player of the month. Sonny earned the honor. He has the scars to prove it.

"Sonny has been out there seven Saturdays and averaged a little more than 100 yards a game," said Curci. "I'll tell you now, he's a super football player."

Collins' mileage does not come easily. He runs into a lot of defensive lines that have an eight-man look. Kentucky isn't noted for throwing the football so line-backers and strong safeties keep sneaking up closer until they are almost in the Wildcats' huddle. No problem. Sonny hits right in there. He makes his own soft spots.

"There's a lot more to it than that," says Collins. "Our offensive line has done an outstanding job of blocking. Those guys are my buddies. Say something nice about our linemen."

Collins is already a legend at Kentucky. He is the greatest running back in school history. The next best, John (Shipwreck) Kelly, gained 2101 in a rushing career from 1929 to 1931. Sonny passed Shipwreck's stats in early October. Through the recent game against Georgia, Sonny Collins has totaled 2442.

There are other reasons Collins is a legend in Lexington. He is a colorful cat. Sonny has no hair on his head but a big, bushy Afro hairpiece is available for dress performances. He doesn't worry too much if you see him dressed or undressed.

Sonny came out of the coal-mining country around Madisonville. His grandfather was a miner. Young Collins has been down there, too, for summer work. It taught him to more fully appreciate the great outdoors.

Collins is unselfish. Just as he shares his fame as a runner with the blocking line, so is he eager to share his life with those less fortunate. He worked in a federal program for youth last summer.

And then, there are the things Collins gets into. That's part of the legend, too. Earlier this year, he was down and out with a badly bruised leg. It was so bad, he was about to miss a game.

"That acupuncture story isn't too bad," admits Sonny. "It's true. The treatment worked. It fixed me up fine."

Collins was undoubtedly the first running back in Kentucky history to have Dr. Mehmet S. Akaydin from Kayseri, Turkey, treat a bad bruise above the knee with acupuncture.

"Stop laughing," says Sonny. "I had two treatments and gained 160 yards against Indiana. He stuck me with four or five needles. I wasn't exactly scared, just concerned. But it was nothing, just like a mosquito bite. That doctor is my man."

Sonny Collins is our man. He's Southeastern Football's man with the ball. He's a mover. END

Is Mike Fanuzzi The Best, Period?

The story is told that Mississippi State footballers were discussing the skills of quarterback Rocky Felker, saying he runs the veer as well as anybody in America.

"Don't forget Mike Fanuzzi," Felker supposedly said from off to the side. "Kentucky is in America too."

Kentucky Coach Fran Curci thinks Fanuzzi might be the best, period.

"I can't say that . . . I haven't seen them all," said Fran. "But Fanuzzi does the best job of anybody I've seen. We are a pure read team. Fanuzzi does it all. He has outstanding reflexes . . . quick hands, quick feet, quick mind."

Mike Fanuzzi is the senior quarterback for the Wildcats only because he refused to surrender. He couldn't pass and still can't and two years ago was rooted out from under center and shifted to flanker.

"He was a flanker when I got here," said the coach. "I thought Dinky McKay (later ruled ineligible) was going to be our quarterback but I made some general statement about everybody would get a chance. Fanuzzi got his and look at him now."

Mike has been in a neck-and-neck race with all-star running back Sonny Collins for the team lead in rushing all season.

"One complements the other," said Curci. "Collins wouldn't be as good without Fanuzzi and Fanuzzi certainly wouldn't be as effective without the big running back."

Curci says the twosome divides defensive attention.

"They can't put their best two men to jump on Collins every play. If they do, the quarterback runs off with the ball."

Fanuzzi did just that against Miami of Ohio early this year. He kept 17 times for 208 yards. And still the Wildcats lost.

"I tell him he keeps it too much," said Fran. "That game left Mike with lumps and bumps all over him. He's tough, very tough, both physically and mentally."

Fanuzzi makes no claim to passing honors. He's adequate but far from deadly. Only against LSU were Fanuzzi passes a major factor.

"We laughed about that," said the coach. "We told people we had put in a new play . . . the pass. But to tell you the truth, we've had that play in all along. What was new about it was we completed a couple for a change."

Through their first six games, the Wildcats completed but 28 passes. Three went for touchdowns.

"Fanuzzi is a halfback-type football player lining up at quarterback," said Curci, himself a former quarterback. "Mike can lull a defense with the running game and then be very effective throwing. But a pure passer he is not."

Curci gets a chuckle out of how Kentucky basketball helped recruit Fanuzzi for the Wildcats. Mike was a prep star in Hasbrouck, N.J., and his father wanted him to stay and play close to home, maybe Princeton.

Mike was reluctant to even visit Kentucky but was persuaded to come see a special basketball game . . . Dan Issel, Mike Pratt and that group against Pistol Pete Maravich of LSU.

When young Mike came home from that shootout, his dad got the message just from hearing the exciting description of the game and the school and the good times.

"That's how Princeton lost a quarterback," said Curci. END

MEMORIAL

Kentucky's athletic complex off Cooper Drive was named "The Bernie A. Shively Sports Center" in April, 1969, in memory of the distinguished Wildcat director of athletics who died of a heart attack at his home December 10, 1967.

Shively joined the Kentucky staff in 1927 as football line coach, following a brilliant athletic career at Illinois. An All-American as a blocking guard for Red Grange, he also was Big Ten heavyweight wrestling champion and a track standout. He was named to the Helms Hall of Fame in 1972.

In 1933, he was appointed head of the UK Physical Education Department, and five years later became director of athletics. He continued coaching until 1946, handling football, track and baseball at various times.

FRAN CURCI

Head Football Coach

In one excitement-packed year, Fran Curci transformed the University of Kentucky football program into an interesting and heart-warming experience for a record number of fans attending Wildcat games.

An average of more than 50,000 persons watched the five home games in new Commonwealth Stadium, while six "away" games drew large crowds to see the rejuvenated Wildcats, who led the nation in percentage of increased attendance.

The season record of five wins and six losses against tough competition, including six teams involved in bowl games, was the best since the 1965 team finished 8-4. The 'Cats tied Florida and Georgia for fifth place in the conference, also the best U.K. league record in eight years.

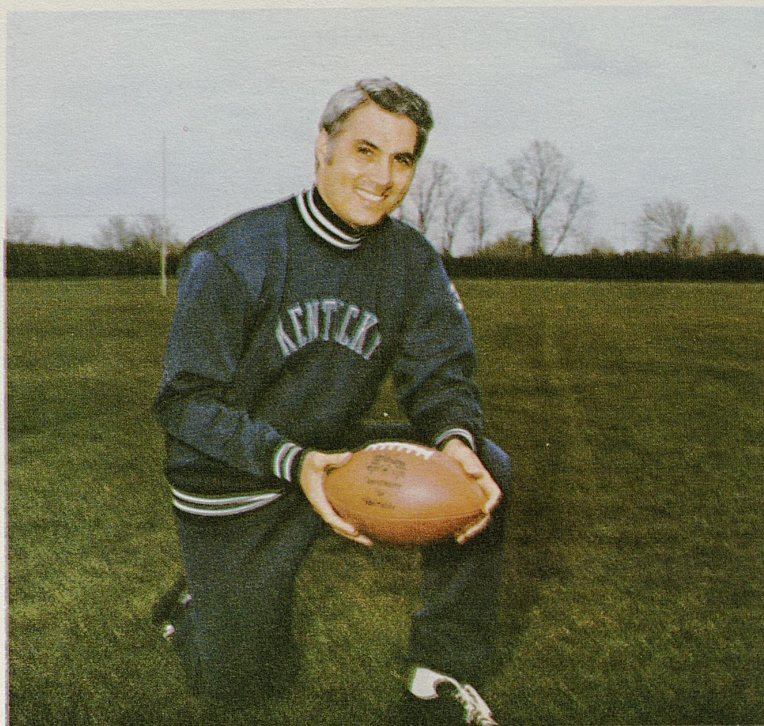

Better yet, nobody romped over the Wildcats. They led mighty Alabama, 14-0, at halftime before falling, 28-14, and led LSU, 21-7, at intermission before losing, 28-21, in Baton Rouge. In each case, Curci felt a lack of depth was the cause of the Wildcat loss.

Upset victims included Georgia, Mississippi State and nationally ranked Tulane, which came to Lexington with an undefeated record.

At the end of the season, many honors were accorded Curci, including United Press International "SEC Coach of the Year," Inside Kentucky Sports "Kentucky Coach of the Year," and Courier-Journal "Man of the Year" in Kentuckiana sports.

One of his big problems upon arriving in Lexington was to convince the players and fans that Kentucky could win; after an opening victory over Virginia Tech, he told the squad that a person would have thought they had lost, they had to learn to win. By the end of the season, the Wildcats became known as a team that never gave up, and twice came from far behind to lose by only two points to bowl-bound teams.

Curci came to U.K. in December 1972 from his alma mater, the University of Miami, Fla., where he was head coach two years. He started his career as freshman coach there in 1962 after making All-

America and playing as a 5-foot 9, 152 lb. quarterback for the old Dallas Texans of the AFL.

In four years, his Hurricane freshman teams won 12 and lost two games. He then served as a varsity assistant two years (1966-1967), and the Hurricanes participating in the bowl games both those years.

Curci was tapped by the University of Tampa in 1968 to see what he could do about a faltering football program; in three campaigns, he wrote one of the most amazing success stories in college football.

In his first year, he put together a 7-3 season, including victories over Mississippi State and Tulane. That earned for him the Florida Sports Writers Association "Coach of the Year" award, a recognition repeated in 1970. His 1969 season was a brilliant 8-2 affair. His 10-1 record in 1970 also included a 31-14 triumph over Miami and brought the Tampans the nation's No. 1 College Division ranking as well as bringing Curci College Division "Coach of the Year" runner-up honors.

He took over as Miami grid boss Dec. 19, 1970, and left the program there in good shape for his successor.

Curci has been selected four times to coach in all-star games. He assisted Bear Bryant with the South team in Tampa's first annual American Bowl game three years ago, then served as South head coach the next year.

He is married to the former Miss Patricia Ann Taylor of Louisville. They have four children, Angela 13, Frankie 11, Mary Teresa 10 and Jimmie 8.

"The sun shines bright . . ." at UK Alumni Derby Day parties in Detroit (top), Atlanta (center) and Denver (bottom).

Nostalgia is nice, but . . .

Service is the Alumni Association's main business

BY BETTY TEVIS

"Weep no more, my lady. . ."

By that time—and as far away as Chicago, Detroit, Syracuse, Los Angeles and Denver—University of Kentucky alumni, gathered together on Derby Day, are weeping for the old Kentucky home.

To Syracuse, Alumni Association Director Jay Brumfield ('48) this year flew from Lexington carrying a cooked country ham and an armload of beaten biscuits for the UK alumni Derby party. In Denver, all the ladies are handed a red rose by the UK host. At Detroit they have a big cake with a decorative horse drawn on its top.

In some cities the Derby Day party is held at a hotel dining room, in others at the home of an alumnus. And Alumni Association staff members attend many of the parties in distant cities.

In Fayette County where there are 3,200 dues-paying members of the Alumni Association, or in Jefferson County where there are 2,000, it is safe to say there are also Derby Day parties, as there are wherever two or three Kentuckians are gathered together on that day in May.

Nostalgia, however, is not the main business of the efficient, vigorous and busy 15,000-member University of Kentucky Alumni Association, nor is Derby Day its only important occasion. And while hospitality pervades its handsome headquarters, the Helen G. King Alumni House at the corner of Rose and Euclid Street in Lexington, service to the University and its graduates is the main business of the Association's 13 fulltime staff members.

The UK Alumni Association, once in the fund-raising business, has turned that function over to the UK Office of Development. (However, contributions to UK's Annual Giving program may be earmarked for alumni programs.)

All the Alumni Association now wants is members and dues, and to that end has developed a full program to attract both.

The Association puts out a quarterly magazine and a newspaper (Liz Demoran, '68, editor), arranges Homecoming weekend and class reunions in fall and spring, strengthens existing alumni clubs—of which there are 25—and encourages the formation of new ones (by Leigh Fleming, '70). It also mails letters and brochures to the 40,000 alumni not yet members attracting them with a long list of benefits and presents scholarships to undergraduates on the central campus as well as at each of the 13 community colleges.

It awards six grants to freshman members of the Wildcat Marching Band, gives service awards to distinguished alumni, votes prizes to great teachers. It criss-crosses the state to visit clubs, often accompanied by UK President Otis A. Singletary or Coaches Fran Curci or Joe Hall, or Dean Joseph Hamburg or Vice President Ray Hornback.

Associate Director Ordie U. Davis ('48) keeps books and the association keeps records. Those records, presided over by three tireless workers, are on tape and cards; from them a staff member can within seconds pluck needed information. As when somebody calls the Alumni House saying, "I'm trying to find a classmate of mine. We were in a Spanish class together in 1943. Her name was Mary Smith. . . ."

Mary Smith is found from among the 18 Mary Smiths on record, and perhaps a long lapsed friendship is renewed. A column in The Open Door newspaper circulated to all alumni, runs regularly a list of "Lost Souls," persons about whom the Association is seeking information.

"The importance of our records cannot be stressed strongly enough," says Jay Brumfield. "We are always looking for ways to improve our ability to keep up with our dynamic alumni."

If dynamic means young, Brumfield is certainly correct: of the 55,000 alumni carried in the records, 31,000 are under the age of thirty.

For this reason mailings (prepared by Ada Refbord '38)

Books, tickets, tours and Spindletop Hall

nowadays are bright and lively, both in content and appearance. Membership in the Alumni Association, the folders point out, gets you a priority on football tickets, a 30 per cent discount on books from the UK press ($25,000 worth sold so far), advance notice of tickets sales for single basketball games and the UKIT, special tour rates to Majorca, Leningrad, London and (March, 1975) Africa, use of Alumni House, eligibility for membership in Spindletop Hall.

Of the 55,000 alumni in the Association's files, at least half live in Kentucky. Many belong to the Association ($10 a year, $12 for husband and wife) and also belong to alumni clubs at Ashland, Christian County, Daviess County, Fayette County, Franklin County, Fulton County, Henry County, Highlands Area, Hopkins County, Jefferson County, McCracken County, Northern Kentucky, Trigg County or Warren County.

Associate members are friends of the University who pay dues and receive all benefits of membership except a vote for the board of directors, the privilege of holding office, or joining Spindletop Hall.

The Alumni Association is governed by a board of directors selected by 57 alumni and chosen for three-year terms. Each alumnus represents a district, nine of those in Kentucky and seven others in the rest of the country. One member is elected yearly from each of the equally-divided (by number of UK alumni) districts. Officers of the Association are elected by the board of directors and the president and vice president are chosen from among elected representatives.

Charles Landrum, Jr. (LI.B. '42), the current president, has "been close to UK since I went to University High." Partner in a six-man Lexington law firm (all UK law graduates), married to a UK professor's daughter (Ruth Bradford '45), and parent of three daughters (two attended UK), he has a "strong feeling of loyalty to my school."

Landrum, who always contributed financially to the Association, became actively involved with his time about nine years ago when the "College of Law designated me its representative on the alumni board."

The association and The Courier-Journal just this month joined to establish a lectureship in communications honoring the late Joe Creason, the beloved Kentucky newspaperman and Courier-Journal columnist, Landrum says.

A former Association president (1972) and now a member of the University Board of Trustees, John Crockett, a Louis-

Young and old, UK alumni (top and center) attended an organizational meeting this spring in Paducah, which resulted in the formation of a UK Alumni Club. ville banker, says, "Anyone who holds a degree from a University realizes—usually about 10 years after his graduation—that the university has given him far more than he can ever repay." Then, Crockett says, the graduate gets interested in "building an active, interested and enlarged alumni group."

"Once you commit $10 a year to active membership in the Alumni Association, you get information about what's going on at UK in Lexington, and being an alumnus takes on a new dimension. You're proud of your school."

Another reason why Crockett says he served as Association president, was a "selfish" one.

"Your degree and mine from UK," he says, "is enhanced to the extent UK continues to be a fine school."

Crockett ('49) began his "labor of love" for UK in 1966 when Brumfield invited him to help with a spring banquet in Louisville honoring UK athletes. The UK club in Kentucky's largest city then numbered 300-500; it now has close to 2,000 members.

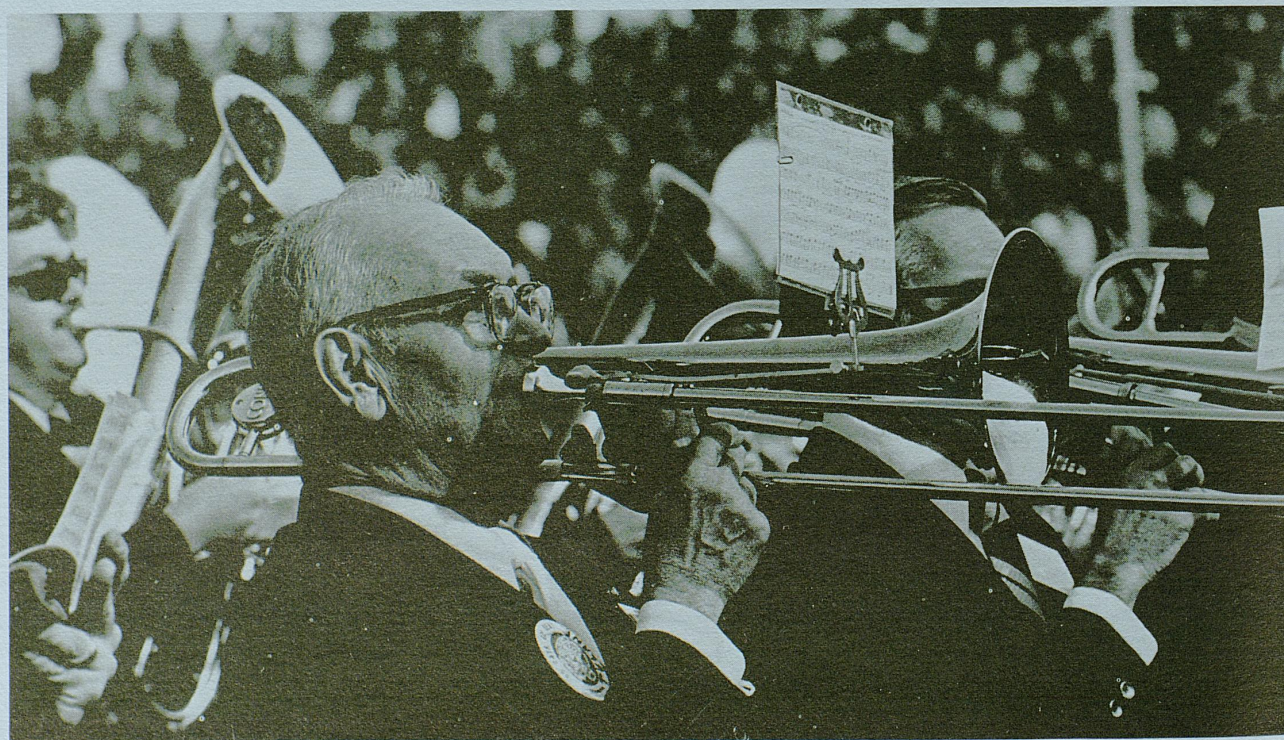

Alumni clubs have the full support—including money for postage and facilities for copying—of the Association's staff at Lexington. Its sophisticated computers there and professionally trained workers make the Association of 1974 an epoch away from its founding, here described by Thomas D. Clark, professor emeritus of history.

"On the afternoon of June 4, 1889, and just before commencement of that year, sixteen graduates of the State College of Kentucky met in the hall of the Union Literary Society to organize the Association of State College Alumni. The institution had been in existence since 1865, and at its present location since 1881. There were at this time 56 known graduates of State College. College officials, meaning principally James Kennedy Patterson, had asked the graduates to take steps to organize themselves. Dr. Alfred M. Peter was made president, after "Little Joe" Kastle had called the meeting to order. Letters from absentee alumni encouraging the organization were read: among them were J. D. Shackleford, W. B. Munson, the first graduate, and Thomas Hunt Morgan, the famous scientist who later won the Nobel Prize for Medicine.

"The alumni on this occasion drafted a constitution and by-laws. The expressed purpose of the organization was the strengthening of the bonds of friendship among State College graduates."

Computers aside, that purpose—strengthening the bonds of friendship—still steers the UK Alumni Association.

of Jim Host & Associates, supervises the operation while engineer Doug Atwell sits in the rear with son Doug Jr., who serves as his assistant.

Voices Of The Wildcats: A Three-Man Team

University of Kentucky sports come and go with the passing years, but there's one personality who's been around the UK sports scene for more years than he probably cares to remember. That's Cawood Ledford who, as play-by-play announcer for the University of Kentucky Sports Broadcast Network, has come to be known throughout the region as the "Voice of the Wildcats."

Ledford heads up the three-man team that brings radio listeners all the color and excitement of Kentucky football and basketball. Ralph Hacker lends his broadcasting expertise to the programs as color commentator and Steve Meilinger, former Kentucky All-American, contributes the viewpoint of the player who's "been there."

Together, this trio of announcers brings UK fans a lively and informative re-creation of all the action both on the playing field and behind the scenes. The games are broadcast over more than 60 stations on the nation's second largest college sports broadcasting network, topped only by the University of Alabama's.

Ledford began his broadcasting career in 1951 and joined the sports staff of Louisville's WHAS in 1965. Two years later he became sports director for WHAS radio and television. He is recognized as a sports authority throughout Kentucky and Southern Indiana. He has been named "Kentucky Sportscaster of the Year" for six straight years by his colleagues and recently was named "Best College Basketball Announcer in the Nation" by a national sports publication in California. He is also credited by the late turf expert Bryan Field as being one of the nation's foremost race callers.

Ralph Hacker was only 15 when he started with WEKY in Richmond, Ky. He was a color commentator for Eastern Kentucky University football and basketball games at age 16 and began play-by-play broadcasting the following season. He worked for three years under former UK and Cincinnati Reds sportscaster Claude Sullivan. In 1972 he was selected to assist Ledford on the University of Kentucky football network, a position he has held ever since. Ralph is recognized as one of the more knowledgeable and articulate sportscasters in this area.

Steve Meilinger is the third member of the team and he provides listeners the viewpoint of experience at the game itself. Meilinger was an All-Southeastern Conference performer at UK in 1951, '52, and '53 and was an All-American in '52 and '53 under coach Paul "Bear" Bryant. In his sophomore year, the Wildcats went to the Cotton Bowl and beat Texas Christian University 7-0. After two years in the Army, he played professional football with the Washington Redskins (1956) and the Green Bay Packers (1957-1960), including two years under the legendary coach Vince Lombardi. He now lives in Lexington, where he is chief deputy US marshal.

The collective sports expertise on these three men assures radio fans that they will be kept as up-to-date as possible on all UK football and basketball games over the University of Kentucky Sports Broadcasting Network.

The network is coordinated through the office of Jim Host & Associates, a Lexington-based advertising and public relations firm.

A full house of almost 54,000 paid admissions attended the U.K.-Alabama game, second held in new Commonwealth Stadium.

STADIUM INFORMATION

FIRST AID—The University of Kentucky provides, for your convenience and welfare, First Aid Stations on the ground level on both sides of the stadium. On the West side is Room 156, the East side Room 172. An ambulance is available at each corner of the stadium. Twenty doctors on duty are spotted in each section of the stadium and are easily accessible to Boy Scouts and ushers. Two golf cart ambulances are equipped for immediate aid and located on the second level on each side of the stadium. Persons with any type of chronic medical problem are requested to leave their name and seat location with the nurse on duty at either First Aid station. A person in need of assistance with a health emergency should report the situation immediately to the nearest Boy Scout or usher.

CARDIAC CARE—In cooperation with the University Medical Service, the University of Kentucky provides a cardiac resuscitation program.

LOST AND FOUND—Lost and found articles should be reported or turned in to an usher or a security officer. You may wish to write to the director of public safety (305 Euclid Avenue) and describe lost articles which will be returned if found.

CROWD NOISE PENALTY—Uncontrolled crowd noise can result in a five yard penalty against your team. Please observe quarterback and official's signals for quiet.

NO HORNS—Horns are not permitted in Commonwealth Stadium and will be picked up at gates. Be considerate and allow your neighbor to enjoy the game. Keep portable radios at a low volume.

GATE INFORMATION—All gates are open two hours before game time. Parking lots are open three hours before game time. All stadium exits will be opened after the game. Please do not leave the stadium during the game or at half-time if you plan to re-enter. No "Pass-out" tickets will be issued and you will not be permitted to re-enter.

FIELD REGULATIONS—Spectators must keep off the playing field at all times and after the game. Spectators must use the stadium ramps for exits.

LIQUORS—Alcoholic beverages are strictly prohibited within the stadium as are all food and drink containers including hard surfaced materials of any type, bottles, cans, thermos bottles, ice bags, ice chest, and any object related to above. Gate personnel are instructed to enforce this rule in the interest of safety.

PUBLIC ADDRESS—Messages for the public address announcer are acceptable only in emergencies and must be approved by the Sports Information Director at the Press Box.

SIGNS—Signs and barriers are restricted for Commonwealth Stadium in accordance with University regulations and policies established by the Public Safety Division.

PARKING—More than 5,000 parking spaces are located in four lots around the stadium, along with a bus-camper lot. Some areas are set aside for Blue & White Fund members, handicapped persons, staff and the press. Located nearby on the campus are many free parking spaces in University lots. Shuttle buses carry passengers to and from the campus lots and the stadium.

GENERAL TICKET POLICY FOR STADIUM

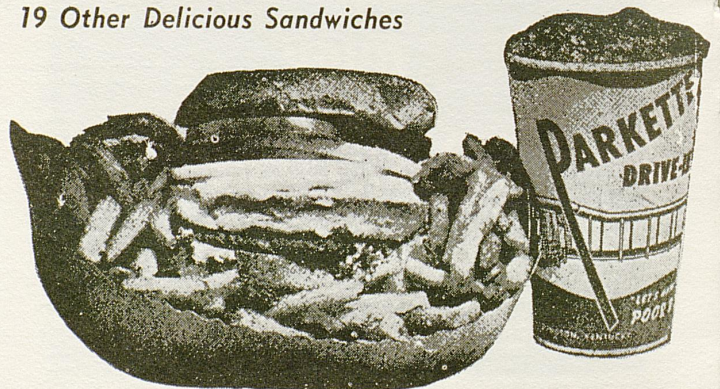

- All persons must have a ticket
- No pass out checks permitted at any gate
- All sales final
- Tickets cannot be refunded or replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed
- The University of Kentucky Athletic Association reserves the right to revoke tickets by refund of purchase price
- Holder of tickets to University of Kentucky athletic events agrees to abide by stadium and University Policies
- Tickets may not be sold on University of Kentucky premises (parking lots, stadium grounds, etc.) except by authorized personnel

Administration Building on Canvas

Kentucky artist C. G. "Moose" Morehead was guest of honor this morning at a reception at the King Alumni House where a very special limited edition painting was unveiled. The painting is Morehead's rendering of the 92-year old Administration Building, the only one of the University's three original buildings that is still standing today.

The painting was commissioned by the UK Alumni Association to raise money for student scholarships as part of the Kentucky Bicentennial celebration. Morehead, who will personally sign each of the 5,000 prints, has agreed to allow Alumni Association purchasers to request a second signature of someone connected with UK who is held in particular high esteem.

The Administration Building is tailor made for artistic treatment by Morehead, whose prints of old and historic structures in Kentucky and elsewhere have earned for him the title of Kentucky Artist of Property.

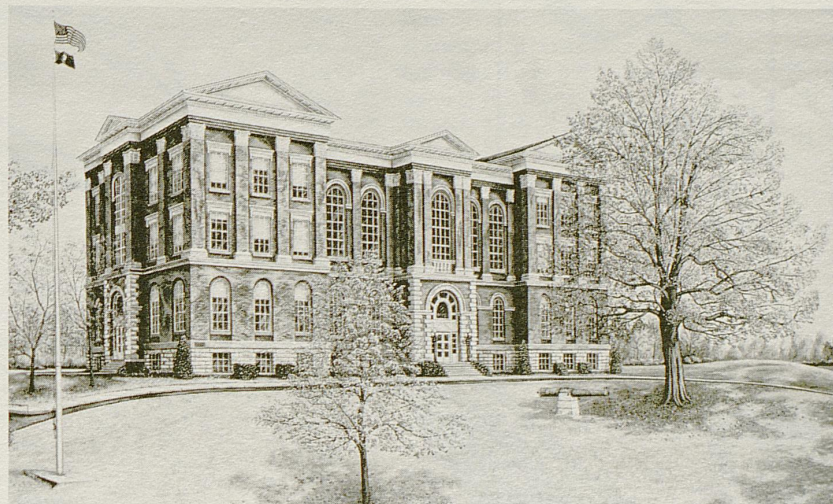

Morehead spent valuable time in Lexington researching the building and gathering anecdotes and stories in order to get a "feeling" for his subject.

He commented that: "From what I've learned, this old building has some real fine stories to tell." Morehead himself is no stranger to the Administration Building, having entered it in the early 1940s to register as a UK student.

"So you can see there's a personal tie-in with me . . . sort of like a homecoming I guess you'd say," the artist explained.

Actually, the building probably has a personal tie-in with nearly every person who has attended UK and for older alumni may be one of the few physical links remaining on this ever-changing Lexington campus.

In 1882, when the institution was known as the Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges of Kentucky, the structure housed all of the college classrooms, offices and laboratories. Even the armory and a weather bureau were located there.

UK's Administration Building as painted by C. G. "Moose" Morehead

The building, whose bricks were made of soil from the very land upon which it stands, was dedicated in 1882.

Perched on top of a hill along South Limestone, the building in its early days was beside the college lake, a romantic spot for students in the spring and summer and a skater's haven in the winter. The lake was located where the alumni gymnasium and the Student Center now stand.

Before the turn of the century, the building had an ornate clock tower rising 157 feet above the ground and surmounted by a "captain's walk." By 1898 the top section of the tower had been taken off, and later the entire tower was removed.

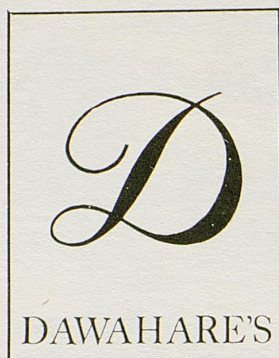

At one time, the entire student body and staff could be seated comfortably for daily chapel exercises in what was the second floor auditorium. The building, at various times, also housed the library and a natural history museum.

In 1948, for the first time since it was built, the structure became solely the Administration Building. With the transfer of Ancient Languages to nearby Frazee Hall, the last of the academic departments were removed from what had been known simply as the "main building."

The cannon out front is an important part of Morehead's painting just as it has become an old and established element of the campus.

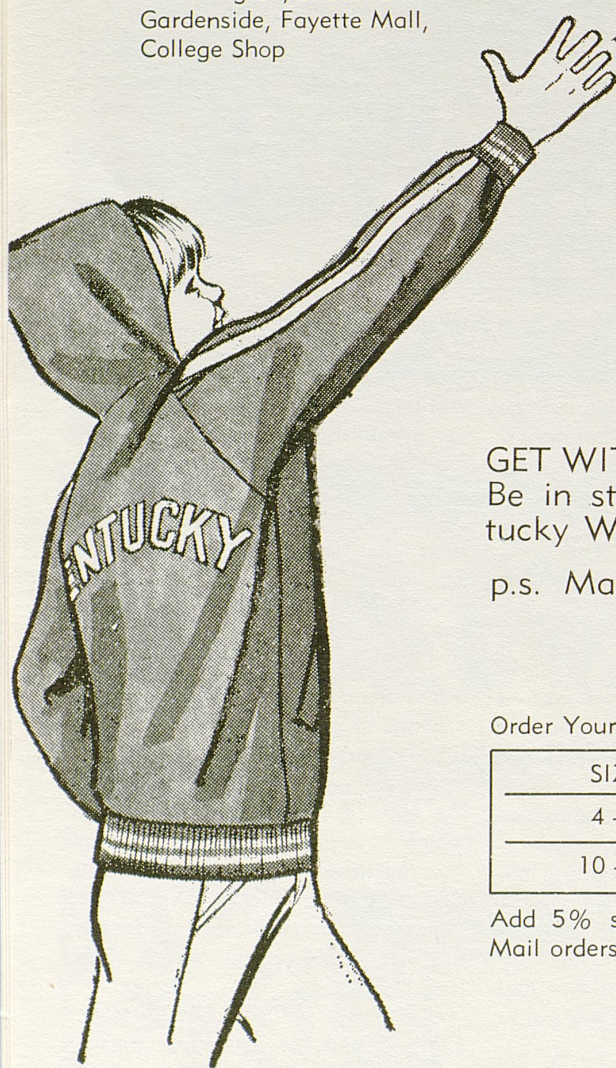

Named Federalista, this ancient war relic has been at UK since 1903 when it was presented to the University by the City of Lexington. The cannon, which is actually 179 years old and was captured at Santiago, Cuba, during the Spanish-American War in 1898, quickly became the backdrop for picture-taking and campus hazing activities.

The prints of the Administration Building sell for $20 each, plus $1 sales tax for Kentucky residents. There is a $3 handling fee for mailing prints. To order a print, send your check (made payable to the UK Alumni Association) to King Alumni House, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. 40506.

Under The Dome; In The Quarter

The Wildcats couldn't have picked a worse time to try and see the fabulous Louisiana Superdome under construction in New Orleans.

"Tomorrow is Halloween," publicist Moon Mullins said on Thursday, "and it's a holiday for a lot of people down here. Three of our engineers are going on a deep sea fishing trip.

"And I've got a meeting of the Tulane Alumni Association. I'm an alumnus, you know."

The problem was that someone in authority has to be on hand whenever anyone is allowed inside the construction site.

"We really try to discourage too many inside tours," Mullins said, "but for the Wildcats, yes!"

The Kentucky team was due to arrive in New Orleans about 5:40 p.m. (CST) Friday, work out at Tulane Stadium and then go to the team headquarters at the Fontainebleau. Coach Fran Curci planned a pleasant little surprise—a visit to the French Quarter—after the players ate their evening meal.

Due to a mechanical problem, the plane that was supposed to transport the team was held up in Atlanta and another plane sent down from New York, causing the Cats to arrive in New Orleans almost one hour late.

En route to the stadium, the second bus swung a little too wide turning a corner and crashed into a tree limb. The impact didn't bother the players, but the limb did some damage to the top of the bus.

The workout was a casual affair, topped by a game of "volleyball," using a football and substituting goal post for a net.

Dinner came off as scheduled and the players were transported to the French Quarter, where they were given an hour on their own.

While the Wildcats were getting their travel and other schedules straightened out, Mullins reported he had secured a "volunteer"—a 6-foot-8 former LSU football player, to conduct the Friday morning tour of the Superdome.

A Fine Gesture

Everything went on schedule the following morning, but the tall one was not at the dome; instead, there was Mullins, who explained that the other fellow couldn't make it. To accommodate the Wildcats, Mullins had put off the alumni party and conducted a fascinating tour.

Since there is still much construction work to be done on the interior, most of the visit was confined to standing in the center of the massive structure and asking questions after Mullins discussed various points of the dome.

He explained that framework being erected in the center of the arena would be hoisted to the top and would support four large color television screens which will produce animations via computer and will give instant replays.

He also told of a seating color scheme that would make the interior a spectrum of living color and of 90,000 tons of air conditioning that was being installed.

Escalators would take fans to their seats, he said, but there also will be ramps that are a thing of beauty, softly lighted with textured walls, decorative ceilings and thick beautiful carpeting.

The Cats were also interested in the 64 luxurious box suites which will be awarded on a public sealed bid basis, with a minimum price set for each box, ranging from $19,500 to $27,144. The minimum bid price is based on the location of each suite, and on the square footage each suite contains, varying from 390 to 468 square feet.

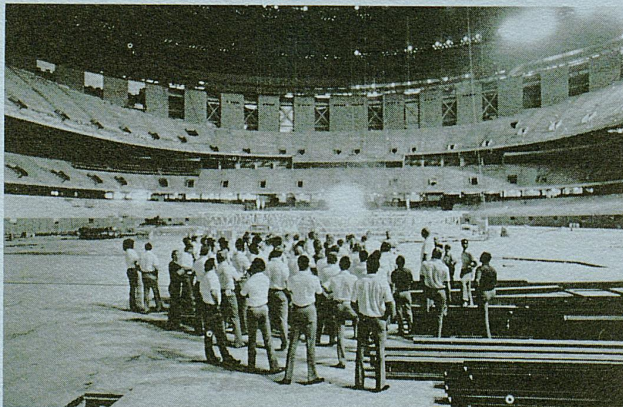

In addition to the bid price, each suite tenant must also have as many season tickets to each major sport as there are upholstered seats in front of his box, and those range from 18 to 29. Season tickets are necessary for the Saints, Jazz, Tulane, and Major League baseball when that is played in the Superdome on a franchised basis.

Mullins went on to explain the seating setup for each sport and the many other interesting features of the monmouth stadium, which at present will cost approximately $160 million.

The interesting trip to the "Land of Dreams" was capped off by a 30-6 victory over Tulane in a stadium that is designated partially for the wrecker's hammer.

As it was explained to the Cats, the steel portion of the old stadium, home of the Sugar Bowl, will be torn down, leaving anywhere from 35,000 to 40,000 seats on the sides. The stadium then will be used for high school games and other events.

The Cats said goodbye to it in fine fashion.

On The Job

Shelley (above) types a letter as part of her duties as a General Clerk in the Treasury Department. Above right, Debbie investigates a toll call that has been challenged by a customer. Debbie is a Senior Clerk in the CTI Section of the Accounting Department.

Debbie Emanuel and Shelley Alvey love Kentucky football...fortunately

Charting Plays

UK Head Football Coach Fran Curci (above) diagrams a play in the grass for Shelley and Debbie during a recent UK practice session.

Football widows who have to put up with the NFL and NCAA every weekend should be thankful . . . it could be worse.

Debbie Emanuel, Senior Clerk-Accounting, and Shelley Alvey, General Clerk-Treasury, have to compete with football on a daily basis while their husbands play for the University of Kentucky. Fortunately for Debbie and Shelley, they enjoy it.

"We don't see much of our husbands once the season starts," according to Debbie, whose husband, Mike, plays linebacker for the Wildcats. "That part of it I could do without. But otherwise I enjoy it . . . it's fun being married to a football player."

The fact that Debbie and Shelley are both football fans helps the situation, according to Shelley, whose husband, Rick, is an offensive back for the Cats. "I've been a fan ever since I started dating Rick at the beginning of high school," Shelley said. "I enjoy talking to him at night about what goes on at practice or in a game. I really take an interest in what he's doing. I think that helps a lot to ease the strain of not seeing him as much as I'd like to. It gives us something to share."

Debbie also enjoys football and adds that she likes "the things that go along with it, like the recognition that Mike gets and the social life that the wives and girl friends get to share with the players."

Social life for Shelley and Debbie and their husbands consists mainly of going out to eat or going to parties on Saturday nights.

Saturday nights and Sundays are about the only times that the girls get to spend a lot of time with their husbands. During the week, Mike and Rick don't get home from practice until 6:30. Rick has to leave again at 7:00 each night to go to a special study session for football players at the University, while Mike usually stays home to study. "I'm lucky that Mike can stay home at night," Debbie said, "but he's usually busy studying so I still don't get to see much of him."

Both Shelley and Debbie admit that they worry about their husbands getting hurt, although Debbie prefers not to talk about it. "I'm afraid I might jinx Mike. He's never been seriously hurt and I don't want to take any chances." Rick hasn't been quite so lucky, having suffered a shoulder separation, concussion, and a knee injury that required surgery.

"Sometimes I almost wish that he would quit so he doesn't get hurt anymore," Shelley said. "But I wouldn't really want him to quit. Rick is happy playing football—that's his life."

Debbie agrees with Shelley. "Mike has played football for most of his life. He wouldn't know what to do with his free time if he weren't playing. There are times when I get tired of football and worry that he'll get hurt, but I'd never ask him to give it up. It means too much to him."

Women's Sports at UK

Play to win, but bring your lipstick...

BY BETTY TEVIS
University Information Services

The University of Kentucky's new emphasis on women's athletics is what Sue Feamster calls "the program of the future—now."

Miss Feamster, backed with a $90,000 budget (it was $3,300 a year ago) and a ringing commitment from the UK administration, is the young blonde director of women's inter-collegiate athletics at UK.

Miss Feamster says the whole nation is "more sports conscious" and that women athletes have fully demonstrated their skills at competitive sports. At UK, some 4,000 undergraduate women are involved in sports, on the club, intramural or varsity levels.

Six sports—basketball, tennis, track, gymnastics, golf, field hockey—have been elevated to varsity status for women. Five others including swimming, volleyball, softball, badminton, and fencing remain on the club level.

It was, of course, not always like this. Women's sports at UK have had a see-saw history. Basketball, which had the first team of record in 1902, was for years the only women's sport, later joined by a gym and tennis team.

Mrs. Nancy Stephenson Elkin of Winchester, forward on the 1922 team (whose coach was the now retired and much beloved Dean Sarah Gibson Blanding), says there was "not much enthusiasm, not much attendance" at her team's games.

A Clark County High School basketball star (her team beat Ashland for the state championship), Mrs. Elkin has always loved basketball but allows that the girls in her era who played were "not as popular as those in Panhellenic."

Now, in 1974, Panhellenic girls field their own teams in the intramural basketball program and the teams, in the words of one observer, "play to win."

The 1909 Kentuckian reports that: "The Girl's Basket Ball Team of the State University (now UK) this year once more covered itself with glory and again demonstrated the right of women to wear the much-coveted 'K.' In former years girls' basketball was confined to games between teams selected from the gymnasium classes. In the seasons of 1907 and 1908 the first outside games were played with results so satisfactory that a schedule was arranged for the season of '08 and '09 by which the State University girls could show their loyalty to their alma mater and ability to cope with other teams. . . ."

The Kentuckian goes on somewhat archly to describe the reluctance of Transylvania College to play a third game after splitting two with State. "The honors being thus evenly divided, the third and deciding game was awaited with great expectancy. But, alas, the day never came! Our rival contrived some feeble excuse and evaded the game, even though a challenge was issued by the State team. It is hardly proper for us to criticize our neighboring institution, but somehow, we cannot help smelling a rat, the odor of which has a yellow tinge. . . ."

"There being no other collegiate team which was not defeated by State, it would appear that the Kentucky Basket Ball Championship for Girls belongs to State University. May it ever be thus. Too much cannot be said in praise of the Girl's team; they displayed throughout true spirit of Blue and White, and we only hope that the girls of the future will live up to the same standard."

Save for the waspish comments about opponents, Sue Feamster would endorse the statement. And she would certainly add that women athletes usually keep participating in fitness activities—bowling, golf, tennis, swimming—long beyond college.

Further, women who have played sports have an "awareness of the physical education aspects in schools," she says, and as PTA members and citizens may later push for more and better such activities.

They will also "start their children at an early age" in sports, she thinks.

Women athletes—then and now—insist on remaining entirely feminine, Miss Feamster says.

"Our girls play hard and play to win, but the minute the game is over they think about their comb and lipstick," she said. Women athletes, she adds, are "physically aware, attractive to men and meticulous about their appearance."

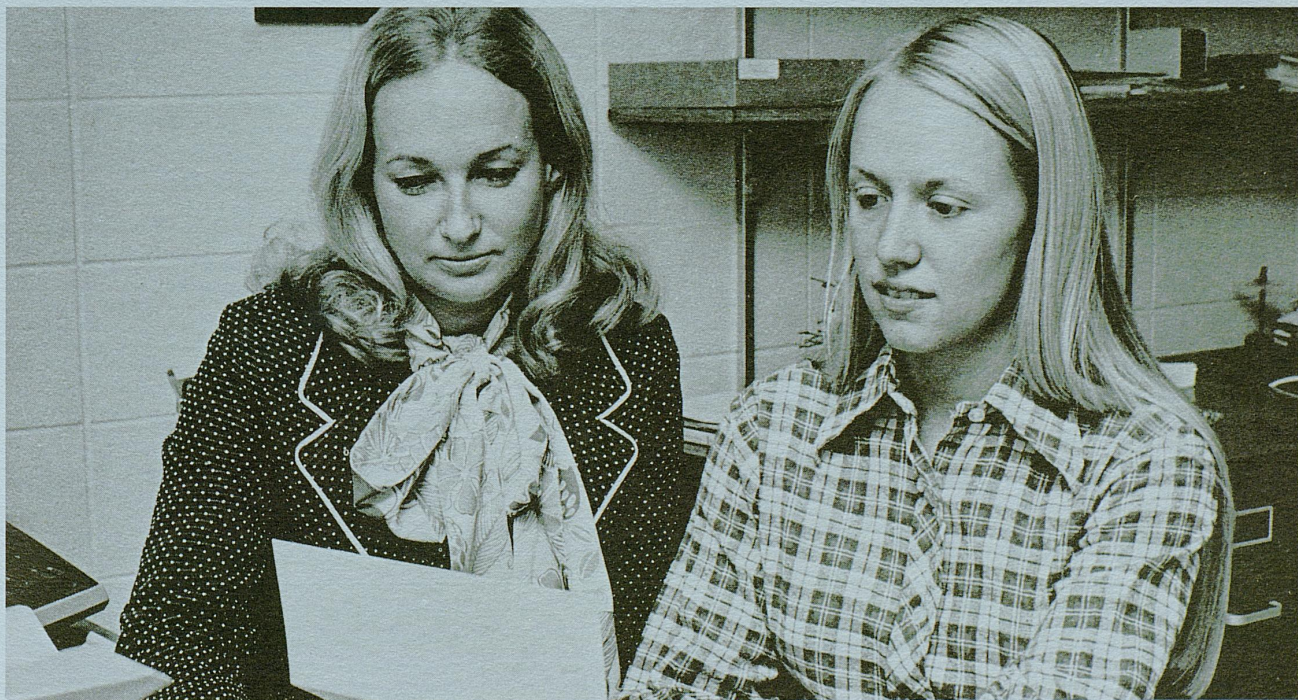

And when UK's teams attend a tournament, they take along a cake and have a ladies-type reception for their opponents after each game.

Sally Bussell, a UK junior from Paris and a varsity basketball forward, has seen "attitudes (toward women's sports) change in the last three or four years. More girls participate, care about physical fitness."

Sally admits to good-natured joshing from male friends. "But," she adds, "guys like girls who keep themselves in shape, who can do things with them like play tennis, or swim, or hike. The sedentary girl is on her way out."

UK women play to win, above, then serve cake and punch to opponents after tournament games. Sue Feamster, below left, heads the newly-organized "program of the future" for UK women athletes. Sally Bussell, who works in Miss Feamster's office, is varsity forward on the basketball team.

LEXINGTON WILDCAT CLUB OFFICERS are (left to right) president Clyde Mauldin, vice president Harley Clemons, corresponding secretary Joe Warren, recording secretary Bill Ring and treasurer Steve Rardin. The club, which holds its meetings each Thursday night at the Campbell House, has had some outstanding programs this season, including such speakers as Blanton Collier, Sam Huff, Leonard (Leonard's Losers) Postero, Tommy Bell and Duffy Daugherty. Next Thursday (Nov. 14) has been set aside as "Recognition Night," with the guest speaker slot going to Butch Lambert, president of the SEC football officials and a member of the Mississippi House of Representatives. Outstanding high school football players will be honored by the club Nov. 21.

RECORD-SETTERS—Wildcat coach Fran Curci presents game balls to Greg Woods (2), Tony Gray (9) and Mike Siganos (44), defensive backs who each intercepted a pass and returned it for a touchdown, equalling a school and national record set by the 1949 U.K. team against Mississippi.

THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

BLUE & WHITE FUND

Hundreds of student-athletes have had their education at the University of Kentucky financed by grants-in-aid. More and more, the success of major college athletic programs is dependent upon the financial support of the institutions and friends.

The University of Kentucky is proud to honor the individuals and business firms whose names appear on these pages.

BY REQUEST—THE DIXIELAND SPECIAL

This afternoon, by popular request, the "Wildcat" Band presents for your entertainment the exciting music of the Dixieland Era. Familiar tunes include "Bill Bailey", the theme song from the Broadway hit "Hello Dolly", "Lassus' Trombone", "Swanee", and that old favorite, "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee".

The UK Band wishes to welcome the Alumni back to the University for Homecoming 1974, "Two-Hundred Years in Kentucky". Providing the musical background for the presentation of the Homecoming Queen and her court is the Lennon and McCartney tune "Yesterday".

At the conclusion of the Homecoming ceremonies, the Band invites all Kentuckians to join them in the performance of "My Old Kentucky Home".

Fletcher Carr specializes in karate at U.K. All-Sport Camp.

Trinity High School coach Dave Moore teaches the proper stance.

A Diversified Camp

The University of Kentucky All-Sports Camp is a diversified camp featuring instruction in tennis, karate, football, weights, golf, track, wrestling, swimming, volleyball and baseball.

More than 100 youngsters from Kentucky and other states attended the first camp last summer, utilizing the University of Kentucky's modern, clean dormitories, fine cafeteria and excellent athletic and recreational facilities.

The setup works like this: Each camper chooses a sport for major instruction and two other sports for less instruction, with the campers working in groups selected according to age.

The daily schedule includes a 2½ hour instruction in major activity and two hours in all activities, along with regular rest periods and periods of recreational activity and league competitions.

There are special events at nights—movies, council fire, etc.—and visits during the week to such places as the State Capitol, Red River Gorge, Natural Bridge and Blue Grass area horse farms.

The 1975 camp will be held in late June. Enrollment is limited.

John Cooper is the tennis expert-in-residence.

Dan Coughlin gives baseball instruction.

Bill Narduzzi conducts a group exercise.

ON, ON, U. OF K.

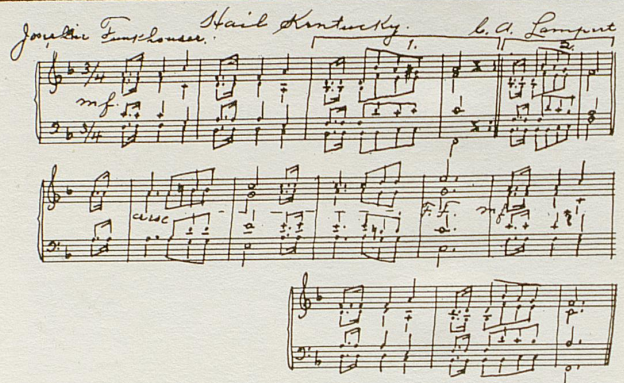

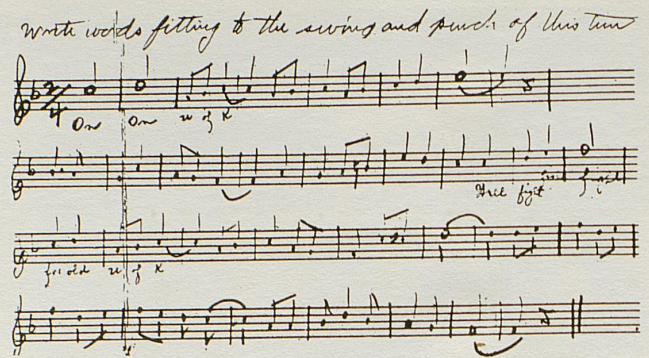

On, On, U. of K.
We are right for the fight today.
Hold that ball and hit that line;
every wildcat star will shine.
We'll fight, fight, fight for the blue and white,
as we roll to that goal, varsity.
And we'll kick, pass and run
'till the battle is won,
and we'll bring home the victory.

U.K. ALMA MATER

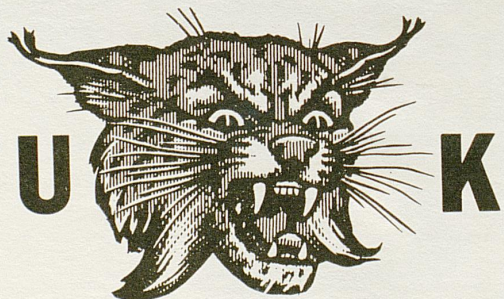

Hail Kentucky, Alma Mater!
Loyal sons and daughters sing;
sound her praise with voice united;
to the breeze her colors fling.
To the blue and white be true;
badge triumphant age on age.
Blue the sky that o'er us bends;
white Kentucky's stainless page.

MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME

The sun shines bright in the old Kentucky home,
'Tis summer, the people are gay;
The corn-top's ripe and the meadow's in the bloom
While the birds make music all the day.
The young folks roll on the little cabin floor
All merry, all happy and bright;
By'n by hard times comes a-knocking at the door
Then my old Kentucky home, Good-night!
Weep no more my lady, Oh! weep no more today!
We will sing one song for the old Kentucky home
For the old Kentucky home, far away.

Our first responsibility is to supply the electricity you need when you need it — all that's needed, 24 hours a day. Growing needs. For home, business, and industry.

But making sure that everyone in our service area has all the electricity needed is just part of the picture.

Take the problems involving the environment, for example. Reddy's working with scientists and researchers to clean up air pollution, improve and expand sewage treatment, filter pollution out of lakes and streams, and replace old-fashioned polluting processes with clean electrical systems.

In fact, in the area of environmental control equipment on which patents have been issued, more than 90 per cent require electricity.

Reddy Kilowatt makes things happen environmentally!

Over the years, Zenith color TV has earned a reputation for dependability and picture excellence no other color TV can match.*

And today's Zenith solid-state Chromacolor II backs up that reputation with a combination of features no other color TV can offer.

The famous Chromacolor picture tube that set a new standard of excellence in color TV. A patented Power Sentry voltage regulator that protects components. And a rugged, 100% solid-state modular chassis for long-life dependability.

It's the best way we know to make sure, at Zenith, the quality goes in before the name goes on.®

CHROMACOLOR II

*For the third straight year, a nationwide survey of independent TV service technicians has named Zenith, by more than 2 to 1 over the next best brand, as the color TV needing fewest repairs. The same survey rated Zenith as the highest-quality color TV, as the one with the best picture, and as the one service technicians would buy for themselves today. Survey details on request.
