"All we have of freedom—all we use or know—
This our fathers bought for us, long and long ago."
—Rudyard Kipling

University Archives

University of Kentucky
Lexington, Kentucky 40506

This collage by New York artist Fred Otis was especially commissioned by Brown & Williamson for its permanent collection of fine art works.

The freedom to choose our livelihood was provided to us long ago. And it was typified by the struggle of immigrants to America in the early 1800's. People like Adam Gimbel, a humble Jewish peddler from Germany, who later founded the country's first department store. And individuals who became industrial giants, like Andrew Carnegie from Scotland, who built one of the largest steel producing businesses in the United States. America had given both of them the freedom. The freedom to choose.

A free individual does not live without choice. A free society does not prosper without it. Consider, if you will, the personal choices we make every day without intervention from others. Now consider how many we take for granted.

The right to choose is the basis of all freedom—political, social, artistic, economic, religious—for all people. But this right must be protected from those who would chip away at it...either deliberately for personal gain, or innocently for the "betterment" of humanity. It must be protected from those who would make their choice, your choice. These personal freedoms are our legacy as well as our responsibility...to protect and to pass on to those who follow.

Freedom. It's a matter of choice.

Jerry Claiborne

That winning feeling returned to Kentucky football in 1983. The Wildcats enjoyed the success of a winning season and only the sixth bowl invitation in the school's history.

The amazing turnaround from a winless season the previous year brought national attention to the Kentucky football program. Only one other school since World War II had ever made such a dramatic improvement in a single season.

At the center of the rejuvenation was a native son who had returned to lead his alma mater to success.

After 20 seasons as the head coach at Maryland and Virginia Tech, Jerry Claiborne finally achieved his dream of being the head football coach at Kentucky. Wildcat football fortunes have already reaped the benefits.

Kentucky's unexpected success last year earned Claiborne the 1983 SEC Co-Coach-of-the-Year award. He has now been awarded a total of five Coach-of-the-Year honors in three different conferences. Claiborne's Wildcats gave Kentucky fans only their seventh winning season in the last 26 years.

Somehow, it seems very appropriate that Jerry Claiborne would be the coach to lead the Cats to such a dramatic upswing and their first bowl bid in seven seasons. As a senior in 1949, Claiborne was a defensive back on Kentucky's Orange Bowl team. The trip to the Orange Bowl was the first major bowl invitation in Kentucky history.

During his three-year varsity career, Kentucky was 21-9-2 after three straight losing seasons before he arrived on campus. In fact, Claiborne's senior class kicked off the most successful 11-year period in Kentucky football history.

Jerry Claiborne was a defensive back under Bear Bryant at Kentucky. Once Claiborne began his coaching career, he remained very close to Bryant who is college football's all-time winningest coach.

Claiborne's success at restoring dormant teams can be traced all the way back to his playing days under the legendary Bear Bryant at Kentucky. Claiborne has carried that trademark of success with him to each coaching job he has ever undertaken and it is especially obvious in his 22 years as a head coach at Virginia Tech, Maryland, and Kentucky.

Kentucky's 31st head football coach has an overall coaching record of 144-91-7. Claiborne's record has made him a fixture in the top-twenty most winning active coaches poll. But, that road has never been an easy one.

In his first head coaching job at Virginia Tech, Claiborne inherited a program with no national reputation and very little tradition. However, ten years later, he had made the Hokies a winner. He guided VPI to two bowl games and a record of 61-39-2. Claiborne was named the Southern Conference Coach-of-the-Year in 1963.

However, his next head coaching assignment was even more amazing as he totally altered the fortunes of the football program at the University of Maryland. When Claiborne arrived in College Park, the Terps had suffered through seven straight losing seasons. However, he once again turned a struggling program into a success story. By the time Claiborne left Maryland to return to Kentucky, the Terps were among the national powers. He amassed a 77-37-2 record at Maryland, took the Terps to seven bowl games, and won three Atlantic Coast Conference Championships. He was named the ACC Coach-of-the-Year in 1973, 1975, and 1976. He was also the National Coach-of-the-Year in 1974 according to the Sporting News when he guided Maryland to an 8-4 record and a berth in the Liberty Bowl.

It is easy to see why Kentucky has one of the most respected collegiate coaches in America. Through his quiet, hard-working, persevering style that he has passed on to his players, Jerry Claiborne has built winners everywhere he has gone. Last season, the University of Kentucky was given a first hand look at what football coaches around the country already knew, Jerry Claiborne equals success.

Campus Leaders

Otis Singletary
President

Dr. Otis A. Singletary has maintained an active role both in academics and athletics since he became the University of Kentucky's eighth president in August 1969.

Great strides toward academic excellence have characterized Dr. Singletary's presidency at UK. The Schools of Dentistry and Pharmacy consistently rank among the best in the nation. Departments such as political science, history, and mathematics have also gained nationwide attention while the UK Library now rates among the best in the Southeast.

Under Singletary's leadership, the University of Kentucky has also become a major research institution.

The Albert B. Chandler Medical Center is an established leader in research on cancer and the aging. UK's agricultural college has provided important research in tobacco and equine diseases while other University research has focused on the field of coal and other energy sources.

Singletary's involvement in athletics is as impressive as his academic achievements. A former president of the Southeastern Conference, Dr. Singletary is a member of the NCAA Select Committee on Athletic Problems and Concerns in Higher Education. He is also chairman of the board of directors of the College Football Association.

As president of the principal institution of higher learning in the Commonwealth, Dr. Singletary is greatly concerned with the University's role as a land grant institution, a "people's university" accessible to all who can profit from education.

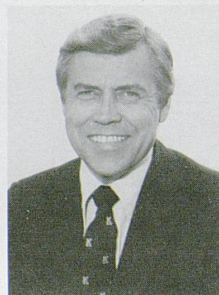

In the 15 years Singletary has been president, the University of Kentucky has grown in enrollment to about 23,000 students on its Lexington campus and more than 22,000 students in the University's 13 community colleges.

Recognition of his service to the University of Kentucky was evidenced by the UK Alumni Association which presented to Dr. Singletary its Alumni Service Award, an honor rarely bestowed upon a non-alumnus of the University.

A native of Gulfport, MS, Singletary holds degrees from Millsaps College and Louisiana State University. An accomplished administrator, Dr. Singletary served as chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and was executive vice chancellor for academic affairs for the University of Texas system prior to coming to Kentucky.

He and Mrs. Singletary, the former Gloria Walton, have three children, Bonnie, Scot, and Kendall.

Cliff Hagan
Athletics Director

In his ten-year reign as the athletics director at Kentucky, Cliff Hagan has produced an enviable record in improving the overall athletics program, modernizing the facilities, and increasing attendance at Wildcat athletic events.

Last season, Kentucky was the only school in the country to have both the football team earn a bowl bid and the basketball team reach the NCAA Final Four.

Under Hagan, a 1954 Kentucky graduate of high distinction and one of the greatest basketball players ever at UK, 1984-85 will be a very busy year for athletic construction. On tap is a $5 million dollar natatorium, improvements at Commonwealth Stadium, new dressing facilities for women's athletics at Shively Center, and the renovation of Memorial Gymnasium.

In the next two seasons, the University will host the 1985 NCAA men's basketball Final Four and the 1986 NCAA women's basketball Final Four.

An Owensboro, KY, native, Hagan is married to the former Martha Milton, also of Owensboro. They have four children: Mrs. Barry "Lisa" Thaxton of Lexington; Mrs. Jim "Laurie" Hill of West Liberty; Mrs. Ron "Amy" Burdette of Atlanta, GA; and Kip, a junior member of the Transylvania University basketball and tennis teams.

Kentucky Chancellors

Dr. Art Gallaher

Dr. Art Gallaher, who is entering his 21st year at the University of Kentucky, is the chancellor for the Lexington campus in the University of Kentucky system. He assumed the role as chancellor in 1982 during the major reorganization of the University. Prior to being named chancellor, Gallaher had served as the vice president for academic affairs for two years beginning in 1980. From 1972 to 1980, he was the dean of the Kentucky College of Arts and Sciences.

Gallaher came to the University of Kentucky in 1963 after holding tenured positions at both the University of Houston and the University of Nebraska. He was chairman of the Kentucky anthropology department plus acting director and deputy director of the University Center for Developmental Change.

Dr. Gallaher, a native of Oklahoma, and his wife, Dixie, have two children.

Dr. Peter Bosomworth

Dr. Peter Bosomworth, who is now in his 22nd year at the University of Kentucky, is the chancellor of the Albert B. Chandler Medical Center. He assumed the position in 1982.

Prior to being named the chancellor, Bosomworth had served as the vice president of the medical center since 1970. During his long career at the University of Kentucky, Bosomworth has served on numerous medical boards and councils throughout Kentucky and the United States. He has also been the associate dean for clinical affairs in the UK College of Medicine and acting administrator of University Hospital in his years at Kentucky.

Bosomworth received the faculty scientific achievement award of the Kentucky Medical Association in 1969. He also was awarded the medal of honor by the National Cheng-Kung University of Taiwan.

Dr. Bosomworth and his wife are the parents of four children.

Dr. Charles Wethington

Dr. Charles Wethington, who is entering his 20th year at the University of Kentucky, is the chancellor of the ever growing University of Kentucky Community College System.

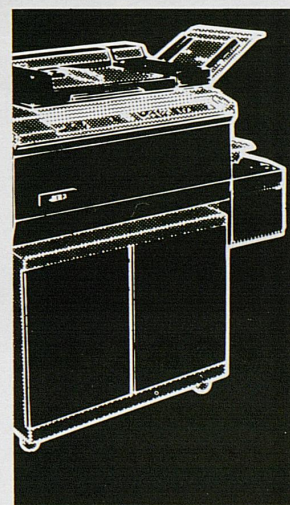

Prior to being named chancellor in 1982, Wethington was the vice president of the UK Community College System for two years beginning in 1980. He had been the assistant vice president since 1971. His promotions within the system came after he had been the first director of the Maysville Community College in 1967 and the acting director of UK's Lexington Technical Institute in 1966.

Wethington, who is a member of the American Association of Junior Colleges and of Phi Delta Kappa honorary education society, began his career at the University of Kentucky in 1964 as an instructor of educational psychology.

Dr. Wethington and his wife have two children.

Assistant Coaches

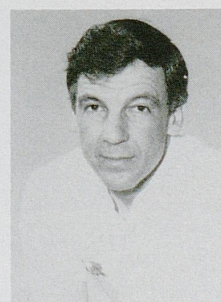

Jerry Eisaman, a 1960 Kentucky graduate, returned to his alma mater in 1982 after being on Jerry Claiborne's staff at VPI and Maryland. Eisaman, who also spent three years as the offensive coordinator at the University of Cincinnati, is UK's quarterback coach. The native of Bethel Park, PA, was an All-SEC quarterback.

Chip Garber is in his third season working with defensive backs at Kentucky after holding a similar position at SMU for two years. The Mustangs led the nation in interceptions and won the SWC title in 1981. The native of Winchester, VA, graduated from Maryland in 1978 and was a two-year starter in the defensive secondary after walking on the team as a freshman.

Bill Glaser is in his eighth season at Kentucky as the defensive guard coach. A native of Louisville, Glaser came to UK from Morehead State where he was the defensive coordinator. Before going to Morehead, the 1965 graduate of Bellarmine College was the head coach at St. Xavier High School in Louisville for two years and guided the school to consecutive state titles and undefeated seasons.

Jake Hallum is in his 13th season as an assistant with Jerry Claiborne. The 1960 graduate of Newberry (SC) College joined Claiborne in 1972 at Maryland and came to Kentucky in 1982. The Liberty, SC, native is Kentucky's offensive guard coach. Prior to coaching at Maryland, he was 22-17-1 in four years as the head coach at Morehead State.

Dave Likins is in his fourth year at Kentucky and coaches the defensive ends. The 1980 Centre College graduate came to Kentucky after being the defensive coordinator and linebacker coach at Georgetown College in 1980. That season, the Tigers led the Heartland Conference in total defense. The native of Henderson, KY, was an honor student in high school and college.

son, the Tigers led the Heartland Conference in total defense. The native of Henderson, KY, was an honor student in high school and college.

Greg Nord, a three-year football letterman at Kentucky, has been a member of the Wildcat coaching staff since finishing his eligibility in 1978. Now in his sixth year on the staff, Nord coaches the Kentucky offensive backs.

The native of Louisville played center and tight end during his career from 1975-1978.

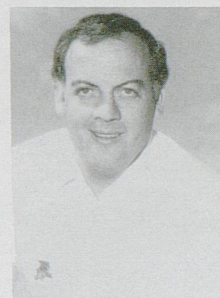

Dick Redding is in his 22nd year with Jerry Claiborne. The two have been together for all but one season since Claiborne took over as head coach at VPI in 1961. The native of Auburn, ME, is the football administrative assistant who coordinates the Kentucky recruiting effort. The 1940 graduate of Springfield College coached at VPI for eight seasons before Claiborne took over as head coach.

Rod Sharpless, a former player under Jerry Claiborne at Maryland, is entering his third year on the staff at Kentucky. The 1974 Maryland graduate coaches the defensive tackles. Sharpless, a native of Jacksonville, NC, was an assistant coach at the University of Richmond in 1981 and coached at Maryland from 1977 to 1980.

Farrell Sheridan has been with Jerry Claiborne since 1979 and is in his third season at Kentucky. The native of Rutherford, NJ, coaches the Kentucky offensive tackles and kickers. Since joining Claiborne's staff, the 1973 graduate of the University of Minnesota has coached linebackers, tight ends, and defensive ends.

Terry Strock is in his third season at Kentucky. Strock was the co-captain of Claiborne's first team at VPI and has coached at VPI, Maryland, and is the linebacker coach at Kentucky. The 1962 graduate of VPI began his 18-year coaching association with Claiborne at VPI in 1966. Strock is a native of Hagerstown, MD.

As Kickoff Approaches

By DAVID McGREW

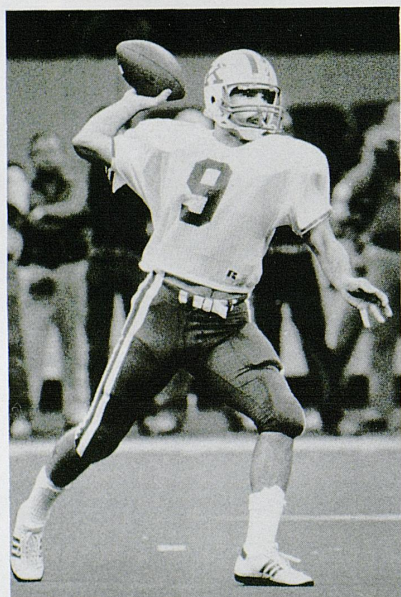

Rutgers Adds Fireworks to Homecoming

There used to be a time when Homecoming featured the home team taking on a hopeless patsy which could be added to the win column with a minimum of effort. Teams like Vanderbilt, Wake Forest, and Virginia were the usual entrees for hungry homecoming crowds. Players from those teams probably saw more homecoming floats in one season than most alumni see in a lifetime.

However, in 1984, times have changed. Last weekend, Vanderbilt ruined Alabama's homecoming, 30-21, and tonight Rutgers comes into Commonwealth Stadium as one of the most surprising teams in the country with an impressive 3-1 record.

How good is Rutgers?

Two weeks ago, they invaded the Carrier Dome in Syracuse and walked away with a 19-0 win over the Orangemen. Last weekend, Syracuse pulled one of the most stunning upsets in college football history by waxing top-ranked Nebraska, 17-9.

Bill Ransdell's leadership and accurate passing has set the tone for Kentucky's offense. (Photo by David Coyle)

Meanwhile, Kentucky has rolled up wins over Kent State at home, and road victories over Indiana and persistent Tulane in the Superdome.

However, at Tulane, the Wildcats paid dearly for the win. Defensive tackle Jeff Smith, a solid All-SEC candidate suffered a knee injury that forced him from the game in the second half. Even if Smith is able to play tonight, he will be severely handicapped. Also, defensive tackle Tom Wilkins was injured against the Green Wave which is cause for concern among Wildcat faithful.

This is one facet of Kentucky's game that Rutgers has the weapons to exploit. For openers, the Scarlet Knights have a junior running back, Albert Smith, who is in the process of leading Rutgers in rushing for the third consecutive year. Last week against Cincinnati, Smith picked up 151 yards on 23 carries. Junior fullback Vernon Williams added 113 yards to the cause as the Scarlet Knights rolled up 392 yards rushing. The entire Rutgers offensive backfield returned intact from last year. Rutgers' experienced rushing attack coupled with the injuries to the Wildcat defense has the Kentucky coaches concerned.

"Anytime you face a tailback with Smith's talents, its going to create problems for the defense," said Kentucky defensive tackle coach Rod Sharpless, who will be attempting to patch together the Kentucky front line. "With losing Jeff Smith, we are certainly going to have some weakness up front. But, with the progress Jerry Reese has made lately, we're hopeful he will be able to rise to the occasion to help us slow the Rutgers rushing attack down. However, we certainly lose an awful lot of experience without Jeff in there."

Jerry Reese will indeed have some big shoes to fill tonight. The red-shirt freshman from Hopkinsville has seen considerable action this season although it has been in a backup role. Still, he has been in on 10 tackles including four initial hits. Furthermore, he has one sack and caused an interception. So, Reese is capable of making some big plays, but he will be making the first start of his Kentucky career.

However, despite Rutgers' impressive rushing statistics, they will represent the fourth consecutive passing team Kentucky has faced this season. Against Cincinnati, Rutgers was able to overpower the Bearcats on the ground. But, in the three previous games, Rutgers' passing yardage had exceeded their rushing total by 200 yards.

Quarterback Eric Hochberg has thrown for 581 yards on the season including two touchdown tosses. After winning the starting position in fall practice, Hochberg has proven to be an outstanding leader and a crafty field general.

Rutgers' balanced attack will again present problems for Kentucky's line-backing corps of Jeff Smith and Cam Jacobs. So far this season, the two

SERIES HISTORY

Today's game is the first meeting ever between Kentucky and Rutgers in football. Kentucky is coming off a 6-5-1 season while Rutgers was 3-8 last year. This year the two teams have a combined 6-1 record and have surprised most football experts. Rutgers is under first-year coach Dick Anderson, who appears to have turned the program around, while Kentucky's Jerry Claiborne has done the same thing with Kentucky football fortunes.

first-year starters have risen to the occasion. Smith leads the Wildcats with 42 tackles and has a fumble recovery to his credit. Jacobs has 40 tackles this season and has also caused an interception. However, they haven't faced a team with as potent an offense as the Scarlet Knights.

"Rutgers has a well-rounded passing attack and, overall, has a very balanced offense," analyzed Sharpless. "They execute very well and will certainly give us problems through the air. Whenever you go into a game like this, the goal defensively is to take away the things the opponent does best. However, Rutgers does many things well."

Meanwhile, despite a plethora of young players defensively, Rutgers has proven very stingy. The Scarlet Knights shut out Syracuse, held Temple to nine points, and limited both Penn State and Cincinnati to 15 points.

One of the key matchups tonight will be Rutgers' secondary against Kentucky's Bill Ransdell and his receiving corps.

The Rutgers secondary has already come up with nine interceptions this season and is among the national leaders in pass defense. Ransdell has been equally effective. He has connected on 66.7% of his passes for 449 yards. In addition, 11 different receivers have caught passes for the Wildcats this year. Joker Phillips has six catches to his credit for 75 yards including a 38-yard touchdown catch against Indiana. Tailback George Adams has five receptions, and Oliver White, Eric Pitts, and Mark Logan each have four catches. White also had a touchdown reception against Kent State.

As always, another interesting battle will take place in the trenches. Rutgers' defense has only allowed 3.3 yards per carry by its four opponents this season. On the other side of the ball, Kentucky's offensive line has opened enough holes this year to allow George Adams to average 130 yards per game.

"Rutgers' defense pursues the football exceptionally well," commented offensive line coach Jake Hallum. "They release a block better than any team we've played this year. We will probably mix the pass with the run more than we have to try to keep them off balance. Their middle guard, George Pickel, and the inside linebacker, Roy Oake, are two of the best defensive players we have faced this year. Overall, Rutgers is the most fundamentally sound defensive football team we've played this season."

Kentucky's potent offensive attack will definitely be put to the test tonight. So far this year, Adams has rolled up 390 yards in three games and is second in the SEC in rushing. Mark Logan and Mark Higgs have combined for 359 yards and Higgs is averaging 7.8 yards per carry. Simply put, the Wildcat offense has moved the ball at will this year. But, the Rutgers defense is a totally different story.

PLAYERS OF THE WEEK!

Best Offensive Player

CHRIS DERRY
Fullback

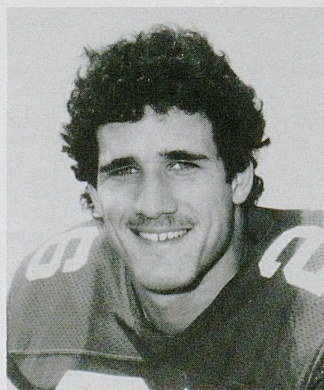

The Kentucky Kickoff's Offensive Player-of-the-Week for the Tulane game is fullback Chris Derry, who was praised by head coach Jerry Claiborne for his fine blocking that enabled George Adams to rush for over 100 yards for the third straight time. Derry was credited with 15 'knockdowns' which are punishing blocks that help running backs have great games.

Best Defensive Player

PAUL CALHOUN
Safety

Senior safety Paul Calhoun enjoyed one of the best games of his collegiate career in the 30-26 Wildcat win over Tulane. Calhoun, a native of Louisville, intercepted two enemy passes late in the game to thwart several Green Wave charges. Furthermore, his booming second half punt was misplayed by Tulane and resulted in a Kentucky touchdown.

Focus on a Wildcat

By DAMON ADAMS

From Springfield to Stardom

Most Wildcat football fans may not know that Springfield is located in Washington County in Kentucky.

Most may not know that Springfield has less than 10,000 residents.

And most may not realize that one of Kentucky's team leaders calls Springfield his home.

But Jeff Smith, senior defensive tackle, is letting opponents know that small town boys can make it big in college football.

Smith, who lived a block from his Springfield high school, may miss the Rutgers game after leading the Cat's defense in the three opening wins. Smith already has 19 tackles, two sacks, and a fumble recovery. But, a knee injury in the Tulane game may confine Smith to the sideline. However, coming back from injury is nothing new to the 6-3, 255 pound tackle. In 1982, Smith missed the 0-10-1 season with a foot injury that required surgery.

"When you're out there, you're part of the group," said Smith, who remembers vividly the frustration of watching without being able to help. "But when you're not, you almost feel guilty because you aren't. I felt as much pain as the other players did that season."

Smith came back last season to lead the team with six quarterback sacks and was in on 89 tackles, fifth best on the squad. "Jeff's very coachable," said Rod Sharpless, defensive tackle coach. "He had to regain his confidence after the 1982 season. But his self motivation did most of the work."

When Smith first came to UK, his motivation suffered a small setback. "I came up here and didn't know anybody," recalled Smith. "It was hard at first because I wasn't outgoing."

"But if you got something on your mind, you've got to let it out."

Smith's frustrations were bottled up inside himself. He quit football after his freshman year, saying he needed a break from football.

But his inner drive and strong family ties brought him back.

"At first I didn't think anyone cared what I did," said Smith. "And I never knew that somebody did until I quit. Now, my family is more important than ever. You need that in your life."

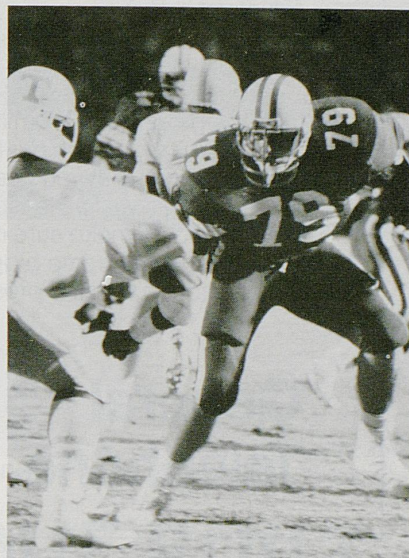

Smith's mother died when he was in his early teens. But his father and relatives have kept a strong family bond going. Plus, Smith has his younger brother, Larry, a sophomore linebacker, playing on the same team.

Since the days of Larry snapping punts to Jeff in high school, Jeff has maintained that it's comfortable to have a brother around. And an independent brother at that.

"I don't have to take care of him at all," smiled the older Smith. "I see my brother following himself, not me."

"I'm not in his shadow," said Larry, who is two years younger than Jeff. "I just play the best I can."

Coach Sharpless sees the brothers' relationship as a good motivational tool. "Jeff wants to do well because he's the oldest," said Sharpless. "This motivates Larry, too."

"Jeff's inner drive may be the thing that gets him into the NFL," Sharpless continued about the transformation that has turned Jeff into a strong All-SEC candidate.

Jeff Smith has been tabbed a pro prospect. But he concedes he may be too small for tackle and too slow for linebacker. That doesn't keep him from trying his hardest, however.

"I almost want to get in the NFL at least so I can have the money to visit distant family members," said Jeff Smith. "They've always given me support. I want to give some back. I hope it works out."

What season's end will bring for Jeff Smith nobody knows. But his immediate goal is to help Kentucky continue to build on the winning attitude he has helped establish.

"To get 22 people playing together, you've got to get an attitude as being one," said Jeff Smith.

Jeff Smith hopes to be "one" before he hangs up his cleats and contributes to UK's bid for continued success.

Smith is Kentucky's premier pass rusher.

THE HOUSE THAT LOVE BUILT®

The Ronald McDonald House of The Bluegrass, scheduled for a Fall 1984 opening, is currently under construction near Commonwealth Stadium. It will be a "home away from home" for Kentucky families whose chronically ill children are receiving extended treatment at Lexington hospitals.

The Ronald McDonald House of the Bluegrass will provide patients' families with a place to sleep, eat and receive comfort and emotional support. The house will have 17 guest rooms and baths, a community kitchen, lounge areas, laundry facilities, play areas and a recreation room. Each family staying at the house will be charged a nominal fee, if they can afford it. Otherwise, there is no charge.

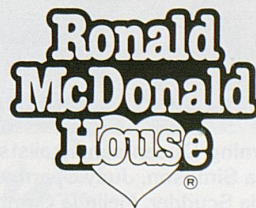

The drive to establish this Ronald McDonald House was begun in 1980 by a non-profit organization called the Children's Oncology Services of the Bluegrass, Inc. Members of this group include the Fayette County Medical Society and Auxiliary, parents, owners of local McDonald's restaurants, and other residents of the Bluegrass. The C.O.S. has undertaken the total financing, operation and maintenance of the "house that love built."

Businesses, private donations, community groups and McDonald's restaurants in Central and Eastern Kentucky have contributed greatly toward the three-quarters of a million dollars needed to completely furnish and maintain the house. Yet, we still need volunteers, home furnishings, products, services and financial donations.

If you can help in any way, please call (606) 268-0936 or write:

Wildcat Spotlight

By DAMON ADAMS

There's No Place Like Home

When Dr. Ralph Angelucci walks into Commonwealth Stadium filled with some 55,000 Wildcat fans, he'll be attending one more college football game.

He'll shift his eyes upward to see the glaring field lights that make night look like day.

He'll sit among other Kentucky graduates, students and fans.

And he'll watch UK's Homecoming contest against the Rutgers Scarlet Knights.

But there's something special about tonight's game to Dr. Angelucci. It was 50 years ago that he graduated with UK's class of 1934.

Fifty years.

"I've been looking forward to this for 50 years," said Dr. Angelucci. "I never thought I'd live this long."

Now, the former Kentucky player and Board of Trustees member greets his classmates who've returned for a special homecoming.

"I realize now it's been 50 years," laughed Dr. Angelucci. "I think they look as old as I do."

The class of 1934 is one of eight Kentucky classes that rekindled friendships and shared stories about their lives at various reunions today.

Reunions are just part of the activities that make up this year's homecoming. And events before and after tonight's game hope to support the homecoming theme — "There's No Place Like Home."

A fashion show highlighted the beauty of the 16 semifinalists for homecoming queen on Monday night. The 16 girls were chosen by judges from a field representing many campus organizations.

On Thursday, student clubs participated in a parade, Wildcat Roar and a pep rally. The pep rally included both players and coaches which helped boost spirits. Banners were judged and a yelling (or depending on the volume, roaring) contest took place. The five homecoming queen finalists, who were selected through student voting, were announced, too, which narrowed the field from 16 semifinalists.

On Friday, house displays were judged. Dorm and fraternity parties filled the night with fun and anticipation for Saturday's events.

Today, brunches and lunches got people together to gear up for tonight. Of course, no homecoming or other game would be complete without the tailgate parties.

Did Kentucky start tailgating?

No.

Tailgating started in places such as Auburn, Alabama, Clemson, and Georgia, according to Jay Brumfield, director of the university's Alumni Affairs. The towns were so small that people had to bring in their own food, said Brumfield. Tailgating has mushroomed everywhere and Kentucky fans have raised tailgating to an art form.

"Twenty years ago, people didn't tailgate," said Brumfield. "Now it's the fashion."

The darkness of night didn't stop the tailgaters this homecoming. And it won't hurt homecoming activities, according to university organizers.

"Students think the night game is better because it's more glamorous," said Susie Stuckert, homecoming chairperson of the Student Activities Board, which coordinated homecoming activities.

SAB uses the dark of night as a backdrop to present the homecoming finalists in horse-drawn carriages. Last year's queen, Lisa Gibbs, will crown a new queen at halftime.

Last season, Kentucky beat Tulane 26-14 at homecoming to improve the Wildcats' record to 4-0. To defeat Rutgers, Kentucky's players and coaches realize they have a difficult task ahead. Furthermore, the players can't get caught up in the homecoming hoopla. However, they have the proper attitude.

"I have the same attitude for every game," said Jeff Smith, defensive tackle. "I'm psyched everytime I step on the field. I just go out and do my best to try for a win."

The Wildcat Marching Band will provide the musical entertainment during half-time festivities.

"The way we look at it, we try to think of each game as a home game," said Jerry Eisaman, quarterback coach. "This gets us into a comfortable routine."

"You like to win homecoming games because it leaves all the people who come back with a great feeling," said Head Coach Jerry Claiborne.

A homecoming victory could change the momentum of the season, too. "You can better gauge the team by the time homecoming rolls around," said Greg Nord, offensive backs coach.

Nord and Eisaman, both former UK players and graduates, will do their share of reminiscing along with other alumni.

"Homecoming throws you back to the time you were playing," said Nord. "As an alumnus it means more because you're apart from the school some. And this brings you back."

"Your old buddies come back and that's a nice thing," said Eisaman. "There's so much unity. Your loyal fans are always there. The big thing is that graduates rally around the game."

But the bottom line for UK tonight remains the same as any game in the win-loss column.

"We want to help the people go away happy," said Claiborne. "It's always more fun if you win."

There's been a distillery on Wild Turkey Hill for almost 150 years. Sometimes the air stands motionless in the valley, where the gentle-running waters of the Kentucky River flow. But on top of the hill, constant breezes cool our Wild Turkey whiskey naturally as it ages in the barrel. Wild Turkey Hill is a place like no other. And it helps us make a Wild Turkey whiskey like no other.

THE WILL TO WIN

Victory.

It takes training and practice.

But it also takes the will to win: the spirit and heart to give 110% all the time.

It's the drive that pushes athletes to gain that extra edge on their opponents.

Claiborne Farm has been dedicated to this spirit for over 100 years.

And we see the same spirit in the UK football team.

Coaches Behind The Scenes

By DAVID McGREW

Kentuckians Glaser and Nord Are True Blue

The adversity Kentucky football suffered through in the early 1980's made life very tough on fans, players, and especially assistant coaches. But, the Wildcats have made an incredible recovery.

Kentucky assistant coaches Bill Glaser and Greg Nord have played a substantial role in this rejuvenation. The two Louisville natives have helped instill pride and determination in the program because those are the qualities they bring to work every day.

"Before the 1982 season, Coach Claiborne gave me the opportunity to stay at Kentucky," said Glaser, who was the only full-time holdover from the old staff. "Then, we went through the 1982 season without a win. That was a very humbling and depressing experience. After the season, I had a chance to leave. But there was no way I could leave after a season like that. I was determined to stay around and help Kentucky enjoy the success it deserved. The accomplishments of last year's team were the most satisfying of my life."

Nord, who coaches the running backs, was a starter at center and tight end during his Kentucky career. Like Glaser, he endured the 1982 season and takes great pride in Kentucky's change of fortunes as a coach and an alumnus.

"Even as a little kid, I was a Kentucky fan," said Nord. "Therefore, it has always been very important to me that Kentucky do well. The fact that I get to work with the players as a coach and be a part of their success is a super feeling. It's especially rewarding since Kentucky is my alma mater."

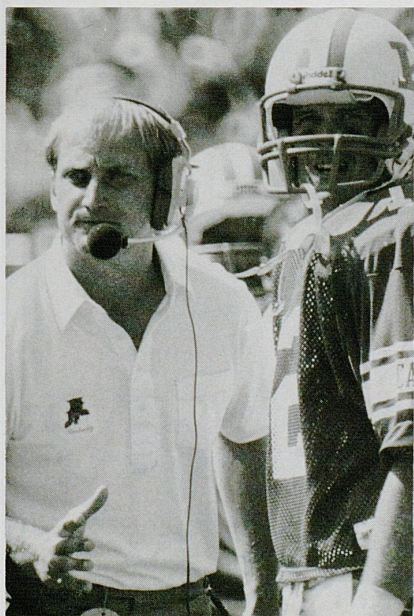

Glaser, a 1965 graduate of Bellarmine College, has been through the ranks of Kentucky football. He started his career as an assistant coach at St. Xavier High School, his alma mater. Then in 1974, he took over as head coach and produced two consecutive undefeated state championship teams. After a brief stint at Morehead State, Glaser arrived at Kentucky in 1977 and is now the defensive guard coach.

"I've had an opportunity to coach on all levels in Kentucky and it's been a great experience for me," said Glaser. "I learned to coach by coaching and have learned more each step of the way. I have to admit I made every mistake in the book along the way, but I learned from my mistakes. I've been fortunate to be able to watch and make a contribution to young people as they mature and develop in high school and now college. That's a very rewarding experience."

Nord was a very versatile player for Kentucky from 1975 to 1978. He was an outstanding blocker and even found time to be on the receiving end of a 14-yard touchdown pass against Baylor as a senior. After he finished his playing career, he became a graduate assistant coach at Kentucky.

When Claiborne came in, he made Nord his full-time backfield coach prior to 1982.

"I think it's every player's dream to play college ball and then go on to play pro ball," said Nord. "But, early in my career, I realized that my chances at making the pros were slim because there were a lot of players more talented than myself. I loved football and wanted to make my career coaching in the sport. So, after I finished playing, I started working toward achieving that goal."

Over the last two seasons, the Wildcats have begun to develop a winning attitude that is essential to a successful program. Kentuckians Bill Glaser and Greg Nord had their coaching confidence put to the test in 1982, but their determination to excel has been passed on to the players to help Kentucky come back stronger than ever.

Kentucky Seniors

Jeff Picoro
5-10, 163, WR
Lexington, KY

Jeff Picoro came to Kentucky as a walk-on and has shown that he belongs with the varsity. The graduate of Bates Creek High School in Lexington earned his way onto the varsity in 1983 after spending two years working with the junior varsity.

The 5-10, 163-lb. receiver has continually stood up to the punishment of major college football despite his small stature. His hard-working attitude helped him see action in the first two games of the 1983 season and was listed on the depth chart at wide receiver at the conclusion of spring drills.

As a sophomore, the telecommunications major, who plans for a career in the electronic media, started every junior varsity game after seeing action in three as a freshman.

Picoro enjoyed an outstanding career at Bates Creek High School in both football and wrestling.

Frank Hare
6-2, 244, DG
Lexington, KY

Frank Hare is another Lexingtonian who preferred to stay at home and play for the Wildcats. In his four years at Kentucky, he has made substantial contributions to the improved fortunes of UK football.

Last season, before breaking his leg against Vanderbilt, Hare, an advertising major, had been a starter for the Cats at defensive guard. Despite missing the last two regular season games with the injury, Hare returned to play in the Hall of Fame Bowl against West Virginia. He was in on 24 tackles during the season including two quarterback sacks and also batted down three pass attempts.

As a sophomore, Hare was in every game for the Wildcats as a defensive tackle. He started several games and had 31 tackles and broke up a pass attempt. Even as a freshman, he made a significant contribution. That season, Hare appeared in five varsity games and one junior varsity contest.

National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame

Since the College Football Hall of Fame opened in August 1978, it has appealed to people of all ages with just about every interest imaginable . . . people who like movies, sports, computer games, American history, modern museums, great athletes, colorful displays, nostalgia, memorabilia, stirring speeches, cheerleaders, marching bands, Saturday afternoons in the fall and college football.

When the Hall of Fame was dedicated in August 1978, "Red" Blaik was the keynote speaker. He spoke to the crowd on behalf of all Hall of Famers and said,

"This is the best happening in college football since the legalization of the forward pass." His comment exemplifies the excitement that awaits college football fans who visit the shrine and the experience that already has been enjoyed by thousands.

The College Football Hall of Fame is not only a place to see, learn and participate in the history of football, but a place to get to know the game as it is today. From its one-eighth mile long Time Tunnel, which traces the 2,000-year development of the game from ancient Greece to the present in more than 30 time capsules, to the Hall of Fame Room where each of the Hall of Famers are honored, to its futuristic use of computer terminals that allow the visitor to match wits with the great coaches or to call up the biographies of every Hall of Famer, the museum can and does bring the total college football experience to life. Its personalized approach and action-oriented attractions have intrigued all who have visited. As "Sleepy" Jim Crowley, one of the Notre Dame Four Horsemen, simply said, "This Hall of Fame is not in the telling or talking about, it's in the seeing."

Galbreath Field

The National Collegiate Division III Football Championship (Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl) moved to the College Football Hall of Fame's Galbreath Field in 1983. Augustana College (Illinois) came from behind for an exciting 21-17 victory over Union College (New York).

This year's championship again will be played at Galbreath Field on Saturday, December 8. The Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl will mark the culmination of a three-week, 16-team national play-off among the nation's most outstanding small college football teams. Every aspect of the play-off is under the administration of the NCAA Division III Football Committee.

Galbreath Field is a 10,000-seat stadium located immediately adjacent to the College Football Hall of Fame at Kings Island, Ohio. The first intercollegiate game was played at Galbreath Field on September 12, 1981, between Ashland College and the University of Dayton.

CIMARRON '84 THIS ONE'S GOT THE TOUCH.

The Cadillac touch. It's Electronic Fuel Injection, matched by a tenacious Touring Suspension that comes to grips with the road. It's leather-faced front bucket seats with lumbar support behind a leather-trimmed steering wheel that lets you know you're in control. It's new grille and taillight styling. Laser-accurate quality fits. It's Cimarron '84...with something no other car in its class has. The Cadillac touch.

BEST OF ALL...IT'S A CADILLAC.

Let's Get It Together...Buckle Up.

Rutgers University

Dr. Edward Bloustein
President

Since Rutgers was founded in 1766 as a small private institution known as Queen's College, it has evolved into a comprehensive public university that is the state university of New Jersey.

In a recent survey, Rutgers was selected as one of fifty colleges and universities providing high academic standards at a reasonable cost. In another study of American institutions of higher learning, Rutgers was ranked with schools like Notre Dame, Vanderbilt, Duke, Georgetown, and Rice in terms of academic standards.

Rutgers, which is located a short distance from both New York City and Philadelphia, has consistently attracted students with strong academic potential, diverse talents and interests, and a keen sense of achievement.

While 90 percent of the university's 47,000 students are from New Jersey, they also come from every state and eighty-one foreign countries. The student population is comprised largely of high school graduates who finished near the top of their class.

Students in the thirteen undergraduate schools on the university's Camden, Newark, and New Brunswick campuses can concentrate in any of nearly 100 major fields of study. The academic offerings at Rutgers continue to be highly rated because of the excellence and commitment to teaching by the university's faculty, over 90 percent of whom hold a Ph.D or equivalent highest degree.

Throughout the university, the most renowned professors regularly conduct undergraduate classes. The student-faculty ratio at Rutgers is approximately sixteen-to-one, which encourages student participation and provides plenty of individual attention.

Undergraduates have the opportunity to study with, among others, a history professor who received the Albert J. Beveridge Award in American History, the most prestigious prize for historical writing in North America, a professor of English who served on the jury for the Pulitzer Prize in fiction, and a professor of genetics who won the Prix Charles-Leopold Mayer Award, France's major biological prize.

Outside the academic circles, Rutgers offers its students hundreds of activities, clubs, and organizations to enhance their college education. Rutgers hosts countless concerts, speakers, exhibits, plays, films, performances, lecture series, and special events.

A small sample of the lecturers that Rutgers attracts are former President Gerald Ford, science fiction writer Isaac Asimov, Nobel Prize winner Linus Pauling, and entertainer Garret Morris. Theatre productions range from Leonard Bernstein's "Candide" to George Bernard Shaw's classic "Saint Joan."

In addition to an excellent intramural and club sport program, Rutgers has a very successful intercollegiate sports program. The football and basketball programs are only two examples of the university's excellence.

Head Coach

Dick Anderson

Dick Anderson
Head Coach

First-year coaches always face a difficult challenge. They work with new players in a different environment and usually in rebuilding situations. It takes a special coach to win under these conditions.

However, when Rutgers University hired Dick Anderson last spring, the school got just such a person. Anderson came to Rutgers after directing the highly successful Penn State offense for a number of years. The native of Queens, NY, was Joe Paterno's offensive coordinator for the past three years and had been on the universally respected Paterno's staff for 11 years.

Penn State won the national championship in 1982 with Anderson calling the offensive signals. In addition, Anderson is credited with developing five first-team All-Americans on offense at Penn State between 1973 and 1983 including quarterback Todd Blackledge.

Before returning to Penn State, his alma mater, in 1973, Anderson was an assistant coach at Pennsylvania from 1970 to 1972. He began his coaching career at Lafayette College in 1965.

During his playing days at Penn State, Anderson played four years of football as a two-way end for coach Rip Engle and played on two Gator Bowl teams. After leading the Nittany Lions with 22 receptions as a senior he was drafted by the Cleveland Browns.

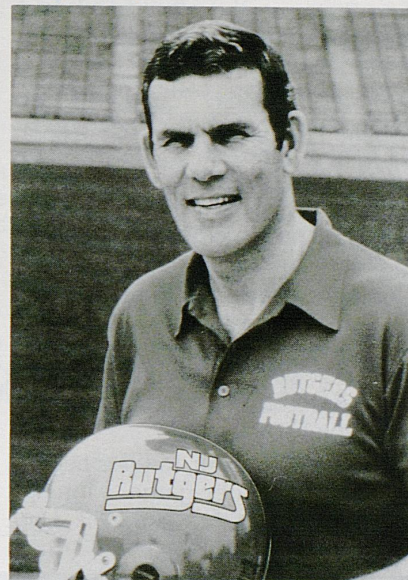

In addition, while he was at Penn State, Anderson batted .333 as an outfielder. He led Penn State to a fifth place finish in the College World Series his senior year.

Rutgers' 22nd head coach received his undergraduate degree from Penn

State in 1963 and completed work on a masters degree in 1965 before heading into his coaching career. Anderson graduated from East Rutherford (NJ) High School in 1959.

Anderson is married to the former Kathryn DeWitt of East Patterson, NJ. They have three sons, Richard, 19; Kenneth, 18; and Jeffrey, 14; and a daughter, Lynn, 10.

Scouting the Opponent

By DAVID MCGREW

The New Beast of the East

When Dick Anderson left Penn State, where he was an assistant coach under Joe Paterno, to become the head coach at Rutgers University, many football experts must have been shaking their heads. Anderson, considered by many to be the top assistant coach in the country, was taking over a program with a combined record of 13-20 over the last three seasons. Penn State, on the other hand, had won the national championship in 1982.

But, as Kentucky found out last season, what a difference a new coach and a new year can make. Rutgers now ranks as one of the most surprising teams in college football with a 3-1 record and has emerged as one of the top eastern teams.

Anderson's debut at Rutgers, ironically, came against Penn State at University Park. As a foreshadowing of things to come, the Scarlet Knights proved themselves with a tight 15-12 loss to the Nittany Lions.

The following week, Rutgers began their current three-game winning streak by besting Temple, 10-9. The next week, Syracuse was the victim at the Carrier Dome, 19-0. Finally, Rutgers rolled over Cincinnati, 43-15.

In the first three games of the season, Rutgers relied primarily on its young, surprising defense. In those three games, the defense allowed just one touchdown and went 11 straight quarters without giving up another. Prior to the rout of Cincinnati, only Penn State had been able to score a touchdown on the Scarlet Knight defense. At times, the defense has bent, but it has refused to break.

Junior linebacker Roy Oake leads the Rutgers defense with 39 tackles and also tops the team with three quarterback sacks. Sophomore linebacker Tyrone Stowe has 35 tackles on the season.

Nose guard George Pickel anchors the defensive line with 31 tackles. Pickel's younger brother, Jim, is a linebacker and he picked off a pass against Cincinnati. The oldest Pickel, Bill, is the starting nose tackle for the Los Angeles Raiders.

The secondary has already picked off nine passes this season including three against the hapless Cincinnati Bearcats. Safety John Cummins leads the team with three interceptions, Quarterback Eric Hochberg recovered from a serious knee injury and has passed for 581 yards this year.

while cornerback Steve Twamley has two thefts.

The result of the defensive tenacity has the Scarlet Knights ranked nationally in three defensive categories, pass defense, scoring defense, and total defense. The defense allowed Penn State only 50 yards passing and Temple only 76 yards. Furthermore, the defense limited Syracuse to 30 yards rushing.

However, what makes Rutgers even more dangerous is the fact that the offense has caught up with the defense. After only mustering 22 points in the first two games, the Scarlet Knight offense has produced 62 points in the last two games. Rutgers has now outscored its opponents 83-39 this season. But the real story has been in the second quarter. Rutgers has scored 46 points in the second quarter this season while its opponents have not scored a point.

Despite the fact that the entire offensive backfield returned intact from last season and the offensive line returned all but one starter, the emergence of junior quarterback Eric Hochberg has been the key to Rutgers' offensive success. Last season, Hoch-

Junior tailback Albert Smith is leading Rutgers in rushing for the third consecutive season.

Tight end Alan Andrews is averaging 12.1 yards per catch.

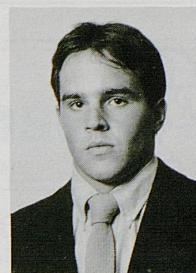

berg won the starting nod at quarterback three games into the season. However, in the fourth game of the year against Penn State, he suffered a serious knee injury that required extensive surgery. Hochberg worked all summer rehabilitating his knee with the help of his father, who is the head trainer at Penn State, and won the quarterback spot in fall practice.

Hochberg has passed for 581 yards this season with 500 of those yards coming in the first three games. In addition, he has demonstrated an ability to use his entire receiving corps as eight players have caught passes this year.

The receivers are led by flanker Andrew Baker who has 11 catches for 181 yards and a touchdown. However, two other players have already topped the 100-yard mark in receiving yardage. Tight end Alan Andrews has caught 10 passes for 121 yards. Split end Boris Pendergrass has collected six catches for 121 yards, as well.

The rushing attack has come on equally strong for Dick Anderson's squad. Tailback Albert Smith has accumulated 361 yards in four games. He rushed for 151 yards against Cincinnati, 121 yards against Temple, and 78 yards against Syracuse. In addition, fullback Vernon Williams has proven to be a strong threat with the ball as he has 193 yards rushing this season which includes a 113-yard performance against Cincinnati.

Steve Twamley

Tom Angstadt

The offensive line lost only one player off the 1983 squad and has benefited immensely from that one year of experience. The Scarlet Knights even have twins in the offensive line. Jim Keating starts at right tackle and his twin brother, Tom, backs him up.

Finally, Rutgers has what all good football teams possess, a strong kicking game. Field goal kicker Tom Angstadt kicked a school record five field goals against Cincinnati, connecting on every attempt. In the last two games, he is 9-of-10 in the field goal category and is 11-of-13 on the season. Punter Gary Liska has averaged 36.4 yards per kick.

Parilli & Company Exit in Style

"You Texans have your oil wells, and I've got Parilli," said Bear Bryant in Dallas, TX, prior to the kickoff of the 1952 New Year's Day Cotton Bowl Classic between Kentucky and Texas Christian. The "Babe" meant that much to Kentucky football.

Twelve seniors, who had played in three major bowl games, were closing out their careers in Dallas. They were an exceptional group. But, Babe Parilli was the catalyst.

Kentucky had achieved unparalleled success for three seasons with Parilli at quarterback. The Cats were 28-8 in that span with an SEC title and appearances in the Orange Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, and the Cotton Bowl. The Wildcat band even recognized his contribution by spelling out "Babe" and "Mr. TD" on the field prior to the game.

The stage was indeed set for the Babe and his cohorts to go out in style. The only problem was TCU, an excellent football team that was not overwhelmed by the Kentucky sentimentality.

Parilli threw for two touchdowns and led the offense to 298 hard-earned yards against the Horned Frogs. For his role, he was voted the Cotton Bowl MVP in his final game. Parilli, who still holds 11 Kentucky individual records, went on to star in the NFL and was a member of the 1969 New York Jets Super Bowl Championship team.

But, perhaps the biggest hero of the day was Emery Clark, who played a spectacular all-around game. He started off by halting a first quarter TCU drive with an interception at the 10-yard line which he returned to the 43. The interception set up Kentucky's first touchdown which Clark also scored on a five-yard pass from Parilli to give the Wildcats a 7-0 lead.

Clark scored Kentucky's second touchdown as he was on the receiving end of a 13-yard pass from Parilli in the second quarter that increased the Wildcat lead to 13-0. It was the third touchdown reception for Clark in bowl competition as he had also hauled in a 52-yard TD pass from Parilli in the 1950 Orange Bowl. Furthermore, his punt return to the TCU 26-yard line set up Kentucky's final touchdown in the fourth quarter.

On defense, Clark was equally impressive. In addition to his interception, he was credited with 11 tackles, broke up two passes, and made a touchdown saving tackle of TCU's Ted Aught at the one-yard line.

But, Clark and Parilli weren't the only heroes for Kentucky. During the course of the cool afternoon, the Wildcat defense rose to the occasion numerous times. In the first half alone, Kentucky stopped the Horned Frogs inside the five-yard line three times and halted another TCU drive at the Kentucky 24-yard line.

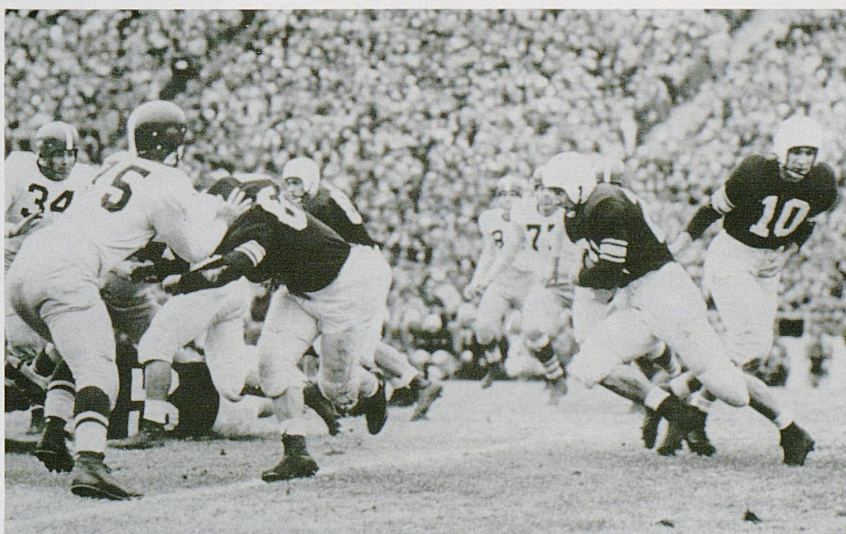

Defensive guard Ray Correll, a future All-American, spearheaded the defense. But he was far from alone. Senior All-American linebacker Doug Moseley was instrumental in Kentucky's goal line stands. He was credited with 10 tackles in the first half alone before he was forced to sit out the rest of the game with cracked ribs suffered during Kentucky's final goal line stand of the half. Frank Fuller finished with 10 tackles in the game and Gene Donaldson had eight.

Still, despite the heroics from many corners, the Wildcats only led 13-0 at half. When TCU sophomore quarterback Ray McKown was replaced by junior Gil Bartosh, the Horned Frogs finally got on the scoreboard. Behind Bartosh, TCU drove 80 yards in four plays as Bobby Jack Floyd scored on a 43-yard run with 1:12 left in the third quarter.

The Cats clung to the 13-7 lead throughout most of the fourth quarter. The Wildcats finally slammed the door on the Horned Frogs on a three-yard touchdown burst over left tackle by Ed Hamilton with 3:33 left in the game that produced the final 20-7 score.

The Cotton Bowl victory gave Kentucky the best three-year record in the school's history. It was only appropriate that the Cats would finish with their second straight major bowl victory to close out the careers of so many great players.

Emery Clark heads upfield against TCU. Clark scored two touchdowns and set up the third with a punt return.

The steel industry is changing. Today, more than ever, it demands precision in everything—products, service and delivery.

Southern Strip Steel is meeting that demand every day for some of the largest manufacturers in America.

We're meeting it with steel products engineered to standards that exceed the industry norm.

NO ROOM FOR COMPROMISE Our customers can count on fast, accurate quotations. On the spot, over the phone, if necessary. We've organized and equipped ourselves with inventory and a fleet of trucks to deliver the product "just in time," according to rigid Materials Requirement Planning procedures. That way, our customers don't have to suffer unnecessary inventory costs.

And we deliver quality—consistently—through rigorous Statistical Process Control methods. Including the latest X-ray and contact gauging systems. Metallographic and mechanical testing. Plus printout charts of the manufacturing record of every steel coil we process.

So now, after more than a decade of delivering on the promise of quality, Southern Strip Steel has become a quality leader.

It's a reputation we're proud of—with no room for compromise.

Signs — Signs and barriers are restricted for Commonwealth Stadium in accordance with University regulations and policies established by the Public Safety Division.

A HISTORY

Commonwealth Stadium, the University of Kentucky's football facility, is located on an 86-acre tract on the Kentucky Experimental Station Farm grounds south of the main campus.

Completed in 1973, the concrete and steel cantilevered structure replaced Stoll Field, where Wildcat football teams had played since their beginning.

Constructed by Huber, Hunt and Nichols, Inc., the facility has a capacity of 50,000 sideline seats, with end zone bleachers swelling the total to 58,000.

This is Kentucky's 12th season at Commonwealth. The Wildcats beat Virginia Tech 31-26 in the first game in their new facility on September 15, 1973.

Kentucky Marching Band

In the 75 years since the University of Kentucky Marching Band was founded, this colorful group of Kentucky students has provided entertainment and unmistakable vocal support to Wildcat football. This season, the 260-member marching band will again enhance football autumn days with its pregame, halftime, and post-game performances.

The band represents a cross-section of University students. Roughly one-third of its members are music majors. However, the vast majority of the students are from Kentucky's other 16 academic colleges. The band is almost entirely volunteer as only a small number of its members receive scholarship aid.

The band is under the direction of W. Harry Clarke, who began his association with the Wildcat band in 1968. Steve Moore has been the assistant director since 1982.

Every year the members of the Wildcat Band return to campus one week before school begins for day-long practice sessions over a five day period. The result of the intense preparation is excellent performances on football days and also a close-knit group ready to cheer on Kentucky's football team both home and away. The band made several road trips with the football team last season including the Hall of Fame Bowl trip. In addition, the Kentucky Marching Band has been invited to perform at a Cincinnati Bengal football game this season.

What a Crazy Year Already!

TODAY'S GAMES

Georgia at Alabama
Auburn at Ole Miss
Syracuse at Florida
Rutgers at Kentucky
Tulane at Vanderbilt
Southern Miss at Mississippi State

What in the world is going on in the SEC this year? Remember the days in the not too distant past when you could mention the same three teams every year for pre-season favorites to win the conference championship?

Well this year, you can realistically mention seven or eight of the SEC's ten-member group as possible conference championship contenders. And already, if you go on past statistics, two of the favorites are out of the 1984 SEC title race. Last Saturday, the upstart Vanderbilt Commodores beat Alabama in Tuscaloosa for the first time since the beginning of time and the Auburn Tigers disposed of Tennessee on the Plains to all but eliminate the Vols from the title chase.

The race for the SEC championship will unfold another chapter today with two important conference matchups that could go a long way in deciding this year's championship. The Georgia Bulldogs, smarting from last week's upset at South Carolina, open their conference season in Birmingham against the downtrodden Crimson Tide of Alabama. A Tide loss would eliminate Bama from the title chase and awaken the critics of Ray Perkins coaching philosophy in Tuscaloosa. The undefeated Ole Miss Rebels open conference play by entertaining the powerful Auburn Tigers in Oxford. This should give Ole Miss fans a real barometer of the progress that program has experienced under new head coach Billy Brewer.

Other surprises, you ask?

Auburn's Heisman Trophy candidate Bo Jackson is out for the year following an injury he suffered in the Texas game. The loss of Jackson will surely hurt the Tigers' chance at the conference title, but head coach Pat Dye has assembled a strong stable of running thoroughbreds that could help alleviate the loss of Jackson's 7+ average per carry offensive output.

With that loss, Tennessee's Johnnie Jones has started strong and leads the conference in rushing with over 145 yards per game. Kentucky's George Adams is second with 130 yards rushing per contest.

The surprise team at this point of the SEC season has to be George MacIntyre's Vanderbilt squad who has defeated Kansas State, Maryland, Kansas and Alabama by a combined score of 120-55. Keep your eye on Vandy's fine tight end Chuck Scott who could end up leading the nation in receiving while being named to several All-America teams.

Who Wants The #1 Ranking?

Four weeks into the 1984 NCAA College Football season, three #1 ranked teams have failed in their bids to maintain their lofty positions. Remember pre-season top-ranked Auburn? They've lost twice already this year to Miami and Texas. How about Miami? Sorry, Michigan took care of the Hurricanes.

And our third top-ranked team, the Nebraska Cornhuskers lost a shocker last week, 17-9, to the Syracuse Orangemen in the Carrier Dome. So, for the fourth straight week, the polls will show still another #1 ranked team, the Texas Longhorns.

Why is it that maintaining the top spot has become so difficult? Several factors need to be considered.

First, college football is definitely feeling the implications of the 30-95 rule administered several seasons ago. The 30 scholarship-per-season rule has afforded some of the lesser known football schools the same recruiting advantages that used to benefit the 1-A powers.

But now Texas tackle Tony DeGrate will try to keep the Longhorns number one.

Miami quarterback Bernie Kosar had his Hurricanes at the top...

Second, the advent of expanded television coverage has allowed for more balanced exposure for college football which has also helped even out the recruiting process.

Another contributing factor to this new found parity in college football is a look at the simple numbers game. There are more talented high school football players today than ever before. The increase of quality high school football coaching has also aided in this growth.

A look at the current college football Top 20 bears out all of these mentioned reasons for why we've had four #1 ranked teams already this season.

Ranked sixth this week, the Boston College Eagles have become a fixture in the Top 20 in the last few years after landing a couple of fine recruiting classes. West Virginia, after struggling trying to recruit against Penn State and Pittsburgh for years, is now competing with the top football schools and has defeated arch rival Pitt two consecutive seasons.

In the SEC, Vanderbilt has profited immensely by the new college football restructuring. The Commodores are 4-0 already this season and beat Alabama last Saturday.

So, who's the next number one ranked college football team? Take your pick, but don't expect their reign to last very long.

Campus Scene

By BERNIE VONDERHEIDE

UK WAS FIRST. It's not unusual to find two "coeds" in a class at UK some 60 years apart in age. One is a brand new freshman student; the other is one of UK's famed Donovan Scholars. The University of Kentucky was first in the nation to offer free tuition to students over 65 years of age. They're called Donovan Scholars. This year the Donovan Scholars Program celebrates its 20th anniversary. And it's going stronger than ever. Donovan Scholars take all sorts of courses. Some of them get serious enough to earn degrees. There has been a number of master's and one Ph.D. Program director Linda Brasfield describes these remarkable senior citizens as "a body of scholars sharing experiences and lending a shoulder to one another."

MINING ENGINEERING ACCREDITED. When word reached campus that the mining engineering program had been accredited, Joe Leonard, who directs the program, had an immediate reaction: "It gives us respect," he said.

UK now has the only accredited program in the state and one of only 19 in the country.

The Kentucky coal industry people are excited because about 80 percent of the grads in the program stay in Kentucky to work.

Donovan Scholars Margaret and Clayton Packard of Nicholasville view art work by their colleagues in an art class.

UK PEOPLE. Honors Program director Raymond Betts, always the clever teacher, had a group of Governor Scholars visiting campus paying close attention to his luncheon address: "Intellectual Meaning Behind the Letters 'UK' "...Newly elected UK Board of Trustees chairman Bob McCowan has fun telling friends that he has chaired only two board meetings and already has the football program turned around. The football team is undefeated, for sure, since the UK alumnus assumed his new position...All of this weekend's homecoming festivities are being presided over by William G. Francis, Class of 1968, now a practicing attorney in Prestonsburg and the president this year of the UK National Alumni Association...UK's Appalachian Center has television producer Earl Hamner of "The Waltons" the honorary chairman of a new Endowment for Appalachian artists and the possibility that Jane Fonda will be coming to town to do a benefit for the endowment fund raising efforts...The campus was saddened by the death of former law school dean W. L. Matthews Jr., a member of the UK Athletics Association and UK's longtime faculty representative to the NCAA and SEC. He was 66.

SCORE ANOTHER ONE FOR THE AG COLLEGE. A team of researchers from the UK College of Agriculture, led by Robert Buckner, have developed a new fescue grass called Johnstone. It's a major breakthrough in forage research. The grass is named for the late UK agronomist and farm leader W. C. Johnstone who worked closely with retired UK agronomist E. N. Fergus in the development and use of Ky. 31 Fescue, a popular predecessor of Johnstone.

Alumni Notes

By LIZ DEMORAN

Today the University of Kentucky National Alumni Association salutes the graduates of the class of 1934, hearty souls who entered the labor force during the world's worst depression; weathered World War II, the Korean and Vietnam wars and the "cold war"; endured as children and grandchildren screamed over the crooning of Frank Sinatra, the gyrations of Elvis Presley, the invasion of the Beatles and went through phases such as hippies and yuppies and now yuppies and preppies. Life, over the past 50 years, has been anything but boring!

At Homecoming 1984, the reunion classes have returned to campus to reminisce and to discover the individual stories of their friends and classmates since leaving campus.

Among the early registrants for the 1934 class reunion was class president Smith Broadbent Jr. Broadbent returned to his hometown of Cadiz where he carved a name for himself in agriculture, business and civic leadership. He is one of eight members of the '34 class who has been inducted into the Hall of Distinguished Alumni.

(Other members of the '34 class in the Hall are George Akin, a chemical engineer and research director; Ralph Angelucci, a neurosurgeon; John Carter, for 30 years president of Campbellsville College, then vice president, Florida Baptist College, and a preacher; Berkley Davis, former vice president of General Electric Corporation; the late Garvice Kincaid, financier and lawyer; William Nicholls, professor and administrator, and David Ringo, president and director of two companies.)

Also here are these alumni from afar: Sarah Purnell Civian, San Antonio, Texas; Patricia Johnson Buster, Venice, Fla.; William Thompson, Lehigh Acres, Fla.; Bruce Morford, Alexandria, Va.; Ralph Ball, Decatur, Ill., and Harvey Mattingly, Decatur, Ga.

Among the athletes who returned this weekend is Charles Holbrook Jr. '34 of Ashland. Holbrook, an attorney, was UK's lightweight boxing champion.

While the spotlight is on the special 50th anniversary of the class of 1934, seven other classes are celebrating, too. About 20 members of the classes of 1924 and 1929 gathered this morning at Spindletop Hall. James Henry came from Norman, Okla., and Earl Martin from Houston, Texas for their 60th anniversary.

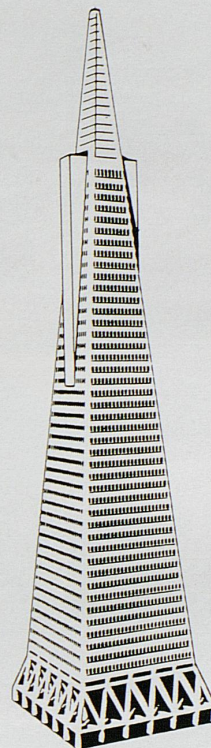

Others marking reunions are the classes of 1939, 1944, 1954 and 1959. All the groups met together last night for a banquet and a program of music guaranteed to stir a few memories. Today various brunches, lunches and receptions were held so that each class could spend more time with peers.

A gold star for long distance travel goes to Bernie Oppen of Encino, Calif. Oppen was captain of the 1939 Wildcat basketball team that finished the season as SEC champions.

Frances Kendall Jennings '44 came from Austin, Texas, to meet with her war-time classmates. Long-distance travelers from the 1949 class include Franz Ross, Pound Ridge, N.Y.; Donald Clark, Merritt Island, Fla., and Haldon Robinson of Ponte Verde, Fla.; Gerald Banks '54 made his way from Elgin, Ill. Returning alumni from the 1959 class show an out-of-state cluster in neighboring Ohio with Mary Baumstark Fischbein, Centerville; David Klaiber, Monroe, and George Showalter Jr., Richwood. From a greater distance comes Cecil Allen Jr., Arlington, Va.

To those who traveled many miles and to UK's in-state alumni, the UK National Alumni Association says, "WELCOME!"

Johnnie C. Craddock, art editor of The Kentuckian (1933-34) and The Kernel (1931-34), illustrated the 1934 yearbook in keeping with its thoroughbred theme.

A trip to the Final Four in Seattle highlighted the Kentucky basketball scene a year ago and the 1984-85 season presents several new kinds of challenges for Coach Joe Hall's 13th Wildcat squad.

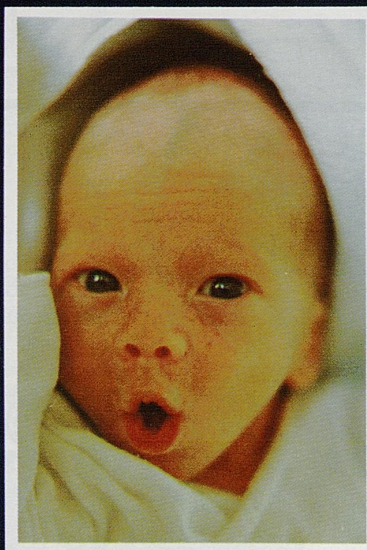

Gone are first round NBA draft choices Sam Bowie and Melvin Turpin. Gone is catalyst guard Dicky Beal and sharpshooter Jim Master. Gone are four starters from the SEC championship team that finished 29-5 a year ago.

However, the 'Cats could still be one of the top teams in the nation as they return two proven, strong forwards in 6-8 All-America candidate Kenny Walker and the snarling 6-7 sophomore Winston Bennett. Backup strength at forward should come from 6-6 senior Troy McKinley and incoming freshmen 6-7 Richard 'The Master Blaster' Madison, 6-9 Cedric Jenkins and 6-7 Todd Zeigler.

Kentucky will be quite young at center this year with 6-9 senior Bret Bearup the only returning player with any experience. Two freshmen, 7-4 Gunther Behnke of West Germany and 6-11 Robert Lock from Reedley, CA will be tested early in bruising SEC competition.

The guard position remains cloudy at this point with returning regulars 6-1 junior Roger Harden and 6-3 sophomore James Blackmon fighting 6-3 sophomore Paul Andrews, 5-5 junior Leroy Byrd and 6-2 freshman Ed Davender from Brooklyn, NY for starting berths.

The University of Kentucky

A Leader in Higher Education

A quality college education requires a blend of academics, athletics, and social atmosphere that prepares young people for the future. The University of Kentucky, since it was founded in 1865 as a land grant institution, has been a leader both nationally and internationally in every aspect of higher education.

Kentucky has 17 academic colleges, Arts and Sciences, Agriculture, Engineering, Business and Economics, Education, Home Economics, Library and Information Science, Social Work, Architecture, Communications, Fine Arts, Law, Medicine, Nursing, Dentistry, Allied Health Professions, and Pharmacy. Many of Kentucky's academic colleges have achieved national recognition. Kentucky also has equally impressive graduate programs.

UK has taken great pride in its research efforts and is especially noted in the fields of energy, tobacco, and cancer. Kentucky is also a world leader in the thoroughbred horse industry. In fact, horse vaccines developed through research at the University are being used throughout the world.

The Albert B. Chandler Medical Center offers a progressive facility for both education and research. With more than 2,000 people in the Medicine, Dentistry, Nursing, Pharmacy, and Allied Health Professions, the Medical Center provides students an avenue for education, research, and community service.

In the arts, close to 100,000 people annually attend the many art, music, and theater productions at UK. The Center for the Arts contains a 400-seat recital hall, a 1,500-seat concert hall and the 20,000 square foot Art Museum. The University Library system contains more than 1.7 million volumes and ranks 13th in the nation in microfilm holdings.

Athletically, the University of Kentucky offers its students an outstanding intramural department and the opportunity to be a part of one of the most recognizable intercollegiate athletic programs in the country.

The social atmosphere at the University of Kentucky gives students the complete college experience. In addition to the fine arts programs offered on campus, the city of Lexington has a Philharmonic Orchestra, a Chamber Music Society, and a local Ballet Company among its many cultural offerings. Also, there are 22 national fraternities and 16 national sororities on the Kentucky campus plus countless clubs and organizations which cover the total spectrum of a student's interests.

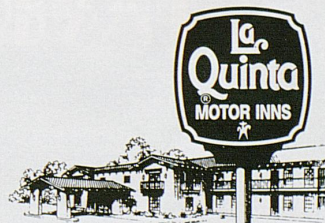

The total educational experience at the University of Kentucky in every area has placed it squarely among the leaders in higher education.

Keeneland
...synonymous throughout the world with quality Thoroughbred horses.

Keeneland, a Lexington tradition since 1936, is a racecourse, presenting racing as it was meant to be in April and October, and a sales company, conducting the world's most prestigious Thoroughbred auctions annually in January, July, September and November 11-17.

the first step back

People with emotional problems or chemical dependency suffer a great deal of unhappiness. Their families suffer, too—and may sometimes feel a sense of hopelessness over what seems an insurmountable illness. But help is available at Charter Ridge Hospital.

Staffed by caring, professionally-trained people, Charter Ridge has the most up-to-date facilities and services designed to help individuals of all ages recover from their emotional or addictive illnesses, and help them work toward the more promising future they deserve.

Charter Ridge has become the "first step back" for many—it could be for you, or for someone you love. And it all begins with a phone call—to us.
