Fall Add/Drop offers long lines, fewer classes

By Brian Bennett
Senior Staff Writer

Long lines, few class options and frustration likely will greet students attending Add/Drop this week. Budget cuts have forced a reduction in the number of classes being offered and the number of people manning Add/Drop stations.

The University will not offer 120 classes in which fewer than five students had enrolled for this semester. Additionally, between 65 and 70 sections of other classes were cut, said Robert Hemenway, chancellor for the Lexington Campus.

The $11.5 million reduction in the state appropriation to UK's 1992-93 budget followed a $15.2 million budget reduction in the 1991-92 budget.

Hemenway said the cuts mean students will have fewer options when choosing classes.

"Where before you might have had a fairly broad range of courses that you could take, now you're going to have much less opportunity to pick and choose," Hemenway said.

Because of staff reductions, fewer advisers will be working more hours at Add/Drop. The reduced staffing coupled with the number of students forced to change their schedules because of the class cancellations has caused administrators to predict longer Add/Drop lines than usual.

"I think there will be some longer lines," Hemenway said. "I don't think it will be disastrous."

For frustrated students who stand in seemingly stagnant lines and can't get the classes they want at Add/Drop, University Registrar Randall Dahl said patience will be a necessity.

"I hope everyone understands the situation the University has, and I hope they'll exhibit the kind of patience that will help everyone minimize the adverse impact," Dahl said.

Hemenway said courses required for the University Studies Program or for graduation have been preserved.

"Students will be able to get the University Studies courses that they need to proceed towards graduation. That's been our priority," Hemenway said. "They won't have as many options as they did in the past, but I don't think there will be any student that will be impeded in their progress toward their degree."

Limits on the number of students in some classes have been raised to make room for students who were enrolled in the canceled sections, Dahl said. Only a few students are being added to classes, but the increase could have an impact on the quality of instruction, he said.

"The number of undergraduate class increases is relatively small but potentially significant," Dahl said.

Dahl said the process of canceling and adding classes is continuing daily. He said low-enrollment, special-interest courses are somewhat "vulnerable." Departments have been quicker this year to drop classes with small enrollments, he said.

Dahl said students enrolled in a class that was canceled by Aug. 14 were notified by letter. Students should check the class listings in this issue of the Kentucky Kernel for any later cancellations. He said it is rare that a class would be canceled after Add/Drop.

In addition to cancellations caused by low enrollment, some courses have been dropped because there is no one to teach them. About 75 vacant faculty positions will not be filled because of a hiring freeze, Hemenway said.

He said the loss of so many faculty members could hurt the quality of education offered by the University.

"Those are 75 people who have expertise that is not available to the students of the University," Hemenway said.

J. John Harris, dean of the College of Education, said individual colleges have to be more "fiscally prudent" because of the hiring freeze.

"It goes without saying that some of the faculty strength will be neutralized," he said. "We have to tighten the belt more and try to do more with less."

Douglas Boyd, dean of the College of Communications, said the inability to hire new faculty members leaves his college unable to offer certain courses.

"Because of the budget cuts, we're going to have fewer faculty with us, and, therefore, we are going to not have the courses taught by them that they normally teach," Boyd said. "There are some upper level courses that would have been offered had we been able to hire full-time faculty."

Boyd said required courses still will be offered. Some classes, like Communications 181: Basic Public Speaking, actually will have more sections this year thanks to teaching assistants supplied by the graduate student office. Upper-level interest courses bear the brunt of the effect, he said.

Tips make process less frustrating

Staff reports

As tanned UK students return from a leisurely summer of sun and surf, the long lines and frustration of the most confusing University processes lie in wait for them.

Add/Drop begins at 8 a.m. tomorrow — but not for everyone. From 8 to 10 a.m., graduate students and seniors may begin the Add/Drop process. Freshmen join them from 10 a.m. to noon; juniors, from 1 to 3 p.m.; sophomores, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.; and non-degree students, from 5 to 6 p.m.

Students who cannot begin at the appropriate time must report later. No one will be allowed to begin Add/Drop before the time assigned to his classification.

For Add/Drop, students should report to the same site where they registered for classes.

Tomorrow morning, Add/Drop for students who registered for classes in Patterson Office Tower will begin in White Hall Classroom Building.

After 5 p.m., the check-in station will be in the office tower.

Add/Drop continues on a first-come, first-served basis through Sept. 1.

To be eligible for Add/Drop, a student must have registered before Aug. 20 and must have paid the $50 advance fee.

And the student's record must not have any "stops" — like unpaid tuition, library fines or Wildlife Calling phone bills.

Students who registered for classes Aug. 20-24 may add additional classes beginning tomorrow.

Add/Drop Tips

• Add before you drop. If you drop a class and later want to add it again, you are not guaranteed re-entry.

• Know what classes you want to add or drop before being seated with a terminal operator.

• Get a printout of your new schedule and check it carefully. If you requested a class with an audit or pass/fail grading option, be sure that option appears on your printed schedule.

• Keep your printed schedule as proof of your Add/Drop transactions.

• Try again if you don't get the classes you want. Add/Drop continues until Sept. 1.

These students may not add classes Aug. 25.

Officials suggest that students take a pen or pencil, a schedule book and this issue of the Kentucky Kernel to the Add/Drop site to make the process a little easier.

Students must fill out Add/Drop worksheets before entering the line. Worksheets are available at all Add/Drop locations and in college deans' offices.

The worksheet must be filled out completely and correctly. If it is not, the student must return to the end of the line.

Once seated at computer terminals, students should add classes before dropping the ones they already have. Frequently, students drop classes then attempt to add them again a few minutes later — only to find the classes have been filled.

After students leave the terminals, they should pick up the computer printouts of their new schedules, checking them carefully to make sure all of their changes have been made.

If they requested audit or pass/fail grading options, students should check to make sure those options appear on their new schedules.

If the computer operator made any errors, the student should return to the operator immediately.

Students should keep their new schedules as proof of their Add/Drop transactions.

Students who don't get the classes they want on the first try should return to the Add/Drop location later for another attempt, officials said.

Students who only need to drop classes may go through the drop-only line in the classroom building.

However, if a student wants to withdraw from all his classes, he must go to 10 Funkhouser Building.

Students who need to add and drop should not enter the drop-only service area.

Students who misplace their printed schedules may obtain duplicate schedules in 10 Funkhouser Building from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

'Richie' makes good collector's item for fans

Richie
Richie Farmer
Antex Corporation
94 pages, $9.95

By John Kelly
Sports Editor

UK fans hungering for a candid, inside retelling of the 1991-92 Big Blue basketball fairy tale will have to starve a little longer.

Richie Farmer's recently released autobiography, "Richie," is just that, an autobiography (although even he admits it is a bit premature). Farmer reveals no eye-popping anecdotes regarding his UK career or the incredible senior season that led him to the Elite Eight in Philadelphia and that fateful Christian Lactner jumper.

What Farmer does offer is a collector's dream: 94 pages of fond reminiscing about his boyhood and storybook high school career, as well as maintaining the constant theme of his lifelong dream to wear the blue and white. The book is full of fun photos tracing Farmer from childhood to Senior Day at Rupp Arena earlier this year. And fans get a color poster to boot.

The book opens with a telling introduction from book editor Susan Nelson Carey and a touching foreword by none other than recently retired broadcaster Cawood Ledford.

"After spending many days with Richie Farmer, it is the opinion of this editor that in order for the reader to realize his multitude of accomplishments, I would have to be the one to tell about them," Carey writes. "Richie is in no way self-absorbed. He finds it extremely uncomfortable to even mention all of the awards and titles that have been placed upon him. He is very humble about his accomplishments, almost as if they were commonplace."

Carey follows by doing something that Farmer did not do in the text of his writing — listing each of Farmer's career accomplishments.

In his foreword, Ledford calls Farmer not only a basketball legend in the state, but a nice guy, too.

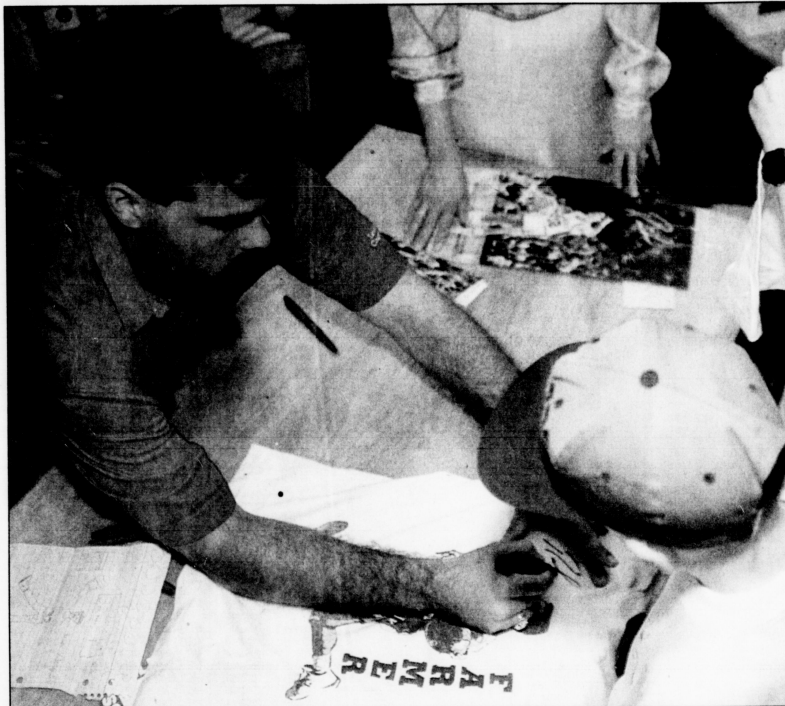

"The late Paul 'Bear' Bryant used to say that he couldn't define class but he knew it when he saw it. I do, too. And Richie embodies all that is good about college athletics."

What is interesting about the book is that most of the stories are about Farmer's personal life and how he aspired to the legendary figure that he is. The stories aren't all about basketball, and Farmer truly doesn't try to inflate himself. Many anecdotes are about fighting with his siblings, hunting and fishing with Clay County friends and playing ball in the backyard. Others show his maturity and love of people.

Still, throughout the book, he constantly returns to his lifelong dream. And there are a few remarks about Farmer's love affair with UK basketball.

Just one negative comment about the book. At $9.95 a copy — $14.95 if you purchase the special edition that has all of Farmer's quotes printed in blue ink — the book seems a little overpriced.

The book misleadingly is advertised at 94 pages — the oversized type and abundance of personal photographs make the actual reading more comparable to an extended magazine feature than a book. Reading time is only about 30 to 40 minutes.

UK senior Richie Farmer, who is completing the 18 hours he needs to receive his degree this fall, signed copies of his recently released autobiography at Joseph-Beth Booksellers Tuesday night. Promoters estimated that 500 fans turned out for the signing.

Cats confident after week of camp

By John Kelly
Sports Editor

The UK football team expects to go 8-0 in the Southeastern Conference this season.

That was senior place-kicker Doug Pelfrey's assessment of UK's chances this year when asked at last month's SEC Media Days in Birmingham, Ala.

Now, the returning players have been in training camp for a solid week, and not one is backing down from that bold statement.

"I knew he was going to do it, and I was all for it," sophomore quarterback Pookie Jones said. "We have to implant it in our heads that we are going to go 8-0. We can't say we're gonna go 6-2. You've already lost two games. You're selling yourself short."

That's exactly the kind of attitude that third year coach Bill Curry has pumped into his players the past three years.

"The most important building process that's going on here is not the defense or the offense or the system," Curry said. "It is the attitudinal growth. And there is something magic about the third year."

The Wildcats open the season Sept. 5 against non-conference foe Central Michigan before getting the first shot at proving their expectations true.

And that attempt won't be easy. The Cats open their SEC season on the road against defending conference champion Florida.

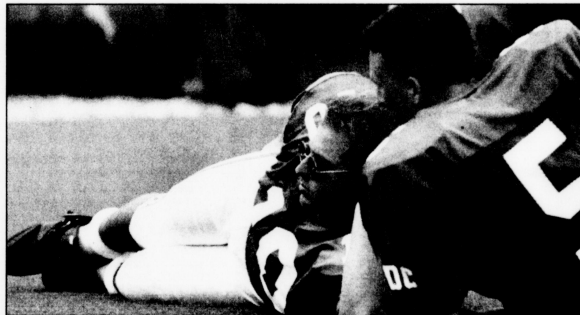

Asked whether the flip-flop that makes the Gators UK's first conference opponent is good or bad, Curry replied, "It just is."

"How do you like the weather? Whatever the weather is, we're gonna like it because there's not a thing we can do about it."

"What we told our team is that this is a national championship schedule."

The national championship schedule that includes five teams that went to bowls last year and four teams that are ranked in the preseason Top 25 this year.

A lot has taken place since the veterans reported to camp last week.

NOTES:
•Heralded high school running back Daymon Carter did not meet freshman academic requirements necessary for enrollment at UK and instead will enroll at a junior college in San Francisco.

Curry called it a "big blow" to lose Carter because he was "probably the best running back I've ever recruited."

•Pookie Jones still holds tightly to the starting quarterback job, and, Curry said, Jones has worked hard to catch up on what he missed during the spring, when he was playing for the UK baseball team.

Unless senior Ryan Hockman beats Jones out, Curry said, Jones will start against Central Michigan.

•The Wildcats may boast the strongest man in college football this season in offensive lineman Jody Matthews, who bench-pressed 585 pounds during weight training, earning himself a mention in The Sporting News.

•The new UK offensive has been described so far as only a triple-option attack offense.

Actual details regarding the offense still are sketchy — because

Curry has continued the practice of locking the media out of fall drills as he did during the spring workouts.

Media members may visit for only the first 30 minutes of practice.

As for fans seeing the new offense, Curry said the team will use a limited part of the new scheme in the opener against Central Michigan and a more complete version against Florida.

Eastwood serves justice, pours whiskey in film

Unforgiven
Starring Clint Eastwood
Warner Bros.

By Dave Lavender
Arts Editor

Clint Eastwood's scarred, cracked leather saddlebag of a face is looking ancient in Unforgiven, his first Western since Pale Rider.

It's been 11 years since William Munny, a Kansas pig farmer, has picked up a Colt for killing. But Mrs. Munny, who changed his ways, is dead, and Munny is burdened by two children and the fact that he is about as much a pig farmer as Michael Jackson is a Hell's Angel.

A wild-eyed greenhorn, The Schofield Kid (Jaimz Woolvett), offers Munny half a bounty for two men who hacked up a prostitute (Delilah, played by Anna Thompson) in Big Whiskey.

Delilah's friends, led by madam Strawberry Alice (Frances Fisher), put up the bounty when sheriff Little Bill Daggett (Gene Hackman) barely punishes the men. While the near-sighted Schofield Kid and Munny join forces with Ned Logan (Morgan Freeman), English Bob (Richard Harris) and W.W. Beauchamp (Saul Rubinek), the writer of Bob's biography, come into town pistols waving, despite Big Whiskey's no firearm ordinance.

Little Bill kicks the dickens out of English Bob. Jeering bleeding Bob in his cell, Daggett reads Beauchamp's highly fictional book "Duke of Doom," and refers to Bob as the "Duck of Doom."

Munny, whose biggest fight is with his conscience and depleting accuracy, struggles with his past sins throughout saying, "I ain't that way anymore."

In Eastwood westerns, this can be drawn. When squinting Clint comes walking through town, all hell breaks loose.

Unforgiven is no exception, except that all hell breaks loose on Munny and the rusty big iron on his hip. Daggett literally kicks a crawling Clint out of the bar, as Eastwood probably moaned, "That's all right, mister. I'm the director of this here picture, and I'll be back in a few scenes to wallop you."

Logan, a farmer long removed from an outlaw's saddle, can't pull the trigger on the first boy and Munny has to take him out. Despite all his bragging, the Schofield Kid kills his first man. The Kid breaks down. Munny knows there is no turning back. Taking a swig of the bottle, he says, "Kid, everybody's got it coming to them."

Munny goes to the bar where Daggett places Logan's body, to show what happens to criminals in Big Whiskey.

Munny finds the saloon owner, lets his double-barrel do the talking, then delivers the movie's best line. When Beauchamp says, "You shot an unarmed man," Munny squints, replying, "He should have armed himself." Munny pours a drink and heads home.

Although Unforgiven doesn't glorify the kindred human spirit, the audience can forgive Eastwood for producing a lengthy 130-minute picture. (If you can't, you tell him it was too long.) After watching this Eastwood masterpiece, you leave the theatre satisfied, knowing the whiskey was poured and justice was served.

Unforgiven, rated R, is showing at Loews North and South Park, Cinemark's Man O' War 8 and Skyvue Twin Drive-in Theatres.

What About Bobb?

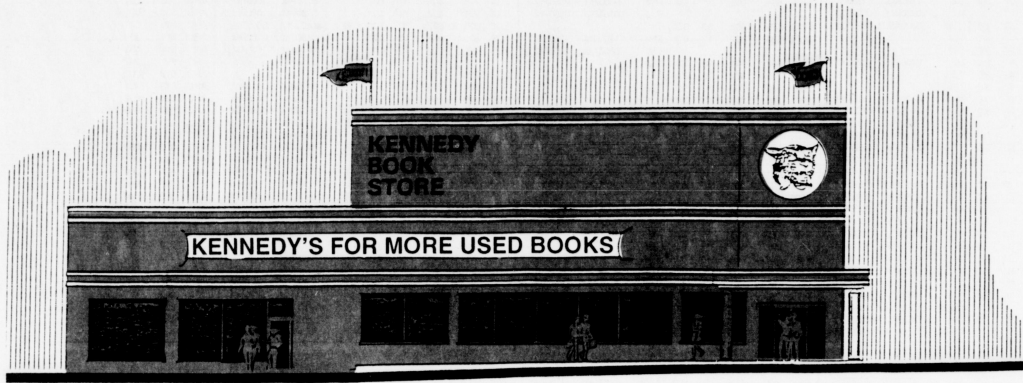

FACT: Today abortion is a safe, simple procedure.

At EMW Women's Clinic we know that one of your primary concerns with having an abortion is safety.

That's why we wanted you to know that a first trimester abortion is one of the safest surgical procedures performed in America today. As safe as a penicillin shot. Safer than a tonsillectomy. And four times safer than childbirth.

Student Organizations

There are more than 200 registered student organizations on UK's campus, providing an outlet for just about any interest a student might have.

These groups include social sororities and fraternities, leadership and academic organizations, and professional societies and religious groups.

There also are organizations for students whose interests lie off the beaten path: the Clog Cats, dedicated to the advancement of clogging; the Miskatonic Student Union, for students who enjoy role-playing games; and the Society for Creative Anachronism, in which members research and recreate the culture, art and atmosphere of the Middle Ages.

Some student organizations have specific requirements for members, like maintaining a certain grade point average or providing community service. Others require students to demonstrate their skill in auditions.

For more information and a list of the student organizations, call the Student Organizations Assembly at 257-1099, or stop by the Student Organizations Center, 106 Student Center.

University of Kentucky libraries

The UK library system houses more than 2 million volumes in the central Margaret I. King Library and 12 branch libraries across campus.

The main branch contains special collections, as well as humanities and social science materials. Branch libraries are dedicated to the disciplines of agriculture, architecture, art, biological sciences, chemistry and physics, education, engineering, geology, law, mathematical sciences, medical sciences and music.

A campaign currently is underway to fund a new, state-of-the-art central library that will cost $58 million.

So far, more than $16.7 million in private money has been raised to partially pay for construction costs and fund endowments. Although state bond issues for the library have yet to be approved, UK has begun the design and planning stages for the facility, using money collected in the private fund drive.

If funded by the state during the next General Assembly, officials expect construction to begin in the spring or summer of 1994.

"I'd Like To Get In Your Drawers"

This is BOBB.

BOBB should be in your desk drawer.

BOBB is Big Ol' Blue Book, your convenient guide to information about the University of Kentucky campus, and the stores and businesses who supply you with all sorts of goods and services.

BOBB is for you to keep in your desk drawer so you can grab it when you need to know:

- the basketball or football schedule...
- how to contact the campus health service...
- how to catch the bus...
- where do you find that store or restaurant

And lots more. Useful. That's what BOBB is.

The University of Kentucky is big, and you'll find out that it is very BLUE, and our Big Ol' Blue Book just might make it easier for you to find your way around. Hey, it might improve your grades. Hmmmm, THAT may be asking too much.

But take a look inside, find a good coupon or two, check out the restaurants and stores, and maybe stumble upon a surprise bit of information about UK you didn't know about. Then, tear out the coupons for use, or when you're in a hurry to find something, check the index on page 5 and get started.

So, take BOBB and stash it away in a safe place. BOBB can be your friend all year long. Besides, it doesn't take up too much drawer space.
