INDEX OF OCCUPATIONS

(ALPHABETICAL ARRANGEMENT)

This alphabetical Index of Occupations is designed to aid in the coding of occupations according to the Occupational Classification and Code published as Circular No. 2 by the Works Progress Administration (originally published by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration as part of Section 2 of the Manual of Work Division Procedure). It indicates the appropriate code number of all the occupations listed.

The Works Progress Administration Occupational Classification and Code was originally developed for the Work Division of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. It has been adopted by the Works Progress Administration for the coding of occupations on the Occupational Classification Records, FERA Forms 144 and 144A, and other employment and payroll records of the Works Progress Administration.

This index is based in the main upon the occupational titles printed in the "Alphabetical Index of Occupations, Fifteenth Census of the United States: 1930" published by the Bureau of the Census. The number and form of these occupational designations have been modified to meet the purposes of the Works Progress Administration. The necessity of producing an index for immediate administrative use has made impossible a careful job analysis of each occupation as a basis for proper classification and coding. Many of the decisions which have been made are necessarily arbitrary. Despite these imperfections, however, the Index is published in the belief that it will make possible uniform occupational coding, and standard labor inventory reports. The Index was prepared by the Division of Research, Statistics and Finance, Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

USE OF INDEX

This Index is to be used by Works Progress Administration offices in accordance with instructions issued by the Works Progress Administration. It is in essence a supplement to Circular No. 2, "Occupational Classification and Code," the "Group Arrangement" of which serves as a basis for the classification and codes of the occupations listed. The occupational designations presented are alphabetically arranged for ready reference. The industry title is printed wherever necessary to help identify the occupation although industry classification, as such, plays only a minor role in the Occupational Classification and Code. The code number is printed to the left of the occupational designation.

Abbreviations—The abbreviation (n.s.), not specified, following an occupational designation means that the code given for that designation is to be used when the occupation is not returned more specifically. For example: "Sewer, factory (n.s.)" is coded 6462, but "Sewer, tailor shop" is coded 6246. Likewise, "Nickel plater (n.s.)" is coded 6337, "(Operatives, other and not specified metal factories)" but "Nickel plater, automobile factory" is coded 6301 "(Operatives, automobile factories)."

The abbreviation (n.e.c.), not elsewhere classified, means that all occupations of a given type not individually classified in the Occupational Classification and Code are to be given the general "n.e.c." code specified. For example: "Stemmer, tobacco factory," since it is not given a code as a separate group, is coded as "6453—Operative, n.e.c., cigar, cigarette, and tobacco factories."

Inverted forms—If an occupational designation is not found in the order in which it is entered on the 144 card, as "Fish cleaner," look for it in the inverted form, as "Cleaner, fish."

Dotted line—A dotted line in the industry column indicates that the code given applies to the occupation regardless of the industry. The line "X315—Organist" means that the code X315 is to be used for all organists.

C.C.C. Work—In general, the same codes should be assigned for work done in C.C.C. Camps as would be assigned for similar work in industry. For example:

Forestry worker, C.C.C.	7800	Cook	8045
Soil erosion work, C.C.C.	9420	Kitchen helper	8055
Eradicator, thistle or barberry	9420	Truck driver	5752

(Due to many types of C.C.C. projects, local knowledge will be the best guide.)

Clerks in stores—Only clerical workers and not sales persons should receive the code numbers for "clerks" in Group III Office Workers. If occupation "Clerk, store" is reported very frequently a check should the be made to determine if salesman is meant.

Drillers—Drillers in strip, open-pit, or placer mines and in quarries are to be coded 5340 if operating hand held drills, 5355 if operating rig drills, and 5395 if the type of drill cannot be ascertained. Drillers in factories are to be classified as factory operatives.

Factory laborers—Factory laborers are, in general, persons who fetch and carry materials to and from the productive workers. Their work requires very little responsibility and practically no skill. More laborers will, therefore, be found in heavy industries such as iron and steel mills than in industries such as lace mills.

Factory operatives—In general the factory operatives are the workers engaged in actual production processes.

Factory processes performed elsewhere than in factories—The fact that a processing operation is being done or a change is being made in a raw material places the occupations involved in such operations in the manufacturing group even though they may not seem to be factory occupations, for example, "Chicken dresser, cold storage." Cold storage is an industry in the trade group, but the slaughtering and dressing of poultry is a factory processing type of work. Therefore the chicken dresser in a cold storage plant should be classified as a factory worker.

Farm Owner—A farm owner is a farmer who owns all or part of the land which he operates. Include squatters and homesteaders who are farming.

Farm Cropper—A farm cropper is a farmer who operates only rented land and to whom the landlord furnishes all the work-animals; i.e., a farm operator who contributes only his labor and receives in return a share of the crop. Normally croppers will be reported only for the Southern States.

Farm Tenant or Renter—A tenant or renter is a farm operator who operates only rented land, furnishing all or part of the working equipment and stock whether he pays cash, or a share of the crop, or both, as rent.

Farm Foreman, Manager, or Overseer—A farm foreman, manager, or overseer is a farm operator who operates a farm or ranch for the owner or who supervises farm labor, receiving wages or salary for his services.

Farm Laborer—A farm laborer is a person who works on a farm with or without wages under the supervision of the farm operator. (This definition does not apply to farm managers who assume responsibility for the crops and their cultivation.)

Agricultural Proprietors n. e. c. 9025—All agricultural proprietors other than farmers are to be coded "9025—Agricultural Proprietors n.e.c." This group includes such proprietors as "landscape contractor", "corn sheller (proprietor)", "hay or straw baler (proprietor)", etc.

Agricultural Laborers n.e.c. 9420—All agricultural laborers other than farm laborers are to be coded "9420—Agricultural and farm laborers (n.e.c.) and (n.o.s.)." This group includes such laborers as "combine operators", "silo fillers", "hay or straw balers", "thresherman", etc .

Double returns—In case of double returns for farm laborers and farmers, in general, the first type of farm referred to is the one to be coded. An exception to this rule is stock and grain farm which should be coded as general. If local knowledge of the type of farm is sufficient do not follow this rule—if, for example, grain is by far the predominate source of income, code accordingly.

Truck Farms—"Other single crop farms" do not include truck farms. A truck farm is a "farm on which vegetables return 40% or more of the value of all products sold."

Housekeepers—It is important that judgment and discretion be employed in the coding of housekeepers. The code for "Housekeeper, private family" applies to wage earning housekeepers only. Housekeepers and housewives in their own homes who have had no wage earning experience should be coded as inexperienced persons. Likewise, young girls obviously working as servants should not be given the code for housekeepers. A housekeeper is either a paid employee who supervises the work of servants or one who assumes complete responsibility for the operation and management of a home in which there is no housewife or in which the housewife is incapacitated.

Miners—Workers in open-pit and placer mines should usually be coded as outside mine workers. Blasters and drillers in open-pit and placer mines, however, should receive the codes usually assigned for such occupations.

Marine Engineers—The code "4545—Marine engineers," is to be used only for the operators of marine engines. Technically trained marine engineers are to be coded X206.

Operatives—Whenever an occupational designation is to receive the operative code for any industry in which it occurs, it has not been assigned a code but (See "Operative.") is entered in the industry column. The codes for such occupational designations will be found under the designation "Operative." An example is "Concentrator, (Any factory. See 'Operative')." The appropriate code for "Concentrator, chemical factory" will be found with the designation "Operative, chemical or drug factory." The code for "Concentrator, sugar refinery" will be found with the designation "Operative, sugar factory or refinery."

Under no circumstances should a coder use the code for operative in a given factory until he has looked up the specific occupation in the alphabetical list and failed to find it. For example: a "loom fixer" in a cotton mill with a distinctive code of its own appears in the alphabetical list, but if the clerk failed to look in this list for "loom fixer" he might erroneously classify such a worker as an operative in a cotton mill.

Proprietors of shops—The managers, proprietors, and owners of barber shops, beauty shops, shoe repair shops, tailor shops, and other small businesses should be given the code for the occupation involved rather than a proprietor's code.

Teachers—Teachers of art, athletics, commercial courses, dramatic art, home economics, music, or any vocational or trade subject should be coded in accordance with their special subjects. All teachers of regular classes in public or private schools are to be classified in the five groups X402, X404, X405, X407, and X408. Include under "X404—Teachers, grammar school" the teachers of junior high schools, and one-room rural schools.

Technical engineers—The record of education and experience on the work cards may be referred to in order to determine, in doubtful cases, whether the person reported as a technical engineer is actually technically trained. It should be noted that the term "engineer" is in rather common usage for persons who wish to be considered skilled in any line of business.

Alternative codes—In the "Group Arrangement" of the Occupational Classification and Code, alternative codes are provided for draftsmen, technical engineers, teachers, salesmen, carpenters, painters, roofers, structural iron and steel workers, shipbuilding workers, truck drivers, farm owners, farm croppers, farm tenants, farm foremen, managers, and overseers, and farm laborers. These may be used in small offices if the detailed breakdown shown is not desired. That is, the code 3100 can be used for all carpenters without showing the sub-divisions 3101 for "Carpenters, bridge"; 3102 for "Carpenters, dock and wharf builders"; etc. If any of the detailed codes 3101, 3102, etc., are used, however, all carpenters not specified and all general carpenters are to be coded "3106—general and (n.e.c.)" and the code "3100—Carpenters" is not to be used at all.

This Index contains only the detailed codes and not the general ones. If it is decided to use the general rather than the detailed code (that is, 3100 for "Carpenters" rather than the codes 3101 through 3106) the coder, after looking up the occupational designation in the Alphabetical Index, should substitute two zeros for the last two digits of the code in order to arrive at the alternative code. That is, the code 3101 for "Carpenter, bridge" can be converted to the general code for carpenters (3100) by substituting two zeros for the last two digits "01".

It is important to note that only the group "Salesmen and saleswomen (sales clerks) 2660" is an exception to this rule. The salesmen codes 2661 to 2669 inclusive are transposed to the alternative code for salesmen by substituting zero for the last digit of the code given in the Alphabetical Index. That is, the code 2661 for "Salesmen and saleswomen, clothing and apparel stores" can be converted to the general code for "Salesmen and saleswomen" by converting the last digit to "0", making it 2660, which is the general code number required.
