FOREWORD

Civilian Defense is so important in our National life and security that any aid or assistance in mobilizing the citizenship is of great value. The compilation of an Inventory of Community Organizations is a real contribution. It is not only a valuable reference manual but the listing of the various organizations will, doubtless, stimulate these organizations and their individual membership to increased effort in the struggle for the survival of Democratic principles.

From this great pool of individual citizens the defense and service branches of Civilian Defense will draw, as needed, personnel to carry on their various activities.

Wm. J. Bacon, Coordinator
Memphis-Shelby County Defense Council

PREFACE

By a full utilization of all civic resources only, and particularly of organized bodies with well-developed plans and procedures, can the local civilian defense program of any community be consummated. Realizing that a guide to such resources can be of value to all defense agencies, planning bodies, and other official bureaus involved in local defense activities and war work, this Inventory of Civilian Organizations Participating in the Memphis Defense Program is the result of a study undertaken in the spring and summer of 1942 at the request of the Memphis-Shelby County Defense Council and the Tennessee State Planning Commission, to make available for State and local use an inventory of potential civic organizational resources. The scope of this survey was restricted to voluntary civic organizations having no official or governmental status. Similar surveys were also conducted in the cities of Nashville and Knoxville.

This inventory indicates the current local defense activities of Memphis clubs, associations, and societies in which they are engaged as organized groups. Other defense activities in which these organizations are interested or for which they are training are also indicated. After the name of the organization are given the affiliation, address, date of organization, officers with their addresses, telephone numbers, and terms; membership, purposes, and current or long range activities of the civic bodies. In order to determine the status in the Memphis Defense Program of each local club, all organizations, both active and inactive, were contacted. Many groups which are not listed herein as participating, were found to have members who were actively engaged in defense work as individuals, but the groups as organizations were not participating in defense activities. A number of civic organizations have disbanded for the duration of the war. An index of defense activities follows the entries on active organizations.

While members of many organizations listed herein are engaged in preparation of surgical dressings, only the American Red Cross is authorized as a body to undertake the work, and all surgical dressings are prepared under its auspices. Red Cross Assistance may thus cover, in some cases, the activity of preparing surgical dressings. Names of lodges, chapters, etc., follow the group name, as for example, Order of the Eastern Star, Parent-Teacher Associations, and Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

The field data for this volume was collected by personal interview with representatives of the organizations listed herein and approved by them. The material was gathered by Gladys R. Arnette, Myrtle M. Rayner, Marion Van Dyke, Flanda Dowell, Eleanora Sauer, Rebecca Fenton, Claude Anderson, James H. Willis, and Columbus F. Howell under the supervision of James E. Davis and Robert E. Dean. Editing of forms and preparation of entries was done by Beatrice O. Kannon and Elliott S. Ford, typing and cutting of stencils by Marie P. Stewart, Mary B. Morel, and Eleanor S. Waters, proofreading by Virginia H. Sibert, mimeographing and assembly by Sue S. Jones. Preparation and publication of this book was under the supervision of the undersigned. This project has been under the general administrative supervision of Mrs. Betty Hunt Luck, State Director of the Service Division. This project has also published a Guide to Church Vital Statistics in Tennessee, a Preliminary Inventory of Maps in Tennessee, and an Inventory of Civilian Organizations Participating in the Nashville Defense Program.

Acknowledgment of cooperation is due the officials of all Memphis organizations who were contacted in the compilation of this Inventory. Particular acknowledgment is made to Colonel William J. Bacon, Coordinator, and Mrs. Jeff D. Messick, Staff Director of the Memphis-Shelby County Defense Council, and to the late Dennis W. Eagan, of the Tennessee State Planning Commission, for valuable suggestions and criticisms.
