A FEW OF THE NUMEROUS POINTS OF INTEREST IN AND AROUND LEXINGTON, KY.

IN 1872 GEORGE W. RANCK, historian, wrote of Lexington: "Founded in the midst of a great revolution, built up by daring men in the heart of an almost boundless wilderness and nurtured and protected through years of hardship and Indian warfare, she played the most prominent part in the early and tragic days of the Dark and Bloody Ground.....She was the Jamestown of the West, the advance guard of civilization, the center from which went forth the conquerors of a savage empire. During another long and eventful era she was the political, literary and commercial metropolis of the great 'Northwest.' She was crowded with men who made her famous."

FORMALLY SURVEYED IN APRIL 1779, LEXINGTON took the name from a camp christened June 5, 1775, by hunters from the fort at Harrodsburg led by Robert Patterson and Simon Kenton. It is the first city of the land whose name memorializes the opening battle of the Revolution.

LEXINGTON WAS INCORPORATED as a town by the Virginia Legislature, May 6, 1782, and as a city by the Kentucky Legislature in 1832.

POINTS OF INTEREST

(The letters and figures in parentheses denote locations on the accompanying map)
