JULIAN M. CARROLL
Governor of Kentucky

Julian Morton Carroll became Kentucky's 58th governor on Dec. 28, 1974, succeeding Wendell H. Ford, who was elected to the U. S. Senate. Carroll was elected to a full four-year term as governor in November 1975 and was inaugurated in December of that year. Born in McCracken County in 1931, Carroll attended Paducah Junior College after graduating from Heath High School. He was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1954 and received his law degree from UK in 1956.

Before becoming governor, Carroll served three years as lieutenant governor and ten years as a member of the Kentucky House of Representatives, the last four as Speaker of the House. He is an active member of the Optimist Club and a former Jaycee. He attained the highest office in Kentucky for laymen of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church in 1966-67 when he was named moderator of the Kentucky Synod. The Governor and his wife, Charlann, have four children.

DR. OTIS A. SINGLETARY
President, University of Kentucky

The University of Kentucky has become one of the major institutions of higher learning in the United States under the leadership of Dr. Otis Singletary, the eighth president of the University.

Dr. Singletary was named president of the University in August, 1969. He had previously served as executive vice-chancellor for academic affairs in the University of Texas System and director of the Job Corps program for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Dr. Singletary, a native of Gulfport, Miss., holds degrees from Millsaps College and Louisiana State University.

As president of the principal institution of higher learning in the Commonwealth, Dr. Singletary is greatly concerned with the University's role as a land-grant institution, a "people's university" accessible to all who can profit from education.

In the nine years he has been president, the University has grown to where there are now more than 22,000 students on the Lexington campus and more than 17,000 students in UK's 13 community colleges, and the University has become one of the major research institutions in the country.

Recognition of his service to the University was evidenced by the UK Alumni Association, which presented to Dr. Singletary its Alumni Service Award—an honor rarely bestowed upon a non-alumnus of the University.

Dr. Singletary is the author of two books and several monographs.

A Navy veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict, he is a commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He and Mrs. Singletary, the former Gloria Walton, have three children: Bonnie, Scot and Kendall.

The Singletarys live at Maxwell Place, traditional home of UK presidents.

The trend to more traditional styles appeals most to those who are advanced in their taste, not necessarily in their years. Southwick's natural shoulder suit, "Dorset," is a classic example. There is an elegant, shaped line—a look achieved by a touch that is youthful and contemporary, yet one that hasn't varied a stitch in quality for half a century.

CLIFFORD O. HAGAN DIRECTOR

Expansion of the football training room and addition of a beautiful player's lounge at Shively Sports Center, new carpeting in the stadium football offices, a new basketball office complex in Memorial Coliseum, re-arrangement of the baseball fences and a new surface for the running track are just a few of the recent improvements that signify the continuing progress of UK athletics since Cliff Hagan joined the Wildcat Staff seven years ago.

Recognized nationally as a progressive, business-oriented and promotion-minded administrator, Hagan has seen and overseen vast improvements in all phases of an ever-expanding operation that has encompassed 16 sports since the men's and women's programs were merged in July of last year.

The merger, under Hagan's direction, has been orderly, with office space remodeled and in some cases created to make room for the women's coaching and administrative staff.

The indoctrination of Hagan into the UK athletics administrative structure came in 1972, when he was named assistant to Harry C. Lancaster and given the task of implementing the Blue & White Fund for 57,600-seat Commonwealth Stadium and later for Rupp Arena. The fruits of his labors in this area have provided the additional financial support that has elevated the UK athletics program into a first class operation.

Hagan was named Athletics Director in July 1975 following Lancaster's retirement.

Hagan also has been an advocate of a strong scholar-athlete program, feeling "a genuine commitment to provide all the academic support and encouragement we can to help our athletes leave our campus with a college education and a degree."

On the personal side, Hagan received one of his highest individual honors last May when he became the first University of Kentucky basketball player to be installed in the Naismith Memorial National Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

He is married to the former Martha Milton of Owensboro. They have four children: Lisa, Laurie, Amy, and Kip.

FRANK HAM, Assistant Director of Athletics

Frank Ham became assistant director of athletics soon after Cliff Hagan succeeded Harry C. Lancaster as director of athletics.

A native of Scranton, Pa., Ham came to the University in 1969 as administrative assistant to football coach John Ray, and was reassigned to the athletic director's staff in 1972 when Ray resigned.

Ham graduated from high school at Niles, Mich., and completed his undergraduate work at Olivet College. He did graduate work at Indiana University and coached high school football and track at John Adams High in South Bend and then returned to Olivet as athletic director and head football and basketball coach.

In 1962, he became assistant to the president at Olivet, with responsibilities in public and alumni relations. He was in private business from 1956 until 1968.

He is married to the former Rosemary Woods of Niles, Mich. They have two sons, Michael, of Raleigh, N.C., and Craig, a U.S. Army Captain, and two daughters, Mrs. Andy Hunsberger of Cassopolis, Mich., and Jennifer, 1978 graduate of UK.

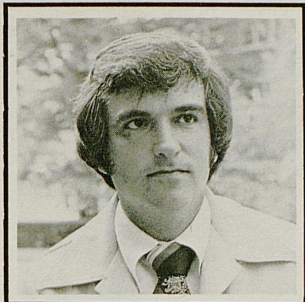

Ham is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Ham of Edwardsburg, Michigan.

BOB BRADLEY

Assistant Director for Academic Affairs

Bob is a native of New York who earned his M.A. at UK before serving as coordinator of counseling and head of finances at the Lexington Technical Institute. He joined the Athletics Association last year. Bob earned letters in football, baseball, basketball and track at Hornell High School (N.Y.) and played football at Salem College in West Virginia.

LARRY IVY

Assistant Director of Athletics for Finance

Ivy, who came to the University of Kentucky as director of housing in 1969, is involved primarily with the administration and management of the business operations, and helps to develop and initiate policies for accounting procedures and related financial management activities of the department.

A native of Alabama, Ivy graduated in 1961 from Huntsville High School, where he lettered in four sports. He is a 1967 graduate of the University of Alabama, and earned his MBA from Alabama in 1968.

He is married to the former Barbara Foster of Huntsville. They have one daughter, Kim. Ivy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack F. Ivy of Huntsville.

SUE FEAMSTER

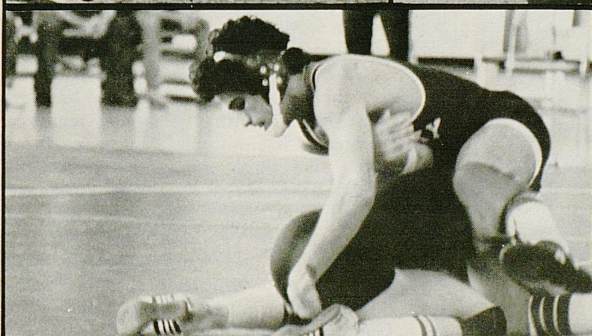

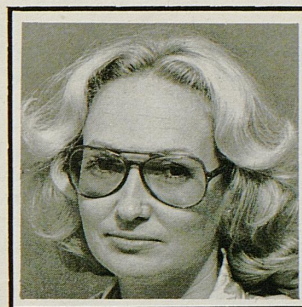

Assistant Director of Athletics

Sue Feamster joined the athletics association July 1 with the merger of the men's and women's programs. Feamster had been the director of women's athletics prior to her appointment as assistant director of athletics.

A native of Frankfort, she came to the University as a graduate student in 1970, was named assistant director of campus recreation in 1972 and director of women's athletics in 1974.

Feamster graduated from Franklin County High School where she was an outstanding tennis player and athlete. While in college she earned letters in tennis, field hockey, basketball and track from Indiana University and Kentucky State University, where she earned her B.S. degree and graduated with honors.

A former teacher and counselor, Feamster is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Feamster of Frankfort.

The Coaches

Fran Curci

Head Coach

Entering his seventh season as head coach at the University of Kentucky, Fran Curci has posted a 36-29-2 record, best for a Wildcat coach since Bear Bryant guided the "Big Blue" forces to a 60-23-5 record during the 1946-53 era.

Included in Curci's UK record are a Peach Bowl championship (1976) and a 10-1 record in 1977, best for a Wildcat team since Bryant's 1950 team finished 10-1 and won the Sugar Bowl.

Although the 1978 Wildcat squad, which was minus consensus All-American DE Art Still and four other All-SEC players, finished 4-6-1, Curci still produced three All-SEC players (LB Jim Kovach, NG Richard Jaffe, OC Dan Fowler) and two Academic All-Americans (Kovach and C Mark Keene).

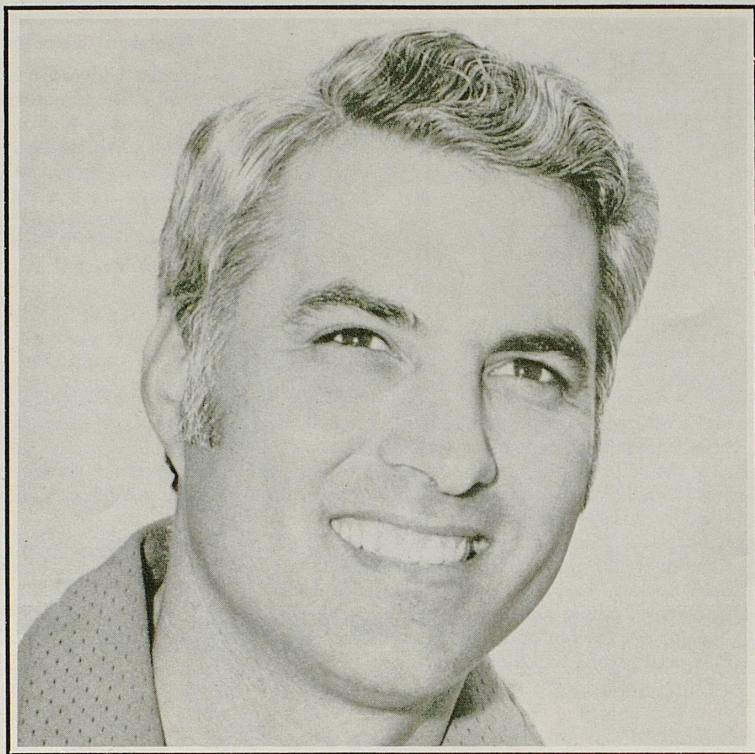

Commonwealth Stadium, the 58,000-seat stadium that is home of the Wildcats, was filled for the six home encounters, as were practically all of the five other stadiums where the Wildcats played on the road.

Curci's record at UK now includes a conference co-championship in 1976 and an undefeated (6-0) conference slate in 1977, when the Wildcats were not eligible for the championship. Kentucky's only other SEC championship was in 1950, when the Wildcats were 5-1 in the conference.

During his tenure at UK, Curci has been named SEC "Coach of the Year" by both wire services—UPI in 1973 and AP in 1977—and has finished high in the national balloting (1977).

He has produced four All-Americans and three Academic All-Americans at UK, which did not have an All-American of any type during the nine years before he came to Lexington. He also has produced 10 All-SEC players named 15 times to the honor squads.

Curci came to UK from the University of Miami, FL, where he was head coach two years. He started his career as freshman coach there in 1962 after earning All-American honors as a quarterback for the Hurricanes in 1959 and playing QB for the old Dallas Texans in the AFL.

Curci went to Tampa as head coach in 1968, putting together a 7-3 season that included victories over Mississippi State and Tulane and earned him the Florida Sports Writers Association's "Coach of the Year" award, a recognition repeated in 1970.

His 1969 team finished 8-2, while his 10-1 record in 1970 included a 31-14 triumph over Miami and brought the Tampans the nation's No. 1 College Division ranking. Curci was runner-up for College Division "Coach of the Year" honors.

He coached the Hurricanes in 1971 and 1972.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Curci played his high school football in Miami, where he lettered three years as a quarterback at Archbishop Curley High and was All-City, All-Conference, Catholic All-State and his team's Most Valuable Player.

At Miami, where he was known as the "Mitey Magician," he parlayed intelligence and desire to become All-American as a senior in 1959 after receiving All-America honorable mention in 1957.

He set Hurricane seasonal and career marks for total offense, most passes thrown, most passes completed and most yards completed and most yards gained passing. He was co-holder of the record for most passes thrown.

He rolled up 2,767 yards rushing and passing during his varsity career, breaking a total offense record that had stood for more than two decades. He captained the Hurricanes his senior year and climaxed his career by engineering a stunning upset of Michigan State.

After graduation in 1960 with a degree in marketing, he played one year for the Texans and then served as a lieutenant in the Army, coaching and playing football for the Fort Eustis team, which won the National Service championship in the Missile Bowl.

Curci has been selected seven times to coach in all-star games. He assisted Bear Bryant with the South team in Tampa's first annual American Bowl game five years ago, then served as South head coach the next year. He helped Charlie McClendon of LSU and Alex Agase of Northwestern direct the East in the Coaches All-American game and has also appeared at the North-South Game, Japan Bowl, East-West Game and Hula Bowl.

Commonwealth Stadium

Commonwealth Stadium, the University of Kentucky's football facility, is located on an 86-acre tract on the Kentucky Experimental Station Farm grounds south of the main campus and east of Nicholasville Road. Completed in 1973, the concrete and steel cantilevered structure replaced Stoll Field, where Wildcat football teams had played since their beginning.

Constructed by Huber, Hunt & Nichols, Inc., the facility has a capacity of 50,000 sideline seats, with end zone bleachers swelling the total to 58,000. The lower stands are so constructed that the seating can be increased to 68,000 later when needed.

Bids for the stadium were opened in mid-July 1972, and construction began a short while later.

The pressbox, located between the two levels on the south side of the playing field, is serviced by two elevators and contains a main working area, radio booths, food service areas, private booths and a camera deck extending along the entire front of the box.

Thirty-four concession areas and 30 restrooms are located conveniently throughout the facility. Four first aid stations with emergency health equipment also are provided. There are four major pedestrian ramps at each corner of the stadium and 40 ramp exits to seats.

The area immediately surrounding the stadium contains 6,000 parking spaces, with half of those paved and the other half in grass with gravel driveways. Another 8,500 parking spaces are located within a mile, all north, of the stadium.

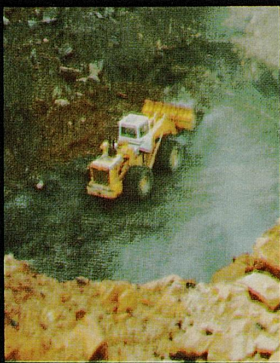

Five exits, all leading to four-lane highways, serve the facility.

The playing surface was sodded in Kentucky bluegrass in July 1973, and this was replaced with Bermuda in 1974. A fairly new scoreboard was moved from Stoll Field and installed with a similar scoreboard at the new stadium.

The new stadium does away with the seeming duplication of titles—Stoll Field and McLean Stadium — that caused much confusion among the general public and sports-writing fraternity.

By action of the University Board of Trustees, the general area encompassing the old Wildcat playing field, located first on what is now an intramural field, was dedicated Oct. 14, 1916, as Stoll Field in honor of the late Judge Richard C. Stoll, prominent alumnus, trustee and benefactor of the University. Soon after the first sections of the concrete stadium on Euclid Avenue were completed Sept. 4, 1924, the new field site and stadium were likewise officially known as Stoll Field.

The first attraction to be held on the new Stoll Field was a football game with the University of Louisville Oct. 4, 1924. A gridiron clash between Kentucky and the then-powerful Centre College team was the first game played in the fully-completed stadium Nov. 1, 1924.

Kentucky's Baby Bulls

For the Wildcat Freshmen, 1979 has been a surprise. They have had to accept responsibilities usually left to upper classmen. They have performed well and the future of Wildcat football looks bright.

In September when the sports reporters from across Kentucky gathered to take a pre-season look at the Wildcats, the most obvious choice of topics for their stories was the youth that was to be found on the Wildcat roster.

It was a writer's gold mine. Terms like "Children's Crusade" and phrases like "only the UK Peach Bowl trophy contains more fuzz" were ready-made for the headline writers. One writer suggested that possibly the players would be given Kool-Aide to drink instead of Gatorade. Two months later and having outgained their opponents by 375 yards following the Louisiana State game, the youngsters had shown that they carried a lot of talent and were giving the fans a great deal to look forward to in the future.

They had become Kentucky's Baby Bulls.

The young backfield comprised of sophomore Shawn Donigan, and freshmen Chris Jones and Pete Venable symbolized the exuberance with which the team had become identified. There were more than 40 freshmen on the young squad and they were getting a bundle of playing time.

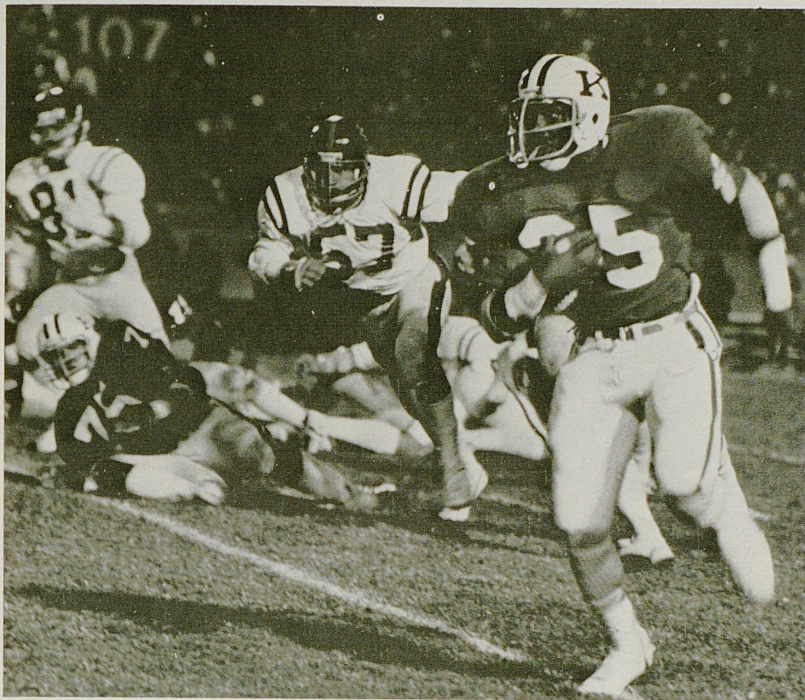

When senior quarterback Mike Shutt had to move to the defensive backfield due to a shoulder injury and freshman Randy Jenkins was sidelined with a broken ankle, redshirt sophomore Juan Portella took over as the signal caller. Then came freshman Terry Henry whose added quickness suddenly put him fourth on the rushing list and gave Kentucky a backfield that under previous college conditions of eligibility, would have been a junior varsity backfield.

But there they were, playing in the Southeastern Conference and playing heroically. They sometimes made mistakes like all freshmen ball carriers but they would be going into their sophomore years in 1980 with the experience that one would normally associate with junior running backs.

Following the LSU game, the statistics were beginning to reflect the job the youngsters were doing. Donigan led all runners with 489 yards on 109 carries for an average of 4.5 yards per carry. Jones was next with 314 yards on 69 carries for 4.6 yards per crack and Venable was third with 217 yards on 51 carries for 4.3 yards per attempt. Then surprisingly, quarterback Terry Henry from Knoxville, Tennessee was beginning to look like a world beater with 152 yards on 30 carries for an average of 5.1 in only two games.

Jones had added two touchdowns on pass receptions and another on the ground. Donigan had two via rushing and Henry had one rushing and had thrown for three others. That didn't sound like statistics accumulated by freshmen in the football-tough Southeastern Conference.

Being thrust immediately into the heat of the battle is the major reason for the fine year that the Baby Bulls are having. There are no upper classmen that they can fall back on. It is up to them and with no one else to get the job done. They learn fast.

Another reason that they have done so well is the other group of Baby Bulls that have filled in admirably in the offensive line. Injuries to upper classmen at one point put Wildcats Gerald Smyth of Englewood, Ohio, Don Portis, of Louisville, Steve Hricenak of Clarks Summit, Pa., Steve Williams of Lexington and Frank McDaniels of Harlan into the starting offensive line. Hricenak is the old man of the bunch. He is a junior but has not played enough to letter in his first two years. Smyth, Portis, Williams and McDaniels are all freshmen and are apparently learning offensive line coach Jon Mirilovich's lessons quickly.

Defensively, linemen Kevin Kearns and Jeff Dennis have seen starting duty with Kearns the third leading tackler with 34 solos and ten assists. Defensive backs Andy Molls and Tom Petty have shown a lot of promise with Molls wrapping up 25 enemy ball carriers and getting in on 14 other tackles.

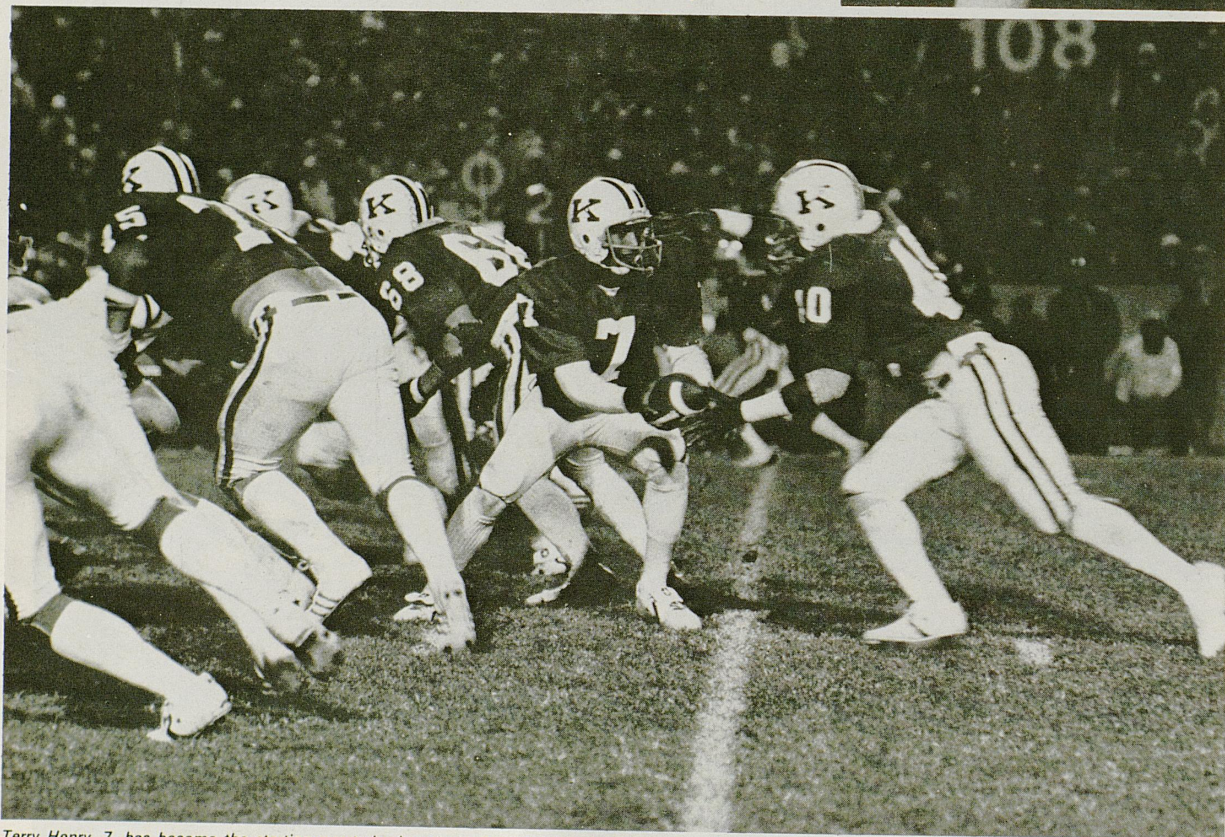

Speaking to the press before the season began, head coach Fran Curci described his situation as being one that showed a freshman almost behind every starter. After having suffered more than his share of injuries to his players, Curci was put into a position of having to play those freshmen.

With them in the line-up, Curci could see them as gaining experience. They were making mistakes that they normally would have made as sophomores when they would usually have been getting their first real taste of playing time. He also could see that he would have a crop of sophomores next year with the playing maturity of juniors.

The example of the maturation process that Curci used was former UK great Warren Bryant. "If you could see the films of Bryant's freshman year," he said, "And then compare them to his senior year, you wouldn't believe that it was the same player."

Kentucky's Baby Bulls have been pushed into maturing early and despite narrowly missing having had an outstanding year, they have begun to grow into full-fledged Big Daddy Bulls. They are ahead of their time.

After limited service as a freshman, Shawn Donigan has become UK's leading ground gainer in 1979.

Terry Henry, 7, has become the starting quarterback and number four in rushing department.

OUR PLAY LIST

You're looking at a wall containing over 10,000 record albums. It's the main source of music for the personalities who play the daily sounds of Double Q.

But it's not the only source. We present live concerts, too. From places like New Orleans and Los Angeles. Sometimes our personalities bring in singles, albums, or tapes from their own collections and they're always getting the first advanced releases of the most important new rock and roll albums.

Of course, they play hits too. But the main thing that dictates what our personalities play is their unique sense of the energy, diversity and excitement of the music of our times. And a special sense of knowing just what you want to hear.

That goes for Kathie Stamps in the morning. For Gary Dickson and Terry Meiners at midday. For Kruser in the afternoon, and Tony Tolliver in the evening. And it goes for Ross Martin in the wee hours of the night. They're what makes Double Q different.

And why our listeners hear more new music, more old music, more of all kinds of music than any other listeners in Lexington.

THEIR PLAY LIST

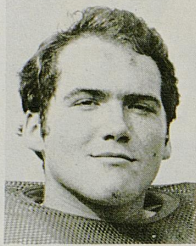

Most other stations that play rock and roll limit their play list to a few best sellers, a few pick hits of the future and a few golden oldies.

Players of the Week

Offense

SCOTT PETERSON

Senior Tight End

Scott Peterson, a senior tight end (6-4½, 223) from Columbus, Ohio, has been named the Offensive Player of the Week following last Saturday's game with Georgia.

Following each game, the coaches grade each player's performance with the highest grading signifying a winning percentage or one that was beyond the effort needed to win the football game. He was awarded three Cats Paws stickers to go on his helmet.

Peterson has been one of those steady performers who always turns in a solid effort.

Defense

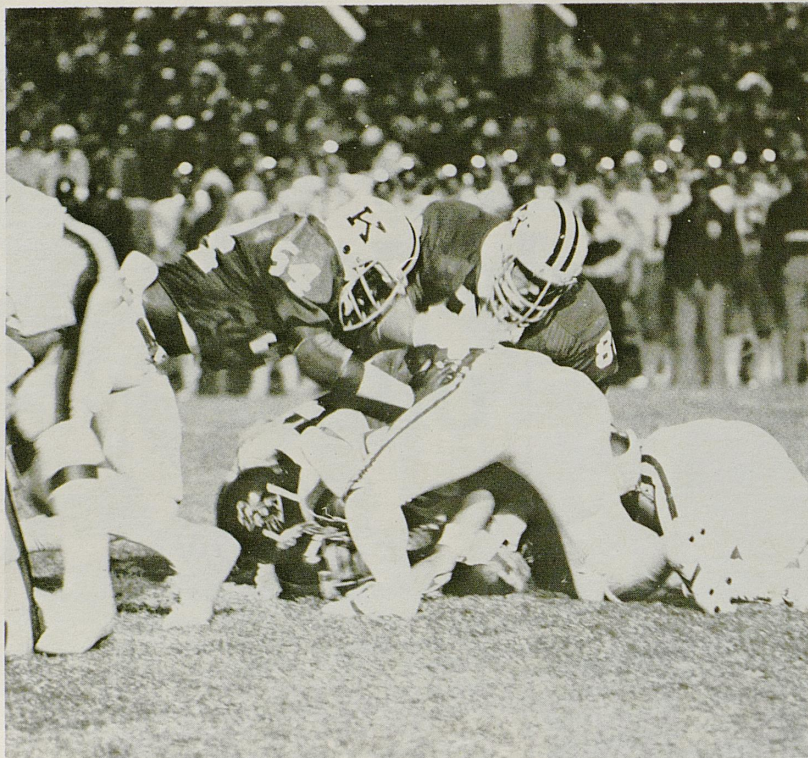

TIM GOOCH

Junior Defensive Tackle

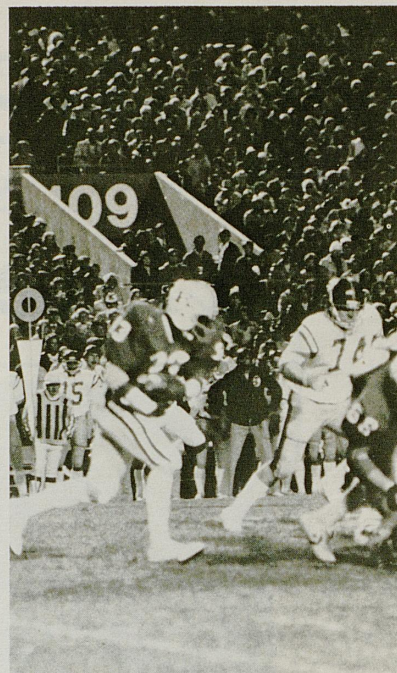

The Hawesville junior (6-2½, 244) recorded six solo tackles and six assists in the Georgia game to earn the recognition as the Defensive Player of the Week.

His efforts moved him to within six solo tackles on the year of leading the team.

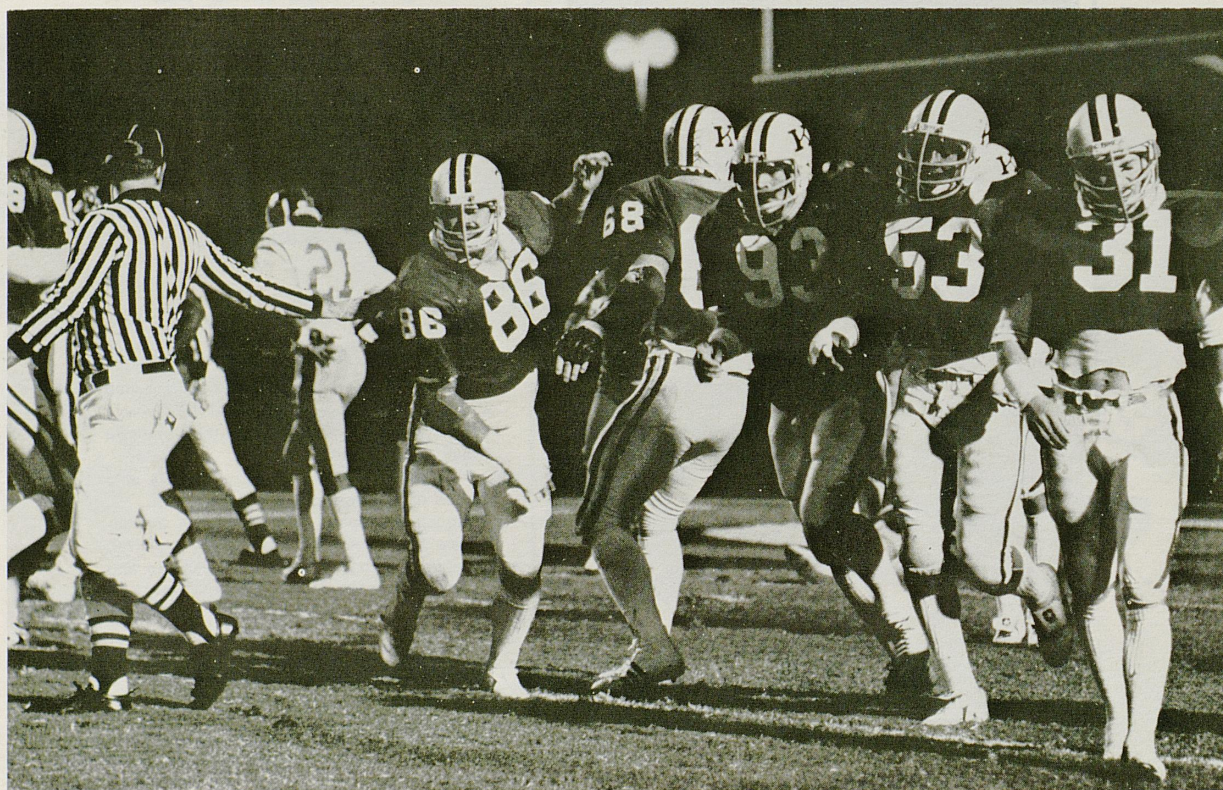

Gooch has been a solid chunk in the defensive line all season, his first as a starter. Previously he had lettered his freshman and sophomore years and played in the 1976 Peach Bowl.

Wildcats Face Aerial Attack

Kentucky will need its anti-aircraft guns zeroed-in today when Bowling Green's Falcons soar over Commonwealth Stadium. Leading the squadron will be quarterback Mike Wright.

Defensive back Larry Carter knocks down an LSU bomb.

Fran Curci's University of Kentucky football team returns to Commonwealth Stadium after a two-week absence to meet Bowling Green today in the first game ever between the two teams.

The Wildcats were victims of their own mistakes in a 20-6 loss to Georgia at Athens last Saturday while Bowling Green lost to Ball State, 38-23. Kentucky has a 2-5 record, 1-2 in the SEC, and Bowling Green is 3-5.

Bowling Green's offensive attack is sparked by quarterback Mike Wright, who ran for two touchdowns and tossed a 12-yard scoring pass to John Meek in the Ball State game.

Although Kentucky played Georgia evenly according to the final statistics, the Wildcats committed seven turnovers to Georgia's four.

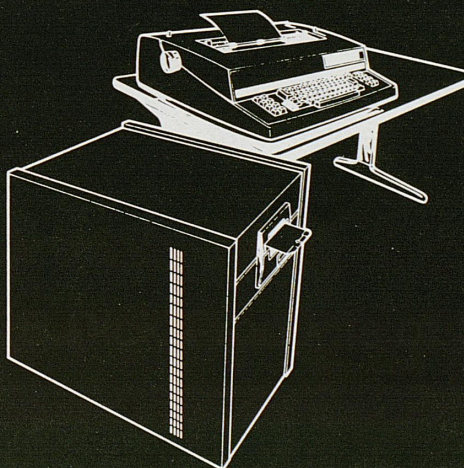

"I was expecting a letdown," Curci said. "These guys have played so hard for so many games. I think our practice this past week was that way (a letdown)."

Freshman quarterback Terry Henry, who performed admirably against LSU in Baton Rouge the week before the Bulldog game, completed only six of 18 passes for 89 yards and was intercepted three times.

"We were pretty well ready for them," Henry said. "Last week, LSU came back on us (to win 23-19) and in this game we were on the verge of coming back on them (Georgia). Our game plan was just like LSU, to blow 'em out."

"This just wasn't a good game for me," he added. "It wasn't a good game for a lot of us. This maybe is one of the worst games we've had. We just didn't hold onto the ball. It was a lot of mental mistakes that we made."

Sophomore fullback Shawn Donigan, who had gained 258 yards in the previous two games, was the game's leading rusher with 88 yards on 16 carries, including a one-yard touchdown run. For the season, he has totaled 557 yards on 131 carries, a 4.4 average, with three touchdowns.

The Wildcats rushed for a net 192 yards, compared to Georgia's 223.

"We did a good job of moving the ball," Donigan said. "The line came off the ball real well. Turnovers are what hurt us."

"One of the things most people didn't realize," Curci said, "is that we had four changes in our offensive line."

The Wildcats were forced to play with a patched-up offensive line. Guard Leon Shadowen had to play tackle. Mickey Cochran, a starting tackle, was only in for a few plays because of the flu. Freshman tackle Gerald Smyth and starting tight end Jim Campbell did not make the trip because of ailments.

KEEP UP WITH LEXINGTON AND THE WORLD.

Today, the Wildcats will be tested defensively while trying to contain the Falcon's quarterback Mike Wright, who is considered by pro-scouts to be one of the nation's top draft choices when he completes this season.

Wright has hit on 76 of 150 passes thrown this year for 799 yards and six touchdowns. He has also thrown eight interceptions. In addition, he is the Falcons third leading rusher with 97 carries for 275 yards and seven touchdowns.

Bowling Green's leading rusher this season has been Kevin Folkes with 104 carries for 349 yards and one touchdown. Kevin Browning has carried the ball 76 times for 295 yards and 3.9 yards per attempt.

Wildcats to take part in pre-game ceremonies.

Wright's leading targets in the receiving corps have been Dan Shetler with 27 catches for 382 yards and three touchdowns and Willie Matthews who has hauled in 21 passes for 280 yards and one touchdown.

Ceremonial activities involving Homecoming today will include two Wildcat players Richard Abraham and Greg Motley.

Abraham, a freshman defensive end from Paducah, will sing the National Anthem and Motley, a junior strong safety from Glasgow, will say the pre-game prayer.

At halftime, former Kentucky defensive end Greg Page, who died from injuries suffered during practice in 1967, will be honored. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Page of Middlesboro, will be escorted onto the field where it will be announced that new student apartment housing located on Road D has been named in memoriam to their son. The apartments will be known as the Greg Page Stadium View Apartments.

A steady bright spot in the Kentucky offense this season has been wide receiver Felix Wilson who is closing in on two career records for Kentucky receivers. He needs 13 catches to tie the record presently held by Tom Hutchinson who hauled in 94 passes between 1960-1962 and 113 yards to tie Larry Seiple's (1964-66) record of 1422 total yards.

Chris Jones finds daylight.

THE FIRST CHEVY OF THE '80s. CITATION. OUR MOST SUCCESSFUL NEW CAR EVER.

Ever since its introduction, people have been flooding Chevy showrooms across the country to see the 1980 Chevy Citation. And according to Retail Delivery Reports, 33,765 units were sold in its first three weeks, more than any new entry Chevrolet has ever introduced.

MID-SIZE ROOM FOR 5.

Citation's engine is mounted sideways, so the passenger compartment can be bigger. In fact, in EPA interior dimensions, Citation is classified as a mid-size car. With the back seat folded down there's room enough for two adults in front and 30 bags of groceries in back.

0 TO 50 IN 9 SECONDS FLAT WITH THE AVAILABLE V6.

In engineering tests, Citation goes from 0 to 50 in 9 seconds flat. That's with available 2.8 Liter V6 engine and automatic transmission. California figures not available. (Citation is equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See your dealer for details.)

EASY ON GAS. 24 EPA ESTIMATED MPG. 38 HIGHWAY ESTIMATE.

That's with Citation's standard 2.5 Liter 4-cylinder engine and manual transmission. (Manual transmission currently not available in California. Calif. estimates lower.)

Citation's standard 4-speed transmission is made to conserve gas. It's an overdrive. And at cruising speeds the 4th gear lets the engine run slower than with a conventional transmission, helping to get impressive fuel economy.

IMPRESSIVE LONG-RANGE CRUISING ESTIMATES, TOO.

And Citation's long-range cruising estimates are just as impressive. [336] miles based on EPA estimated MPG (city) mileage figures, and 532 miles based on estimated highway MPG. Range figures obtained by multiplying Citation's 14-gallon fuel tank capacity rating by the EPA mileage estimates.

REMEMBER: Compare the circled estimated MPG to the estimated MPG of other cars. You may get different mileage and range depending on your speed, trip length and weather. Your actual city mileage and range will be less in heavy city traffic. Your actual mileage will probably be less than the highway estimate.

YOU'VE GOT TO DRIVE IT TO BELIEVE IT.

When you drive Citation you'll see what all the excitement is about. The way it feels. The way it maneuvers. The way it rides. And Citation's front wheel drive puts approximately 65% of its weight over the "driving wheels" to give you impressive traction on wet or snowy roads.

IT'S A WHOLE NEW KIND OF COMPACT CAR.

There's still a lot about Citation that we haven't mentioned. Like slip stream design to cut down on wind resistance and wind noise. The hidden cargo area in all hatchback models, so what's inside is protected from view. A dual diagonal braking system. And much, much more. That's why we encourage you to see your Chevy dealer and test drive the 1980 Chevy Citation today. This could be the car you've had in mind.

DR. HOLLIS A. MOORE
President

Hollis A. Moore has been president of Bowling Green State University since July, 1970.

Prior to coming to Bowling Green, Dr. Moore was vice president of academic affairs at George Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee. Earlier (1960-64) he was dean of the College of Education at the University of Arizona. He was affiliated with the Kellogg Foundation for two periods—1955-60 and again in 1964-65.

A native of Pierce City, Missouri, he attended elementary and high school in Texas. He is a 1946 graduate of Baylor University where he studied history and political science. His doctoral degree is from the University of Texas (1953). He has received honorary doctorates from Hanyang University (Korea) and Central Michigan University. He is author or contributing author to ten books and numerous journal articles in the field of school and university administration.

He and Mrs. Moore have a son Hollis III, a Cincinnati attorney, a son Michael who is in the international division of a Minneapolis bank, and a grandson, Kevin.

JIM LESSIG
Director of Athletics

Jim Lessig, the former executive director of alumni and development at Bowling Green, is currently in his second year as director of athletics. Lessig took over the Falcon post in August, 1978, succeeding Dick Young, who resigned the BG post to take over as athletic director at Oklahoma State University.

A 1957 graduate of Bowling Green with a bachelor's degree in education, Lessig has been involved in several different areas of administrative and athletic work since graduation.

Prior to taking the post of executive director, the 44-year-old native of Canton, O., served as director of alumni affairs from 1971 until 1976.

Lessig's background in athletics is also varied. He played a large role in helping the Cleveland Cavaliers get started in the NBA in their first season (1970-71) and in recent years has been involved in Cavalier telecasts as a color commentator along with assisting the Cleveland Indians on a part-time basis on station WWWE in a play-by-play capacity.

Falcon's Coach

DENNY STOLZ
Head Coach

Denny Stolz, who helped revitalize the football programs at Alma College and Michigan State, is currently in his third year as head coach at Bowling Green State University.

A former Big Ten Coach-of-the-Year, Stolz has compiled a solid 62-43-1 record in his 11 years as a head coach on the college level for a winning percentage of .591. Under his guidance and hard work, Falcon football should return to its winning tradition thanks to back-to-back strong recruiting campaigns which promises a brighter outlook for the Falcons.

Stolz, 46, assumed the post on December 15, 1976 and has amassed a 9-14 record in his first two seasons.

Prior to joining the Falcon staff, Stolz served as the head coach at Michigan State University from 1973-75 and as the head man at Alma College from 1965-70. He fashioned an impressive 19-13-1 record at State which was the only winning record produced among Big Ten coaches other than Woody Hayes and Bo Schembechler.

A 1955 graduate of Alma College, Stolz started his rebuilding at MSU with a 5-6 record in 1973 and a 4-4 mark in the Big Ten for a four-way tie for fourth place.

A year later, he directed the Spartans to a 7-3-1 mark for the best record at MSU since 1966. Included in the record was a 6-1-1 conference ledger and only a tie with Illinois kept them out of the title picture. The Spartans finished 12th nationally in the AP poll and 18th in the UPI ratings and earned him coaching accolades from the league. The highlight of the year was a 16-13 win over Ohio State, ranked first at the time.

The following year he led the Spartans to a 7-4 record and a third place finish in the league. A 10-3 upset over Notre Dame highlighted the year.

His coaching success brought him a post-season all-star coaching assignment in the All-American Bowl in Tampa, Florida in which he directed the North team to a win. In March, 1976, he resigned his position at Michigan State.

A noted clinic speaker who has lectured around the country, Denny is married to Cena, and they have a son, Doak, 19, and two daughters, Dawn, 18, and Denise, 11.

Bowling Green Shooting For Winning 1979 Season

Beginning his third season as head coach of the Bowling Green Falcons, Denny Stolz is yet to find a winning combination. In two campaigns with the Falcons, Stolz has compiled a 9-14 record.

Mike Wright, senior quarterback

Coming off a loss to last year's MAC champion, Ball State, the Falcons are 3-5 and are hoping to spoil Kentucky's 1979 homecoming, a feat last accomplished by Georgia in 1972 by a 13-7 score.

Names like Mark Miller, Fred Sturt, Dave Preston and Phil Villapiano have long graduated and found a home in the pro ranks, but one household name that all Mid-American Conference coaches recognize is Mike Wright.

Wright, an All-America candidate for the 1979 year, wasted no time in making his presence known to the MAC. In his starting debut last season against Villanova, Wright set a Bowling Green record for single-game offense with 342 yards (283 yards passing, 59 rushing). For Wright to have an exceptional year like last, which also included two-time MAC Player-of-the-Week, he will have to find support from his teammates.

In the offensive line, Coach Stolz will return all but one player, center Joe Studer. Currently Mark Prchlik is the starting center with Tom Beaber as his back-up.

Kevin's Browning and Folkes make up the backfield for Bowling Green. Both are sophomores and have outstanding speed.

Defensively, the Falcon coaches have a problem. The only player with interior line game experience is Todd Gates. He started for the first time last fall while registering 114 tackles. A secondary that has five returning players figures to do most of the defensive work for BG which means teams are going to be gaining big yardage. Jac Tomasello, a sophomore out of St. Clair Shores, Mich., started all 11 games at wide-side cornerback in 1978 and has moved to the free safety spot this year.

Handling the specialties for the orange and green will be John Spengler and Jeff Higgins.

Spengler had a string of 34 consecutive PAT's entering the 1979 season. Although Doug Groth had the edge in punting at the beginning of the year, freshman walk-on, Higgins, from Akron is the Falcon's top punter.

To top last season's record of 4-7, Stolz must lead his troops to three consecutive wins to complete the season.

He hopes that will include a win over Kentucky today and wins over Southern Mississippi and Ohio University.

Feeding the Fans

When 58,000 football fans come to dinner at a game in Commonwealth Stadium, it takes the nerve of a riverboat gambler to predict how much they will eat.

Trying to predict how many hot dogs and soft drinks the average UK football crowd will consume requires the instincts of a riverboat gambler.

And that's only the beginning.

Also to be calculated are how many ham and cheese, roast beef and bar-b-que sandwiches, cheeseburgers, bags of peanuts, boxes of popcorn and cracker jacks, cups of coffee and packages of candy and cigarettes will be needed.

The man dealing UK's hand in the poker game of concessions is Keith Lemons. Lemons works for the Macke Company, a national concessionaire company with headquarters in Cheverly, Maryland. The Macke Company is under contract with UK to provide concession services.

"I have to place my order for food 10 days prior to a game, and the perishable food that is not sold cannot be carried over to another game," says Lemons. That's what helps to make the concession business a matter of informed predictions, or a gamble.

Actually, there are a number of variables that can make or break concession sales, according to Lemons. Among these are:

—Crowd size—Lemons say he presently bases his food orders on a sellout crowd, or 58,000. "There have only been one or two times we did not have a sellout in recent years," he says.

—The weather—This is the biggie, according to Lemons. For example, early in the season when the weather is still mild, coffee sales are down and cold drinks are up. As the season progresses, and the temperature drops, coffee shows a dramatic increase and colder drinks fall off. Lemons says he sold only 1,486 cups of coffee at UK's first game this season, but will probably sell about 10,000 cups at the closing game with Tennessee.

Colder weather and a fall-off in the number of cold drinks sold naturally affects the amount of crushed ice needed. And the stakes are high in the area of cold drinks; Lemons sold about 50,000 of them at the Miami of Ohio game.

—UK's success on the field—Whether or not UK is winning or losing makes a difference in concession sales, says Lemons. "If the Cats are winning the game, sales are generally up," he says. "Also, a winning season makes a difference. Sales were up during the 10-1 season and the Peach Bowl season."

—Night games during Keeneland—Here, Lemons explained that a night game usually means slower sales among the food items because most fans have already had their dinner, or have been at Keeneland eating there. "At an afternoon game, on the other hand, many fans arrive early and have lunch at the stadium before kickoff," Lemons says.

—The halftime show—Believe it or not, the caliber of the halftime show is also a factor in concession sales. "If there is a good halftime show, especially at homecoming, people tend to stay in their seats and therefore buy less," explains Lemons.

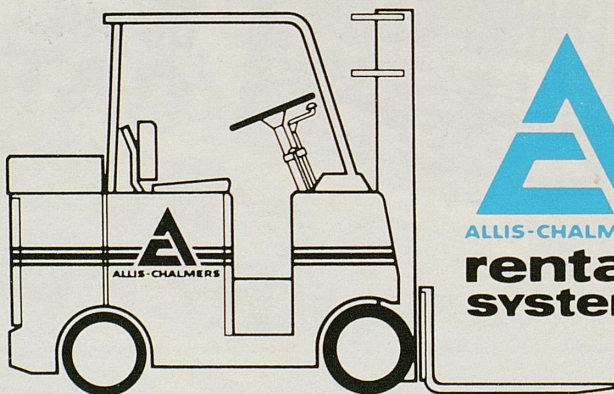

Lemons is taking care of some pretty hefty appetites, as can be seen from his sales figures on the Miami game. UK fans put away the following:

- 20,321 hot dogs
- 2,000 cheeseburgers
- 761 ham and cheese sandwiches
- 600 roast beef sandwiches
- 400 bar-b-que sandwiches
- 5,100 boxes of popcorn
- 4,200 bags of peanuts
- 1,515 boxes of cracker jacks
- 1,486 cups of coffee
- 11,961 small soft drinks
- 39,897 large soft drinks
- 2,928 candy bars
- 560 packs of cigarettes

When the fans arrive, the trading becomes brisk until kickoff.

The large soft drinks are sold in savable plastic cups that are decorated with a UK football theme of some kind. "These are my big sellers," says Lemons, adding that he comes up with different designs for the cups from time to time.

Before and during a game, when the concession operation is in full swing, about 700 people are directly involved in the business.

Moneywise, Lemons says the average UK fan spends about $1.20 per game.

One thing the average fan might not realize about the concession operation at UK football games is that 20 of the 36 stands or commissaries are operated by community groups who are able to raise money in this manner.

Youth baseball, basketball and football leagues, ROTC units, high school classes, church organizations are examples of the kinds of groups involved. They provide the labor and receive 15 percent commission on their net sales. A typical afternoon might result in such an organization's earning about $250 for its cause.

UK Fellows Honored

UK Information Services

A total of 64 new University of Kentucky Fellows were recognized for their important financial support of UK during the annual Fellows dinner last night at the Lexington Civic Center ballroom.

David C. Scott, chairman of the UK Development Council, praised the Fellows group for its gifts which now total more than $17 million. Ervin J. Nutter, chairman of the Fellows Executive Committee, reported that the Fellows membership roster now totals about 625.

The Fellows program, organized in 1966 by the UK Development Council, plays an increasingly important part in the total financial posture of the University. The need for private support has been well established at the University, and the Fellows are providing much of this support through their individual generosity.

The new Fellows are (they are from Lexington unless otherwise noted): Bess Abell, Washington, D. C.; Bennett N. Asher, Winchester; Orin E. Atkins, Ashland; John B. Baldwin; Eugene C. Barker, Louisville; Melvin D. Bishop, Mouth Card; Martha Frances Blazer, Georgetown; Nancy Monroe Blazer, Ashland; C. P. Bradshaw, Frankfort; Phyllis George Brown, Louisville; A. B. Chandler, Versailles; R. H. "Dutch" and Shirley Chatfield, Ashland; Earle C. Clements, Washington, D. C.; Donald and Alcie Combs, Pikeville; Floyd Cox Jr. and Robert M. and Alice Cundiff, Delray Beach, Fla.

'Johnny C' Leads Kentucky Alumni

By PAUL OWENS
UK Information Services

(Today's the day for the old grads—Homecoming 1979. Johnny Owens of Lexington heads these alumni as president of the UK Alumni Association whose paid membership now numbers more than 22,000.)

Johnny Owens walks with the long strides and swinging arms of the platoon sergeant. There is a grace and deliberateness in his movements, which betray two facets of his background:

With grace, there is the natural elegance of harmony, muscles tuned to the rhythm of the playing field—the athlete; in deliberateness, a consideration of the facts and arguments before the action—like an attorney, a top administrator or a successful businessman.

Known on the golf course and to golfers as Johnny and in business and to the business world where he is an accountant as John C., to the University he is known as an old friend and the current president of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association.

Tall, but not heavy enough for football, he nevertheless found a place in sports in high school—three years on the Henry Clay basketball team, four years in golf, and in the latter the beginning of an avocation that was to carry him to the United States Amateur and the British Amateur.

He came away from Henry Clay with the Yale Cup as the outstanding graduating male in 1944. When he won the Kentucky High School Individual Golf Championship in both 1943 and 1944 the sports world knew they would be hearing more from him in the future.

And they did: As captain of the UK golf team 1946-50, he added the Southeastern Conference Individual Golf Championship to his laurels in the latter year.

By now, after an accounting degree from UK in 1950, after a two-year stint with the U. S. Air Force as an instructor in telecommunications and with a weather squadron in Italy and his place in business somewhat assured, he was ready for big time golf.

Johnny went into business with his father, John D. Owens, a public accountant, and in 1953 was certified as a C. P. A., becoming a partner in Owens & Owens, Public Accountants. Also, for seven years after graduation he was with the UK golf team as its mentor.

"The teaching job, although there was no pay, was stimulating," he recalls. But, "it did give me the right to purchase good tickets to the Wildcat games." He has missed few Wildcat basketball and football home games since the 1940s. He enjoys football, "but I like basketball better."

Wife Tootsie usually attends the games with him, and gets in some golf time herself. They belong to the Idle Hour and Lexington country clubs.

Golf remains a first love, though he hasn't been quite as active in championship play in recent years. He did see his son Bob take the Idle Hour Country Club Championship three times in the last six years (a title Johnny himself has held nine times).

Besides the Idle Hour crowns, Johnny won the Lexington City Golf Championship 10 times, and took home the honors from the Lexington Country Club 10 times. He played in the U. S. Open twice, at Dallas in 1951 and at Detroit 10 years later.

Kentucky golf fans followed him in the U. S. Amateur seven times, when he played on different courses, and they shared his elation in 1963 when he was a quarter-finalist.

"Golf," he says, "takes your mind off anything other than golf—you get completely lost when you walk on the course." And you get used to "performing before a gallery," he adds.

He competed in the Master's in 1964, "remembering the sinking feeling as I stood on the first tee." He also was quarter-finalist in the British Amateur Championship in 1974. He was Kentucky State Amateur Golf Champion in 1963 and again in 1964, and finished second four times.

Johnny has been president of the Lexington Golf Association, the Kentucky Golf Association, and the Tri-State Golf Association (Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky) and has served as treasurer and board member of the Southern Golf Association (14 states). He is on the Sectional Affairs Committee of the United States Golf Association.

Like experts in any field, he has been called upon to talk about it for other enthusiasts. He has written articles for publications that specialize in the sport and penned an article on the 18 best golf holes in Kentucky for a sports magazine.

Besides son Bob, also a C. P. A. and a partner in his dad's accounting firm (Owens & Company), there are daughters Mary (a UK grad also) now with a Chicago design firm, and Martha, a student at Alabama following a year at UK.

Active in business, golf, UK Alumni Association, 'Johnny C' is happiest when he is busy.

Way back there, even when golf was almost an obsession, he developed an enthusiasm for flying. He's owned several planes, and keeps his present one, a two-seater Citabria, at a partner's farm in Clark County. Often, in the late afternoon, he can be expected to put down on a friend's farm somewhere in the Bluegrass countryside.

For awhile he was convinced his future lay in aeronautical engineering. "But not seeing a great future in the field, I switched to accounting."

It's good he did, friends say, "because the operation of his own accounting firm has kept him in Kentucky where he has a myriad of fans," and where his business ability has taken him to the top of his profession. Too many to cite, his business investments, associations, honors and accomplishments nevertheless would be considered impressive.

He has friends in far-flung places, too. As UK Alumni Association national president, he has visited alumni clubs in Cincinnati, Washington, D. C., and Denver, Colo., plus many of the Kentucky clubs. "Every place I go I find someone I was in school with." And what they also remember is Johnny Owens, the golfer.

Johnny Owens is happiest when he is busy—teeing off, or flying over the Bluegrass of Kentucky, or examining his collection of more than a hundred golf clubs, most of them antiques, or talking to a client of his accounting firm, or serving an alumni committee or that board—and he has enough interests to assure that little time in his life could ever be called dull.

UK Opens Art Center

A packed house greeted the dedication concert Thursday evening of UK's new Center for the Arts.

Some 1,500 persons filled the Center's concert hall as Robert Shaw, conductor of the Atlanta Symphony and world renowned for his Robert Shaw Chorale, directed a 200-voice chorus and the UK Orchestra performing Giuseppe Verdi's "Requiem."

The $6.3 million Center for the Arts, located at Rose and Euclid, on the site of old Stoll Field, contains the concert hall, a recital hall seating 400 and the soon-to-be-opened UK Art Museum.

The 20,000-square-foot art museum will be dedicated in ceremonies on Nov. 18 and opened to the public for the first time on Nov. 19. Opening day hours for the museum will be Noon to 8 p.m. Afterwards the museum will be open daily, except Monday, from Noon until 5 p.m.

The new center will have a tremendous impact on the arts at UK and in the state. Many UK musical groups will perform in the center, including the UK Orchestra, Chorale, Jazz Ensemble, faculty and student recitals and some 30 other School of Music ensembles.

The UK College of Fine Arts has continued to grow in programs and students since it became a separate college in 1976. There are now 550 art, theatre arts or music majors at UK and some 5,000 students on campus enrolled in courses offered by the college.

Last year the college sponsored more than 400 arts events with an estimated attendance of well over 100,000 people.

"The corner (Rose and Euclid) location for the new center was deliberately chosen," says Dr. J. Robert Wills, dean of the College of Fine Arts. "Its location is symbolic of its primary purpose—to serve as a gateway between the University community and the citizens of the Bluegrass and the Commonwealth."

Non-university arts groups also will be invited to use the center's facilities. Already the center's concert and recital halls are being heavily booked by University and outside groups.

The UK Art Museum, under the direction of Priscilla Colt, will have exhibition areas, storage space, work areas and office space. The exhibition areas are divided into two large gallery areas and two smaller galleries with interconnecting exhibition areas.

One of the smaller galleries will be devoted to exhibition and study of prints and other art on paper, and will be named the Richard B. Freeman Gallery after the former head of the UK art department.

The building's concert and recital halls have been designed for the ultimate in acoustical excellence under the direction of the nationally-known acoustical consultant Paul S. Veneklasen of California.

Architects for the building were Johnson-Romanowitz of Lexington.

Alumni Need You

UNDENIABLY, it's true. The UK Alumni Association needs you!

KEEPING the program moving and growing in support of the University is vital to a continuing quality academic and athletic program at UK.

AWARDS and scholarships promoted and supported by the Alumni Association have helped hundreds of students get an education. While most of the assistance goes to "needy" students, there is money designated for superior students as well. Some professors are attracted to and encouraged to remain at UK because of the honorarium associated with holding an Alumni Professorship.

LIFETIME association with the University promotes continued learning. Publications like the Kentucky Alumnus, magazine constantly alert readers to developments affecting their lives based on the research, teaching and community service of the University faculty and staff. Books available at a discount from the University Press of Kentucky and the use of libraries on the main campus and at the community colleges offer numerous opportunities for continued personal and professional development.

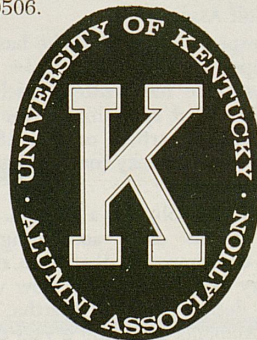

UNDERSTANDABLY, the Association does not offer all work and no play. There's plenty of fun! Pre-game meals and receptions, kick-off parties, Kentucky Derby Day celebrations nationwide and club events at home like bus trips to athletic contests, wine and cheese parties, academic speakers and the friendship of other area alumni are among the pleasures available through the Association.

MORE than that, see the world on alumni tours. Approximately eight trips a year offer a variety of destinations, modes and length of travel and prices.

NEW things to do, new needs to be met constantly change the activities of the Association. The Student Alumni Council was formed to heighten the profile of the alumni on campus. A joint program of admissions-career nights throughout the state is another program instituted to meet a need. The Parents Alumni Council for parents of currently enrolled students facilitates communication with the campus. Plans are being made for a group term life insurance offer while other ideas are on the back burner awaiting their turn. And, finally, your participation represents . . .

INSURANCE for the University. That's what your involvement in the UK Alumni Association adds up to. Insurance that your generation stands in support of those who succeed you on campus and in life; insurance that the importance of higher education will be recognized, insurance that governments will respond to the needs of our institution; insurance for everyone's future. Faculty Representative

In the 1890's, a large group of Southern universities began to meet in an unorganized pattern for contests in a variety of types of athletics. In 1894, representatives from the faculties at those universities were called together to discuss forming a structured organization that would oversee these contests.

Today the schools that comprise the Southeastern Conference are still represented by members of the faculty in addition to coaches, athletic directors, and school presidents.

At Kentucky, W. L. Matthews, Jr. is the faculty representative for athletics, a post that involves him in committee work and annual meetings at the conference and national levels.

Not the best known group of decision makers at the universities, the faculty representatives carry responsibilities that vary with each school. At some universities, they hold the top administrative post on the athletic boards while at others they are members of the board and voting members of the conference and national bodies. At a few of the SEC universities, they are known as the Faculty Chairman of Athletics, a term that is a holdover from the early days of the conference and one that the conference continues to use even though some of the faculty representatives do not hold that specific position.

At Kentucky, Matthews is a faculty representative and the University's president, Dr. Otis Singletary, is the chairman of the Athletics Board.

Matthews has been secretary of the Athletics Board since 1961 when he was appointed by then President, Frank Dickey, to replace Ab Kirwan. His appointment came as a result of his interest in athletics, his competency as an attorney and member of the UK College of Law, and his friendship with former Athletics Director Bernie Shively who recommended him for the job.

Dr. Matthews looks at the job as being a designated faculty delegate to the conference and NCAA but has also served on numerous committees including the executive committee and the television rights committee. The executive committee's operational responsibilities required him to attend several meetings at the conference headquarters in Birmingham as well as the annual gathering but also entailed an interesting look into the workings of the SEC.

In the past 18 years of non-paid service as faculty representative, the soft spoken Matthews has seen numerous changes in intercollegiate athletics that have influenced the overall complexion of the management of athletics. Two that come to mind most readily for Matthews are a broader base of interest in athletics by the schools' faculty and students and increased activities in the broadcasting of athletic contests.

In 18 years of service, Matthews has seen numerous changes in intercollegiate athletics.

"There have always been those faculty members and students that were interested in athletics," says Dr. Matthews. "But now there seem to be more and they are interested in a wider variety of sports." The growth of jogging and tennis are the quickest examples.

"I feel this is good for intercollegiate sports not only because the talents of the participants improve but its good for the general health of the students," he continues. "The interest in athletics is much more pervasive throughout the University than it was 20 years ago."

Dr. Matthews sees the growth in television coverage of the two major sports as another big influence because of the revenue that it produces. For basketball, it is regulated at the conference level primarily but football has a more national complexion and is regulated through the NCAA. Football proceeds for appearing on television are divided into shares for all the schools in the conference. Basketball produces revenue for the participants.

The changes in revenue from broadcasting are indicative of the increased complexity of financing athletics. In an effort to meet the needs of their students through providing more types of athletic competition, the nation's universities are finding more and more demands on their athletic budgets. Couple this with inflation and the need to provide more opportunity for women students to be involved, the financing of athletics becomes difficult.

"Given the addition of any one of these changes and the problems of financing would have been great but having them all come at one time borders on the impossible," says Dr. Matthews. "I am, however, only an observer of the situation in my role as faculty representative and leave that to the financial experts in the athletic department."

These problems can be helped by efficient management of revenue and private donations but Dr. Matthews sees monumental problems for the universities in the future.

"There is only so much help you can provide with efficient management and donations and then you reach a breaking point. I don't really see anyone finding a solution in the near future either," says Dr. Matthews.

"There are limits to how much a university can spend on athletics," he says. "But what those limits are and when they will occur hasn't been resolved."

The role of the faculty representatives as voting members of the NCAA and SEC will continue to be important as more demands are placed on the administration of intercollegiate athletics. Increased enforcement of regulations, the need for new regulations, will always call for input from the faculty representatives.

It is a big job and one that is performed through concern for athletics. Due in part to their efforts, the quality of intercollegiate athletics will remain high.

'We're Here to Help The Wildcats'—

Terry Barney

The Kentucky cheerleaders are a vital link between the action on the field and fans in the stands, providing enthusiastic leadership that helps to make Wildcat football exciting and enjoyable.

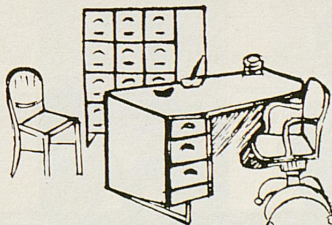

The spirited dozen students endeavor almost year-round to be the best that they can be, practicing, developing new routines and keeping in top physical condition.

In the Universal Cheerleading Clinic at Johnson City, Tennessee, this past summer their efforts were rewarded. The squad was the only one to win awards in all categories—cheers, fight song and sideline routines. They earned four major trophies including one for being the top collegiate squad as voted on by the groups participating in the camp.

Their attitude of working to help the team and involve the fans in the game have made them an appreciated and integral part of Big Blue football.

Russell Rice was named sports information director at UK in May, 1969, after serving two years as assistant to Ken Kuhl, who retired after more than two decades of service with the University. Rice came to the Wildcats from The Lexington Leader, where he was a general reporter eight years and sports editor five years. A native of Paintsville, Ky., he won letters in football, basketball and baseball at Van Lear High. After serving with the U. S. Marines in World War II, he attended Kentucky Wesleyan College and received his bachelor's at the University of Kentucky in 1951. He has served as manager of the NCAA Mid-East Basketball Tournament (1969), and chairman of the Basketball Hall of Fame Committee of the College Sports Information Directors Association and was recipient of the 1971 Churchmen's "Sportswriter of the Year" award. As a newspaperman, his duties ranged from agricultural hearings in Washington to spending three months as the traveling companion to a Kentucky gubernatorial candidate. He attended a national sports editors seminar at Columbia University and reported the activities of such Wildcat teams as football coach Charlie Bradshaw's "Thin Thirty" and "The Runts" of basketball coach Adolph Rupp. He is a former Kentucky area correspondent for Time-Life-Fortune magazines and was Kentucky editor of Tobacco Magazine and Religious News Service. For the past 11 years, he has pursued a hobby of researching Kentucky basketball and football. He authored "The Wildcats: A Story of Kentucky Football," and "The Big Blue Machine: A Story of Kentucky Basketball." His latest work is the Kentucky portion of a "History of the Southeastern Conference," scheduled off a New York press this fall. He edits the K-Men's Newsletter and has been named an honorary member of that organization. He also was honored by WAVE-TV for "Outstanding Contribution to Televised Sports." He was the first member of the Southeastern Conference Publicity Directors Association to be elected to a two-year term (1977-78) and recently completed his second year as president of the Blue Grass (Kentucky) chapter of the U. value & variety

You know the situation. It's time to decide on a place to eat. Family Battle #46. Everybody wants something different.

Your wife loves fried chicken. Junior doesn't. All he wants is a hamburger and fries, a hamburger and fries. You'd think he'd turn into a hamburger and fries. And your daughter? Crazy about fish. As for you, you only have one concern. That it doesn't cost you half a week's pay to eat dinner.

How do you make everybody happy? Come to Burger Queen. Delicious golden brown fried chicken for your wife, the chicken fan. A world of hamburgers for Junior. Hamburgers, cheeseburgers, Royal Burgers, Imperial Burgers. And for your daughter, Burger Queen's batter-dipped Fish 'N Chips or their new Complete Fish Dinner. They even serve breakfast in the morning. And everything at a price that will satisfy even you.

Value & Variety at Burger Queen. The answer to the family dinner dilemma.
