My dear Sir:-

I am in receipt of yours of the 16th, replying to which I beg to say that the Attorney General is absent from the city, and before leaving had not delivered to me his opinion upon the constitutionality of the act increasing the income of the A. & M. College $15,000.00 per annum. Until I receive his opinion I can^{not} give you a definite answer in regard to the matter.

He is expected to return this week and I will urge him to complete his investigation of the law pertaining to this question and advise me. I will then notify you. With great respect, I am,

Very truly yours,

Dict.

Gentlemen:-

Your letter reached me the day I arrived home and I was surprised to receive it. I left here last spring not very well, and they promised to ship your things to you, and I thought of course that had been done. I came right down here and will get those things together to-morrow and ship them to you. I had not sold very much and when I made my inventory in March, I found I had sent a little more than was due you so I took a few pencils etc. to make it up. I will send the things and that will square us unless they have been broken into, of course I can't tell until I see them. If there are any gone of course I will have to stand the loss and will do so.

I am very sorry this has happened but will try to make amends.

You will hear from me as soon as I get myself placed in Chicago, where I go Friday night.

Very truly,

Geo. L. Byroade.

Nor shall the said Company be held responsible for the safety of said property after its arrival at its place of destination.

And if the same is entrusted or delivered to any other Express Company or Agent (which said Southern Express Company are hereby authorized to do), such Company or person so selected shall be regarded exclusively as the agent of the shipper or owner, and, as such, alone liable, and the Southern Express Company shall not be, in any event, responsible for the negligence or non-performance of any such Company or person; and the shipper and owner hereby severally agree that all the stipulations and conditions in this receipt contained, shall extend to and inure to the benefit of each and every Company or person to whom the Southern Express Company may intrust or deliver the above described property for transportation, and shall define and limit the liability thereof of such other Company or person. In no event shall the Southern Express Company be liable for any loss or damage, unless the claim therefor shall be presented to them in writing at this office, within thirty days after this date, in a statement, to which this receipt shall be annexed. All articles of GLASS, or contained in glass, or any of a fragile nature, will be taken at shipper's risk only, and the shipper agrees that the Company shall not be held responsible for any injury by breakage or otherwise, nor for damage to goods not properly packed and secured for transportation. It is further agreed, that said Company shall not, in any event, be liable for any loss, damage, or detention caused by the acts of God, civil or military authority, or by insurrection or riot, or the dangers incident to a time of war.

If any sum of money, besides the charge for transportation, is to be collected from the consignee on delivery of the above described property, and the same is not paid within thirty days from the date thereof, the shipper agrees that this Company may return said property to him at the expiration of that time, subject to the conditions of this receipt, and that he will pay the charges for transportation both ways, and that the liability of this Company for such property while in its possession for the purpose of making such collection, shall be that of warehousemen only.

Dear Sir:—

Enclosed find express receipt for piece of rough stone shipped to you for the purpose of being tested. We also enclose you a copy of the Watertown Arsenal test on this granite.

Do we understand from your letter that you have already made a plan for your mausoleum, or do you want us to submit a drawing and estimate for same? We can send you a polished sample of this granite as well as a hammered sample, if you desire us to do so. This granite has been used in a mausoleum at Pittsburg, Pa., and the Catholic University Building at Washington, D. C., also in several other buildings in Washington and Philadelphia. We are at present furnishing the granite for the A. & M. College at Raleigh, N. C. It is the opinion of some of the leading architects of this country that this stone is highly suitable for mausoleum work, and superior to any gray granites.

After you have made a test of this stone, we shall be pleased to hear from you.

Yours truly,

Gentlemen:--

Yours just received an contents noted. In reply I want to say that I turned over to the Farley Transfer Co. for shipment to you, a box containing your property. I left the same day and have been on the move ever since and just received my mail last night and found your letter with the rest. I can't understand why you have not received these goods, but I am writing them (The Farley Transfer Co.) to find out what they did with the box. It is just possible they have mixed it up with my H.H. Goods which they have shipped to me at Chicago. If that is the case I will know in a couple of days, as my H.H. Goods should be here in a day or two. If I find the box among the other things, I will immediately ship it to you, and advise at once. If they are not with my H.H. Goods I will have to wait until I get an answer from the Farley Transfer Co. at Lexington, Ky. As soon as I hear from them, I will let you know what they have done with the box and get it to you as soon as possible. I am sorry this delay has occurred again, but I had no way of preventing it. Expect to be at this hotel until Saturday, or possibly Monday. A letter addressed herex will reach me.

Very truly,

We have printed the first twenty pages and are now ready for the State College matter. As I told you we were going to put your matter in whether you paid for it or not, but we feel that you can expend $40 to a mighty-good advantage. If it is not the prettiest publication ever gotten out in Western Kentucky then your matter will not cost a cent.

We are putting a lot of money in this book and will appreciate very much if you will help us out to the extent which I have stated. Let us hear from you at once, We are,

Dear Sir:-

We are in receipt of your favor of the 26th inst., advising us that the work for the repairs to the plumbing in your residence, should be charged to the college instead of you, as we had it on our books. We herewith enclose you a transcript setting forth itemized statements of the account, which we ask you to verify and hand to the Business Agent of the college. We have changed the account on our books so that the account is charged against the college. In this connection we wish to say, that some weeks ago, Prof. Walter Patterson spoke to us about this account, and claimed that the time charged thereon was excessive, he claiming that our man had left the house about three o'clock in the after-noon. We investigated the matter and found that our man did leave about that time, but it was in order that he might get some material at the store, as soon as he did this, he returned and was there the balance of the day.

We trust that this explanation will be satisfactory to you, and that we may receive a check for the amount, we remain,

Ireland's Story

By CHARLES JOHNSTON, author of "Ireland — Historic and Picturesque," etc.; and CARITA SPENCER.

This book is a simple narrative adapted to the needs of children in grammar school grades and will give them an excellent idea of the nation's history. It is interesting to find an account of the Irish nation which treats the subject without an excess of sentimental enthusiasm on the one hand, and without an unfriendly prejudice on the other. Mr. Johnston shows that the Irish people have had a splendid history, that they have accomplished a great deal in the world, and that they have succeeded in overcoming serious disadvantages.

The book will be suitable for supplementary reading, for school libraries, and for use as a regular text-book in Irish History. It will be illustrated with pictures of the various historical monuments of Ireland and other interesting cuts. It will also have maps.

The Story of England's Literature

By EVA MARCH TAPPAN, Head of the English Department, English High School, Worcester, Mass. Author of "England's Story," "Our Country's Story," etc.

Teachers will find this book to be a spirited, well proportioned and individual account of the story of England's literature, marked throughout by intelligence, good sense, and a freedom from exaggeration. The author as a teacher of this subject understands the requirements of the class-room, and in her popular histories, England's Story and Our Country's Story, has already shown herself to be capable of writing excellent text-books. This book is intended to supply the needs of classes which have not as much time to give to the subject as is required by Simonds' Students' History of English Literature and books of that class. The book will be illustrated and will contain aids to teacher and student.

NEW EDUCATIONAL BOOKS

Autumn, 1904

MESSRS. HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN AND COMPANY take pleasure in announcing to Superintendents, Principals, and Teachers the early publication of the following Educational books:—

The Elements of English Grammar

By W. F. WEBSTER, Principal of the East High School, Minneapolis, Minn. Author of "Elementary Composition" and "English: Composition and Literature." 50 cents, net, postpaid.

Its Scope:—This new text-book is, as its title implies, a clear, simple, and elementary treatment of the essentials of English Grammar. Its subject matter throughout is entirely within the capacity of grammar school pupils who have had reasonably adequate language training in the intermediate grades, and it covers the subject as fully as even high school pupils should be expected to do. It is designed to follow the use of the Cooley Language Books and is one of the essential units of a complete but flexible course in English, which includes the Language Books and Grammar, Webster's Elementary Composition, and Webster's English: Composition and Literature. While particularly intended for use with the other books of this series, it is equally well adapted for use with the language books of other series, or as an independent text in grammar.

Its Plan:—The text is planned to provide work for one school year when assigned four or five recitations a week, or two years with half that number of recitations. It is divided into two parts, each of which is designed for a half year or a year of work, according to the number of recitations. When used by high school pupils, the work can, of course, be completed in briefer time.

Part I. treats of the sentence and its elements. It begins with the study of the sentence in its entirety, — the verbal expression of a complete thought, — and points out its three essential elements, — subject, predicate attribute, and copula. These principal elements are then taken up in detail as regards their use in the sentence.

Part II. is devoted to the parts of speech, including treatment of their grammatical forms and classifications, with a more detailed discussion of their various functions and uses in sentence structure.

There is also a further and fuller discussion of participial and infinitive forms of the verb.

Its Method:—Most text-books on grammar teach entirely by telling. They demand memory work only. In this book, a successful effort has been made to employ and train the pupil's thinking powers, — to make him comprehend the principles which underlie grammatical rules. Each topic is first presented to him by careful inductive questioning on a group of illustrative sentences. The facts and principles so developed are then clearly stated in the text and definitions given for memorizing. Finally, the teaching is reinforced and clinched by exercises employing many appropriate sentences and quotations from literature.

Its Special Features:—One of the most important of these is the inductive work introducing each new topic as outlined in the preceding paragraph. Another is the character of the definitions, which will be found properly inclusive and exclusive, logical and correct. Many of the definitions in otherwise carefully written text-books are imperfect or incorrect, but it is believed that these will meet the severest tests that can be applied to them. Still another noteworthy feature is the clear and logical treatment of Mode, Some Common Verbs, Infinitives, and other difficult topics which have proved to be the weak features of other books. The grammar taught throughout the book is based on the latest and best usage and authorities.

Riverside Graded Song Book for Elementary Schools

Part I. for Primary and Intermediate Grades. 40 cents, net, postpaid.
Part II. for Grammar Grades. 40 cents, net, postpaid.

Edited by WILLIAM M. LAWRENCE, Principal of the Ray School, Chicago, Illinois, and also Co-editor of "The Riverside Song Book," "The Choral Song Book and Instruction Course," etc.

The Riverside Graded Song Book has been made for those who seek to relate singing more closely and vitally to the general work of the school. Such teachers will not use music merely for variety or relaxation, but will take up songs with the definite purpose of fitting them into the general study-scheme. They will accept the following statement of principles: That in music, as in other subjects, a class should master what is undertaken; that the proper question is, not how many tunes have been learned, but how many songs have been mastered in thought and feeling; that such mastery requires that school songs should be largely committed to memory, and therefore should be worthy of being memorized; that songs should be often reviewed in successive grades, and thus made a life possession: and that the words of standard songs should be often used as material for language work, in spelling, writing from memory, and thought analysis.

In both parts of the book will be found many settings of lyrics from the world's great poets, especially from Longfellow, Holmes, Whittier, and Lowell; many songs that appeal strongly to the interest of children, are suited to the special occasions usually celebrated in schools. The music is bright, melodious, and confined to the proper limits of young voices.

Three Years with the Poets

Compiled by BERTHA HAZARD, Principal of Miss Hazard's School, Boston, Mass. 50 cents, net, postpaid.

The author of this book in her "Foreword to the teacher" writes: "There is perhaps a grain of truth in the assertion that the so-called modern methods of education forget to train the memory. Certainly every teacher, conservative or progressive, would agree that facility in memorizing is most valuable, and that as one step towards acquiring this facility, the youngest children should be accustomed to learn each week at least a few lines of poetry. But, for most teachers, 'memory gems,' good perhaps in themselves, but chosen at random without special reference to the child's school life, are no longer satisfactory. The poetry to be learned in school should follow the children's other interests in work and play, thus helping to make vivid every other subject, and becoming itself a vital part of the day's pleasure. Moreover, the poems should be sufficiently numerous to allow freedom of choice, and they should usually be short enough to be learned by the greater part of the class in a single week."

Miss Hazard has carried out these ideas in this book which is limited in its scope by the needs and interests of the first school years. It is intended to serve as the first "study book" which a little child should be asked to use and as such may correlate to advantage with the reading books and with the oral lessons in Botany, History and Geography of the lower primary grades.

The calendar of the year's work which serves instead of table of contents gives a list of ten required poems of which one is to be memorized each month during the school year. In every class there will be an appreciable number of children who can do more than this, and for these there are three elective poems suggested for each month, while at the end of the material for the year are given supplementary rhymes and poems which may be substituted where shorter lessons are needed or where additional freedom of choice is desired. The book is designed to cover three year's work and the course as given for each year includes nothing which children have not done gladly and with steadily increasing appreciation of the pleasure to be found in books, in classes under the supervision of the compiler.

Dear Sir:-

I beg to enclose a couple of samples of our "Perfection Stereographs". We produce them in 3 series of 25 assorted:

75 assorted well selected scenes,
25 " comic and children scenes,
50 " scenic views in many countries.

PEOPLE ARE AMAZED

at what we have accomplished in the production of these pictures as soon as they examine them properly in a Stereoscope; unless so examined, no stereoscopic scene is any more than an ordinary picture.

Any Hustling Student can pay his or her way through college very easily by canvassing at odd times for these pictures. It will be a great kindness to any such student if you will tell them about our offers to agents. There never was anything in this line giving a hustler such chances for gain; there is no limit to the prices he may ask and secure for them.

OUR PRICES TO AGENTS

25 assorted in red imitation leather box suitable for the parlor table, mailed postage paid for....40¢
Sells easily for $1.00.

Stereoscopes, the $1.00 kind, mailed postpaid for...35¢
A complete set of these views should be owned by every college library. They afford intellectual entertainment for a whole evening that can often be repeated with equal pleasure.

We do not care to send less than a box - 25 assorted - to anyone. Will cheerfully refund the price on return of the goods if dissatisfied.

Thanking you in advance, I beg to remain,

Very truly yours,

THE BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY

PUBLISHERS OF

The Twentieth Century Biographical Dictionary of Notable Americans

Editor-in-Chief:

ROSSITER JOHNSON, PH.D., LL.D.

TELEPHONE, 1231-2 HAYMARKET

6 Beacon Street,

TO THE PRESIDENT.

Dear Sir:

We send you herewith a descriptive circular of "Notable Americans," the new ten-volume Dictionary of American Biography, the latest and only up-to-date work of the kind now published. We trust you will take time to examine it.

Many of the best libraries in the country are ordering this work on approval. In EVERY CASE, so far as we have yet learned, the books have proved entirely satisfactory, and will be kept and paid for.

Among those thus ordering are the Carnegie Library, of Pittsburgh, the Public Libraries of Cincinnati, Trenton, Plainfield, and Portland (Oregon), Los Angeles (Cal.), State Libraries of Vermont and Pennsylvania, the Theological Library of Princeton, several of the Department Libraries at Washington, and scores of smaller town and city libraries.

The price at which the work is sold by agents is $40.00 per set for the cloth-bound edition, $60.00 for the edition in half leather. It is not for sale at bookstores.

As an expense of over $100,000.00 was incurred in the preparation of this great work, aside from the actual cost of manufacturing, this price is very reasonable; but knowing that many colleges are obliged to consider expenses with care, we have determined to make to them a special price, much lower than to any other buyers. If, therefore, you wish a set for your college library, we will make the cloth set $25.00, or the half leather set $35.00, thus bringing the price down close to manufacturing cost.

You do not need to purchase till you have examined the work and assured yourself that it is all that we claim for it, namely, the one and only comprehensive, reliable, up-to-date cyclopaedia of American Biography.

If you have no appropriation available at this time for the purchase of reference works like this, do not let that fact prevent your ordering, since payment may be made at a future date to suit your own convenience within any reasonable limits, but our proposition must be accepted within thirty days.

Kindly fill out and mail the enclosed postal so we may know that our offer has had your consideration, and thus greatly oblige,

Yours truly,

THE BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY,

Publishers of "Notable Americans."

Notable Americans

The best of its kind I know. Excellent in every respect. — Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, Memphis, Tenn.

The work will be almost indispensable to every reference library. — Dr. D. H. Cochran, Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.

I am particularly impressed with your method of revision to secure absolute accuracy. — Gen. Lewis A. Grant, Minneapolis, Minn.

I stand ready to commend the work to the attention of the public. It is well planned and ably executed. — Dr. W. F. Warren, Boston University.

I commend the work as deserving of patronage for the utility to all, and its stimulating effect upon the young. — Rt. Rev. George F. Seymour, Springfield, Ill.

I am more than pleased with the work. — Dr. R. A. Guild, Librarian Brown University.

This work admirably supplements our former sets of United States collective biographies. — Warren Upham, Secretary and Librarian of the Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, Minn.

I have Appleton's, White's, and Who's Who. Yours outclasses them all. — Charles Hallock, Editor, Author, and Publisher.

Your important and carefully succinct biographical work is in the library. — A. R. Spafford, former Librarian of Congress.

The entire collection is readable as well as reliable. I shall welcome with pleasure the remaining volume. — Edmund S. Joy, Newark, N. J.

Notices from the Press

Advance sheets indicate that this edition will take rank among the great biographical works of the world. — Baltimore Sun.

Without a plea pro or con, the best evidences attainable upon the life and work are presented in chronological order, in logical sequence, without the waste of a word and without expression of opinion. The reading public is the judge of the attainments of the person presented. — Boston Herald.

Its appearance is good and even impressive; the writing is correct and business-like, the proof-reading careful, the illustrations numerous; precedents have been followed but not slavishly. — New York Evening Post.

The series is invaluable as a book of reference and is destined to remain a standard authority on American Biography. — Boston Pilot.

It is a worthy contribution to the reference library of the Modern American citizen. — Philadelphia Record.

It will be welcomed by students and readers alike, and will undoubtedly find immediate place on the shelves of all up-to-date public and private libraries. — Boston Transcript.

As for accuracy we have tested it in Blaine, Bryant, Brooks, and Butler, and it has stood the test. — Boston Journal.

It promises to be a work of inestimable value to all readers, especially to busy editors, writers, and public speakers. — Baltimore American.

A valuable addition to any library. — Charlotte (N. C.) Observer.

The publishers or their editors profess a definite plan and they seem to have carried it out. A casual survey detects no painful marks of haste, looseness, or incongruity. — New York Nation.

The astonishing assertion is made by the publishers that at least three-fourths of the work is absolutely new as to facts, dates, and information, and what is still more to the point, this assertion seems to be fully sustained on a close examination of the work itself. — New York Christian Work.

Not the least merit of the present work is that it records facts and not opinions, and that, while it covers every figure of notable importance in the past it also treats men and women of contemporaneous moment. — New York Critic.

The biographies do not pretend to be more than a recital of facts, and in a work of reference this is usually enough. The facts are presented with great lucidity. — Providence Journal.

It is a pleasure to a Churchman to note that for once a biographical dictionary is edited with due regard to church phraseology, and to find that the lives of church worthies are given full recognition. — The Church Eclectic.

The new dictionary will occupy a leading place in the list of reference books and will be valuable to libraries, literary workers, editors, teachers, and students. — Indianapolis News.

The work shows judicious selection, careful interpretations and a well-balanced plan admirably carried out. The sketches are written with literary taste and judgment and great care has evidently been taken to give established facts and correct dates. — New York Herald.

This work is the latest in its field and possesses certain positive points of merit which are certain to be appreciated by everyone who uses a biographical dictionary. — Philadelphia Press.

Among the indispensable books of reference. If in our reading our attention is arrested by a name we turn to this biographical dictionary for information. — Syracuse Herald.

The biographies are well proportioned and there is no padding, only the most important names receiving articles of considerable length. — Springfield Republican.

It is a work that no well-equipped library can afford to be without, and indeed without this, no library is well equipped as to the latest biographical data. — The Christian Work.

A Biographical Dictionary

What It Is, and What It Is Not.

It is not a compilation of incident, anecdote, opinion, and detail of little or no historic value, such as might be properly included in a volume of memoirs; nor does it consist of flattering encomiums written to gratify the vanity of the persons mentioned.

It furnishes, in readable form, as briefly as possible, the essential facts about those citizens of the United States whose achievements make such information interesting to the general public, and necessary to the journalist, the historian, the publicist, and the man of affairs.

How the Fifteen Thousand Names were Secured.

Recourse was had to all published biographical cyclopedias; more than a million newspaper clippings were consulted and important facts noted; catalogues of college graduates, learned societies, etc., were carefully examined, and all important names, with notations indicating sources of information, were compiled into an enormous card catalogue. This catalogue was submitted to an advisory committee, who marked each card so that a consensus of opinion as to the importance of the person named could be determined at a glance, and the acceptance or rejection of subjects was largely decided upon by these marks.

The matter of portraits and illustrations was settled in a similar manner.

The governing principle in each case was as follows:—Has this person's career been such as to make the facts about him matters of public concern or popular interest? And would the public care to see how he looked? Whether the person himself would like to see his biography or his portrait in a work of this kind, was not considered. In other words, this Dictionary has been compiled with the interest of the reading public continually in mind, rather than the wishes of the persons mentioned.

How Accuracy Was Assured.

Every possible effort was made to secure accuracy in statements of fact, correctness and completeness in names, dates, titles, institutions, degrees conferred, books written, battles fought, inventions made, etc.

Sketches written from the fullest data available were sent to the subjects themselves, or to such relatives, friends, or descendants as were likely to be able to give them intelligent revision. Hundreds of historians, genealogists, and other persons, were called upon to supply facts or verify information gathered.

Notable Americans

The Cost of The Work.

Competent and scholarly men, commanding large salaries, have been engaged for years in the researches described above, while the enormous correspondence and the clerical work involved in assorting, compiling, condensing, harmonizing, and arranging the material secured almost surpasses belief. More than a hundred thousand dollars have been expended in producing the plates of this work, exclusive of the cost of manufacturing the volumes.

The result is a work without doubt superior in fullness, accuracy and timeliness to anything of the kind heretofore published.

Editor-in-Chief.

The proprietors of the work consider that they were singularly fortunate in enlisting the coöperation of Rossiter Johnson, Ph.D., LL.D., as Editor-in-Chief. Dr. Johnson's wide experience with earlier works of an encyclopedic character has made his name an authority among scholars wherever the English language is spoken.

Dr. Johnson's earliest encyclopedic work was upon the "American Cyclopædia," of which he was associate editor. In 1883 he became editor of "The Annual Cyclopædia" and later managing editor of "Appleton's Cyclopædia of American Biography." Shortly thereafter the "Standard Dictionary" was published and Dr. Johnson became associate editor of this work. He has also edited a large number of important anthological and historical publications, and is the author of many well-known books.

Critically Re-examined Prior to Publication.

In the latter part of 1903, the work being nearly ready for the press, it was determined by the editors that it should not be offered to the public until the entire work, the earlier portions more especially, had been submitted to a careful re-examination, in order that all portions of it might be made equally complete, accurate and up-to-date.

The Final Result.

As a result of this painstaking care, supplemented throughout by independent, critical examination, the publishers are enabled to offer a work that is in the strictest sense timely, and embracing all the current material out of which future American history will be made; for as has been truly said, "There is no history, only biography."

The man of to-day hardly needs to be reminded that a work of this character is beyond comparison with similar works of an earlier period, however authoritative they may have been in their day.

Notable Americans

Is the latest, most reliable, and only complete
Biographical Reference Work

Conceded Claims

- First.* It is the only alphabetically arranged American Biographical Cyclopædia, entirely prepared and written at a date later than 1887.
- Second.* It gives data down to 1904 and is not an old work with a few pages added or dates changed.
- Third.* It gives a distinct heading to every name and avoids the confusion of family groups in which important names are in small type.
- Fourth.* It gives facts and not opinions, and the sketches are written by the editors and not by the subjects themselves or by their personal or political friends.
- Fifth.* It is the only Biographical work in which the sketches are first written and then submitted to relatives and friends for correction and verification.

Sixth. It is the only work in which due regard is paid to contemporaneous men and women of national importance, never before given a place in a Biographical work.

Seventh. It is essentially up-to-date in every respect, and as an accurate, convenient and practical Biographical dictionary stands at the head of reference works and is indispensable to librarians, editors, teachers, and literary workers.

Eighth. It supplies the school library with a reliable text and reference book, and the family with a work that will daily be consulted. It is a dictionary to current literature, special care having been taken to make the bibliography complete and accurate.

Ninth. It will stand the test of honest criticism, as is shown by the notices voluntarily given by editors, educators, and statesmen.

Tenth. It is edited with entire freedom from favoritism. No name is given a place for pay and none is omitted that comes within the lines observed in the selection of subjects, unless the name has failed to come to the notice of the editors in time to secure alphabetical position.

Notable Americans

A Comparison with other Biographical Collections

THE new International, the latest and undoubtedly the best encyclopedia for general use in American families, claims to embrace a full biographical dictionary. We have carefully compared it with "Notable Americans," by taking Vol. XIV as an average volume. In this volume we find 180 American biographies common to both, but far more extended in "Notable Americans." We also find in this volume 37 names that had been omitted from the pages of "Notable Americans" as not of sufficient importance, and we fail to find in this volume 474 important names that appear in "Notable Americans." This average comparison carried through the seventeen volumes will make the International 8,058 names short as compared with "Notable Americans."

"Notable Americans" has a perfect alphabetical arrangement found in no other biographical work. In Appleton's, whole families are grouped under the name of the eldest representative, and his descendants follow according to generation and are distinguished only by type slightly larger than the ordinary text, and not by a distinctive headline in black-faced type, and many of the names are thus hard to find. In White's, alphabetical arrangement is entirely disregarded and the pleasure of the publishers determines the number of volumes and not alphabetical sequence.

"In Notable Americans," each sketch bears its distinctive name and in the volume that includes the distinguishing letters the name sought for will be found in its alphabetical place.

"Notable Americans" is brought down to date, and at least one-sixth of the contents of the work include new names that have not appeared in any general collection of biographies. This fact alone makes this new work invaluable and indispensable in any up-to-date library

Notable Americans

"Notable Americans" has been carefully and conscientiously edited and the articles that were prepared some years ago, when the work of editing began, have been revised and brought down to the close of 1903, before the work was printed in its complete ten-volume form, and no expense has been spared to correct the errors handed down in former biographical collections, and in every possible case the sketches have received the critical revision of some person competent, either by relationship or intimate knowledge, to make the article historically correct, and the genealogy (a feature found in no former work) complete, and in many cases exhaustive. Important Southern and Western families heretofore overlooked in similar works are now fully presented through the courteous co-operation of our correspondents.

Three-fourths of this work is new as to facts, dates, and general information, making necessary the complete rewriting of many biographies heretofore considered to have been correct, from the fact that they had not been changed for years and decades.

Dr. Joseph Newton Hallock, editor-in-chief and proprietor of Christian Work from 1880, confirms this statement in the following extract from an exhaustive review of the work published in his journal: — "The astonishing assertion is made by the publishers that at least three-fourths of the work is absolutely new as to facts, dates, and information, and what is still more to the point, this assertion seems to be fully sustained on a close examination of the work itself."

Dr. D. H. Cochran, Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, says: — "The work will be almost indispensable to every reference library."

space and returned in October, 1897, to advance the interests of exhibitors. He was married in 1869 to Sara Mathews of Virginia. He received the honorary degree of M.A. from Delaware College in 1882; was president of the Clover College in Philadelphia, for ten years and a contributor to the high class literary periodicals. He died at Augusta, Ga., Jan. 8, 1898.

HANNA, Bayless W., diplomatist, was born in Troy, Ohio, March 14, 1830. He removed with his parents to Crawfordsville, Ind., in 1836 and was a student at Wabash college, 1839-40. He studied law, and was admitted to the bar in Natchez, Miss., in 1855. He settled in practice at Crawfordsville, Ind., and was elected prosecuting attorney of Montgomery county in 1856. He removed to Terre Haute, Ind., in 1857, and was elected a representative in the state legislature as a Democrat in 1862, a state senator in 1864, and attorney-general of the state in 1870. He was delegate-at-large from Indiana to the Democratic national conventions of 1872, 1876, 1880 and 1884, and was chairman of the committee on permanent organization in the convention of 1870. He was presidential elector at large in 1872 and 1884, and was appointed U.S. envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the Argentine Republic, by President Cleveland in 1885. He died at Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 2, 1891.

HANNA, Marcus A., educator, was born in New Lisbon, Ohio, Sept. 24, 1827. He was a direct descendant from Thomas Hanna, who immigrated from the north of Ireland in 1764, and settled in southern Pennsylvania, some of his descendants living in Virginia.

Benjamin Hanna was born in Lynchburg, Va., June 14, 1779, and removed in 1802 to Columbiana county, Ohio, where Leonard Hanna was born March 4, 1806, and after practicing medicine for many years engaged with his father in conducting a country store. He removed to Cleveland in 1852, where he engaged in the wholesale grocery business and died in 1862. Marcus Alonzo was educated in the public schools of Cleveland and at Western Reserve college, and in 1837 became a clerk in his father's store, succeeding to the business in 1862. He enlisted for four months in the volunteer army. In 1864 he was married to

C. Augusta Rhodes of Cleveland, Ohio. In 1867 he became a member of the firm of Rhodes & Co., which firm was later succeeded by M. A. Hanna & Co. His business extensively operated from furnaces and mines. In 1884 he was a delegate to the Republican national convention at Chicago, and he went to the national conventions of 1888 and 1896.

He was the champion of William McKinley, and on his nomination Mr. Hanna was chairman of the Republican national committee and conducted the campaign of 1896. In March, 1897, he was appointed U.S. senator to succeed John Sherman, who became President McKinley's secretary of state, and on the assembling of the Ohio state legislature he was elected his own successor, his term expiring March 4, 1905. On Dec. 17, 1901, he was appointed one of twelve prominent citizens to represent capital on the board of arbitration of the Industrial Department of the National Civic Federation. He died in Washington, D.C., Feb. 15, 1904.

HANNA, Robert, senator, was born in Laurens district, S.C., April 6, 1786. About 1802 he removed to Brookfield, Ind., and served as sheriff of the eastern district of that territory, 1806-16.

When the state government was organized in 1816, he was a delegate to the state constitutional convention and took an active part in its public affairs for many years, serving at different times as register of the land office, as a representative in the state legislature and as general of militia in 1835. He died at Brookfield, Ind. He was appointed by Governor Noble, U.S. senator, and served in the 23d congress from Dec. 5, 1831, till Jan. 3, 1833, when John Lipton, elected by the state legislature, took his seat. While walking on the railroad track he was struck by a locomotive and killed at Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 19, 1838.

HANNA, William Brantley, jurist, was born in Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 23, 1835; son of John and Clementina Lloyd (Stephens) Hanna, and grand-son of John Hanna, who came from the north of Ireland about 1780; and of the Rev. Joseph Stephens, pastor of the Baptist church, Upper Freehold, N.J., 1789-95. He was graduated at the Central high school of his native city in 1853, and from the University of Pennsylvania, LL.B., in 1857. He studied and practised in the office of his father in Philadelphia, being admitted to the bar in 1857. He was assistant to District Attorney W. B. Mann, a member of the common council, 1868 and 1871, and of the select council, 1871-74. He was a member of the state convention that framed the constitution of 1874; a judge of the newly created Orphans' court, 1874-78, and was made presiding judge in 1878. He was made a member of the Friendly sons of St. Patrick, St. Andrew's Scotch-Irish, Horticultural, Humane

From Letters to the Editors

It far surpasses anything of the kind heretofore attempted in this country. — Hon. Rasmus B. Anderson.

It is the best working cyclopedia of biography I have seen. — B. R. Cowen, U. S. Circuit Court, Cincinnati, O.

I feel you are doing a noble public service in placing within our reach many worthy lives and examples which otherwise would be lost. — Augustine Jones, Providence, R. I.

It is fully up to date in everything that goes toward making a valuable work of reference of a natural character. — Judge H. P. Biddle, Logansport, Ind.

I am particularly struck with the expert skill exhibited in bringing into so brief a space the real essentials of biography. — Dr. S. A. Forbes, Illinois State Laboratory.

The subjects have been gathered together with sound judgment and treated in an excellent manner. — Dr. R. T. Durrett, Louisville, Ky.

Your work, built upon such generous and accurate lines, I find both interesting and valuable. — Bishop L. W. Burton, Lexington, Ky.

It is comprehensive, accurate, just full enough for a busy reader. — Kemp P. Battle, LL.D., Raleigh, N. C.

It is an admirable work, I am pleased with it. — Bishop Thomas W. Bowman, Evanston, Ill.

It is the biographical work to which I refer for the latest information, and is the one most used in this library. — Dr. Samuel A. Green, Massachusetts Historical Society.

I have been struck with the precision and accuracy of your work. — Rev. Selden J. Coffin, Lafayette College.

Its literary execution indicates painstaking research and accuracy. — Col. J. Stoddard Johnston, Louisville, Ky.

I find your work more extensive than any similar production in this country. The sketches are admirably edited. You have given your work a permanent place in history. — William A. Ellis, A. M., Norwich University, Vt.

Careful and accurate, I find many names here which I cannot find elsewhere. — Rev. Edward Everett Hale.

The work seems to me admirably done, the facts carefully collected and stated fully and yet concisely. — Hon. John Hay, Secretary of State.

I like your work because of its bright, crisp, thoroughly informing and not too lengthy articles. — William Elliot Griffith, D.D., L.H.D.

I have found its information to be well selected and satisfactory. — William T. Harris, Ph.D., LL.D., United States Commissioner of Education.

It is a work which cannot be too highly commended. — Gen. Marcus J. Wright, Washington, D. C.

It is as correct in statement as thoroughness of endeavor and careful revision before publication could accomplish. — Admiral George E. Belknap, U.S.N.

Concise, substantial and well-proportioned narration. — Dr. John Bascom, Williamstown, Mass.

The book is unique and the more I see of it the better I like it. — Rev. Frederick R. Marvin, Albany, N. Y.

It is a pleasure to express my appreciation of its great accuracy and value. — C. B. Tillinghast, Massachusetts State Library.

We value it especially because it is up to date and furnishes information not given in any other of our reference books. — F. M. Cruden, St. Louis Public Library.

One of the most valuable reference books recently added to the Athenaeum. — J. L. Harris, Providence, R. I.

The sketches do not appear to me to be unduly brief. The scheme on which they are written is a true one, being a brief narration of duly accredited facts only, expressed in definitive terms. — William R. Cutter, A.M., Woburn Public Library.

An admirable work both as regards the character and arrangement of its matter and its general typographical excellence. — E. C. Burleigh, Ex-Governor of Maine.

Its general excellence, its special excellences, make it indispensable to all public libraries and to private libraries by the thousands all over the land. — W. C. Winslow, Ph.D., D.C.L., LL.D., Boston.

Remarkable for its candor and truthfulness. — Dr. W. H. Eagle, State Librarian, Harrisburg, Pa.

It is better than you promised. — Hon. O. L. Spaulding, U. S. Treasury, Washington, D. C.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH-CABLE COMPANY, (INCORPORATED)

transmits and delivers the within message subject to the following
TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

To guard against mistakes or delays, the sender of a message should order it REPEATED; that is, telegraphed back to the originating office for comparison. For this, one-half the regular rate is charged in addition. It is agreed between the sender of the message written on the face hereof and the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company, that said Company shall not be liable for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery, of any UNREPEATED message, beyond the amount received for sending the same; nor for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery, of any REPEATED message beyond fifty times the sum received for sending the same, unless specially insured, nor in any case for delays arising from unavoidable interruption in the working of its lines, or for errors in cipher or obscure messages. And this Company is hereby made the agent of the sender, without liability, to forward any message over the lines of any other Company when necessary to reach its destination.

Correctness in the transmission of messages to any point on the lines of the Company can be INSURED by contract in writing, stating agreed amount of risk, and payment of premium thereon, at the following rates, in addition to the usual charge for repeated messages, viz: one per cent. for any distance not exceeding 1,000 miles, and two per cent. for any greater distance.

No responsibility regarding messages attaches to this Company until the same are presented and accepted at one of its transmitting offices; and if a message is sent to such office by one of this Company's messengers, he acts for that purpose as the agent of the sender.

Messages will be delivered free within the established free delivery limits of the terminal office. For delivery at a greater distance a special charge will be made to cover the cost of such delivery.

This Company will not be liable for damages or statutory penalties in any case where the claim is not presented in writing within sixty days after the message is filed with the Company for transmission.

This is an UNREPEATED Message and is delivered by request of the sender under the conditions named above. Errors can be guarded against only by repeating a message back to the sending station for comparison.

No employee of this Company is authorized to vary the foregoing.

Editor of the College Journal,

My Dear Sir:-

We take pleasure in sending you a copy of our new College Song book which I hope will interest you. It contains a Collection of most of the old songs which are familiar to college boys both of the present and of the past generations. The songs have been written in four parts and hence the book is better adapted to college use than other editions.

I will be greatly obliged if you will give this book a notice in the next issue of your journal. The publisher, your humble servant, is the manager of one of the oldest teachers agencies in the United States. We desire to secure the names of the post graduates preparing for teaching and also the names and addresss of about fifteen or twenty of the best members of the senior class who contemplate teaching. In return for this, if you can send them or find some one who will favor us, I shall be glad to send free of charge five copies of the College Song Book. I hope this proposition will meet with your favor. Will you kindly send me the name of the book store which has the largest student patronage.

Thanking you for the favor and hoping the College - Song Book will please you, I am,

Yours sincerely,

Orville Brewer

Gentlemen;-

In making an investigating the title to a tract of land in this (Trimble) County I find that there has been willed to the School of Midway the sum of $250.00 and the will specifies that to the boys of the state of Ky., the sum of $250.00 in the will it provides that the sum of $500. shall be divided between two schools while it does not specify that ~~xx x~~ it is the Ky State College I have all reason to believe that it is the intention of the will to convey to your school the said sum. The will specifies that the said amount of $500. is to be divided between two institutions of Ky, and that the party to whom the land had been conveyed in the will is to pay said sum to the two institutions. There is no record here that shows that your school has ever received this sum of money and if you desire I will investigate the matter futher and inform you., as to the whole matter. My clients want this matter satisfied before they close the deal for the land and will be pleased to hear from you at once. If you decide to make an investigation of this matter would like to take the matter up for you while I do not mean to solicit the work spoken of I would like to have the consideration of the School for furnishing the information for the land is valuable and I believe that the money can be collected without much trouble. The will is old and has never been paid any attention to or noticed by any one. If you desire to take this matter up w uld be glad to hear from you and if you do not care to look after it please send my a writings releasing any and all claim your school has in the property.

yours very truly,

P.S.

I have written to the Midway school and expect to hear from them in a short time. Will say that unless we succeed in recovering your money or making a satisfactory compromise there will be no charge.

A Few Comments

I constantly use the work and constantly recommend it to others. It is worth many times the price to any busy man.—Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Author.

1907

"Who's Who in America" has proved one of the most useful and satisfactory of our desk reference books the past year.—W. T. Harris, U. S. Commissioner of Education.

I find the book remarkably convenient, comprehensive and accurate.—Dr. D. C. Gilman, ex-President Carnegie Institution and of Johns Hopkins University.

I congratulate you on the immense success of "Who's Who in America." No book is more absolutely essential to the wide-awake man.—Edwin A. Grosvenor, Professor of Modern Governments, Amherst College.

The most useful book, next to a good English dictionary, that it has been my fortune to see. It is a marvel of condensation and convenience.—Dr. W. J. McGee, Ethnologist, Washington, D. C.

It is with positive satisfaction that we place the book on our reference shelves, from which it will be taken for use daily, and often many times in the day.—The Outlook.

One of the most, probably the most, indispensable of reference books of its kind ever published. We welcome the new revised and enlarged edition which has just been published.—Public Opinion.

Indispensable to those who aim to keep informed on American personalities. It is a work of exceptional value for reference.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

It is more than a valuable adjunct to every library and a necessity to every one who wishes to have the name and history of men of letters and fame at finger ends.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The great value of "Who's Who in America" is recognized by every one who has to deal with public men or public affairs.—David Starr Jordan, President, Leland Stanford Junior University.

For 1906-1907

HO'S WHO IN AMERICA was first published in 1899, and received the unqualified approval of scholars and critics, who hailed it as the one thing needful in biographical literature. Its usefulness was instantly recognized by all who aim to keep abreast of the times, and it has steadily grown in popularity until its circulation is now world-wide. Everywhere the book is regarded as a standard authority. It is in general use in colleges and universities, in libraries and editorial rooms, and in thousands of homes and offices.

Two years later, 1901, a revised edition was printed; a third biennial edition was issued about January 1, 1903, and the fourth biennial edition is now in course of preparation.

This new edition (for 1906-1907) will, of course, supersede and superannuate the earlier issues for all up-to-date use. The 1903-1905 edition contains nearly 8,000 more names than were in the first (1899-1901), and nearly 4,000 more than were in the edition for 1901-1902, notwithstanding the fact that over 1,800 names were dropped since the earlier editions were published—1,100 on account of deaths and the remainder for other reasons.

The work is again undergoing the thorough revision made necessary by the fleet of time, and the new 1906-1907 edition will bring the information down to the date of issue. There will be a large increase in the number of names, all removals and changes of addresses will be noted, and numerous other improvements will be made.

As nearly as possible the new volume contains the life-history—brief, crisp and to the point—of every living American, no matter where his present place of habitation, who has done something or is doing something to make for progress and advancement in any line of useful effort—the living men and women whose achievements have made them of public interest.

The price of the new edition, complete in one compact, handy volume, is $3.50. The book will contain about 2,000 pages and will be substantially bound in cloth.

Search for Information Made Easy

WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA has made easy and pleasant what was, prior to its first appearance, practically an impossible task. No other book has ever attempted, in any comprehensive way, to furnish like information about living American people whose doings are of general interest. Valuable and excellent works of individual and collected biography are plentiful. The distinguished dead are embalmed in thousands of volumes; some of the living who gained their prominence a decade or two ago are mentioned in biographical dictionaries. But the living and active men and women interest us most. The people who are making the history, the laws, the progress, the art and literature of our day and Nation—the men of the hour have only one adequate and complete representation and that is in the pages of "Who's Who in America."

What it is Like "Who's Who in America" is purely a book of reference. It wastes no words; but records in a direct, crisp, comprehensive style of statement the essential facts; the name, date and place of birth, parentage, education, training, marriage, principal deeds, achievements, product and results of each life, present position and honors, latest post-office address. No word of editorial comment or criticism, praise or condemnation, adulation or detraction burdens these sketches. It deals in facts and not opinions.

Not a Society "Blue Book" The work is not a society "blue book," nor mere epitome of "first families," but aims to include all those who have accomplished some result, achieved some end or acquired some position which makes them objects of interest and inquiry.

Alone in its Field In this volume is to be found more information in regard to leading contemporary Americans than could be obtained in the largest library. A very large proportion of the names in the book—and many of the best known of them—would be looked for in vain in the biographical shelves of any public library. The labor in gathering the mass of material which has been condensed in this volume has been herculean—the result is monumental.

What it Says is So "Who's Who in America" is accurate and authentic. Where its dates and facts differ from other accounts the reader can safely depend on this book. Every personal sketch has been submitted for the personal verification and approval of the subject sketched and in nearly every instance such verification and approval have been accorded. Only in a very few cases, where information has been denied and withheld after repeated requests, have the facts been procured from other sources.

Its Directory Feature Its directory feature alone makes "Who's Who in America" indispensable to thousands. It enables them not only to identify but also to locate foremost Americans in every field of usefulness. Those interested in any profession or any branch of science or art will appreciate the value of a biographical dictionary which is at the same time a handy directory of those most distinguished in the lines in which they are interested. No other work has ever attempted the difficult task of finding and furnishing the address of leading Americans in all parts of the world.

Who are In It and Out of It The list of names represented has been selected with the most scrupulous care. Not one man or woman is mentioned in the volume from any other motive than a recognition of fitness. Not one sketch in the book has been or could be paid for. Omissions may be found of names which should appear, and a few names may be treated which are inappropriately there—for infallibility is not claimable. The effort, however, has been to include all who are of more than local prominence in their respective lines of effort.

The Wide Field Covered Another important feature is the comprehensiveness of its range. Here is a grand review, not on dress parade, but in their accustomed garb, of a galaxy of the foremost Americans who are active as statesmen, scientists, authors, artists, educators, clergymen, lawyers, physicians, engineers, poets, litterateurs, librarians, historians, farmers, architects, reformers, labor leaders, musicians, actors, editors, merchants, manufacturers, lecturers, public speakers, sculptors, engravers, soldiers, public officials, inventors, financiers, business men, and in fact, people of worth and note in all branches of usefulness.

In the Home and Family This book fills a place in the home and family as important, and should be as frequently consulted, as a first-class dictionary of the English language. Every parent of bright children has often been and is constantly asked for information such as this book fully supplies; and both parents and children find it a most valuable addition to the family book-shelf.

Editors and Literary Workers The editor, writer and literary worker at once recognizes the value of the book. Here are thousands of names which are constantly appearing in the public prints, often in such a way as to make biographical mention of them most desirable. Here is a book which opens to the newspaper man a vast field of copy possibilities. No book extant can be of greater utility in a newspaper office or editorial room.

Colleges and Schools Colleges and schools find this book very useful as a corollary to all the studies pursued by them. The large number of names of active scientists, educators, authors and others whose lives illustrate action and success in every branch of scholastic effort, make the book a necessity to every school and college library and a valuable aid to every student. The book is especially strong in the completeness of its representation of scientific and educational names.

In the Office and Counting Room In the office and counting room the work will be found valuable for daily reference. The merchant and business man find in it much information of value in regard to foremost Americans in every field. To many the fact that the address is appended suggest special usefulness. No other book furnishes the addresses of leading Americans in every part of the world. The list is a select one for many business purposes. The lawyer finds information in regard to jurists and practitioners which is of much use to him, while the physician sees in the book a treasury of valuable facts in regard to those who have become eminent in the medical world.

All Librarians Should Possess It The library especially needs the book. No information is more frequently sought at a public or reference library than that of a biographical character. No biographical information is more in demand than that relating to notable living Americans. "Who's Who in America" covers this demand more effectively than all the books of American biography contained in any one American library put together. It is indispensable. It should—in fact it has already—find its way to the shelves of nearly every public and institutional library in America; and libraries abroad which have any claim to completeness in biographical selection also possess it.

For Newspaper Readers The newspaper reader (and that means every adult American) needs this book. Every issue of every daily paper, every magazine, contains the names of people about whom the reader desires to know some particulars. Here they are in a shape which does not take much of the seeker's time, but still comprising every element of completeness and reliability.

CABLE ADDRESS: MARQUIS, CHICAGO

Mr. James H. Callison

DEAR SIR:

The enclosed clipping is from the last edition of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA (1903-1905). Please read it carefully, making such corrections and additions as may be necessary to bring the sketch down to date.

We are striving, by every legitimate means, to make each successive edition of this work more complete, and therefore more useful, than any previous issue, the aim being, always, to secure as nearly absolute accuracy as possible.

The thorough revision which the book is now undergoing will, we believe, make the 1906-7 issue more deserving of confidence and patronage than any of its predecessors. Many new names will be added, names no longer deemed important will be dropped, and numerous other improvements will be made.

That WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA is now firmly intrenched as an indispensable reference book to all who read, write, think, and do things, is a well recognized fact; and notwithstanding the great expense and the enormous amount of labor required to maintain its high standard, the price is kept at the low figure of $3.50 per copy to those who send in their orders in advance of publication,—quite within reach of all once in every two years.

We beg, therefore, that you will indicate the number of copies desired of the edition for 1906-1907, in order that we may be enabled to place a proper limit to the size of the edition.

Also please return the sketch at once, even if correction or addition be not necessary.

Very truly yours,

A. N. Marquis Co.

P. S.—Suggestions of names for insertion in WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA, or any improvements calculated to increase the usefulness of the book, will be thankfully received.

* * * * *

Notwithstanding the fact that the value of each edition of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA for up-to-date reference in regard to the living notables of the country is entirely supplanted by the succeeding new edition, the old volumes gain, year by year, in historical and reminiscent usefulness. The latest volume will, of course, always present the living with such increased completeness as to be indispensable for daily reference, yet the old editions become more and more valuable as records of those who have died, many of which it would be difficult, if not impossible, to find elsewhere. This fact is meeting with wide recognition, so that public, institutional and private libraries are keeping the old volumes as a series of the utmost value for presenting, with a completeness nowhere else attainable, the biographical history of the United States and all its varied interests and activities.

It is essential that the sketch be returned even if no corrections are necessary. Please do so.

No. 126.

ASSISTANT. PHILIPPINE SERVICE. MARCH 1-2, 1905.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination on March 1-2, 1905, at the places mentioned in the accompanying list, to secure eligibles from which to make certification to fill a large number of positions in the grades of clerk and teacher in the Philippines.

As a result of this examination it is desired to secure 140 college graduates, including 20 polytechnic and 20 agricultural, at a salary of $1,200 per annum, and 60 normal school graduates at a salary of $1,000 per annum. Many of the appointees will be required in the position of teacher, while some will be required in the various clerical and administrative offices in the islands. Excellent opportunities for promotion are afforded for well-qualified appointees. For positions requiring college graduates students who graduate in 1905 will be acceptable.

Women will not be admitted to this examination, except that the wives, immediate relatives, or fiancées of men examined at the same time for, appointed to, or already employed in the Philippine Service may be examined; and if they pass, they will be preferred in appointments, provided the men through whom examination is allowed have been selected. Each of such applicants should state definitely in her application the name, address, and relationship of the person through whom examination is claimed, in order that there may be no delay in certification when the rating of the papers is considered.

The time allowed for this examination is two days of seven hours each. The first three subjects will be given on the first day, and the remaining subjects on the second day.

Age limit, 18 to 40 years on the date of the examination.

Each applicant will be required to take the eight subjects mentioned below as a preliminary to the optional subjects.

The examination will consist of the subjects mentioned below, weighted as indicated:

No.	Subjects.	Weights.	Maximum ratings.
1.	Thesis (500 words to be written on one of two topics given).....	4	400
2.	Correction of rough-draft manuscript (250 words).....	3	300
3.	Mathematics (arithmetic, algebra, including quadratics, and plane geometry).....	3	300
4.	History and civil government of the United States.....	3	300
5.	General history and geography.....	2	200
6.	Colonial government and administration (general questions).....	2	200
7.	Political economy (general principles).....	1	100
8.	Education and experience.....	2	200
Total ratings.....			2,000

The figures opposite each subject indicate (1) the relative value of and (2) the credit that will be given as a maximum rating on the subject in the examination.

OPTIONAL EXAMINATIONS.

Each competitor in the assistant examination may also take any one or more of the optional subjects mentioned below. These optional examinations contemplate a general knowledge of the subjects on the part of competitors, rather than thorough professional knowledge and training. The figures opposite each of these optional subjects indicate the additional credit that will be given for a maximum rating on the subject. Three hours will be allowed in the examination on each subject.

Each competitor must state, in answer to question 1 of his application, the optional subjects in which he desires examination.

No.	Subjects.	Weights.	Maximum ratings.
1.	Agriculture.....	1	100
2.	Bookkeeping (tests in journalizing and making a balance sheet).....	1	100
3.	Chemistry.....	1	100
4.	Botany.....	1	100
5.	Civil engineering.....	1	100
6.	Educational methods.....	1	100
7.	Finance.....	1	100
8.	Forestry.....	1	100
9.	Geology.....	1	100
10.	Law (general).....	1	100
11.	Law (international).....	1	100
12.	Law (Spanish).....	1	100
13.	Laws (mining) of the United States.....	1	100
14.	Laws (land) of the United States.....	1	100
15.	Language (Spanish).....	1	100
16.	Mineralogy.....	1	100
17.	Higher mathematics, up to and including calculus.....	1	100
18.	Physics.....	1	100
19.	Mining engineering.....	1	100
20.	Mechanical engineering.....	1	100
21.	Electrical engineering.....	1	100
22.	Theory and practice of statistics.....	1	100
Total ratings.....			2,000

The rating of a competitor on each regular or optional subject will be in proportion to the correctness of the work done, based upon the maximum rating indicated opposite the subject for perfect work. It will be observed that the total ratings that may be obtained in the regular examination are 2,000. A competitor will not receive any credit for work done on any optional subject unless his total ratings in the regular examination are 1,400 or more and 70 or more on such optional subject. The credits received by him in the optional subjects simply tend to increase his prospects of appointment. It is not expected that any one competitor will be found proficient in all of these branches, the aim in providing a variety of optional subjects in addition to the regular subjects being to enable the board to secure eligibles with such special qualifications as may be needed to meet the demands of the service. In making requisitions for certifications of eligibles, appointing officers may call for the highest three names as a result of examination in the regular and optional subjects combined; but should the needs of the service so require, as may frequently happen, requisition may be made for a certification of those standing highest on one or more of the optional subjects, and who have also passed the regular examination. For instance, if a vacancy should occur in the engineer department, requiring a knowledge of civil engineering, or in the forestry bureaus, requiring a knowledge of forestry, or in the Bureau of Statistics, requiring a knowledge of statistics, a requisition would probably be made for eligibles who have shown the most proficiency in these subjects and who have also passed the regular examination.

The object of the assistant examination is to provide a method of entrance to the Philippine civil service for honest, energetic, and well-educated persons who are entitled to be examined under the law. Eligibles thus secured will be appointed as the needs of the service require. After appointment they will be attached to one of the departments or offices and will be assigned to such duty, clerical or otherwise, as may be deemed advisable.

Those appointed from the assistant examination will be preferred in promotions to the higher administrative offices unless it should appear that employees who have not passed this examination possess exceptional or technical qualifications, required in the positions to be filled by promotions, which are not possessed by any of those who have entered the service through the examination mentioned. It will thus be seen that through faithfulness, efficiency, and an honest discharge of duties, assistants have a fair opportunity, as the conditions of the service permit, to be advanced to the higher administrative positions.

The medical certificate in Form 2 must be filled in by some medical officer in the service of the United States. Special arrangements have been made with pension examining boards throughout the country to give such examination for a fee of $2, to be paid by the applicant. If such boards can not be conveniently visited, applicants should appear before medical officers of the Army, Navy, or Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service. The examining physician must show his official designation.

Each applicant for the Philippine Service will be required to submit to the examiner, on the day he is examined, a photograph of himself, taken within three years, which will be filed with his examination papers, as a means of identification in case he receives appointment. An unmounted photograph is preferred. The date, place, and kind of examination, the examination number, the competitor's name, and the year in which the photograph was taken should be indicated on the photograph.

This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who comply with the requirements. Applicants should at once apply either to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or to the secretary of the board of examiners at the places mentioned in the accompanying list, for application Forms 2 and 375. No application will be accepted unless properly executed and filed with the Commission at Washington. In applying for this examination the exact title as given at the head of this announcement should be used in the application.

As examination papers are shipped direct from the Commission to the places of examination, it is necessary that applications be received in ample time to arrange for the examination desired at the place indicated by the applicant. The Commission will therefore arrange to examine any applicant whose application is received in time to permit the shipment of the necessary papers.

Issued January 16, 1905.

Form No. 1237.
Nov., 1904.

United States Civil Service Commission, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The examination referred to in the accompanying newspaper announcement may be taken on the date mentioned therein at any of the places named below. No request will be granted for examination on any other date or at any other place. Application blanks may be secured from the secretary of the local board at any of the following-named places. At places marked "C. H.," applicants should apply at the custom-house; at other places application should be made at the post-office.

Dear Sir:-

Yours of 27th ultimo received, replying to my telegram concerning your stock. Your price, which is practically 2.25, as I understand it, is beyond the limit that I can pay. I have talked with one party to-day, who wants to make up a certain amount and for this reason authorizes me to bid 2.22 1/2 for your 17 shares of stock in this Bank. This offer will also apply to Mrs. Patterson's stock if you wish to include it. I can assure you that this is 2 ¢ higher than recent sales of stock and is offered for the reason mentioned. If accepted you may wire at my expense as I will look elsewhere if proposition is declined.

Very truly yours,

TELEPHONE, 1231-2 HAYMARKET

6 Beacon Street,

DEAR SIR:

The work described in the circular herewith enclosed contains biographical sketches of the persons named below, which will doubtless be of interest to you. Probably you furnished or verified the facts therein recorded.

This work was originally projected under the name of Lamb's "Biographical Dictionary," and the earlier volumes were compiled several years ago. It is only within a few months, however, that the work has been completed, and a few sets were printed for early subscribers under the old name. Before putting it upon the market, however, it was found necessary to make a thorough revision, especially of the older portions of the work, in order to bring them up to date. This was done very thoroughly by Rossiter Johnson, LL.D., and the work as now completed is issued in ten large handsome volumes, and constitutes the one and only comprehensive authoritative modern Cyclopaedia of American Biography.

We sell it through agents at $40.00 in cloth binding, $60.00 in half leather. Since the work has involved an expenditure of over $100,000.00, exclusive of the manufacture of the books themselves, this is a very moderate price.

But to those who have aided in its preparation, we have decided to make a special price, somewhat less than that which agents are obliged to charge. We therefore offer you the $40.00 set for $35.00, or the half-leather set at $50.00, if ordered directly from us within 30 days.

We shall be pleased to have you examine it before purchasing, and will therefore gladly send you a set on approval. If you like it, keep it. If not, we will take it away. If you do not find it convenient to pay for it at once, please state how and when it would suit you to do so. We can probably arrange to accommodate you within reasonable limits.

Kindly return the enclosed postal card so we may know that this matter has had your personal attention.

Yours truly,

THE BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY,

Dear Sir:--

We enclose with this our order blank and price list of Maple Goods and will be pleased to receive further orders from you. We now do a business in maple products throughout the year and endeavor to fill any order received promptly.

When an order specifies NEW GOODS it is necessary to wait until new goods are made before such orders can be filled.

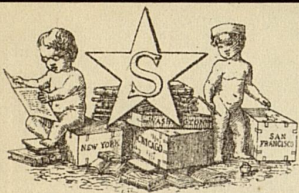

In the past the date on which we could begin to fill orders with new goods has varied from March 20 to April 15. Orders for new goods are filled in the order in which they are received. Therefore if new goods are desired as early as possible, it is advisable to have order entered early in the season. It will be noted that we have taken A BRICKS from our list. This grade of sugar will hereafter be furnished only in wood or tin packages. All orders are accepted with the understanding that they will be filled if suitable goods can be secured. We cannot guarantee the crop.

It will facilitate our work very much if persons ordering $10 or less will remit when sending order. When this is done 2 per cent. may be deducted from amount of bill. If for any reason orders cannot be filled money will be returned.

Consumers securing their goods of us have found it to their advantage to unite with friends and send orders large enough to get the advantage of minimum freight rates. It usually costs no more to send 150 pounds by freight than a less amount. We shall esteem it as a great favor if our customers can send us the name of some responsible person of their acquaintance who will take orders and deliver goods to consumers. We have several such persons in our employ who are doing a good business for themselves and for us. Thanking you for past patronage, we assure you that we will try to deserve your further favors.

Dear Sir:-

I did not intend to give you an option on my stock in the Union National Bank beyond a reasonable period. When you opened negotiations with me upon the subject of its purchase, in your letter of the date of March 3rd, you say, " Your price which is put at 225 as I understand it, is beyond the limit that I can pay". My reply to you was that I did not see any reason to recede from the price that I had ~~ordered named~~. In as much, therefore, as your letter conveyed the assurance that my price was beyond your limit, I naturally concluded that the negotiation was at an end. I think, upon reflection that you will see that my attitude and my conclusion were entirely justified by the correspondence which passed between us.

Yours truly,

Dear Sir:-

Are you a lover of good coffee? We are, and this department is one of our hobbies. Let us demonstrate to you that our coffees are the best that can be produced. You can not serve a good cup of coffee by accident, but if you use the right coffee and the right method of making it the result will be universal perfection. When you visit our store the attendant at the coffee booth can show you in one minute's time the best way to make coffee. No matter what price coffee you buy and how good the coffee may be, you can not have the best result, nor will the coffee be healthful and wholesome, if made the wrong way. It is no trouble to us to have our attendant demonstrate any price coffee at any time. We sell coffees at various prices to meet the wants and taste of all our friends. Once we secure a customer, always a customer.

Our coffees are always reliable and the flavor never changes. They will stand any cup test you may put them to. The best coffee is our "SWEET HICKORY" brands packed in one pound and three pound sealed cans. They are of the very highest cup standard.

We guarantee every pound of coffee we sell to give satisfaction in the cup, and to be the best drinking coffees at the price we charge that can be obtained in any market. Quality considered, we are the lowest price coffee house in the Ohio Valley.

Yours very truly,

The Gulf Coast Chautauqua Assembly will be in session here from July 1st to 16th. The management are sparing no effort to make the meeting a grand success, and will issue a handsome pamphlet of a hundred and fifty pages containing their programme and a limited number of advertisements, and will scatter five or eight thousand copies over Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky. This pamphlet will be an unusually good medium through which to reach thousands of parents and guardians who are seeking suitable schools or colleges in which to enter their children or wards, and we are confident you will find it to your interest to insert a full page ad therein. The space and terms are given in the enclosed prospectus. If you wish a picture to accompany the matter to be embraced in the ad, please send the cut therewith. We hope to go to press within two or three weeks. There is every reason to believe that a large crowd will be in attendance on the exercises of the Chautauqua, which will be varied and interesting, and we hope your Faculty and community will be well represented. Low rates will be offered on all the railroads.

A History of the United States and Its People

By ELROY McKENDREE AVERY

In Twelve Volumes. Illustrated. Cloth. Price, $6.25
net per volume.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY
CLEVELAND, OHIO

At last we have the promise of a history of the United States that shall be worthy of the republic—a history upon which the author has spent almost twenty years of tireless research and in which all mooted or doubtful facts have been submitted, and resubmitted to able critical authorities in history, in order that the first and most important requisite of any history—accuracy—may be insured.

The author, Dr. Elroy M. Avery, is a careful and painstaking scholar who happily possesses in more than ordinary degree the faculty of presenting his subject-matter in the best of English, and in an interesting manner. It was about twenty years ago that Dr. Avery was commissioned by The Burrows Brothers Company to prepare a history of the United States. At that time it was expected that the work would require eight years. Instead more than eighteen years were devoted by the author to its preparation before the first volume was put into press, and it will be four years before the twelfth or concluding volume will appear.

After the author began his work he realized as never before that if he was to prepare a history of this nation extending back to the earliest times of which we have any trace or record, and which should worthily present the fruits of the latest research, he must devote to it the best years of his life. Patiently, toilsomely and yet with the joy of the true scholar, he pursued his task, assisted at every turn by his publishers and a band of historical authorities who have been consulted on all dubious points. As a result, we are to have a genuine addition to our historical literature of which our people may well be proud.

Dr. Avery has succeeded in an eminent degree in writing an authoritative, and for purposes of the general reader a sufficiently comprehensive history in an interesting style. We incline to the belief that on the whole no treatment of the period of discovery has been more satisfactorily prepared. The topography, illustrations and make-up of the work also deserve the highest commendation. Rarely have illustrations been introduced with such judgment, while the numerous maps are admirable examples of the map-maker's art. If the succeeding volumes equal in excellence the present book, this history will be the best complete history of our country yet written.

THIS IS CATALOG NO. 58.
PLEASE READ

FIRST of all, don't hesitate to wire if you really want the books which follow; the number is all that is necessary, and the cost of so doing very slight.

The price (as in catalogs 48, 50 and 56) is so much per volume, not per set or collection, and the highest price used on any item is $1.50. Delivery extra in every instance, whether post, express or freight.

These rough lists are of interest not only to the general buyer, but to libraries and all who may be concerned with books, as they contain material which while good—in many instances standard—we do not wish on shelves as they are are not in our regular line, and we want room. It is impossible for us not to acquire these, however, buying extensively as we do. If you are interested in any particular line let us know; we are especially strong in Americana and first editions. Write us anyway.
