Admissions Policy

Pupils are admitted to the University School upon application. The basis for acceptance in any class is the date on which the application was made. When a vacancy occurs, the next in order of application date is accepted.

In the past two priority groups have been honored:

- (1) Children whose parents are employed in the College of Education
- (2) Children who have brothers and/or sisters already enrolled in the school.

Beginning in September 1954, an attempt will be made to keep an even balance between boys and girls in each class. In other words, if a boy is next in order of application, but a girl is needed to preserve the balance, the boy's name will be by-passed and the next girl will be taken.

Tutoring

During the school year there are occasions when students must be away from school for extended periods. This time may vary from one week to several weeks. Because of the problems presented when this occurs, the Faculty has found it necessary to take specific action so that every student may understand the situation. The Faculty, by unanimous vote, has decided that when students need to make up work they may by arrangement with the regular teacher and with the approval of the Director of the School have a tutor outside of the school to assist them to make up the work missed. The amount of the work to be done is to be determined by the teacher in the University School.

In the past, some students have requested that they be permitted to take courses with tutors and receive full credit for this work. The Faculty unanimously decided that no credit would be accepted and recognized where the work was done under a tutor if the courses were available in the University School curriculum. If a student wanted to take a course not offered by the University School, an application in writing would be presented to the Director of the University School and this in turn would be submitted to the Faculty and the Faculty would decide whether the request should be granted.

Introducing Dr. Cierley

Dr. Morris Cierley (pronounced Ki-er-ley), newly appointed Director of University School, is a Southerner, born and reared in Tennessee near the historic battlefield of Shiloh.

He received his early education in the public schools and was graduated from Shiloh Park High School. He attended Memphis State College where he was graduated with the Bachelor of Science degree. Later, he earned his Master of Education degree at Peabody College for Teachers, and his Master of Arts degree from Columbia University, and his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois, where he was also research assistant in Education.

Dr. Cierley has engaged in almost all types of education experience. He began his teaching career as teacher and coach of athletics, both boys' and girls' teams, at Savannah, Tennessee. He was principal and coach at the Shiloh 12 grade school and at Marrs Chapel, Tennessee. Following that, he taught science at Castle Heights Military School.

After a two and one half year session with the Navy in the South Pacific during the World War II, Dr. Cierley became principal of the Elementary School at Fort Smith, Arkansas. He comes to the University School from Highlands High School, Fort Thomas, where he served as principal from 1949-1954.

Not only as teacher, coach, and principal has Dr. Cierley been active, but he has furthered the cause of education in other ways as well. He has been especially interested in P.T.A. work. For service in this work while in Arkansas, he was given a life membership in the P.T.A. Congress by the Fort Smith P.T.A. organization. He has served as president of the Northern Kentucky Education Association and is now Chairman of the Elementary Commission of the Kentucky Association of Colleges and Schools. He belongs to a number of important educational organizations including K.E.A.; N.E.A.; A.S.C.D.; Kappa Delta Pi, and Phi Delta Kappa.

Though Dr. Cierley's outside interests are many and varied, he confesses to a preference for contract bridge. He likes sports of all kinds, however, and is looking forward to attending and enjoying the University of Kentucky athletic contests even though Memphis State or the University of Tennessee may be the victim. He is a member of the Lions Club civic organization.

While at the University of Illinois, Dr. Cierley was married to Miss Evalyn Nelson Reich, director of the Education library at Illinois. They live at 133 Arcadia Park. Dr. Cierley is enthusiastic about his new work at the University School and is looking forward to meeting all parents and students. It is with confidence and pride that University School presents him to the patrons.
