His playing, of course, was very excellent, although I'm afraid I was too tired to grasp its full beauty. Even the beds here seemed comfortable, so you know I must have been exhausted.

Well, I guess that just about brings me up to date, so I'd better close & get down to some good old-fashioned work.

How is the Chicago trip coming along?

David dear,

Here I am back in harness again after a much too short vacation. And I sure did have a lot of trouble sitting through those 1 hour classes. For an ex-major, I think I'm taking 3 rather diversified subjects - aesthetics, state government, & opera & drama. I hope the Com's work proves more interesting ^{than} the first day's bit of preliminary information. By the way, I knocked off an 'A' in one of my courses last term, something that I never thought I would do in this place, but I guess that's just my 143 coming out! All kidding aside though, it was an easy term, & for the formal again, & served egg nog at Lowenthal's reception from 4 until 7 which I didn't relish too much after getting a very nominal amount of sleep the night before, but it was all for a good cause. I've never seen Selma quite so happy.

The trip back wasn't bad at all as some of the Lexington boys that I know were going up to Princeton & Penn. (including Bob, the clarinet player) & also Laurence Bloon. Chandler was on the train too & gave us passes for the Senate so Bob & I stopped over in Washington to see the opening of the session which was quite interesting although it didn't last long after the round of back-sleeping & hind-sleeping.

I got back to Baltimore in time to do a bit of straightening up, & then Betty & I went over to her college mother's for amount of work I did, I certainly didn't deserve the grade.

Not a great deal of interest has happened since I last saw you. New Year's Eve was much better than I had contemplated (it couldn't have been any worse) although I did have a hard time keeping up with Mai Mai who was drinking champagne as a chaser for scotch & soda. How did your evening turn out? Every one was so impressed by the 2 orchids I wore; many thanks again. Incidentally, I finally got mother to agree with me about the club & its members, so don't be surprised if we have a few new people with us when we go out with that garbage man next year! We drove back from Louisville Monday afternoon & after dressing

Jayne dear,

a note from the land of ice and snow. It hasn't been bad though, frigid, but nice.

Somehow, when I got back from Chicago, I felt that you ought to be here. I suppose it was the abruptness, so to speak, of our parting. It all felt like unfinished business. But, time passes quickly, I hope.

The Chicago trip was uneventful. I had a little trouble driving over slippery roads, but they didn't throw me. I stayed at the Blackstone one night and then at my sisters the rest of the time. The boys in the shoe business are as slippery as the roads here. More lies, per capita, are told at shoe conventions than seem possible. I transacted all my business, looked at everyones new spring shoes, surveyed the legs of the models - from a distance, and returned to Louisville.

I'm going to stay in Louisville for a while. I have some new ideas I want to try. I'm going to raise my prices, buy some crazy ^{i.e. - colorful} shoes, put on a concerted direct mail advertising campaign, use novel window backgrounds, and use a new size control system.

I hope your return trip was pleasant and that you're busily storing up knowledge.

This letter was written in bed. I am very proud ~~to~~ of having conquered the technique of writing letters in bed. I am also very much in love with you. My name is David and I am 22 yrs. old. Won't you please write to me very soon. My friends tell me that I am cute but not very pretty. Can't me be pale of the pen.

Yours
Dave.

Sunday

David dear,

A typical rainy Baltimore Sunday.
What Hawaiians would call liquid sunshine, no doubt. I think I'll pay a few calls that have been on my mind for sometime, & for a change, go to an engagement reception.
It looks like Lexington didn't put anything over on Baltimore in that respect over the holidays. Betty says she practically feels like an old maid at her ripe old age of 21, & that she loses a little more of her self-respect everytime another one of the kids announces their engagement. Mother is coming through Baltimore ~~on~~ this afternoon on her way home.

night headed by one of the leading doctors of Baltimore on the subject of marriage & the family. I don't know how worthwhile the discussion will be, but I'm sure the doctor will play to a "full house."

Yesterday, Betty, Leona, & I had lunch with Mrs. Langfeld, who has just come to Baltimore recently, to meet a cousin of hers. It's my candid opinion that the whole family is a bit on the queer side, & strangely enough, I can't find anybody to disagree with me. Other social activities have been mainly in the line of pictures, the best of which have been "Swanee River" & "The Shop Around the Corner" which was very clever. "Gone With The Wind" is going to hit Baltimore in a couple of weeks, so there will be something novel (that's what Gauchec does for you from a sisterhood convention in N. Y., so that will be a good excuse not to stay too long in any one place.

As far as storing up knowledge is concerned, I'm just beginning to get back into the swing of things, although I have started a term paper for phil. on non-objective painting. Its advocates insist you can't understand or appreciate it unless you live with it, so our room is full of queer concoctions of squares, circles, & triangles. It's very amusing to hear the comments when the kids come into the room, but at last I think we've found a way to keep a good many of them from spending the better part of their college days in here! The only other thing along academic lines of interest in the near future that promises to be fairly interesting is a senior discussion group to-morrow

Fayne dear,

I've been in St. Louis, buying and arguing again. When I got back my most capable Salesman told me he was leaving, going to California to take a managers job at a much larger salary. "Loyalty this handmaiden is cash."

That pair of shoes I told you about is enroute. You may take a smaller size in saddles, if so send them back and I'll send you a smaller pair. If you don't like them give them to the Indians. If the Indians refuse them, use them as bookends. I do hope you'll like them Fayne.

Sunday was an excellent day, quite cold, but the sun was out. I started off on what I intended to be a walk, but the day was so stimulating, that I ran for miles. Through Cherokee park to Big Rock, then to Lexington Rd and back home. Time consumed, three hours.

I miss you, ① because you're good company ② because time passes too slowly when you're not here ③ because I love you and I need you ④ because a pipe and a book become empty things, as do other women. Incidentally the Dunhill is my pride and joy, it's an excellent pipe.

Had an interesting conversation a few minutes ago. I was pacing, as is my habit after the store closes, and saw two girls 13 or 14 yrs. old in the lobby, one of whom was crying, but with vigor.

They were clean looking children. I opened the door and asked the tearful one what the trouble might be.

She was selling shoe laces, and people were non-responsive. The relief expenditure in the local area has been reduced, and they were trying to not a very pretty picture.

I'm making up an advertisement in pamphlet form to be used as direct mail advertising. Sort of trying to get something different. Deadline is Wednesday so I'd better get busy. I'll mail you a copy when it's finished.

Spent some foolish hours reading "Three Habbo's" an attempt to write a "G.W.F.W" using Revolutionary war as the background. When the author could think of nothing else to write he injected sex in super deep quantities. also, some, for men only, slang.

Dear David,

Thanks so much for the candy. Every one in the dorm has appreciated it as much as I. Betty said you could pick out candy for her any old time. Good old Gaucher House fared very well, & we have flowers, candy, etc., gracing the dorm in a quite unusual fashion.

Since my return from the infirmary, most of my time seems to be taken up with meetings of various sorts. If it isn't a college council or united campaign permission, everyone turned out in full force.

Yesterday afternoon I saw "Lip With Father" which was very clever; Lillian Gish was it. It had made a tremendous hit in N.Y.; & is really one of the best shows of the season. I'm going up to N.Y. over the week - end of the 23rd, so I suppose I'll add a few more shows to my list while up there. It will be my first trip up this term, & I'm really getting a hankering to see the town.

I'd better be off to the classes, so I'll close.

Again, many, many thanks.

fund meeting; it's an all journal club or judicial board meeting.

Everything seems to come at once.

I think I'm going to give up classes — for Lent, you know.

I suppose with the right amount of effort, everything can be taken care of though.

Last Friday night was the big Goucher dance of the winter season, which is always a lot of fun. I suppose the ball sessions afterwards are what really count though, when you can discuss what every one was wearing, who they were with, where you met them afterwards, & how sober people were when they got in! Of course, with the extra special 2 o'clock

David dear,

There's nothing like a Saturday morning to get into a pair of slacks & really take it easy. In fact, I think I'll go over to the gym & indulge in a little ping-pong or badminton before the morning is over.

I was glad to hear the good reports about the store; it's the first time you've really sounded encouraged. Selma wrote she had been in to see, & gave a full report of your "condition," but I was glad to hear you had been out & enjoying yourself.

I spent last week-end in N.Y.

going to see Franckfort. True in Ernest Hemingway's "Fifth Column", & next week we have tickets for Paul Muni in "Key Largo". Both the plays are about Spain, I believe, so I will be quite filled up with the subject. If we have time, we're also going to see the Russian Ballet. I don't think I ever will get around to studying for just the one exam.

Before closing, I do want to extend my sympathy on the death of your grandfather. I know you were very fond of him, & from what you have told me about him, I'm sure he will be greatly missed by his community.

Love,
Gayne.

I of course, had a very pleasant visit.
The highlight of the week-end was a night at the opera (sounds like a merry Eos. picture) where I saw "Das Rhingold." I still get a thrill though out of just seeing the bright lights & the mobs on the street.

Since I have only one exam this term I tried to have it changed from the 12th to the 8th & got past everybody but the Dean. She was my stumbling block, & the old sour puss wouldn't let me take it earlier.
I was so aggravated because I was invited to the wedding & of course, I'll miss it by a day. It really takes all the joy out of doing work for the school when they never do anything for you in return, but when the Dean says no, she means no.

Dear Dave,

Thanks so much for the grand perfume. It smells so good, I think I'll only use it on extra-special occasions.

Nest to a station wagon, I can't think of anything I'll enjoy more!

All the kids gave me records, & I received everything from Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" to Dwight Fick's "Molly O' Took the Fan Dancer!"

Unfortunately, I picked 3 very difficult courses this term, & I'm really going to

I received a card from Viv the other day & I suppose by now the newly weds are all settled in their new home.

Along with school work, I've been trying to keep up with the cultural side of things. The other night I heard Vera Brittain - author of "Testament of Youth" & "Testament of Friendship" give a very interesting talk on "War Time England", although of course, she didn't tell us anything very new. I also saw a very excellent movie "Rebecca" & to - night is the last concert of the Philadelphia Symphony, but soon, I think I'll be spending any extra time I might have at the races instead of the

Jayne dear,

I've finally been cured of my spring fever; reason, it's snowing today.

Have a new room-mate. I noticed a fellow looking in the show windows of the store about a week ago, and walked out and invited him in. He's a shoe man, works at Besten's & had just arrived. He's a good room-mate, fairly good boxer, golfer, nice looking, and we've become right friendly.

Had some fun last week. Went out to RaSabel Block's to see her brother's new Speed Graphic camera and play some ping pong, was muchly surprised to find her father to be the credit mgr. at Lem's. I think I told you that I'd had

All kidding on the square, the story had pathos.

Her husband's a dentist, been married 4 yrs, happily it seems, then suddenly he decided he didn't love her, and just walked out. In order to view the corpus delicti, Al and I drove her home. It was a clever little home, really had all the trimmings. The furnace had gone out, so being a boy scout, I made a fire. I guess the child was feeling better when we left.

My hopes of getting home for the Derby were certainly all shattered the other day when "Mission Slip" ran fifth. Oh well, there's always the May Ball to attend. David dear,

I'm afraid I haven't anything as interesting & romantic to report as your recent encounter, but I'll do my best at some kind of letter. Incidentally, your so-called curiosity is rather amusing since it seems to prove you're not quite as grown up as you think you are. Or am I wrong? Perhaps I just got up on the wrong side of bed.

At any rate, it's an awfully wet & gloomy day, & I won't

Thursday night I was out at Mrs. Field's house for supper, & spent most of the evening reading to little Aaron who has grown awfully cute. I'm supposed to go out there for seder supper, ^{but} I'm trying my darndest to get out of it.

Last Sunday I went to see Emily & Lewis who look fine & very happy. They're living with his parents until they can sell the house. Five of us descended upon them, & I think Lewis thought the whole of Goucher was coming to visit.

Betty went home this weekend & I was planning to go up to N. Y. with her, but my work just wouldn't permit such action. I'll probably go be able to go out to the races as had been planned. Kitty & David have been going a couple of times a week, & I've been going out with them whenever I could get away. So far, I'm glad to report, I'm still a little ahead.

Goucher seems as anxious to get rid of the seniors as we feel about getting out, & there has been one affair after the other given for our benefit. Wednesday night was the Junior-Senior banquet which was quite nice with a good meal & a good speaker - a real contrast to our usual college life. After the banquet a whole bunch of us went to the hotel for drinks which completed a very enjoyable evening.

trying to arrange everything. I think she is going to mark an "X" on the floor where every one is supposed to stand. It's going to kill me being in the receiving line & having to shake hands with the Dean. From the preparations, you would think the King & Queen of England were going to be our guests, instead of the decrepit faculty. I think I'm getting bitter after 4 yrs. of this place!

It's swell you can be here for graduation. I've been looking forward to it for so long a time. I hope you can make it before Sunday though, as most of the big social affairs—boat ride, senior prom, etc.—are on the 7th & 8th. Time can't go fast enough for me right now.

May 1, 1940

David dear,

I was so glad to receive your letter. The telephone conversation was rather upsetting. When we agree about so many things, it's kind of tough at first to find a few things where there's a difference of opinion. I guess that can be expected though, & it would be pretty boring if we agreed on everything.

I was all set to go to the races this afternoon, but I'm afraid, as usual, that rain is going to spoil all our plans. I hope it's nice for the Derby, & coming off Friday night. Gene is flying up for the week-end, & if everything turns out as planned, we should all have a very enjoyable time. I knew it won't come up to par with last year though. I think our plan of attack on Baltimore will be very similar to last year, sans M. Langfeld Jr. or Paul Schlossberg.

Betty & Louis asked a couple of fellows down from N.Y., but they couldn't come, so we all put our heads together, & drew some men out of our past that we thought would make a hit down the receiving line, & much to our surprise dug up some real cute specimens.

The next social event of the season is the Jockey House Tea. Boy, that really is going to be something! Mrs. Webster is in her element

I sure am glad this is the last year I'll have to miss it.

I suppose I'll be the perfect student, & actually work in the library this afternoon since going out to the track seems impossible. I've been reading Hemingway lately - "A Farewell To Arms," & "The Sun Also Rises," & have to get some material for a written report. After reading a few of his books, his philosophy of futility & bleakness gets rather monotonous. Have you been reading anything good lately? I really like this contemporary novel course as it gives you a chance to catch up on so many books that you've been wanting to read. I hope I can keep up the good habit I'm developing, after graduation.

Well, the big event of the spring social season - the May Ball - is You've read all about the actual running of the race, so I needn't mention that. I didn't go, saved it for next year when we can go together.

Business was very good this week, and I didn't feel as if I ought to leave ~~there~~ Saturday.

Today was golf day. Had an 87, including six pars
and a birdie, also received a sunburned nose, and purchased a season ~~golf~~ ticket with my winnings of last week.

I won on ① Valdina Sold ^{ST. PL. SHOW} 12.20 5.80 3.20

② Blind Impulse ^{ST. PL. SHOW} 5.20 3.60 3.60

③ Alan Tee ^{SHOW} 3.20, and only lost one bet. If I get any good ones at pimlico, I'll let you know.

May, I refer to the merry month of, — is finally getting ^{and slow} started. It's sort of off the pace, 1 in the 1st quarter, but I guess that's because I'm quite anxious to see you, come June.

Goodnight my dear,
I have my alarms set for 5.45. That's so I can take my morning constitutional and commune with nature. Kidding aside, it's the most satisfying and glorious part of the day.

Fayne dear,

I've been trying to make arrangements to get away for the week end of the 7th, but business has been so good that I'm afraid I won't be able to leave. Saturday the 8th should be the biggest day of the summer season; however, I'll be in Baltimore on Sunday, ready, willing and able.

A friend of mine is in deep mourning today. He was at Churchill Downs yesterday and was doing quite well, so he bet $150.00 on the last race.

There was a photo finish which included his horse. The other horse was declared winner by an eyelash, so he threw his tickets away; then, the winning horse was disqualified, making his tickets worth $980.00, but he, alas and alack, had no tickets.

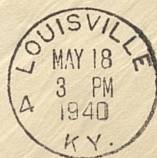

But forgetting the woes of the world, of which there are many, I'm very much ready for June to get here, so save some time for me. I believe I'll drive to Baltimore.

Well, I must play my nine holes of golf so I must close.
I'm playing with the former president of the ^{inter}collegiate golf assn., so I'll get skinned,
but it will be fun anyway.

Jayne dear,

at last, all boys have been removed from the Baltimore ship. I'll not go into detail, but I've been having salesman trouble. For example, Mr. Motte is now performing at the ball room of the Henry Grady Hotel in Atlanta, and has future engagements in Jacksonville Fla., and I don't know where else, the boys a success. I received a very touching letter from him: sure miss you fellows, wish you were here, hope business is good; in fact, it was a real love feast.

Haven't called your mother yet, but I'll do so sometime next week. I haven't anyone to dine with, and would like some company. Leaving here Friday morning and should arrive Saturday the 8th.

Last Sat. morning, I finished my 5:30 to 7:00 round of golf, and dropped (literal) by the ~~gate~~ toddler house for breakfast. Grace & Henry were there, and Grace seemed quite chipper. Anyway later the same day - ~~the~~ I guess you know all about it, too bad I'd say.

The Dun & Bradstreet man was in yesterday, and we became very chummy. Had us an increase in net worth, and the aforementioned Dun Brad man, whom I will refer to hereafter as 'pal', told me he would fix up a first class report as to character & financial standing. Not bad for one Coca Cola & a few kind words, aided by some good operating figures.

Your comprehensions were a breeze, no doubt. I guess they're all over now.

Ready & waiting for the y'th to arrive.

Jayne dear,

Just to be different, and to preserve your eyes, we'll try the typewriter. I hope our setting up exercises of Sunday afternoon didn't weary you, but if our various activities of the week-end didn't do it, nothing ever will.

I believe I'll postpone my trip to Lexington until the 4th of July. The other shoe stores in Louisville went on Sale this morning, and although we have reduced our prices, the materials for a new sale window background won't arrive until Saturday, and we'll have to spend half the night putting in a background, so I don't believe I'll be in the mood for a Sunday trip. Then too, after checking my expenditures, I find I'll have to check my expenditures.

Please freshen up your golf game, you might also put a few finishing touches on your ping-pong and I might add, your Badminton, altho I realize that's treading on dangerous ground.

You might also prepare a dissertation on the comparative aspects of life in Lexington and infra- life in the East. I'm especially interested in your first reactions.

Well, it looks as if we've finally gotten a few customers, so I'll stop the tapping.

I was sorry to hear you wouldn't be in Lexington for the week-

I've made other plans for the 4th Harriett,

but now it has gotten

Incidentally, don't ever bid me about dad's horses not winning a race. I went to the ~~Turtle Derby~~ Turtle Derby the other night, & thought the Brown's Booterie entry was a sure thing, but the length of the race must have gotten him, & there went my 50¢. I won't complain though since I came out ahead by the end of the evening. Maybe I should stick to the turtles instead of the ponies!

Last night Vivian had a

I've really become the outdoor-type in a big way this past week. I've been going around with daddy in the mornings, & have even managed to get a little fishing in. Golf hasn't been on my schedule this week since there has been a tournament out at the Oakland Club, but I'll

The wee hours are slowly arriving and I'm at the store watching some painters work. I'm having the store done over in a grayish beige, and so far it looks decent. Tears come to my eyes when I inhale the paint fumes. That's the only thing I can find to cry about, business has been good, I'm in love with a competent athlete, (ping-pong, Badminton, Golf).

Almost had a Cabin down near Harrods Creek on the river, but decided that it was too expensive, considering that I'd be spending week ends in Lexington. Thought maybe I could lure you up here more, knowing how you like camp life, but the cons have it.

My next junket to Lexington will be on the 27th. Giving you plenty of forewarning. I will also be tarrying over the 28th. Since you're the object of the visit please try to be available.

Have your visitors begun to arrive yet? Mid-July and nice weather ought to produce two or three guests (minimum estimate). Told Marty about Quint, and you can count on him to fill a portion of her time, if she's coming.

Been reading the Abnormal Psychology Book, find it well written, interesting, understandable. I've been aching to underline, but have held off, 'cause I didn't want you to spank me.

Was informed about the proper procedure in fishing for Sail-Fish yesterday evening. The man was a poor narrator, so didn't learn much; however, he served a drink similar to iced coffee, only it's already prepared and comes in a bottle, called 'Sparkling' something or other. It's really good.

Building some display shelves, so I'd better finish the job. I'll be looking forward to the 27th, write when you can find time.

please thank your mother for the sound of

As for visitors, so far so good. I have invited Leona up (or I should say down) however, & I should hear from her within the next few days. If she does come, I guess ~~a~~ a big party will be in order.

Incidentally, if daddy goes to Louisville for mother, you can reach me at Janice's instead of home. I'm looking forward to seeing you.

Jayne dear,

Kindly advise your social secretary that my name was quaintly misspelled, but with conviction; however, I must admit that it was phonetically correct. I'll be there anyway.

This week ran its course quietly and without complaint, I hope the next week will do the same so that the week end will arrive quickly.

Business is still surprisingly good. Case in point: one salesman is on vacation, the other was out to lunch, when Vivian & Dorothy came to visit. I tried to greet them, and at the same time wait on six different customers, I wasn't very social, but sold five of the six customers, so that makes it even.

Went to see the recruiting officer to see if I can enlist for a one year period. Voluntary enlistees can pick their post, and

I want to go to Fort Knox instead of Chittling Switch, ^(for example) Arkansas, but, they are not accepting short term enlistments in this area. I'll just wait for the draft & take my chances.
The way congressional procedure is moving, it looks like the act will go into effect in the middle of the coming fall season. I already have two salesmen lined up for the store just in case, nice fat middle aged ones, with mines, etc.

Today was quite fatiguing.
We were very busy & the customers were sort of mean. So I'm off to a nice cool movie where I can rest, thus garnering strength for my 36 holes tomorrow.

See you Saturday evening
I love you

Jayne dear,

Having finished my weekly battle with the books, I feel free to go on to more pleasant pastimes. My bookkeeping bulges with improvement. I had only one slight error, which I found immediately. Dun, Bradstreet paid us their semi-annual visit this morning, and accordingly received all the information they wanted. Their representative was in poor form today and stuck strictly to business, a very unlikely procedure.

The week-end was quite dull, played golf Sunday with Henrietta and Harold, It was so warm that after nine holes Henny and Harold decided that they'd rather go boating, but I'm a die hard, and played on.

I'll be in Lexington Sunday next, so see save the day, and evening.

Saw "The Howards of Virginia" last night. As usual Cary Grant gave a good performance. The moral of the story was, 'War in a good cause is great fun, if you don't lose your life'

For the first time in weeks, business is dull today, I suppose it's the weather as I've noticed the condition exists all over town.

Esther Molly fits in very well here, and with only a few lapses has been very businesslike.

Now that you've made your entrance into agr. how is it? Next Sunday I'll listen very attentively, so be prepared to hold forth at some length on your new studies.

I do wish we could see each other more often. But I suppose there isn't much that can be done about it, right now.

I'll be looking forward to next Sunday.

Jayne dear,

Finally got caught up with my work, and although it's very late, twelve o'clock, I've been thinking of you all day, so what's more natural than to write to you.

Instead of going to bed after I left you Sunday, I decided to drive on to Louisville. My head was buzzing and I couldn't have slept anyway. It took me longer than usual, an hour + 45 minutes in fact.

I thought over what you had told me, and believe it or not, the situation is crystal clear. I know exactly what I want and pretty nearly how to get it.

I want you Jayne, not immediately, but as soon as possible. The length of time is governed by several things! 1ST, as you mentioned Sunday evening, you must decide ^{at} what minimum material standard you could be happy. I know that will take some time. Secondly, I've decided to quit stilly shillying. I'm going to make this business produce a decent income, if I have to wing it's damned neck. I suppose there are more disagreeable ways of making a living, and besides, the very fact that this store is a little ^{stubborn} about being a profit maker is in itself challenging and at the same time stimulating. Thirdly it will be necessary for me to clear up my obligations during the next six months, I'm afraid economy will have to rear its ugly head, but let it.

In short you must decide upon a minimum, I must find some way to produce a maximum and somehow, these two, aided & abetted by what we feel for each other must reach a leveling off place.

In the interim, we can see each other after ~~forgetting~~ forgetting about the old debts, work toward a definite goal.

I guess I'd best go on home & get some sleep. I'll call you Wednesday about whether or not I'm coming down.

I almost scalped Esther Molly today. She decided to go to the races and asked me to make some selections. I picked the following

1st race - Kentucky Jane	- for obvious reasons
2nd - Royal Polly	- Munch
3rd - Gumbo	- constant improvement
4th - Bo Fiddle	- good ^{recent} workouts
6th - Fave Quest	- Steady horse, long odds

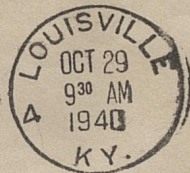

So, she bet the 1st two & they ran out. Then little Esther decided my selections weren't worth anything & picked a math eaten rag in the third. Fine Thor came in & pd. 37.80. 1500 - 9.40. ~~So~~, well that the story, awful isn't it? Bo Fiddle won & paid 7.80 - Fave Quest ran in the money. So, she won a little, but um - huh. Goodnight dear
I love you

Jayne dear,

Another reclining letter, this in red type. Our letters can't be newsy anymore as in the Boucher era; so, there must be some sort of substitution. I remember when you were away at school, each time I wrote, it was sort of like having a date with you, but now that we're together more often, imaginary meetings aren't necessary, thank goodness. Writing has one advantage, it forces concise statements.

The photographer today was quite good. He wouldn't let me pose for the pictures, but kept talking, and during the conversation he'd snap the - whatever you snap. I'll let you pick the proof Sunday.

Your photograph and me are real pals, I greet it on entering the room, and once in a while, subject it to a monologue, and unlike the original, it doesn't talk back. It's a lovely portrait, and I believe it somehow contains the essence of you, if such a thing is possible.

Jayne sweet,

When I told you I wasn't coming in for the week end, I was just teasing, but as things are turning out, I really won't be able to come. All the stores are staying open until 9 o'clock Saturday night, and there's a committee meeting Sunday of the Boosters Club and as chairman, pro Tem, I'd better be there, besides which there's a basketball game Sunday afternoon.

I've been thinking of you all this week. Of course, I've reached no really new conclusions, but the old convictions about you are even stronger. Not being of an aesthetic turn of mind, I don't think of you in terms of moonbeams & honeysuckle. I think of you in connection with fine evenings, interesting discussions, new ideas, and honest thoughts, and lips that by their tenderness & softness speak loudly of the understanding and feeling that is in the heart behind them.

Have an nice time on your trip, and be sure to have a travelogue ready when you come back, you may, of course, omit those parts I shouldn't know about; but, please - don't have too many things to omit.

Jayne dear,

Marty + I are lolling around, after a very angelic day. Slept until noon, played basketball against Fort Knox and won handily. The man I was guarding was well tattooed + I was so interested in the figures that I forgot to guard him at times. Enclosed find a clipping from the Courier Journal.

Finished, Abraham Lincoln, the prison years, and was properly impressed. Mr. Y. did many things that one might copy to advantage. Now I'm re-hashing 'abnormal psychology' and should have fair control of the facts within a few weeks.

By now you've probably done quite a bit of gadding about. Sure would like to be helping you gad. Then too if you were here or I ~~was~~ ^{was} there, I wouldn't be missing you. Please remember that I'm not kidding about the travelogue you're to deliver when you get back.

It sort of looks like we'll be in Lexington New Year's Eve.

I don't know any of the details, but Rae Marie & her man Barney,
Harriet & her man, (she hopes),
Edwin & Judy, David & Vivian
will probably be in the party, not to mention Selma & Joe.

It should be a pleasant evening & morning. Your presence will make it so for me.

Business has been good.
Decided to sign a seven year corporation in favor of a partnership. Have started working under the salesman

I was telling you about by

H.A.-Knox Go Today Opens Heavy M.F.C. Holiday Bill

Holidays won't be holidays for basketballers in the Major Falls

this 7-team organization sees action in league engagements or exhibitions, and all coaches have practices scheduled instead of parties.

Opening the festive season,
Young Men's Hebrew Association, hailed as the "Wonder Team" of Kentuckiana and the greatest combination out at Second and Jacobs Streets since the days of Morguelans, Kleins and White, open the Major Falls Cities League schedule in meeting Fort Knox, one of the league's three newcomers, Sunday afternoon at Y.M.H.A. Gym.

At 2 o'clock, the second teams of Y.M.H.A. and Fort Knox inaugurate an "Opening Day" program which includes the throwing of the first toss-up ball by M. F. C. President Ed Roby right.
Roby manages Edentide.

ELKS WORK OUT

Across the river, the Catholic Community Center five, reputedly stronger than anytime in years, battles the North Vernon Independents on Three C's floor.

There's a prelim on this program,
too. Jeff Elks, the other Southern Indiana entry, also has an exhibition on tap this afternoon, but Coach Ray Weber explains that it's only a workout.

Monday night, the Kentuckiana
Champion Edentide Club doubles with Coach Bob Schuhmann's other ball club, the St. Xavier High School Tigers at Columbia Gym. Roby's Tiders meet the strong Columbus, Ind., outfit which caused all Major Falls Cities clubs trouble last year, and

St. Xavier meets Burgin High School.

bring in the Nashville Y.M.H.A.
Pepe, considered one of the best
Y.M.H.A. quintets in the country, for the annual Christmas night celebration, and Chairman David Bolotin and his basketball Booster Committee are making preparations for the biggest party of the year.

Other clubs plan to hop right back into practices Thursday, and all, especially Shawnee Templars and Stansanco, hope to book tune-ups.

To date, Y.M.H.A. leads in games won and lost, with three and none. Edentide has three out of four in the win ledger;
Catholic Community Center two out of three, and Jeff Elks one and one in exhibitions played to date.

Jayne dear

I waited until I'd seen
B.W. before writing. No comments, I'll wait and see what you have to say. as a hint about my reactions, I'm reading "The Technique of Controversy" by Bogoslovsky.

12 to 27 - sounds so good dear. Incidentally I can take antichokes or leave them alone.

almost learned something about letter writing a while back. Mrs. Hammel was telling about 'dear August's' inept methods. They met once and he courted her for two years via mail, and finally proposed by letter. My faith in the touch system was more firmly established as a result.

worked up a desire to go out the other evening, and called Harriet, but she had a date, so mostly didn't call anyone and we played Billiards & went to a show.

Bumped into Harriet & her date at the show. H. tells me he's a music lover. They even go to concerts together & 'wonderful isn't it.

Had some fun the other night I was buying 'Andrew Sells' shoes and the salesman and I tried to work out a shoe that he didn't have sampled. He sketches fairly well, so he finally worked out the type I wanted. I'm having ^{the one pair} ~~the one pair~~ sampled in your size and labelled 'made for Jayne Weil', so don't buy a medium heeled white pump.

I'm very glad that you're coming home soon.
You see, if I couldn't talk to ^{you} ~~you~~, hold you close,
spend five hours with you,
I might write certain things,

Dave Bolotin

that you'd bid me about when we're fiftyish. Arent I a wavy soul?

Jay D. has been getting a cascade of publicity lately about 'mission step'. Sure would be something if the horse sounds out and runs well in the derby.

By the way, for the last few weeks, I've been writing to you while in bed.
Have you noticed any subtle difference? you see Marty's been studying for exams and ^{has been} rising the only desk.

ask Quint why she didn't take Iuth in the game.
~~was~~ my opinion I would say ~~believe~~ that 'Iuth, it's wonderful.'

Goodnight curly, I'm getting sleepy. I love you
- Dave.

Dear Jayne,

For once I can truthfully say that I've been too busy to turn around.

Human beings are peculiar. I decided to try an experiment in lighting. I replaced the lighting in my store with a much more brilliant light, put a spring background in the window in 7 different pastel shades, put some ^{lighted} new displays in the store, and we got busy immediately. Every day is better than the one before. It'll be a long hard pull, but I believe the store is finally getting places.

Had a date last week. Mostly, Rae Maile, Joe Bollusch, Pauline something or other, cunnate, Horriet Bloom and the person that loves you, went to hear Jimmy or Tammy Dorsey, I never can get them straight.

Didn't get to bed until very late and felt saggy the next day. Little Selma, pride of the Fowenthals happened in, in the midst of my embryonic hangover. She "Tch tch"ed all over the place. Although not adept at Tongue Clicking, I think I held my own.

Last Sat. nite, Joe, Marty, and the person who loves you, went staggering + I didn't say staggering, or did I? anyway we were feeling very bitterish around 3 G.M. and were heading toward a restaurant. We came to a street that was torn up and Joe, being the cautious type wanted to detour but Marty + I are the resolute type, so Joe went ahead and got his car stuck 'goodly + properly'. We couldn't budget for love or cusswords, which reminds me that I love you. We had to call a tow car, and finally went undaunted, but not as all get out to our chicken sandwiches + intoxicating beverages. There is something or someone who watches over fools, as none of us suffered any ill effects.

My grandfather passed away two weeks ago. He was greatly loved & respected. There were seven Rabbis at his funeral, all of whom had studied under him. Instead of eulogizing him at his funeral, each rabbi quoted from his sayings. He lived a useful and full life. I think his congregation is going to erect a small monument to him. I wish you had known him.

Goodnight dear, I needn't tell you that I'm looking forward twenty days. The time will pass somehow, and then you'll be here, near and ~~a~~ very dear.

Love

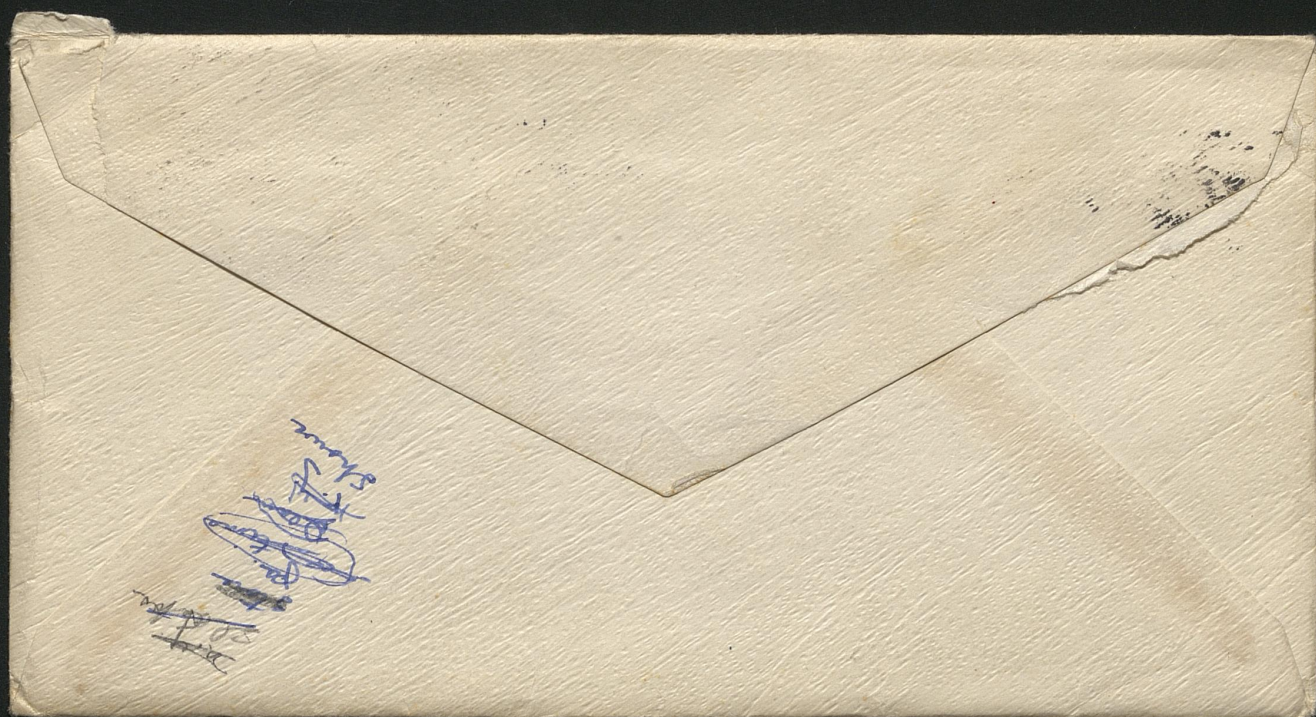

Paul.

THE HOTEL Lennox IN ST. LOUIS

350 AIR CONDITIONED ROOMS AND SUITES WITH PRIVATE BATH, RADIO, AND OTHER REFINEMENTS

4/27/40

Jayne dear,

Decided to spend Sunday in St. Louis. It seems sort of queer to be buying fall merchandise so early, but that's the scheme of things.

Found a dentist who's a very chummy sort of fellow. I'll be seeing him every once in a while for 6 months. After receiving his estimate of the ~~total~~ cost of repairing my teeth I almost decided to trade them in for new ones. He extracted two teeth so he'd have plenty of room to work. Now (stale joke)
I can hedge against monetary inflation with gold holdings.

Your graduation comes at an ideal time. I can leave Saturday night & spend

"Live in the atmosphere of an exclusive club with Downtown at your doorstep"

The Hotel Mayfair, Eighth and St. Charles Streets, St. Louis, under the same management.

Sunday thru Tuesday in Baltimore.
I'm beginning to look forward to the trip already.

When you're home after graduation all things will fit together better. The last two years have been trying. I've said goodbye to you so many times & that I've felt like a reverse snowed whale. No more goodbyes please.

It's sort of late, 3 A.M.
so I'd best turn in.

I love you Jayne. I suppose
I shall always love you.

Dave

Oct. 8, 1940

Jaime dear,

She finally recovered from the first part of the holiday season, and don't think it wasn't a struggle.

Norman Vites, who now works in Foursville was kind enough to bring us back ~~Sunday~~ ^{Friday} evening. We played Stubby pinkey all the way back & uncovered a few good ones. For example, a Finnish West Pointer - Hehe pleh Small Irishwoman - Midget Budget Mediocre Irishman - Ticky Micky. Splendid physique - Classy chassis.

Either, Norman and I went riding Sunday. ~~we~~ horses had two reins & I did everything but get the reins twisted in my ears, but finally learned how to hold them. The horse needed a little subtle urging, like a bomb exploding behind it, so I had to carry a cop, three sticks of dynamite, and a copy of how to buy a horse in six lessons. All this, of course lent a strange enchantment to the ride.

I spent Sunday afternoon very profitably, reading & sleeping.

Had a novel experience Sunday evening, namely bailing some one out of the clink. There's a lot of red tape involved. They kept sending me all over the place, and I wasn't making any progress, so I stopped an old colored woman, and asked her what she was doing in the court house. Well, it seems that we were there for the same purpose, and she knew all about the proper methods, the reason, quote, "Ah bails my man out every Sunday mite." - unquote.

I'll call you when I get to Lexington Friday.
Please wear some earnings.

Between now & then I'll just be making time, nothing more - you mean that much

Love

David
