A DAY
DIARY

Within these pages every night,
Brief memories of the day I write;
A little word, a single line,
Is jotted in this book of mine —
Not mighty deeds, just common things,
The tasks and pleasures each day brings.
And yet I hope that when I look
Over the pages of this book,
'Twill be (and, if so, I'm content)
The record of five years well spent.

THE CALENDAR

The Egyptians determined the true length of the year—365.242 days—and divided it into 12 months of 30 days each. The 5 extra days (or 6 extra days in Leap Years) were devoted to festival holidays. The month was divided into three 10-day periods.

After the conquest of Egypt, Julius Caesar, in 46 B.C. adopted the Egyptian calendar for the Roman Empire, except, says George Eastman, that he did not continue the equal months of the Egyptians. He distributed the 5 extra days throughout the year by adding one day to every other month, January, March, May, July, September and November, and took one day off February.

In 28 B.C., Augustus Caesar, in order to have as many days in the month of his birth (August) as there were in the birth month of Julius Caesar (July) and also to be known in history as having altered the calendar, moved the 29th day of February to August.

Property owners who rented by the quarter objected to the unequal quarters caused by this change, as there would have been 90 days in the first quarter and 93 in the third. Augustus compromised by moving September 31st to October 31st. That caused two 31-day months to come together, and a further change was made by moving November 31st to December 31st.

The calendar of the two Caesars, Julius and Augustus, was based upon a 365-25 day year, with a Leap Year every fourth year. The actual year is 365.242 days, therefore, .008 of a day was accumulated every year. By 1582, the accumulation, it is pointed out by Eastman, had amounted to 10 days, and Pope Gregory XIII in that year ordered the 10 days between October 5 and October 15 dropped from the calendar, and adopted the present rule for Leap Year. It is said that Gregory's purpose was to keep the Equinox to the same day of the year.

Of the centurial years only those which are exactly divisible by 400 thenceforward contained 366 days. The length of the mean Gregorian Year may therefore be set down at 365 days, 5 hours, 49 minutes, 12 seconds, and the error will amount to one day in 3,000 years.

The Gregorian Calendar was introduced into England and her colonies in 1752 at which time the Equinox had retrograded 11 days since the Council of Nice in A.D. 325, when the rule for Easter Day was established and the Equinox occurred on March 21; hence September 3, 1752, was called September 14, and at the same time the commencement of the legal year was changed from March 25 to January 1, so that the year 1751 lost the months of January and February and the first 24 days of March. The difference between Julian and Gregorian Calendars is 13 days.

The Gregorian Calendar was adopted by Japan in 1873, by the Chinese Republic in 1912, by the Turkish Parliament in 1917, by the Soviet Government of Russia in 1918, by Roumania in 1919, and by Greece and the Greek Church in 1923.

The Mosaic 7-day week of the Hebrews was made legal by Constantine the Great in 321 A.D., when he adopted Christianity.

The Romans used an 8-day week prior to the Christian Era. The eighth day was Market Day. The 7-day week was legalized by Constantine. The Pagan Sun's Day made the Lord's Day or Christian Sabbath.

The International Fixed Calendar, promoted by George Eastman of Rochester, N. Y., and his associates, is one of the most active of the calendar reform projects urged upon Congress.

The International Fixed Calendar provides a year of 13 months of 4 weeks each, the weeks consisting, as now, of 7 days.

The added month, to be called Sol, is inserted between June and July.

Each month, and each week, begins with a Sunday, and ends with a Saturday.

Inasmuch as 13 months of 28 days constitute only 364 days, Eastman suggests an extra day at the close of the year, to be known as Year-Day, dated December 29, as the eighth day in that week.

In Leap Years, in the International Fixed Calendar what is now called February 29, would be Leap-Day, and, as such, would become June 29.

The World Calendar Association has a plan for revising the year on a 12-month basis, "to meet modern requirements."

The League of Nations has been engaged for several years, through one of its committees, on an inquiry as to the practicability of reforming the calendar and the agitation for and against has spread into many countries.

THE SEVEN WONDERS OF THE ANCIENT WORLD

The Pyramids of Egypt and the Sphinx—are situated close to the west bank of the Nile River nearly opposite Cairo, and were built between 4731 B.C. and 4454 B.C.

The pyramids were royal tombs, the largest being Cheops, 461 feet high, 746 feet square at the base and covering 12 acres of ground.

The Sphinx, hewn of solid rock, has the head of a man and the crouching body of a lion. It is 146 feet long and 100 feet to the top of the head.

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon—were near the Euphrates River in the palace of King Nebuchadnezzar, 60 miles south of the present city of Bagdad. The terraced gardens planted with flowers and small trees and with fountains were 75 to 300 feet above the ground. They date from about 600 B.C.

The Temple of Diana—at Ephesus in Asia Minor, an ancient but now vanished city, was built in the Fifth Century, B.C., by the Ionian cities as a joint monument. The building was of marble, 425 feet by 225 feet and the roof was supported by 127 columns of Parian marble, each 60 feet high and each weighing about 150 tons. In 356 B.C., the temple was destroyed.

The Statue of Jupiter Olympus—in the valley of Olympia, 12 miles inland from the west coast of the southern peninsula of Greece, was begun in 432 B.C. It was of marble encrusted with ivory and the draperies were of beaten gold.

The Tomb of Mausolus—was in Asia Minor on the Eastern side of the Aegean Sea opposite Greece. It was built of marble about 352 B.C. by Queen Artemisia and was remarkable for its beauty and magnificent interior. It was destroyed by an earthquake.

The Pharos of Alexandria—a white marble lighthouse or watch tower on the island of Pharos, in the port of Alexandria, Egypt, was completed in 283 B.C. The island had been joined by Alexander the Great to the mainland of Egypt by a causeway when he founded Alexandria. Fires were used as a beacon by night and were kindled in the upper part of the tower.

The Colossus of Rhodes—was a brass statue of the Greek sun-god Apollo, about 109 feet high and was erected at the port of the City of Rhodes on the Island of Rhodes in the eastern part of the Mediterranean Sea north of Alexandria. It took 12 years to build, was completed about 280 B.C. and was thrown down 224 B.C. by an earthquake. There it lay for nearly 1000 years, until 672 A.D. when the Turkish Government sold it to a man who broke and pulled the huge brass image into pieces and took them back with him into Mesopotamia loaded on the backs of 700 camels.

RULES FOR SPELLING

Words ending in e drop that letter before the termination able, as in move, movable, unless ending in ce or ge, when it is retained, as in change, changeable, etc.

Words of one syllable ending in a consonant, with a single vowel before it double that consonant in derivatives, as ship, shipping, etc. But if ending in a consonant with a double vowel before it, they do not double the consonant in derivatives; as troop, trooper, etc.

Words of more than one syllable ending in a consonant preceded by a single vowel, and accented on the last syllable, double that consonant in derivatives; as commit, committed; but except chagrin, chagrined.

All words of one syllable ending in l, with a single vowel before it, have double ll at the close; as mill, sell.

All words of one syllable ending in l, with a double vowel before it, have only one l at the close as mail, sail.

The words foretell, distill, instill and fulfill retain the double l of their primitives. Derivatives of dull, skill, will and full also retain the ll when the accent falls on these words; as dullness, skillful, willful, fullness.

Words of more than one syllable ending in l have only one l at close; as delightful, faithful; unless the accent falls on the last syllable; as in befall, etc.

Words ending in l, double that letter in the termination ly.

Participles ending in ing, from verbs ending in e, lose the final e; as have, having, make, making, etc., but verbs ending in ee retain both; see, seeing. Dye, to color, and singe, to scorch, however, must retain the e before ing.

All adverbs ending in ly and nouns ending in ment retain the e final of the primitives; as brave, bravely; refine, refinement; except words ending in ge; as judge, judgment.

Nouns ending in y, preceded by a vowel, form their plural by adding s; as money, moneys; but if y is preceded by a consonant it is changed to ies in the plural; as bounty, bounties.

Words whose primitives end in y change the y into i, as beauty, beautiful.
